HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

The Kibitzer

Bridge is one game in which the male of the species can claim no edge because of his sex. An expert woman player is as good as an expert man player. And as bold in taking necessary chances.

A skilled pair of tournament gals ran into this deal:

NORTH

♥A K J
♦K 5
♣A 9 6 5 3

WEST

♠Q 9 7
♥Q 9 6 4
♦9 8 6 3
♣K 4

EAST

♠J 8
♥10 8 5 3 2
♦10 7 2
♣Q J 7

SOUTH

♠A K 10 4 2
♦A Q J 4
♣10 8 2

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 S	2 C
2 D	3 NT
4 S	4 NT
6 D	6 S

The south bidding did not reveal more than six tricks. With five, north did not discover a count of more than 11. But the type of her cards urged a slam try.

In answer to four no-trump, six diamonds is a convention signal for two aces and one king. By this time there could be no bid lower than small slam. Nor did this pair want it for less.

Opening lead from west was a small heart. When dummy hand went down a trump loser must be considered. Also two losers in clubs. Some plan for saving all the club tricks must be discovered.

It took only a moment or two for this player to decide what to do. The jack of hearts brazenly finessed the first trick. Easy as it now looks, this daring action is an expert decision.

When heart jack stood up, only a bad trump break could defeat the slam. A trump trick was lost. But south got two club sluffs on the dummy ace and king of hearts. This eliminated any club losers.

Men may take more chances. But the chances the women take are sounder. Among the expert players, either sex must have plenty of courage. Some call it stug spelled backwards.

IN JAIL ALREADY

Montreal —(CP)— When there was no response to a name called in court here, a newspaper reporter, who had been covering another hearing, explained to the court that the wanted man was already in jail on a different charge.

TOWN BEAUTIFICATION

New Glasgow, N.S. — (CP) — Over 2,000 bulbs, including crocuses, daffodils and English bluebells have been planted here by the New Glasgow Horticultural Society as part of a program for the Town Beautification Plan.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 23 — (AP) — Harold Lloyd, the shy guy with the horn-rimmed glasses, is planning yet another screen comeback.

I have this on authority of Harold Lloyd, the hearty millionaire.

"I have just the germ — you might call it the weenie of an idea for another picture," he told me. "It is the kind of thing that only I, or somebody else who has been in the business for a long time, could do.' '

The comedian has other film plans, too. He is going to reissue one of his great old films, "Movie Crazy," made in 1932.

"I tried the picture out at a theatre in Redondo Beach," he related.

"I would say that 65 per cent of the audience didn't know me, or at least didn't know my work. But the response was terrific.

"So I am going to put it out again—if I can get the right kind of presentation. But if it isn't presented nicely, it's not worth my trouble."

Lloyd said the film hasn't aged much — a "Diddlebock" picture, made 10 years ago but not yet released by Howard Hughes, is even more dated because of the "old look" skirts.

Lloyd said the trouble with today's comedies is: "They are wedded to words." It's funnier to see things than hear them.

He told about doing a comedy scene in "The Milky Way," which Danny Kaye remade less funnily as "The Kid From Brooklyn." After Lloyd and McCarey shot a funny scene off the cuff, the director happened to glance at the script.

"Hey!" he said. "There was a pretty funny line here."

Brighteners

Fleetwood, Lancs, England — (CP) — Albert Eggett's black-and-white sheep dog is more than a companion — it's a help around the house.

"My dog even puts the kettle on for me in the morning," said Eggett, who is 78. "I leave an electric kettle full of water downstairs before I go to bed each night and in the morning she pushes down the electric switch with her paw and then comes upstairs to waken me with her barking when the kettle is boiling."

Grimsby, Lancs, England (CP) —"Have a cigar," says W. Yeardley, "my wife made them!" And he's not kidding.

Before her marriage 30 years ago, Mrs. Yeardley made cigars at a local factory. So it followed naturally with the tobacco shortage that the family should grow tobacco and Mrs. Yeardley should again take up cigar-making — strictly for the family.

"Very satisfying cigars, too," says husband Yeardley as he sits with envious cronies and blows great rings of smoke.

Atlanta — (AP) — The austere man in the flowing black robe looked down at the jolly round fellow in a red suit and flowing white whiskers.

Judge Frank A. Hooper smiled. Santa Claus had been called up for jury duty.

"Your Honor—," Santa began.

"Yes, yes, I know," the judge cut in. "You want excused. Request granted."

Santa Claus, otherwise citizen Walter Norman, went back to work at the department store where he has been delighting youngsters for 10 years.

Des Moines — (AP) — Mrs. J. R. Davidson was granted a divorce after successfully contending her husband cursed too much.

Mrs. Davidson said her husband, a steel worker, cursed so fluently, that she fainted on two occasions because of it.

NEXT AT THE BELLE — Linda Darnell and Cornel Wilde are co-starred in "Forever Amber," Technicolor romantic spectacle, starting its regular price engagement tomorrow at the Belle Theatre. A Paramount Musical Parade, "A Musical Miracle," in Technicolor is a special added attraction.

AT THE CAPITOL — William Bendix, the likeable and talented New York actor co-stars with George Raft and Marilyn Maxwell in "Race Street," RKO Radio's suspenseful drama of San Francisco gamblers, now showing at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program, "Perilous Waters." Daily matinee starts at 1.45.

AT THE CAPITOL — Don Castle co-stars with Audrey Long and Peggy Knudsen in "Perilous Waters," Monogram's thrilling mystery drama now at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Race Street." Daily matinee at 1.45.

AT THE McCARTHY — Myrna Loy (seated) tries to prevent a quarrel between Fredric March, portraying her husband, and Teresa Wright, as their daughter, when he discovers the girl has fallen in love with a married man. Co-starred with this trio is Dana Andrews as the man, and Virginia Mayo, depicting his wife, in Samuel Goldwyn's "The Best Years of Our Lives," starting today at regular prices at the McCarthy Theatre. Wm. Wyler directed the RKO Radio release.

Court of Appeal Upholds Judgment

Toronto, Nov. 23 (CP)— The Ontario Court of Appeal upholds a judgment which awarded six Sudbury district property owners a total of $5,600 for what they claimed was pollution damage caused by waste from a paper mill.

In a decision handed down Monday, the Appellate Court dismissed an appeal by the Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Company of Espanola, against a judgment by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the High Court of Ontario.

Chief Justice McRuer had ruled in favor of the property owners, who held that refuse from the company's plant polluted waters of the Spanish River near Espanola and killed fish, thereby hampering the tourist trade on which the property owners depended for part of their livelihood.

The action was brought against the company by Earl McKie, Russell Vance, F. N. Downe and other owners of river front property. Largest award went to Vance $2,100, McKie $1,250 and Downe $1,000.

Dismissing the action, Chief Justice R. S. Robertson in the Appeal Court judgment said in part:

"I would not interfere with the damages as found by Chief Justice McRuer. The plaintiffs are all men trying to make a living by such means as are afforded in the locations in which they live. The waters of the Spanish River in an unpolluted condition were of importance to them."

He also upheld Chief Justice McRuer's decision in granting each of the property owners an injunction restraining the paper company from "depositing foreign substances" in the Spanish River in the future.

A. E. W. MASON DIES

London, Nov. 23 — (Reuters)— A. E. W. Mason, author of "The Four Feathers," died at his London home Monday. He was 83 and had been suffering from asthma and heart trouble for four months.

Born in 1865, he was 31 when "The Courtship of Maurice Buckler" established his reputation. "The Four Feathers," which was probably his most famous book, was published in 1902.

In 1906 he entered parliament as a Liberal member and represented Coventry for three years. He never married.

100-Mile-Hour Cyclone Kills 12 In Bombay

Bombay, Nov. 23 (Reuters — Twelve persons were killed and 26 injured during the 100-mile-an-hour cyclone which battered Bombay, centre of India's industrial and commercial life, for 20 hours Monday, it was officially announced today.

A communique from the provincial government of Bombay stated that the resumption of electric and other public services was expected by tomorrow.

While the cyclone lasted, Bombay and an area of 70 miles around were isolated from the rest of India, which received its news of the disaster relayed through London.

Nearly six inches of rain fell over North Bombay in 24 hours.

WILHELMSHAVEN DOCK WILL BE DEMOLISHED

Hamburg, Nov. 23 — (Reuters) — The Royal Navy will demolish the 80,000-ton dock at Wilhelmshaven, principal naval base of Nazi Germany, it was announced.

Forty tons of explosives will be used in the action late this week.

"IRON CURTAIN" TRIALS

Washington, Nov. 23 — (AP) — The United States charged yesterday that Bulgaria's communist government has smashed its last parliamentary opposition with a series of "iron curtain" trials.

Nine persons were given sentences ranging up to life terms in trials held Nov. 8-15. Included were a group of independent socialist deputies led by Kosta Lulchev.

Breen and Pilot Located Safe At Glidden, Wis.

Glidden, Wis., Nov. 23. (AP) —Sheriff William Sands said today that Singer Bobby Breen's weekend disappearance was "a publicity gag that's going to require a lot of explaining."

But the 21-year-old Toronto native and former child movie star said, "Honest . . . there's nothing fishy."

Breen and his pilot were located Monday night at a hotel here, where Breen registered Sunday night under the name of Benedict.

The sheriff said Monday's day-long search for the single-engined Stinson monoplane which carried Breen and his pilot, Kenneth Thompson, from Thompson's home field at Waukesha, Wis., was a "travesty."

In a 45-minute telephone interview with The Associated Press today, Breen pleaded, "Get it right, will you? Tell everybody it was not a gag."

"We just were lucky enough to land the plane without hurting anything after we ran out of gas. We thanked God we got out of it all right, and Sunday night we came to town. We went across the street from the hotel and laughed for an hour and a half at a movie".

Reported Forced Down

The Milwaukee Sentinel quoted Breen as saying he and Thompson were forced down at a farm near Glidden about 3.45 p.m., Sunday and because of blocked roads they were unable to get into Glidden and had to spend the night at a farm house which had no telephone.

But Mrs. Mary Sheridan, manager of the hotel, said Breen and Thompson registered under Thompson's name and spent "Sunday night and most of Monday" at the hotel.

Hundreds of hunters and volunteers had hunted through dense, marshy woods and military and civilian aircraft fought 400-foot ceilings and severe icing conditions in a search for Breen and Thompson.

Monday night the Milwaukee Sentinel received a telephone call from three hunters who said they had seen Breen and Thompson on Highway 77, three miles from Glidden at 3 p.m.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was reeding his paper and ma was reeding hers, saying, Now here's a novel idea, William. Hookbinders stationerry department is avvertizing that if you order your Crissmas cards erly enough you can have your own personel greeting printed on them. I mean some little Chrissmas sentiment that you actually make up out of your own head, she said.

Now that's a splendid opportunity, pop said. I've always contented that nobody ever reeds the greetings on Chrissmas cards, so here's your chance to express yourself to your hart's content, he said, and ma said, But if no-be any point to it.

On the contrary, my dear, there would be a sharp point, but nobody would get stuck by it, so the Chrissmas spirrit would be unmarred, pop said. For instants, suppose you sent out a card with his greeting, "Oh hang, oh shucks, oh rats, oh dear, Chrissmas greeting time is here. So paste this thawt inside your hat, The last time I saw you, you were mutch —too fat." Your stout frend would glance at your signature and toss your card amung her other cards, and you could gloat safely in secret, pop said.

Now William I'm serious, ma said, and pop said, So am I. By gollies it's a golden opportunity to combine the Chrissmas spirrit with the spirrit of the old fashion comic valentine. For instants take this one: "The frost is on the punkin. The holly is [illegible] mutch, And I feel no different now."

Oh sutch a man, ma said. I think I'll just simply choose a and a Happy New Year" in sutch glaring letters that people will have to read it regardless of their inclinations, she said.

Writes His Own Obituary as Right Man to do Job

(By P. W. Luce, in The Vancouver Daily Province)

Writing obituaries is a literary chore that no newspaper man relishes. The essential data are often meagre, and the finished product seldom satisfies the family of the deceased. If the subject of the sketch has attained some measure of prominence, the treatment is apt to be a bit fulsome. Virtues are unduly exalted, and faults are glossed over.

In my time I have written scores of obituaries, and they have been no better and no worse than average. I was always handicapped by the conventional restrictions, but I have got around these in my latest effort. I have at last written the kind of obituary that satisfies the party chiefly concerned.

It is my own.

When I mentioned this to a friend he thought it was a grisly idea. I disagreed whole-heartedly. Something will have to be said about me when I die, and nobody knows so much about me as I do, so I am obviously the right man for the job.

I think an obituary, like a will, should be attended to long before a man is on his deathbed.

Nobody cares a hoot where I went to school or what honors (if any) I attained. Nobody gives a darn whether my great-grandmother was the seventh daughter of Baron Munchausen (which she wasn't), and it is not of public concern that I'm an Episcopalian or a Quaker or Mohammedan. So these details do not appear in my screed about me.

And I do not describe myself as a pioneer, for I feel that I am not that by thirty or forty years or so, though many others lay claim to the distinction who came to these parts long after I did, at the turn of the century.

Reference is made to the fact that I have been an auctioneer and a cattle rancher and followed various other occupations for brief periods, but I say nothing of my ups and downs in the real estate field. Who cares about that now!

The paper won't give me as much space as I think I'm worth, but I'm used to having my stuff cut and I won't know about the butchering in this case. I am reasonably sure that what I've said about being a bit of a grouch and rather standoffish will never see the light of print. The editor will scratch out those lines on the time-honored principle of "De Mortuis Nil Nisi Bonum," although he well knows I'm telling the solemn truth. He'll probably salve his conscience by muttering that Old Luce wasn't too bad a guy when you got to know him well, but it took a long time.

In drafting my obituary I tried to remember what offices I had held. The list was small and unimportant, but it could have been bigger. I was once offered the presidency of the Balmoral Baseball Club, conditionally. All I had to do was to fork over $25. I had the $25, but I thought the price a bit high for the honor attached. The presidency went to some other sucker, and I got the secretaryship for nothing except what it cost me in time, stamps, and printing bills.

My literary output is glossed over. It has been voluminous, but ephemeral. If, in the little time that is left me, I should happen to father a best-seller, the distinction will be duly noted. I'll lay long odds against it, though.

When I die (and I'm going to "die" not "pass on," or "be called," or any of the other synonymic terms that are supposed to soften the hard fact) I'll have gone through a fairly long and interesting life without having achieved any material success. If my dissolution is too long delayed I'll be in a very parlous condition indeed, and so I have no ambition to become a centenarian. I've already seen everything I consider worth while.

At the moment I'm feeling pretty good. I have no idea when my obituary will be published, and I sincerely hope you won't have the sorrow of reading it for quite a while.

ASKS U.S. TROOPS NOT TO LEAVE

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 23 (AP) — President Syngman Rhee today asked new assurance that American troops will not leave South Korea "while the Communist threat continues." He appealed for more arms and ammunition. Communist insistence that United States troops will abandon this divided country is "deeply disturbing," he said.

ORDER OF LENIN AWARDED TO MARSHAL MALINOVSKY

Moscow, Nov. 23 (AP) — The Order of Lenin was awarded today to Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, who commanded Russian armies on the German and Japanese fronts. The Soviet News Agency Tass said the award, given on his 50th birthday, was for his "services to the state and the armed forces."

GUIDE RISKS LIFE 48 HOURS IN POUNDING SEAS TO SAVE 13

For four days and nights in pounding seas and 40-mile-an-hour winds, Stuart Peacock, 35-year-old Tobermory, Ont., guide, risked his life to save the captain and crew of a disabled tug and then without sleep continued to rescue 11 crew members of a grounded dredge. He saved 13 in all, 12 men and one woman. Peacock managed to keep in touch with the Patricia McQueen which had lost a rudder in the gale and the dredge Ella M. which went aground off Fitzwilliam Island. This photo shows the rescued crew of the ill-fated Patricia McQueen, battered on the rocks of Manitoulin Island. Left to right: Chief Engineer J. R. Ferguson, 62, of Kingsville; Capt. Angus Morrison, 32, South Bay Mouth, Ont., his baby, his wife; Second Engineer Alex Deehan; Wheelsman Harold Mayville, and three Morrison children. (Central Press Canadian)

SINGING THE BLUES EN ROUTE TO VANCOUVER

Baby Cheryl Lea provided her own musical accompaniment when she arrived from London in New York via air. Two-year-old Cheryl was on her way to Vancouver, B.C., where her daddy awaited her. They were leaving their home in Blackpool, England, for good, to take up a new life in Vancouver, where Cheryl's father, Paul Lea, hopes to do better as a telegrapher. There is a steady stream of families like the Leas who are forsaking their homes in England and attempting to better their lot in Canada. (Central Press Canadian)

CANADA AND U. S. SIGN AGREEMENT

Dr. Edward U. Condon (left), director of the U.S. bureau of standards, looks on as James G. Morrow, of the Canadian Standards Association, signs an agreement on standardization of the American and British systems of screw threads. The accord results from more than 30 years of effort aimed at making threaded products manufactured in the U.S. Great Britain and Canada interchangeable. Formal signing o the agreement by the three countries took place at the bureau of standards in Washington. (Central Press Canadian)

REGAINS CONSCIOUSNESS AFTER 66 DAYS IN COMA

MOTOVILOV REMOVED

Moscow, Nov. 23 (AP) —Tass News Agency said today the praesidium of the supreme Soviet has removed G. P. Motovilov as Minister of Forestry, and appointed A. I. Bovin to replace him. Motovilov became forestry minister in April, 1947. No reason was given for the change.

Lots of fun IN THE TRENT VALLEY

TRY a leisurely camping trip through the Trent Valley Waterway system, which extends 181 miles from Lake Simcoe, east and south to Trenton, on the northwest tip of the Bay of Quinte. It takes in the Kawartha chain of eight large lakes and numerous smaller lakes, rapids and rivers for fishing. Sturgeon Lake . . . and most of the other lakes in the system—are periodically stocked with muskie fingerlings . . . so anglers can be assured of good sport. Start your trip at Trenton, 57 miles west of Kingston on Highway No.2. For complete details and help in planning a new kind of holiday, write to the Chamber of Commerce, Peterboro, Ont.

Social Crediters Intend to Widen Scope of Activity

By KEN KELLY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton, Nov. 23 — (CP) — Social Credit followers will serve notice on other Canadian political parties tomorrow that they intend to widen the scope of their activities outside Alberta and spread the group's doctrine further afield.

When delegates from all parts of Alberta gather here for the annual convention of the Alberta Social Credit League, national affairs will be as much in the limelight as the league's policy towards government of the province.

But delegates will be faced with the task of welding together a split in the ranks of the movement, as well as deciding the league's stand on such matters as freight rates.

The first day of the two-day meeting will see quick action by the league against those Social Credit followers who have declared themselves in support of the rebel Douglas Social Credit Council. This comparatively small group — led by A. V. Bourcier, Social Credit member of the legislature for Lac Ste. Anne — has taken a stand against some of the methods by which the league and Premier Manning's administration hope to put Social Credit into effect.

There is every indication that a resolution will request Premier Manning, a league director, to bar these men from party caucuses and even ask them to take seats in the legislature with the opposition.

Despite the problem of having to tighten its ranks, the league will have its eyes turned on other provinces where for the last year or so Social Crediters have worked quietly with increasing success.

Solon Low, national leader of the Social Credit party and leader of its 12 men in the House of Commons, will discuss the party's place in national affairs in an address Thursday, entitled "How can we expand our borders?"

UPROAR IN PARIS COUNCIL

Paris, Nov. 23 —(Reuters) — Heated discussion which at one stage deteriorated into uproar, twice caused suspension Monday night of the session of Paris Municipal Council, considering a report on Armistice Day rioting in the Champs Elysees. The uproar lasted 30 minutes but no physical violence was reported.

HEARTY ACHIEVEMENT

Teddington, Middlesex, England —(CP) — Mrs. G. Turner, 100, has one ambition in life — to keep going another 12 months so she can beat her mother's achievement. Her recipe for a long life—plenty of cigarets and a good game of whist now and again.

THE VENABLES

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"I thought you said he was a beau of Flo's? I hate the expression, but I thought that was what you said."

"But Flo isn't 19 yet! I just meant a — well, a friend."

"Alan Wellington, eh?" Arnold said, after thoughts. "His father is Oliver Wellington. I know him."

"Is he nice, Arnold?"

Arnold made no answer. His thoughts were far away.

"You get hold of Flo, go down to Rotheim's office tomorrow and talk to her," he suddenly said. "Tell her that — that — to keep in touch with this boy. That might be a valuable friendship. That might be a very good thing. Oliver Wellington's son, eh? Well, of course nothing may come of it. But on the other hand it might be just as well to give Flo a hint. He likes her, eh?"

Lily, relieved to have changed the subject so successfully, made of it what she could. She knew Arnold was pleased, and when he was pleased nothing else mattered.

Alan Wellington was 23. He had flunked out of Stanford University in his junior year, and his people had sent him to a coaching school that occupied a whole floor in the building in which Dr. Rotheim was also a tenant; there he was supposed to take a special instruction in the subjects in which he had failed so as to be able to re-enter college in the fall.

His people were very rich and devoted to their own child, and did not care much what he did as long as he was happy and sufficiently occupied to keep out of serious mischief.

When school reports were unsatisfactory, Wellington senior talked seriously for a few minutes to his son, reported to his wife that he had liked the boy's attitude, straightforward, no shifting or making of excuses and Alan's mother came behind his chair or couch and kissed his wild great mop of hair, and said "Try to make Papa proud of you, darling."

Alan was tall, fair, burned of face from much tennis, boating, fishing, polo, ball playing, full of irrepressible vitality and high spirits. He loved to laugh, and he laughed much when he was with the "red-headed kid" from old Dr. Rotheim's office.

When he came back to school on Mondays, after weekends spent in his Burlington home, he always looked for her, reported to her what he had been doing, and made her some sort of present.

These gifts were at first invariably grotesque. He would bring Flo a book full of color prints; a crazy hat he had seen in a window; stockings striped like a peppermint candy. Once it was a thousand caramels in an enormous box.

Their talk was always gay, for Flo learned to make hilariously funny stories of the family troubles and turned many a laugh on herself. That Alan found her funny, she knew, for often he would tell her that he had retailed some story of hers to his father or his mother or some friend, and Flo, encouraged, deeply flattered, would be funnier than ever about some new predicament or crisis at home.

From almost their first meeting she loved him with all her heart. New and thrilling emotions took possession of her, and Flo hardly knew the grimy Spring streets to be the same city or herself to be the same girl.

That he liked her was the miracle of all miracles, and for a long time that was enough. She took every sign of his affection and interest as a separate marvel, treasured the thought of each one of them, lived only for him. His voice, his step, his laughter, the chances of their meeting, the dark certainty of their not meeting, were all her world.

When she came out into the big bare hallways from the doctor's office at quarter after twelve she always found him sitting on the top step of the dark iron stairs.

Then they would go forth into streets that shone with a miraculous brilliance for Flo nowadays, and sometimes Alan would come home to lunch with her, adding ridiculous purchases from the delicatessen to the home fare, hanging about Flo as she scrambled eggs or beat chocolate to a foamy froth.

Willie could not resist him; he was too friendly, too boldly at home and interested. Even Flo's grandmother capitulated to his charm and came to accept his constant presence in the house quite naturally.

When he came in the evenings, he and Flo played pencil games, worked puzzles, tried for newspaper prizes. For weeks they toiled over a newspaper page that had been pied, clipping and pasting advertisements, reading matter, pen-and-ink drawings. They kept the separated lines in pasteboard boxes, laid them out on the dining table in rows, laughed so hard at the preposterous combinations that sometimes accidentally took place that they had to put their faces in their hands.

"What on earth do you two find to laugh so much about?" Willie would pathetically demand. But she was well pleased with Flo's new friendship, and Lily indicated by more than one hint that Arnold heartily approved it, too.

Alan Wellington belonged to a very important family in a social as well as financial sense, and Arnold liked anything that touched money. He and Lily asked Flo and Alan to come to Sunday supper, and although it was not a gay occasion it was sufficiently pleasant, and especially pleasant was Alan's wild suggestion when 9 o'clock came that he take Flo home because he had some stiff studying to do.

The studying plan vanished into thin air as soon as he and Flo were walking to the street car, and they boarded a trolley and rode far out to the beach and looked at the waves in the moonlight, and laughed at the seals and had tintypes taken and were altogether happy. Flo got home at 11, reporting a wonderful evening.

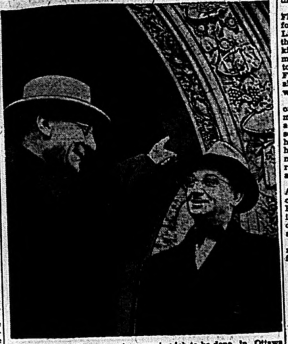
"I imagine it was," Willie said, "when you stayed so late. What time did you leave Lily's?"

"Oh, I'm not sure. But then we took a trolley ride."

"That's a dangerous thing to do, Flo, with no chaperon along," her grandmother said severely. Flo was so completely sure of herself and Alan that she could repeat this to him when next she saw him, and again they had something at which to laugh.

He never made love to her, and she never expected him to. But she said in her heart that he belonged to her and she to him; He was her wonderful friend, and sometimes she considered with what inevitability they two would be married. It could be no other way. Alan's companionship could not go out of her life, because nothing would be left.

She knew no other young men, but he knew a great many society girls, and they had their claims on him. He went to dances and dinners and a Mardi Gras party, and she saw his picture in the papers, and read his name there, always with a little pride and a little jealous contraction of her heart.



THAT'S NEXT—There is a stone carving job to be done in Ottawa shortly. When the Parliament Buildings were built, shields were carved over the entrance for each province and a tenth was added and left blank in case another province should come into the Dominion. Now Newfoundland's entry is being discussed at meetings in Ottawa and this photo shows two of her delegates standing below the blank shield. Pointing to the uncut stone is F. G. Bradley and Joseph Smallwood is on the right. (CP Photo)

But there was no question that he liked her more than anyone else. He was with her incessantly; he quoted her; he followed her lead into games and adventure. His shout of approval when she was being more than ordinarily ridiculous or amusing was all the praise she needed.

And when summer came and he went away, she wrote him letters full of nonsense verses and of witticisms and absurdities that she had thought up during the quiet office hours or while she was wiping dishes at night, and in return she had long rhymed or illustrated effusions from him, filled with exclamation marks and homemade jokes and puns.

Alan went with his family to Lake Tahoe in July, and late in August went with two college friends into Canada, packing in with mules and horses and collapsible kayaks. She heard from him not at all now, but he had warned her that he could not write, and Flo understood.

Lily had been very ill, was still white-faced, quiet, depressed. "No little baby, Flo!" she had sobbed on an afternoon when Flo had found herself unexpectedly free because Dr. Rotheim had gone fishing, and Flo had taken the Pacific Avenue car out to see Lily. Lily had sounded very cheerful as she had called eagerly to Miss Janet, "Oh, it's my sister! Let her in!"

But the instant she had seen Flo, her face had broken pitifully into wrinkles and her lips had trembled. And as the sisters arms went about each other, Lily had faltered out the whole story in three words.

"I thought he would be mine, Flo, and that he'd be company for me. And now I've nothing." Lily said, trying not to cry when the nurse had come in to warn her kindly but firmly that her sister might not stay if she were going to agitate herself. "Ah, do stay, Flo," she begged when Flo finally said she must go. "Arnold won't be home for an hour yet!"

But the unconscious admission of the last few words had determined Flo. Lily should not on her account get into trouble on the score of having tiresome and exhausting callers. She had walked home thinking about Lily, trying not to think. Lily who had married a rich man at 19 and who had a carriage and servants.

This had been in July, and in August Lily had gone with her crippled mother-in-law to Santa Barbara, where salt-water bathing supposedly was to do wonders for Lily. Flo did not see her again for two months.

Meanwhile Alan came home, more eager than ever to see her, flattering her with assurances that everyone else and everything on the holiday had been dull and a failure, flattering her even more with his unconscious revelations that he really meant what he said.

She had stored up a wealth of things to tell him — ridiculous remarks of Spencer's ridiculous stories of Dr. Rotheim's patients, odds and ends of nonsense gathered from any and every source to start them both laughing again.

She found him just the same, the lovable, big careless boy who found all life so funny; he told her that he found her immensely changed. She had grown taller and thinner, or maybe it was the long dresses and having her hair up.

"Gosh, I had a dull time last weekend!" he would tell her on their evenings together as they raced from chutes to scenic railway, from railway to shooting gallery, trying everything, and better pleased when they failed than when they did well.

The stream of inexhaustible dimes and quarters that came from Alan's pocket was an unending wonder and delight to Flo. It was so restful not to have to count them and hoard them! Sometimes they went around the scenic railway four or five times in succession, screaming, clinging together, their hats placed in safety at their feet. There was one particular spot in the ride when the car had been drawn up to the first steep drop, where Flo always said faintly: "I really cannot bear this! If I live I will never do it again!" and Alan shouted like a maniac, drawing the attention of the crowds from the other amusements far below.

They would emerge dizzy, breathless, laughing, and turn to the inexhaustible amusement of the slides or the human roulette wheel. Seated at the top of the long slippery slope of the highest slide, Flo would feel Alan's arms tight around her, feel his big hard cheek against her where the red hair curved over her ear. And when they were flung to their feet at the bottom there was always a delicious moment of the breathless disengaging of her arms from his, her hair from the button of his tan coat, her fingers from his hand.

On the roulette wheel they had to seat themselves among a crowd of equally joyous folk, Alan's legs spread, Flo planted firmly with her back to him and his arms gripping her, both attempting to resist the smooth swift turn that slid them like helpless marionettes from the circle of polished wood. And once again they were inextxricably tangled together as they got to their feet, stumbling and helpless with laughter.

TURNING THE PAGES OF "Canada Unlimited"

When Jacques Cartier arrived in Canada in 1534, he found the Indians living in strange-looking tepees made of branches and skins.

In 1606, Samuel de Champlain's fort was made of wood, surrounded by a stockade. The buildings that followed were made of great hewn beams, chinked with mortar.

In 1639, in Sillery, Quebec, the erection of a two-storey, stone building was an ambitious project—but by 1750, most buildings were of stone, with windows of oiled paper.

Style in early Canada brought wood again into the building picture. Soon frame houses appeared, and gaily stood out from their drab stone neighbours.

Brick began to replace stone around 1800 in new buildings, and today many houses are of warm, substantial brick construction.

Today we have "solar" houses, of shiny, light aluminum, The opportunity for new ideas in construction are boundless —because there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.

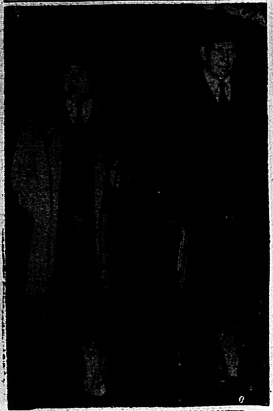
MACARTHUR DENIES TOJO'S APPEAL FOR MERCY



PRESIDENT TRUMAN AND MARSHALL CONFER

U.S. President Harry Truman strolls across the road from his White House executive offices to Blair House, the first family's temporary residence, with Secretary of State George C. Marshall. It was lunch time and Mr. Truman and Secretary Marshall were meeting with other cabinet members at Blair House after their own brief conference following Marshall's arrival from Paris. All traffic on this street is lagged with red to give the president the green light on his coming and going from house to house. (Central Press Canadian)

Halifax Longshoremen Will Vote on Unloading Question

Halifax, Nov. 24 (CP)— Halifax's 2,000 longshoremen will decide whether they will resume handling ocean-going vessels diverted here by the United States ports strikes.

The Halifax Longshoremen's Association (A.F.L.) Tuesday reached a decision not to work diverted vessels until tonight's meeting. This decision was a return to a stand taken Nov. 17, rescinded two days later after the Halifax union had considered its legal position.

As things stood early today, only two diverted vessels were being worked on the Halifax waterfront —the liner Media and the Westerdam. Unloading operations on both ships had started before Tuesday's announcement.

Harbor Master Dennis Moriarity said last night the Longshoremen's decision would have "little effect for a week or so because there are no diverted ships due to arrive in that period."

E.A. Saunders, secretary of the Halifax Board of Trade, Tuesday night was the first official to confirm that the longshoremen here had decided not to handle ships diverted here by the American strike.

J.J. Campbell, head of Halifax's Stevedore union, declined comment on the situation. When asked whether officials were "passing the buck," Mr. Campbell replied: "You get the idea."

It was reported earlier that longshoremen here are seeking a new contract agreement with shipping companies. Present contract— with a basic rate of $1.20 an hour —expires Nov. 30. Workers were said to be asking increases of 25 cents an hour.

Tuesday night Federal conciliator Pettigrove commented only: "Mr. Campbell knows he is liable to a personal fine of $100 every day the men are idle and his union will be taxed $1,000 a day should the men not work diverted ships without going through conciliation proceedings."

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP) —Synopsis: Dull overcast skies are expected to persist today and Thursday in all regions of Ontario. A storm is intensifying in Alberta this morning and will move eastward into north-western Ontario Thursday morning. In its wake Polar air is expected to surge southeastward across the prairies towards Ontario.

Germs Won't Stand Chance In New Hospital

Kitchener, Nov. 24 — (CP) — When the new $2,000,000 Kitchener - Waterloo hospital is completed germs simply won't stand a chance.

Officials at the institution announced today that nowhere in the nine-storey structure will germs have a chance to survive. The reason is that the entire building will be flooded with ultra violet rays.

These rays will be so directed that they will not shine on patients or visitors, because they are capable of inflicting a nasty sunburn.

Each light will be reflected from the ceiling, which will be given a coat of oil paint.

In addition each room will be flooded with rays from a portable lamp when a bed is vacated.

DIES SHORTLY AFTER INJURY

Weston, Nov. 24 — (CP)—Leslie Williams, 71, died in hospital Tuesday night shortly after being hit by a freight train at a level crossing here. Williams is believed to have become confused while crossing the tracks.

MUNICIPAL HYDRO QUOTAS BOOSTED BY 2½ PER CENT

Toronto Discontinues Night Blackouts

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP)—Toronto was virtually without power for an hour this morning for the first time since the current Hydro-Electric Power shortage developed.

The first city-wide cut off went into effect this morning at 9 o'clock, cutting off power to the entire city, including the downtown area. The main business section of the city had been spared cutoffs until today because of mechanical difficulties. Street cars and a few industries on separate feeder lines were the only ones to escape today's cutoff.

Municipal hydro quotas are up 2½ per cent throughout the province and hydro officials are hopeful that diversion of water from the Welland Canal to generating plants will make still more power available.

The quota boost, coupled with the extension of power interruptions to the downtown area, has enabled Toronto to discontinue for the present its weeknight blackouts.

Recent late Fall rains in the Ottawa Valley swelled the supply of power available to Ontario from Quebec companies and brought about the quota increase. Drought last Summer resulted in low water levels and decreased output of Ontario power plants while industrial demands for electricity were increasing.

Toronto still has two power breaks each week-day—9-10 a.m. and 4-5 p.m. Switches are pulled simultaneously across the entire city.

Mayor McCallum, Oshawa Will Not Be Candidate

Oshawa, Nov. 24 (CP)—Mayor Frank N. McCallum of Oshawa, today announced he will not be a candidate for re-election at the civic elections Monday, Dec. 6.

Mayor McCallum, who said last week he probably would seek re-election for a fourth term, said in a statement today he was withdrawing because he planned to seek the Progressive Conservative nomination in Ontario riding in the next Dominion election.

He is a brother of Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto.

Nominations in Oshawa are on Thursday night, Nov. 25.

SUSPECT ACCUSES STRANGER

Boulder, Colo., Nov. 24 — (AP) —Police said Thursday night that lanky Joseph Walker, 31-year-old metal worker, issued a statement blaming the rape-slaying of Theresa Foster on a "chubby blonde" male companion of the girl. District Attorney Hatfield Chilson said Walter admitted disposing of the 18-year-old girl's body the night of Nov. 9.

Red Sweep in China Will Likely Cost U.S. Billions in Foreign Aid

Washington, Nov. 24 — (AP) — The Communist sweep in China appears certain to cost the United States more billions in foreign aid over the next few years—whether or not it decides to give grand scale help.

Two points stand out:

1. If President Truman and State Secretary Marshall determine that China still can be saved from Communism — and decide to go ahead with an aid program —they will have to ask the new Congress for several hundred million dollars at least. And that would be just a starter, since any new China program is regarded as a long-term undertaking.

2. If — in spite of American help or without it — all China falls to the Communists, the task of rebuilding Japan and providing it with a stable economy will be much more costly. That is because Japan would find trade relations with Communist China more difficult.

In addition, if a Communist China should prove actively hostile to the West in the cold war, military leaders might consider it essential to strengthen American defences in the Western Pacific that, however, is no more than a speculative possibility at the moment.

Marshall was scheduled to meet the president again today for their second foreign-policy conference in three days. Their first talk took place Monday shortly after Marshall returned from the United Nations meeting at Paris.

Meanwhile, it is understood that Chiang, in connection with his appeal to Truman for urgent assistance, proposed that a prominent American military leader—someone with great prestige—be sent to head the United States military mission in China.

UK Govt. Will Appoint Council For Wales and Monmouthshire, Plea for Minister is Rejected

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 24 — (CP)—The Labor government announced today a council for Wales and Monmouthshire will soon be appointed. It will advise London authorities on Welsh opinion and on the effect of departmental activities on the lives of the Welsh people.

The government refused a demand for the appointment of a minister for Welsh affairs.

The Welsh grievance, as stated by a spokesman, has been that Scotland, with the status of a kingdom, has government departments dealing with Scottish affairs located in Edinburgh while Welsh affairs have been dealt with from London. Wales is a principality.

Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister who opened a debate on Welsh affairs, said the proposed council will have 27 members. Twelve will be nominated by Welsh local authorities, four by management and employers and four by workers in industry and agriculture, one by the University of Wales, one by the joint Education Council for Wales and Monmouth, one by the Welsh Tourist Board and one by the National Eisteddfod Council.

The remainnig three members will be selected by the Prime Minister.

Cabinet ministers would be available to attend the meetings of the proposed Council for Wales.

Public Apology and $300 Cash Price for Breen's Carelessness

Hayward, Wis., Nov. 24 — (AP) — A public apology and about $300 is the price Toronto-born singer Bobby Breen will pay for the 36 hours a posse spent slogging through snow-choked forests looking for him while he relaxed at a hotel under an assumed name.

The apology — Breen's idea— was issued early today. The money — Sawyer County District Attorney Winslow Davis' bill — is payable at once.

Breen spent most of Tuesday explaining to Ashland and Sawyer county authorities why he didn't try a little harder to report his whereabouts after his chartered plane was forced down Sunday. The plane was piloted by Kenneth Thompson of Waukesha, who remained with Breen at a Glidden hotel while searching parties combed the wilderness on the ground and a flyer dared hazardous weather conditions to hunt by air.

Officials of the two counties said they would not bring any charges against the 21-year-old former child movie star. District Attorney Clarence Olson of Ashland county reprimanded both Breen and Thompson for their failure to notify someone, they were safe after the plane landed.

Davis went a little further. He presented Breen with a bill for $300 for expenses incurred by the county in the false search. He said Breen had agreed to pay.

New Labor Rules Are Approved, Now in Effect

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (CP)—The Labor Department announced today that the regulations required under the new labor code passed at the last session of parliament have been approved by the cabnet and now are in effect.

They lay down the procedure to be followed in various matters —applications for inquiry commissions, complaints of violations of the act and others—which the act left in the jurisdiction of the Labor Minister.

The department said the rules of procedure of the Canada Labor Relations Board have also gone into effect. They deal with matters, such as applications for granting or revoking certificates as bargaining agents, which were placed in the jurisdiction of the Board.

One of the subjects covered by the regulations is the procedure to be followed when either an employer or a trade union seeks the Labor Minister's consent to launch a prosecution for offences committed under the act. The minister will also handle requests for the appointment of conciliation boards and officers and industrial inquiry commissions.

The act itself makes it an offence for an employer to refuse to bargain with a union that has been certified.

FAMED MUSIC HALL STAR NELLIE WALLACE, DIES

London, Nov. 24 (Reuters) — Nellie Wallace, 66, famed old-time star of the British music halls, died today in a London nursing home.

Her last stage appearance was in the Royal Command performance at the London Palladium three weeks ago. She collapsed in the wings after leaving the stage and was taken seriously ill with bronchitis and heart trouble.

ELABORATE YULE LIGHTING

Kitchener, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Christmas lights on the Kitchener city hall this year will be more elaborate than ever, it was announced Tuesday night. All sides of the building, with the exception of the rear, will be brilliantly illuminated. A special generator will provide the service.

Survey of World Prices Shows Upward Trend

Ottawa, Nov. 24. (CP)—Except for the lucky people who live in Iceland and Portugal, it still costs everyone else more and more to live during the first half of this year.

The Portuguese and Icelanders were the exceptions in a general uptrend in cost of living indices reported Tuesday night by the Bureau of Statistics survey of world prices during the first six months of 1948.

Wholesale prices presented about the same picture. Again there were only two exceptions in the general uptrend movement. In this case, however, the countries where wholesale prices declined were Spain and Italy.

The increases in cost of living indices throughout the world were generally from one to 10 per cent and on the whole the trend upward was slower than in the last half of 1948.

On the basis that 1935-39 costs equal 100, Canada's index jumped from 135.9 in July 1947, to 146 in December and 154.3 in June, 1948. In the United States the rise was from 158.4 to 167 and then to 171.7 for the three dates.

In both these cases the rise in the most recent period was smaller than in the preceding six months. In Britain, however, this was reversed. With 100 representing living costs in June, 1947, the increases were from 101 in July, 1947 ,to 104 in December and 110 in June, 1948.

In the Canadian wholesale price index, unlike the cost of living index, 100 represents 1926 prices.

In July, 1947, this index stood at 129.1. By December it had risen to 143.5 and by the following June had jumped against to 151.9.

CROWING ROOSTERS START ACTION

Merritton; Nov. 24 — (CP) — When crowing roosters bothered Mrs. Lawrence she complained to the town council by telephoning members — at 4 a. m. When the mayor and several councillors heard the cause of her complaint, a special meeting was held to stop the disturbance. A motion that an anti-noise by-law be speedily drafted was passed.

PRISONER SLAIN BY LIFE-TERMER OFFICIALS REPORT

St. Vincent de Paul Pen Scene Fatal Stabbing

Montreal, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Nick Tedesco, 39, serving a 20-year sentence for armed robbery, was stabbed to death this morning by life-termer John Boyko, at St. Vincent De Paul penitentiary, prison officials reported today.

Provincial police, who received the report, were immediately dispatched to the penitentiary 15 miles north of here to investigate.

Prison officials reported that Boyko, sentenced to life a year ago for the hammer-slaying of his common-law wife, stabbed Tedesco with a pair of scissors.

Pending a report from the provincial police homicide squad there were no further details of the killing.

Liquor Board Reverts to Hours Before November 1

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP) — To establish a more workable basis in respect to closing hours for the sale of liquor and beer by the glass in Toronto, the Liquor Licence Board has decided to revert to the hours which were in effect prior to Nov. 1.

This means, a board announcement said Tuesday night, that the closing hour for all outlets as set out in the regulations will be 12 midnight, instead of 10:30 p.m.

In the smaller placer where an earlier closing has been in effect as a result of local demand, there will be no disturbance of the closing hour if it happens to be 10:30 or 11 o'clock.

When the board first announced that sales were to be stopped at 10:30 p.m., it explained the change was to permit establishments which do not do much business late at night to close early. At the same time, it said a licence holder if he wished could apply for permission to remain open until midnight.

The many requests that have been received for permission to retain the former closing hour was a factor in the board's decision to go back to the midnight closing, it was learned.

C. C. L. TO RAISE FUND

Vancouver, Nov. 23 — (CP) — The Canadian Congress of Labor plans to raise a $250,000 political campaign fund to aid the C. C. F. party, Pat Conroy, C.C.L. secretary-treasurer said here Monday. The fund will be raised through the union's 350,000-membership at the rate of $1 per member for campaigning in both federal and provincial elections.

'Put Something Aside for Rainy Day,' Says Abbott, Tax Plans Not Disclosed

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott believes Canada, like her individual citizens, must realize the importance of putting something aside for a "rainy day."

"I may be old-fashioned," he said in a speech before the Canadian tax foundation Tuesday night, "but I hold the view that it is just as important for the nation as for the individual to put something away for the rainy day..."

He said the way the governments can do this is by paying off debt and referred to the $17,000,000,000 national debt which Canada has built up mainly as a result of the wars.

Mr. Abbott, who is heading towards his third successive surplus, made it clear to the foundation that he would not disclose any budget secrets, and added:

"In budget matters, it is particularly true that policies must be followed which carry the general support of the people as a whole. This, I think, is as it should be in a democracy."

But, he noted, it is undesirable to have unduly frequent or drastic changes in tax rates unless economic reasons make them necessary.

It is very difficult to obtain widespread public acceptance of or enthusiasm for a level of taxation appropriate to good times— "a level of rates that will tend to restrain inflationary influences and to produce substantial surpluses with which progress can be made in the retirement of the public debt," he said.

The cyclical philosophy, he said, has been opposed on the following grounds.

1. Some individuals and business concerns want reasonable stability in tax rates to plan their affairs without fear of too much disturbance by fiscal authorities.

2. Frequent and drastic changes in sales and excise taxes always create inventory problems.

The Finance Minister answered another doctrine, which urged that taxes be set to provide for a balanced budget and a surplus, with the remark he was sure the public would demand that in times of depression the tax system should be used not to aggravate but to minimize the deflationary economic forces that are at work.

As to the national debt, unless surpluses were built up in times of prosperity, the debt would go on increasing.

Orders Execution Of Former Premier And Six Others

U. S. Commander Calls Talk 'Utterly Repugnant' to Him

Tokyo, Nov. 24 — (AP)—Gen. MacArthur today denied clemency for Japan's 25 top war criminals and ordered the execution of Hideki Tojo and six others who dreamed of conquest but lost an empire.

As sole reviewing officer, he declined to use his power to lighten any of the sentences determined by the International Military Tribunal — seven to die on the gallows; 16 to spend the rest of their lives in prison; two to lesser prison terms.

The Supreme Commander called the task "utterly repugnant" to him. He closed his review of the war-guilt case with a plea to people of all creeds in Japan to pray on the execution day — yet to be made public — to help the world keep the peace, "lest the human race perish."

Counsel of five defendants planned to appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, which has never yet intervened in international war-crimes cases.

Those sentenced to death were: Tojo, army commander and premier at the outbreak of war; Gen. Kenji Doihara, known as the sly, ruthless "Lawrence of Manchuria;" Koki Hirota, former premier; Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, former war minister; Gen. Heitaro Kimura, Manchurian commander; Gen. Iwane Matsui, whose troops perpetrated the "rape of Nanking;" and Lt.-Gen. Akiro Muto, who fought in the Philippines.

Lt.-Gen. Walton Walker, commander of the Eighth Army, said the execution date has not been set but the seven men will be given "a reasonable time" before they are hanged, presumably at Sugamo prison in Tokyo. Only official witnesses will be allowed, correspondents will be banned and no pictures will be taken.

Walker told reporters that the bodies of the seven condemned men will not be given to their families. They will be cremated and "disposed of" at a place to be designated later.

Druggist Fined $10,000

Lethbridge, Alta., Nov. 24 — (CP) — Cuthbert H. Harry former Calgary druggist, Tuesday was fined $10,000 after pleading guilty to a charge of attempting to smuggle $35,000 in United States currency into the United States last Oct. 12. It was decided that the money would be changed into Canadian currency and the fine paid from the amount. Harry would then receive the balance in Canadian funds.

JURY RETURNS OPEN VERDICT IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Still Unanswered is Question of Who Killed Mrs. Emma Pohl

Woodstock, Nov. 24. (CP)—Still unanswered today was the question of who killed Mrs. Emma Pohl, 37-year-old Kitchener housewife.

The verdict of coroner's inquest jury returned Tuesday night attached no blame to anyone. But it established that the woman died of strangulation on a swampland road near Ayr at the point where her partly-nude body was found six weeks after her disappearance Sept. 13.

The jury found that the blonde women met death at the hands of a person or person unknown'.

As the jurors retired, Crown Attorney Craig McKay told them: "Out of this tangled web of evidence, you are required to bring in a verdict. No one is on trial here. You are not required to find out who is guilty."

Paid Her $600

The jurors earlier heard William Stuart, 30, of Kitchener, now awaiting trial on a public mischief charge, say that he had sexual intercourse with Mrs. Pohl the day she disappeared. He said that on the same day he paid her $600 he owed her and had her sign a receipt he had written out. He said he last saw her on a Kitchener street earlier in the afternoon of Sept. 13.

Stuart said that, after leaving Mrs. Pohl, he called at his sister-in-law's home in Galt, ate supper in Kitchener, spent the evening with a married woman, returned to his boarding house after midnight and then went to work the next day. Other witnesses gave similar evidence concerning Stuart's activities that day.

Asked About Relationships

Asked about his relationship with Mrs. Pohl, Stuart said he kept company with her before her marriage to Pohl and saw her on several occasions afterward.

On the day Mrs. Pohl disappeared, "there were sexual relations between us," Stuart said.

"How often did that happen?" he was asked.

"Every time I went to see her," he answered.

Mr. McKay asked Stuart why he told three different stories about how he obtained the $600. Stuart said he obtained the money by gambling but had been warned by others to say nothing about the gambling because a fellow gambler was supposed to be wanted by police.

MILLWRIGHT'S TOOLS STOLEN FROM CAR

Theft of a tool case containing $250 worth of millwright's tools, together with a suitcase containing personal clothing was reported to police last night.

The tools and suitcases were owned by Romeo Ross of Point Anne who stated they had disappeared from a truck owned by Frank Murray of Read, and which was parked near a Dundas Street hotel. The theft occurred shortly before eleven o'clock last evening, it was stated.

OPERATOR FORGETS TO PULL SWITCH ON WEST SIDE

Residents of the Bridge Street district immediately west of the river must have imagined last night that the evening hydro cut-off had been dispensed with when for 15 minutes following the customary evening blackout the lights continued to burn.

It was only a false alarm, however, as the cut-off came at seven thirty instead of at the customary time of seven fifteen.

Inquiry at the office of the Public Utilities as to the reason for the delayed cut-off revealed that it had all been a mistake on the part of an operator at the sub station. The operator had merely forgotten to pull the switch serving the Bridge Street area west of the river.

MORLEY P. DUFF TO BE CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER

Chairman of the Belleville Public Utility Commission Mr. Morley P. Duff will again be a candidate for the office of commissioner for 1949, it was announced today.

"In view of recent events and decisions in connection with public utilities commission matters and in response to the requests of several citizens, I have decided to again offer my services as public utilities commissioner for the two-year term," stated Mr. Duff.

INQUEST ADJOURNED AND BODY TAKEN TO TORONTO

Bancroft (Special) — The body of Robert Smith, Toronto Evening Telegram circulation representative, who Monday afternoon suffered fatal injuries in a motor accident ten miles north of Bancroft, was taken to Toronto today following a postmorten conducted by Dr. J. B. McKay, pathologist.

A preliminary inquest was held in Bancroft on Tuesday when the body was viewed by Coroner Dr. O. W. Anderson of Bancroft and jurymen E. P. Ellerbeck, Walter Mullett, R. C. Marston, and C. O. Fuller. The inquest was adjourned to December 1st and the body was removed to the Quinte Memorial Chapel in Belleville for the postmortem.

Smith died as result of fatal injuries received when his car was in collision with a highways department truck on Selba Hill, ten miles north of Bancroft.

NO REDUCTION IN CUTS DESPITE INCREASED QUOTA

Belleville Public Utilities officials have received notification from the Ontario Hydro Commission of a two-and-one-half per cent increase in the local power quota, it was announced today by Mr. O. H. Scott, Utilities manager.

The two-and-one-half per cent increase will mean an additional 2,400 kilowatt hours for the city, bringing the power quota to approximately 99,100 hours. The previous quota was 96,700.

Despite the increase, however, Mr. Scott intimated there would be no reduction in the hours of cut-offs in the city as consumption has generally been over the quota each day.

By-Law Declared Ultra Vires By Justice Wells

The city council by-law passed some weeks ago which would have increased the membership of the Belleville Public Utilities Commission from three to five members was ruled ultra vires here Tuesday night by Mr. Justice Wells at the local non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court.

As result the membership of the Utilities will remain as constituted at present with two elected members and the mayor, and Commissioner Russell Wotten will be entitled to serve out the second year of his two year term.

In a second action brought by the Utilities against the city asking for a ruling on whether the city could direct that Utility debenture payments should be made out of profits, Mr. Justice Wells reserved judgment.

Had Legal Right

In giving judgment on the Utility motion to quash the city by-law increasing the Utility membership from three to five members, Mr. Justice Wells stated that Mr. Wotten had a legal right to complete his two year term of office, of which he has served only one year. He added that if the city wished to change the by-law it must wait another year until Mr. Wotten's term of office was completed and then put the matter before the electors.

The second action brought by the Utilities arose from the controversy between city council and the Utilities as to whether the cost of water mains in the new Parkwood Heights area would be paid out of Utility profits or under the Local Improvement Act. The city council passed a by-law directing that debenture charges be paid out of profits while the Utilities claimed the installation should be made under local improvements.

In the motion the Utilities questioned the right of council to direct that the debenture charges be paid out of water profits.

Robert A. Pringle, city solicitor, represented the city in the two actions, while the Public Utilities' case was presented by Wilfred Judson of Daly, Thistle and Company, Toronto.

Stirling Native, Judge J. Parker, Dies in Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP) — James Parker, 75, senior judge for York county, died late Tuesday. He would have been eligible for retirement next January.

Judge Parker's death shocked colleagues with whom he worked until court closing Tuesday. Judge Frank Denton said:

"He had lunch with me in my rooms in the city hall today and seemed in excellent health and spirits."

A native of Stirling and a graduate of Queen's University, Judge Parker was called to the Ontario Bar in 1911, was created a King's Counsel in 1929 and in May, 1931, was appointed a judge of the county of York.

From the beginning of 1918 until the First World War ended he served as solicitor for the old Canada Food Board.

Surviving is his widow, the former Lillian Greenwood of Toronto.

GARY M. WINSTANLEY

Gary M. Winstanley, age twelve years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Winstanley, 20 Reid Street, in this city, died in the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, on Tuesday. He was a patient in the hospital for two weeks, following about a week's illness at home.

Surviving him besides his parents is one sister, Lynne, at home.

Private funeral was held in Toronto this Wednesday afternoon and interment took place at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

MRS. ELSIE I. CLEVELAND
(Thurlow Township)

Mrs. Elsie Isabel (Trotter) Cleveland, wife of Mr. Charles Cleveland died suddenly at her home in the 9th. concession of Thurlow township Tuesday evening.

Born in Belleville the late Mrs. Cleveland was in her 28th year and was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Trotter. The greater part of her life was passed in this city and for the past nine months she lived in Thurlow township. When residing in this city she was a member of Christ Church and associated with the A.Y.P.A. in connection with the parish. In Thurlow township she was a member of the Women's Missionary Society in connection with Bethel United Church. She was also a member of Zion Branch of the Women's Institute.

Surviving her are her husband; her parents; two half sisters, Mrs. Al. (Margaret) Walker, Napanee, and Mrs. Winnifred Poitris, Manitoba.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home Campbell Street, until Thursday noon, then at the residence of Mr. Blake Sills, Thurlow township; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Community Chest Fund Donations Are $13,354

An amount of $13,354 was reported as contributed in the Red Feather Campaign to date at a meeting of officers of the Belleville Community Service Chest held in the YMCA yesterday afternoon. Appreciation and thanks of the Chest Committee was expressed to the contributing public, the canvassers, the Ontario Intelligencer, Radio Station CJBQ and the many other persons who have supported the campaign so loyally.

Since the amount collected includes the contributions of less than 90% of last year's subscribers, the committee is hopeful that all of the previous supporters, many of whom the canvassers have not been able to contact, will rally to the support of the campaign and insure the objective of $16,000 being reached. Subscriptions may be sent by mail or delivered to the YMCA. The committee has urged that every wage earner share in this community responsibility through a contribution no matter how small. The below-cost services of the three participating organizations, the YMCA, the Victorian Order of Nurses and the Children's Aid Society must be maintained and this can only be assured if the minimum objective of $16,000 to cover the rising cost of operation is obtained.

Officially Open Unemployment Office Thursday

The new offices of the Unemployment Insurance Commission in the former Chamber of Commerce building will be officially opened Thursday evening with appropriate ceremonies, it was stated today by Mr. H. H. Reed, local manager of the office.

Officials of the Department, including Commissioner C. A. L. Murchison and Regional Superintendent B. G. Sullivan as well as other officials will be present for the opening. Mayor D. L. Storey will officially open the new offices at eight o'clock.

New Men's and Boys' Wear Store Opens for Business on Thursday

Mr. Jim Walker, proprietor of fine new haberdashery store, is well known in city.

Featuring the better known brands of clothing, a new and modern men's and boys' furnishing store will open in the city Thursday morning at 280 Front Street. The new store will be known as Walker's Men's and Boys' Wear, with Jim Walker, formerly of Canadian Department Stores as proprietor.

The new store occupies the site formerly occupied by the Empire Fruit Store and has been completely renovated. The front is graced by a modern and attractive store front and show windows.

The interior of the store is clean and bright with the premises being lighted by fluorescent lighting, while the store furnishings are done in natural wood. Modern show cases and shelving line the walls while other store appointments have been planned with an eye both for utility and appearance.

Walker's men's and boys' wear will feature both made to measure and stock clothing and will carry a complete line of men's and boys' furnishings.

Store manager Mr. J. Walker, is a native of Chatham, who has had more than 20 years' experience in the men's furnishing field. He was educated there and in 1926 became associated with a haberdashery firm in that city. In 1928 he became an employee of the C.D.S. when this firm opened a store in that city and until giving up his position some weeks ago has been continuously in that firm's employ.

In 1934 Mr. Walker came to Picton with the C.D.S., remaining there until 1939 when he came to Belleville. Mr. Walker is married with two daughters and is a member of the Belleville Kinsmen Club and of the local bridge club.

The new store will open with a staff of two, this to be increased to three. Assistant in the new store will be Frank Weaver, formerly of Stirling.

Youngsters, Adults Prepare To Welcome Santa Claus On Daylight Visit to City

Tomorrow, Thursday, will be a red-letter day for thousands of youngsters and grown-ups too, when Santa Claus pays his first daylight visit here in years.

Yes sir, kiddies, the jovial red-faced old fellow who annually comes down the chimney to bring you joys and toys will be here in person with the traditional reindeer, and all the Yuletide trimmings.

The cheery old fellow will be heralded by bands and floats and he'll ride through the city in a parade of joy and laughter, music, mirth and melody.

With Santa Claus will be a large number of elaborate floats which are based on Fairyland and the Never, Never Land stories.

You'll see all your familiar favorites brought to colorful life right out of the pages of your story books. The funny characters like Mother Goose, the Old Woman who Lived in a Shoe, Little Jack Horner, Cinderella, the Seven Dwarfs, Jack and the Beanstalk and all your favorites will be on parade to accompany jolly old St. Nick on his jaunt through the city.

Santa Claus is coming here at the express invitation of the retail merchants section of the Chamber of Commerce, and they too, will be out in force to extend a hearty welcome to the beloved Santa.

Won't Miss Parade

And you youngsters who go to school will not miss the big parade. Board of Education officials are going to let you out of your classrooms in plenty of time to see Santa and his colorful cohorts.

Yes sir, you'll see all kinds of funny characters. The main feature of course will be Santa himself with his famous reindeer, Dancer, Prancer, Blitzen, Dunder, Cupid and company.

Then there will be Mother Goose followed by a big ship under full sail, the Big Bad Wolf, a candy train, Peter, the Pumpkin Eater, The Old Lady who Lived in a Shoe; Ding Dong Bell; Old King Cole and his merry men, Three Men in a Tub, Jack and his Beanstalk, elephants, Cinderella, Treasure Island and many others.

Starts Sharp on Time

Better to be out bright and early for the big parade will start at 9.30 sharp in the morning from the Fair Grounds. It will proceed along Yeomans Street to West Moira to the upper city bridge and then down Front Street to Bridge Street where it will turn east and proceed to MacDonald Avenue.

The parade will take over an hour to pass a given point. Police have ordered "no parking" on the route during the parade and citizens are asked to see the parade from the point closest their homes so that downtown areas will not be congested.

Interest in the parade in the outlying districts has mounted steadily during the past few days and it is expected that special buses will operate out of Picton, Trenton, Napanee and other nearby centres.

Route of Santa Claus Parade

The route of the Santa Claus parade being held tomorrow is as follows:

Leaving the Exhibition ground at 9.30 sharp along Yeomans Street to West Moira Street, thence to the Upper City Bridge across to Front Street, south on Front Street to Bridge Street and Eastward along Bridge St. to MacDonald Avenue.

U.C. Presbytery Of Belleville Meets in Madoc

The Belleville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada met in Trinity United Church, Madoc, on Tuesday, Rev. J. D. Martin, chairman of the Presbytery presided. During the morning session Mr. Harold Martin, of Stirling, and Mr. E. L. Fraser, of Trenton, lay commissioners to the thirteenth General Council gave their impressions of the proceedings. Mr. R. F. Downey, of Peterborough gave an inspiring address on Christian Stewardship. He stated that there is a stewardship of humor as well as of money, time, intellect and talent.

During the afternoon session, Dr. T. V. Mooney, treasurer of the United Church gave a very informative address on the ability of the church to meet all her financial requirements. Rev. Dr. G. Bell, missionary on furlough, addressed the court on the problems and challenge of overseas missions.

The committee on evangelism and social service recommended that the provincial government be asked to see that liquor outlets be closed not later than 10.30 p.m. in accord with the Judge Robb proposal. Also, that the people of Ontario be on guard because of the movement on foot to introduce cocktail bars into areas where they are banned at present. It was further resolved that the Attorney General be requested to see to it, that the practice of selling alcoholic beverages to minors be stopped.

In view of the constant pressure upon the government to allow commercialized sports on the Lord's Day, it was resolved that Presbytery protests against any commercialization of the Lord's Day, and calls upon people to help the cause in their own practices.

It was agreed to hold a two-day meeting of the Presbytery in Belleville in February, the first day for study in evangelism, and for devotion, the second day for Presbytery business.

Tries to Lasso Girl

Sarnia, Nov. 24 — (CP)—Police are looking for a lasso artist who tossed a rope around the neck of Betty Wilson, 12, and fled when her screams attracted attention.

Betty told her parents she was walking home about 7 p. m. when she noticed a man following her. He threw a rope around her head, but disappeared when she yelled for help.

Campbellford To be Scene Of Competition

The Parish Hall at Campbellford has been chosen for the district public speaking and amateur entertainment contest when winners from each of the counties of Peterborough, Prince Edward, Hastings and Northumberland will take part. The winners in the contest will then compete with winners from the other districts at a Zone competition and the winner from the zone will, in the case of the public speaking contest, compete against the other four zone winners at the King Edward Hotel on January 5th at the annual Federation of Agriculture Junior Day.

The winner in the amateur entertainment contest will also take part at the Junior Day on January 5th but only as part of the entertainment not on a competitive basis. All Juniors throughout the area are urged to give their support to Douglas Ross and the Thurlow amateur entertainment group by being present at Campbellford Parish Hall on Monday, Nov. 29th, at 8 p. m.

Fine Modern Store Opens in Tweed

Tweed (Special) — Another modern store opened in Tweed last week when Clarke's Fashion Shoppe featuring a complete line of ladies' and children's wear opened for inspection. Approximately 600 people came to view the new shop. The store was gaily decorated with baskets of yellow and white 'mums and the visitors were served with coffee and cookies. Interior decorating features pale green walls with all wall fixtures in fir veneer finished in the natural finish. The floor coverings are of yellow mottled marboleum giving a matching effect. Another added attraction installed by Mr. Clarke is a complete Delco system which provides the shop with its own lighting, making the shop independent of hydro.

A duplicate ticket was given to every person vishing the store, and on Saturday evening Reeve S. A. McCarey drew the winning numbers. The ladies' prize value $10 in merchandise won by Mrs. B. McCoy and the children's prize value $3 in merchandise won by Norma Pipe.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 24. (CP)—Western Oils climbed steadily to the highest level in 11 years in moderately active trading here today. Industrials were down as key issues sagged and golds showed a slightly better tone. Base metals slipped in quiet action.

Almost all the western oils were in an upward movement. Anglo-Canadian, Central Leduc, Pacific Petroleum and Calgary and Edmonton were ahead 6 to 20 cents. Home Oil traded briskly for a gain of a half.

Papers and Steels dipped in a weakening industrial list. Utilities mixed gains and losses in narrow fractional range and a few financial institutions showed good advances.

Smelters led the downward trend in the base metals on a loss of 1 1-2. Eureka, Normetal and Torbrit were also down. Noranda slipped $1.

Golds were quiet but holding steady. Teck-Hughes added in Seniors and Aunor, Central Patricia and Cochenour were advancing in Juniors.

HOGS

Man Fatally Injured, Hit By Car in Blackout

Kitchener, Ont., Nov. 24 (CP)—Struck by an automobile in the blacked -out main street of Bridgeport, 83-year-old Daniel Siebert was fatally injured Tuesday night and died before he could be admitted to hospital.

The accident happened directly in front of Mr. Siebert's home shortly after 7 p.m. He had gotten off a bus and was crossing the street to his residence when the tragedy occurred.

Bridgeport has a blackout between 7 and 8 o'clock each weekday evening.

The car which struck Mr. Siebert was driven by John Yacht of Mary Hill who was driving north through Bridgeport.

Police said the street lights had been out about 10 seconds when the elderly man was struck. He died as he was being placed in the ambulance.

Police Chief Cecil Phillips said thatj charges will be laid in the case, but the nature of the charges were not revealed by the police officer.

Shows US Factory Worker's Output Double Briton's

Geneva, Nov. 24 (AP)—The American factory worker produces more than twice as much for his labor as the factory worker in the United Kingdom, a study made public by the International labor office showed today.

The survey, made over a period of five years, showed that productivity in agriculture and transportation was about even in the two countries and that the American output in mining was higher, due largely to natural conditions.

The comparative figures, compiled by L. Rostas, a British statistician, were based on the 1935-1939 average in 32 industries.

Using the United Kingdom output between 1935 and 1939 as an index of 100, Mr. Rostas placed the United States figures as follows: Manufacturing 215, mining 415, public utilities and communications 235, building and construction 115, agriculture and fisheries 103, transport, allowing for distances, 270-300 (not allowing for distances 100-110), dis-

Farmers Granted Full Exemption On Herd Sales

Ottawa, Nov. 24 — (CP)—Canadian farmers will be granted full exemption from income tax on the sale of "basic herds" of cattle, sheep or swine, if the herds have been approved by the Income Tax Department for taxation purposes, it was learned today.

A directive has been sent out to income tax offices advising them of the change in policy, requested for years by leading farm organizations and major cattle ranchers.

To benefit from the change, livestock farmers who have been engaged in operations in 1947 or 1948 may make application on or before April 30, 1949, for approval of a basic herd. A farmer commencing operations in 1949 or thereafter must make his application before April 30 of the following year.

Prior to the change proceeds from the sale of herds have been considered as income unless the farmer had accepted the practice of accrual returns, which meant keeping an inventory of all stock and other assets of the farm.

New System Developed

Few farmers were ready to undertake such a complicated system of bookkeeping.

Under the new system, worked out after a year's negotiations with farm organizations, proceeds from the sale of basic herds will not be taxable if their cost was not charged against income in the year in which they were bought.

Where there is natural increase in the herds the same principle is recognized provided that in the year when they are included in the basis herd a fair market value for each animal is added to income.

A Canadian Federation of Agriculture official said the change will mean uniform interpretation of the Income Tax Act across the country and will do away with a "lot of confusion."

200 Gypsies Back, Create Problem For Alderman

Toronto, Nov. 24. (CP)—Some 200 gypsies are back in Toronto after a brief fling at Halifax. It hasn't taken them long to set up shop.

Alderman Harold Fishleigh, who is also a real estate agent reports that he was approached by the gypsy king seeking premises for a photograph studio.

The Alderman didn't know the man was a king of gypsies at the time. He did a few days later when the gypsies set up a palmistry emporium on Yonge Street—and just one door north of Mr. Fishleigh's real estate office.

"Why," said the Alderman, "I was the one instrumental in having a by-law passed prohibiting fortune-telling on Yonge St—Toronto's main traffice artery."

Concludes Alderman Fishleigh—"The gypsies were run out of Nova Scotia and have come all the way up here. They are sleeping in rows on the floor of the building and I don't know what to do to get them out."

W.G. Ovens Heads Milk Distributors

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 24. (CP)—W. G. Ovens, Peterborough, was elected president of the Ontario Milk Distributors Association here today at the second day sessions of the Association's 19th annual meeting.

Other officers are: Honorary President, Meurice Hart, Oshawa; Vice President, J. L. Burrows, Sutton West; Vice President, O. L. Archer, Kirkland Lake; Honorary Treasurer, Mark Rice, Toronto, and Secretary, Bruce Scott, Toronto.

KNIGHTS OR AIR SELECT TORONTO AS HEADQUARTERS

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP)— The Canadian Knights of the Air, a non-military organization, pledged to keep its members acquainted with modern aviation this week selected Toronto as its headquarters. Members chose Col. C. E. Renolds, chairman of the Ontario Northland Railway Commission, as their deputy at a recent meeting.

CAPTURED GERMAN V-2 ROCKET SETS RECORD 119 MILES

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)— A captured German V-2 rocket, fired in an experiment from New Mexico, apparently has set an altitude record of 114 miles. The applied physics laboratory of John Hopkins University said Tuesday the Rocket's warhead has been found by army recovery team 20 miles from where it was fired from the White Sands prov-

STEVEDORES UNLOAD IN HALIFAX, N. S.

Halifax, N.S., stevedores are shown unloading a cargo of British cars from the S.S. Britannic which was diverted here from New York because of the dock strike. The unloading represents a matter of principle with Halifax stevedores who, although affiliated with the International Longshoremen's Union, are working because, in the words of Union Leader J. J. Campbell, non-work might hurt "an unblemished record of never having violated an agreement with our employers." Cars coming off Britannic will be shipped to New York by rail. 72-Year Widow Waits for Liner With Groom-to-Be Quebec, Nov. 24 (CP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Marlow, 72-year-old English widow, will cast her eye about the dock for her husband-to-be when the liner Empress of Canada reaches Montreal tonight.

The woman from Ealing, Eng., was aboard the liner when it stopped late Tuesday night at Quebec on its way to Montreal from Liverpool.

Mrs. Marlow came to Canada to wed George E. Slade of Aylmer, Ont., who left Ealing 36 years ago.

Three doctors who will debark at Montreal have come to Canada to work with the Canadian Red Cross blood transfusion service.

They are M. H. Russell of Wirral, Cheshire; B. P. L. Moore of Bangor, northern Ireland, and J. P. O'Riordan of Dublin. They are regarded as transfusion specialists.

Well-Dressed 'Dick' Covered With Mud Getting His Man

Toronto, Nov. 24. (CP)—Detective James Morgan of the Toronto force, reputed to be one of the city's best-dressed detectives, got his man today—but only after a chase over backyard fences and a battle with the suspect in a mud-puddle.

And when he brought Arthur Palmer, 35, back to the cop-shop in custody, Dapper James was hardly recognizable. He was covered with mud from head to foot.

Palmer—also begrimed—was charged with possessing burglary tools.

SOD IS TURNED FOR MENNONITES CHURCH

St. Catharines, Nov. 24 (CP)—Rev. G. J. Epp conducted services of thanks and dedication Tuesday as the first sod was turned on the site of the first church to be built by the Mennonite Brethren here. For years the congregation of 150 has been meeting in a rented hall.

MUNICIPAL HYDRO

Mayor Hiram McCallum emphasized Tuesday night that power-saving efforts on the part of Toronto citizens still are urgently needed if the city is to stay within its new quota. He said that in view of Provincial Hydro Commission plans to avert the possibility of power cuts during the winter of 1949-50 by buying Auxiliary generating equipment, the city has given up plans of purchasing its own temporary generators.

Buy Generating Plant

However, the Ontario Hydro Commission went ahead with arrangements to buy a diesel generating unit for its 16-storey administration building in Toronto.

Downtown Toronto firms undergoing their first cutoffs today shuffled working hours and lunch times so that the power breaks would cause them as little inconvenience as possible.

Toronto's education director, Dr. C. C. Goldring, said Tuesday night he was opposed to a suggestion that school hours be re-arranged to avoid the power cut-offs in classrooms.

A power blackout was blamed for the death in Bridgeport, near Kitchener, of Daniel Siebert, 80. Police said Siebert was struck by an automobile Tuesday night just 10 seconds after the lights went out for a 7-8 p.m. blackout.

Brantford city council asked special power arrangements for Dec. 6, municipal election day. It suggested that the Public Utilities Commission forego the usual power cutoffs or change the time to avoid interference with election hours.

After hearing a provincial hydro official predict that the power shortage will continue in some degree for several years, the Eastern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade held a banquet Tuesday night in Brockville — by lantern light.

Twin Sons Win Carter Scholarships

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 24 (CP)—Twin sons of Principal G. Douglas Ainslie, of Stamford Collegiate Institute, have won Carter scholarships. They are William, 14, and Robert B. Ainslie. They will receive $60 and $40 respectively.

CHRISTMAS Toys FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Even Mom and Dad will enjoy these unusual action wind-up toys. See the tiny car that WON'T run off the table.

For the boys in the family we have a stock of wind-up trains, electrical trains, pull toys and musical toys. Any little girl would enjoy one of our dolls, toy stoves, dishes and sweeping and laundry sets.

Shannonville

English Visitor Greatly Pleased With Canada

Shannonville — (Special) — Miss Joan Fitzgerald, who recently arrived from London, England for a three-months' visit with relatives in this locality, is quite impressed by the friendliness of the Canadian people. She was struck too by their keen interest in the Royal Family and their activities.

She feels Canadians are even more interested than the people in England. The stores fascinate her by all the food displayed, and clothing to be purchased without coupons. Miss Fitzgerald tasted her first real white bread on the boat en-route to Canada. The bread in England is not quite so black now as in wartime, but cannot be preserved more than two days at a time.

Surprised at Cars, Lights

She is amazed at all the lights (even though they are restricted at the present time), the lovely buildings and that there are so many cars, and gasoline. In England only the business men are allowed petrol for their cars and travel is very restricted.

She feels if the English people could have the same pleasure as the Canadians have access to, how much different the country would be at the present time. She says England has lovely buildings but she is very much impressed with Canadian edifices. She was also very much interested in the large air station at Trenton which ranks among the largest she has seen. Miss Fitzgerald thinks Canadian weather is marvellous and that Canada is a truly great country of which one should be justly proud.

Rough Voyage

On her trip across the Atlantic her ship ran into two days of heavy seas in which even their trunks were toppled over. The vessel was like a large hotel with dancing, films and games. When the boat docked at Quebec the majority of the passengers remained awake until 4 p.m. to see the first lights of Canada.

Miss Fitzgerald is a very fine type of visitor. England should well be proud of her representative to this country of which there are many more like citizens at home. Such visitors as Miss Fitzgerald help to lead to a better understanding between the two countries.

Protests Imports Canadian Tubers

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP) — Senator Chan Gurney (Rep.-S. D.) has protested to the Agriculture Department over United States imports of Canadian potatoes in the face of domestic surpluses.

In a letter made public by his office here today, Gurney said failure to limit such imports is costing American taxpapers millions of dollars annually.

He told Agriculture Secretary Brannan that he had noted the department's announcement last week that the support price of domestic potatoes would be dropped from 90 per cent to 60 per cent of parity in the 1949 crop year.

"Perhaps if foreign shipments had been halted, this drastic revision would not have been necessary," Gurney wrote.

His Majesty's Health

Throughout the British Commonwealth of Nations and abroad throughout the world news of the illness of His Majesty King George came with suddenness on Thursday and brought a feeling of concern. However the assuring news was given later that the King's general health gives no reason for concern. No specific name was given to the illness with which His Majesty is afflicted.

The bulletin gave the information that the trouble with the circulation was not a blood clot. There has been some guessing whether the trouble is phlebitis, which is an inflammation of the inner membrances of the veins of the leg.

The projected tour of Australia and New Zealand by the King and Queen which was to take place next year has been postponed and the King will have no public engagements at home. The announcement of the abandonment of the planned tour of the Pacific nations of the Commonwealth wasaccompanied by the explanation of the King's physicians that a long journey "might delay his recovery and might well involve the serious risk to a limb."

It was encouraging news that His Majesty would still discharge his duties which can be handled from his office in Buckingham Palace though all outside duties would be abandoned or delegated to Her Majesty, the Princesses and Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh.

From his millions of citizens of the Commonwealth and from the nations of the earth the prayers of the people will be raised for His Majesty's rapid recovery from his present affliction.

His Majesty since his accession to the Throne has given himself unsparingly, with entire devotion and unselfishness to the great duties which fall upon one who occupies the Throne. His reign has been in a period of time when the world has been perplexed with many grave problems. The most trying period was that of the Second World War in which the British Royal Family bore the heavy tasks of their exalted position. They served and they let no opportunity pass to maintain the spirit of the people. Their example of sacrificial effort will always be remembered by the people who cherish their King and his family. His Majesty and the Queen and their daughters, have tirelessly served the cause of the British people, the Commonwealth and of mankind. Not so long ago they visited the Union of South Africa, a tour which will always live in the minds of the people of that part of the world.

Canadians recall the days of 1939 when Their Majesties came to Canada and toured the nation from coast to coast. Their tour inspired the people of the Dominion and gave them a higher sense of their great duties as a nation member of the British Commonwealth of Nations. To Their Majesties this tour must have been of great appeal as it is to everyone who has gone from coast to coast across this land of great expanses.

On that same occasion the King and Queen paid their memorable visit to President Roosevelt and the people of the United States, through which their progress was a triumph as Britain's rulers won acclaim everywhere they went in the great Republic.

King George and Queen Elizabeth and their daughters have given a service of devotion to the British people and the peoples of the Empire which won them the admiration and praise of that great organization of free states and peoples.

As His Majesty withdraws from public appearances at this time on the advice of his physicians to recover his health, he has the prayers and wishes of his peoples for his complete restoration to health. At the same time he has the satisfaction that he has been every inch a King in these days and has tirelessly served in his great office. The acclaim which the Queen and he have always received wherever they appeared before the public is the nation's and an Empire's compensation for the devotion with which the Royal couple have given their lives to their duties. Their Majesties have recently seen with the past few days the evidence of Britain's and the Empire's love and devotion to the family of the British Royal House as the people hailed the birth to Princess Elizabeth, of a son, the first grandson of Their Majesties.

The course of the King's recovery will be the subject of greatest interest to the vast millions who recognize in the King one of the greatest agencies of understanding and world peace and ruler of peoples who have been the greatest forces for brotherhood in history.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 24th., 1928

Baseball prospects for the coming season seem to be brighter than ever before. An enthusiastic meeting was held in the city hall last evening and the following officers were elected: President, Major Pratt First Vice-President, Ald. A.B. Collins; Second Vice-President Charles Hanna; Third Vice-President, Lou Howe; Secretary treasurer, George Griffin.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Boyle and Miss Corbett have returned home from Toronto where they spent several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gunn and daughter, Helen, and Mr. and Mrs. Hogle, Trent Road, are visiting friends in Toronto. They will also visit the Royal Winter Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Cain, West Moira Street, are spending a few days in Toronto.

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 24th., 1918

The ladies of the Tabernacle will hold their annual bazaar on Dec. 10th., afternoon and evening.

The R.T. Knitting Circle will resume their meetings shortly at the home of Mrs. Anderson, Hillside Street.

The Hon. H. J. Cody, Ontario Minister of Education, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Ontario Dairymen's Association in this city on the evening of Jan. 8th.

Mr. Sydney Twining has purchased from Mr. C. Mason, his barber business on Front Street.

Mrs. Harry Phillips has returned home from Chicago, Ill. where she visited her son, Mr. Parker Phillips.

40 YEARS AGO

Nov. 24th., 1908

Lord Roberts made a sensational speech in the House of Lords and called for the increase of defence forces in England.

Isn't it about time that the aldermanic candidates began to sit up and take notice?

The Ramblers Hockey Club held a meeting last evening to organize for the coming season. The Ramblers team won the junior championship in the city league last year and the boys are out to sustain their reputation this year. The following officers were elected: Hon. President, Pat Jennings; President Jack Dowrie; Vice-President, Ed. Thomas; Secretary treasurer, T. Dolan; manager, W. Britton; Coach W. Phillips; committee, W. Britton, S. Symons, Joe Connolly, Leo Barrett and Jim Barnum.

Dr. A. Yale Massey has returned here after a trip to Labrador.

The new tunics for the members of the local police force will be made by Messrs. Broderick and Company, local tailors.

Mr. Ed. Janeway was home from Colborne to spend yesterday with his parents.

Mr. William (Cap.) Robertson and wife of Battle Creek, Mich., are visiting relatives here. "Cap" is an old Belleville boy.

STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

THE CALAMITY OF LEARNING

"The highbrows are wrecking civilization."

A prominent leader of thought made this statement recently. He happened to be speaking particularly about educators. Pointing out the alarming fact that a boy or girl can go through school and college today and hear practically nothing about the relation of the Creator to his created universe, he declared that in our mad rush to learn scientific truth we often miss spiritual truth which is even more important. We demand to know the truth about everything, and then stubbornly refuse truth concerning spiritual matters because it does not fit into our scientific modes of thought.

The same tendency is manifested today in the field of religion. Many religious teachers, writers, and preachers are so anxious to be regarded intellectually respectable by modern scientists, philosophers, psychologists, and other leaders in secular fields that they will preach or teach nothing which might cause them to be looked down upon by the highbrows.

Religion is based on revealed truth. Some of this is amenable to scientific approach but most of it is not. It has to be taken on faith. Its soundness is demonstrated in its use — practically, not abstractly. In the scientific realm, seeing is believing; in the religious, believing is seeing.

FOR THE JOY ALONE

The mere making of money, or the gaining of a little fame or public acclaim, can never take the place of the pure joy that is experienced as we complete a job that represents something vital from ourselves.

It's the joy of achievement that is forever spurring us on to better deeds. There is a point beyond which even demonstrated ability cannot be accurately measured. There are no boundaries, however, able to hold the joy alone that is in public life has sacrificed large earnings that he might gain the joy and satisfaction of serving his fellow men and his country.

A friend of mine gave up a large medical practice in a Middle Western city that he might accept a position paying very little money, in a Chinese hospital. I asked him why he did this, and his reply was that he could serve thousands of human beings thereby, rather than a limited few — and besides this greater opportunity to serve gave him greater happiness.

People who get joy out of their workers. And they are the healthiest, as well. Our attitude toward life, our friends, and our work, has more to do with our health and happiness than we suspect. Admiral Peary once wrote me that the pure joy of having gained the North Pole meant more to him and gave to him a greater thrill than all the public acclaim and fame that followed. He did it because he wanted to do something that no one else up to that time had accompplished.

When we lose ourselves in the things that we do we become creative and constructive. The great of this earth have been those who served for the joy of it, and for no other purpose, though many a one has been unjustly judged for so doing. There is a satisfaction merely in having performed one's best, even when it apparently has not been appre-

Mackenzie's Column: King's Illness Of Much Concern ToCommonwealth

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

The King's illness is a matter of more than ordinary concern since it comes in the midst of a great crisis in the history of the Commonwealth.

It is at moments like this that Americans view the ruler in the light of a symbolic figure whose kingship is the chief bond which has held the vast Commonwealth together. That bond is a delicate one, whose strength comes largely from the character of the wearer of the crown.

King George is what my young son would call a "good guy". That's as apt a description as I could figure out for this willing and humble servant of his subjects, and I've been watching him in action for 32 years, much of that time at close range.

We can go further, I think, and say without exaggeration that he has rendered his country a greater service than perhaps any of his modern predecessors in the long line of British sovereigns. That's a sweeping statement, but I call your attention to this:

He was thrust willy-nilly upon the throne at a moment when Edward VIII and "The woman I love" had rocked it most dangerously. These are parlous days for kings, and Edward threw stones at the gods.

Doubtful Heritage

So George came into a somewhat doubtful heritage. To make matters worse Britain shortly was plunged into a Second World War, and this was followed by an economic crisis which has shaken her to the foundations.

A less steady and adaptable and loyal ruler could easily have completed the damage growing out of the abdication.

Goodwill and Energy

George attacked his job with goodwill and energy. And always by his side was his understanding and helpful Scots Queen. With her aid he even overcame a grievous impediment of speech so that he could make the addresses which are part of the King's duty.

Thus it is that, as this trouble of illness descends on the House of Windsor, we find the King and the Royal Family exceedingly close to the people.

The gravity of the King's malady is clearly shown by cancellation of his proposed tour of the Dominions. That has been regarded as a tremendously important mission, especially in view of the changes which the Commonwealth is undergoing. Only a major difficulty could cause abandonment of this trip.

Conservatives Will Not Enter Candidate

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader announced Tuesday his party will not enter a candidate in the Dec. 20 by-election in the Quebec riding of Laval-Two Mountains.

In the last session of parliament the seat was held by Liguori Lacombe, an Independent, who resigned to accept appointment as a makistrate in Quebec.

Mr. Drew noted in a statement that the riding will disappear in the redistribution which will accompany the next general election and said a contest at this time would be "nothing more than an indecisive skirmish for a representative position which will disappear before the election of next parliamnt."

"In th meantime, we will build up a vigorous organization to win the new constituency of which Laval-Two Mountains will form a part in the next general election."

The Liberals already have nominated a candidate for the byEelection. The C.C.F. has not decided whether to contest the seat.

Press Council May be Formed In Great Britain

London, Nov. 24—(CP)—Early in the new year British newspapers will learn whether they are likely to come under the watchdog supervision of a permanent Press Council.

Some time in February the Royal Commission on the press is expected to publish a report, based on evidence from scores of persons connected with newspaper and periodical publishing in this country.

No reference to establishment of a press council was made in the instructions given the commission when it was formed in March, 1947, but questions asked by its members indicated lively interest in the possibility.

The National Union of Journalists, which agitated for the commission inquiry, since has passed a resolution urging creation of a council on which newspaper owners and journalists' unions would sit under an independent chairman. The council would concern itself with preserving freedom of the press, promoting high standards in the conduct of newspapers and publicly expose distortion or suppression of news, but would not have the power to impose penalties.

The commission's views on the subject cannot, of course, be guessed. During the long inquiry, which had cost £11,000 ($44,000) to the end of August, a surprising number of publishers indicated willingness to accept some such body. The general feeling was, however, that other things—notably larger supplies of newsprint — must come first if there is to be an improvement in presentation of news.

Admits Error in Handling

More than one editor, admitting error in the handling of a story, blamed the newsprint shortage.

"In a four-page paper we have an average of just over 17,000 words per day, and I suppose that raw materials at our disposal each day is in excess of 150,000 words, so you can see the possibility of misjudgment or error," said Arthur Christiansen, editor of the Daily Express.

Besides sounding out witnesses on the advisability of a Presa Council, the Commission, headed by Sir Davis Ross, Provost of Oriel University, Oxford, was concerned with such questions as:

1. Are newspaper chains an unhealthy influence?
2. Do individual newspapers distort news?
3. Should newspaper men be specially trained?
4. Are certain people boycotted in the press?
5. Do advertisers exert undue influence on the press?

Most Accurate Reporting

H. R. Davies, a director of the Newspaper Society, which represents about 1,100 papers, claimed that group ownership had resulted in "the best and most accurate reporting of news" by smaller papers.

Individual charges of distortion generally boiled down to admissions of errors in judgment by editors working under extreme pressure or limited by space.

On the third question opinion was that good newspaper men are born rather than made. Top-ranking men in the profession as often start from office boys as from schools of journalism.

Some newspapers admitted that the names of certain personalities were banned from their pages. The usual explanation was that the papers had had "trouble" with them in the form of real or threatened libel suits.

The fifth question was answered by the newsprint shortage. Advertising space is so scarce that advertisers seek the goodwill of the newspapers rather than the other way around.

Northern Community Gets First Movies

Moosonee, Ont., (CP)—Northern—not neon—lights flicker over Ontario's most northerly moviehouse, and a visitor to this settlement, close to the south-west shores of icy James Bay, would find the place practically deserted two nights a week.

Just about everyone would be packed into the new school. Regular movies started showing there for the first time a few weeks ago.

Magistrate E. R. Tucker, travelling Northern Ontario outposts, felt entertainment was needed urgently for these isolated Canadians. He started a campaign to raise funds.

Moosonee residents raised more than $200, and $600 was collected from other sources.

Movie equipment was bought, delivered and installed in the school. Of the two shows each week, one is free. Admission money goes to renting pictures.

STUDENT, MOP THAT FLOOR!

It would be interesting to know what school you have in mind when you give the impression that student nurses must do floor mopping, wrote a registered nurse who seemed to be the director of a nurse training school.

Your reader who would like to know the name of the hospital where student nurses are required to scrub floors...I'll be glad to furnish her with the name of the hospital where my classmates and I often had to scrub floors, wrote another registered nurse who seems to be head nurse in a general hospital.

The former made her communication brief and cold—as befits a la-di-da lady speaking to an egregious one-horse-and-buggy character. The latter went on to say:

During the war and even at the present time the shortage of help was and is very acute. We have approximately three hundred and forty beds that are always filled, not to mention the beds set up in the corridors, ward waiting rooms and solariums.

Nurses, both students and graduates, work long, hard hours, often miss meals, only rarely get off duty on time, and are faced with tasks which seem impossible as far as time is concerned. They receive no extra pay for overtime and their regular base pay, the graduate's pay, I mean, is so low that a good many young women are deterred from nursing as a career.

I have mopped floors more times than I can remember, as a student nurse and as a graduate. Nothing back-breaking about pushing a mop, and it is up to the nurse to keep the room in order, the ward, the sickroom, the delivery room, the operating room.

If more people understood that there is much more to nursing than taking temperatures, administering pills or hypodermics and rubbing backs, perhaps they would not have so many patients with comparatively minor ailments admitted to hospitals, each thinking he or she is the only patient on that ward or floor that demands immediate attention.

(signed) ————, R.N.

Those patients with comparatively minor ailments who crowd the hospitals and selfishly take the time of the nurses would not be there were it not for the brass specialists that infest American medicine. Let a Yankee Wiseacre get a symptom or two that worries him enough to consult a physician, and he goes over the heads of the "local" or general practitioners, straight to the best advertised "specialist" in town. The "specialist", the Wiseacre thinks must know more than the doctor who makes no pretense, so the brass specialist, who hasn't the least idea what if anything the Wiseacre's complaint indicates suggests that the sick—the patient has better go to the hospital for "observation".

I say these victims of the brass specialists fill far too many hospital beds that should be reserved for sick people. But the Yankee public likes being humbugged in this way.

You know, folks, sometimes I find myself stopping, backing off a bit, and looking at what I have just written. As likely as not it looks pretty radical. You must think I am not only hard boiled but——.

But what do I care? Somebody has to tell the truth, and it will probably hurt me less than it would a real doctor to do so.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

The Overworked "Nerves" Hokum

Please send pamphlet about the Gray Sickness. I have a burning in my mouth so much—doctors tell me it is nerves. (Mrs. L. W.)

Answer—"Nerves" my eye. Burning in mouth, sore tongue, difficulty in swallowing some solid foods, cracks at corners of the mouth are common manifestations of nutritional deficiency anemia—the Gray Sickness. For pamphlet on Deficiency, Anemia —Gray Sickness send stamped self addressed envelope.

Eczema

Bothered with eczema for five years and have found no relief. (J. C. McL.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope for pamphlet on Eczema. In many cases of chronic or recurring eczema the condition seems to be due to calcium shortage, especially weeping eczema. It would do no harm at any rate to follow a high calcium diet and take a daily supplement of calcium and vitamin D for a few months. Send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet The Calcium Shortage.

Head Noises

Grandmother complains much of head noises—she says it sounds as if a tractor were running through her head. (L. G.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet on "Deafness and Tinnitus."

Cramps in Legs at Night

My sister suffers terribly from cramps in legs and feet nights. (R. H. C.)

Answer—Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet on Adult Tetany and Growing Pains.

WEDDINGS

WIGGINS—MILLER

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, was the scene of a very lovely wedding, on Monday, November 22, at 3 p.m., when Margaret Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Robert Miller, Belleville, was united in marriage to Stanley Charles Wiggins, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wiggins, Belleville, with the Rev. J. G. Hornsby officiating.

A background of banked ferns with white and yellow chrysanthemums made a lovely setting for the ceremony.

Mrs. Morley P. Duff provided the traditional music, with the "Liebestraum" before the ceremony, and other beautiful selections during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in a white moire taffeta gown, styled with bouffant skirt and fitted bodice, tapering sleeves pointed at the wrist, and scalloped neckline outlined with Chantilly lace. Her fingertip veil of embroidered net was held in place by a coronet of matching taffeta with scalloped edge, and she carried a cascade bouquet of Talisman roses, and large white 'mums, with a sprig of heather from Scotland.

Miss Barbara Miller, Kingston, and sister of the bride, was her only attendant, and wore a gown of yellow taffeta, designed similarly to the bride's with an open crown wide brimmed matching hat of taffeta, and carried a nosegay of bronze and yellow baby 'mums, centred with yellow roses, with streamers of narrow yellow satin ribbon.

Mr. William Dawson, Belleville, was groomsman and Mr. John Miller, brother of the bride, and Mr. David Marcus, of Queens, Kingston, were ushers.

The reception was held at the "Golden Acres Inn", where the bride's mother, gowned in grey crepe with claret-red accessories, and corsage of deep red roses, assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a gown of beige crepe, with wine accessories and corsage of American Beauty roses, received the many guests.

The happy couple left for a wedding trip to Montreal, Quebec, the bride travelling in a dress of Hunters green, topped with a muskrat coat, with accessories of matching green. She wore a corsage of white gardenias.

Upon their return they will reside in Belleville.

London Designers Making Spring Hats in Saucy Styles

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP)—British teenagers accuse London milliners of lack of variety.

"We'd rather go hatless," they chorus.

"After the spring shows," retort the designers, "you'll have to think of another excuse. Just look at all the variety in the cloche - bonnet arrangement alone."

In modern version of Regency, Second Empire and Victorian styles, spring models combine charm and glamor with prices suitable to the teen-age pocket. And most 1948 models are in "all-year-round" design.

One cloche-bonnet style in apple-red wool felt, with side quill and navy veil, has a pointed "Pinocchio" crown. Another, in old gold, has the ripples of its high "snail-shell" crown emphasized with narrow chocolate ribbon bands.

A visor-brimmed helmet style in two shades of mauve, has a fly-away felt bow at the brim base on the centred crown to give a youthful impudence.

For special occasions is the black ring velvet "Easter-bonnet" style with its side chou of soft mauve feathers.

Forward Movement

In adult styles the forward movement is creeping back in one or two designs, as in the stovepipe hat stolen from the dandy's wardrobe of yesterday. The severity of its high chimney crown and small roll-brim can be broken by a wide ribbon band of draped jersey.

Another forward movement is achieved in the romantic tricorne style reminiscent of the shovel-hatted parson of Rowlandson's 18th century water-colors, with its soft chenille-trimmed face veil or high side mount of aspey. Both these styles are perfect for the high-collared, cape-shouldered coats of today.

The turban, said originally to have been inspired by Napoleon's Egyptian campaigns and once part of English court dress, will be welcome for its sophistication. The intricate draping rises high over the back of the head or is draped and folded to give a "one-sided" look. Also traceable to the Napoleonic wars are the bicornes with their new oblique lines.

With high collars and capes calling the tune, hats are small and head-hugging for comfort and to balance the bulky silhouette of tent and bell-shaped greatcoats. Brims, never large, are pared at the nape of the neck for the small-headed look.

The cloche, darling of the 1920's is shown in a diversity of styles while berets, modish or informal, can be adapted to the coat or the mood of the wearer.

Merchants Expect Record Christmas in United States

By DOROTHY CAREW

New York, (AP)—Storekeepers in the United States expect this Christmas season to be the biggest ever.

Last December retail sales reached a staggering total of $12,641,000,000—the highest for any month on record.

This year merchants are confident December sales will be even better. Some forecasters set the gain at 10 to 15 per cent from a year ago, with sales about $14,000,000,000.

Besides the high level of national income, retailers give these reasons for their optimism: Supplies of goods are better and more varied than they have been in years; there are more eye-catching special gift items; prices are higher but values are better; and there is a greater range of moderate-priced gifts.

Merchants are stressing goods at moderate prices. For months, consumers have been turning aside from high-priced luxury goods. They realize that the day has gone when the consumer would buy a gift no matter what its price.

Competition is back in full force. Merchants have recognized that in their selection of goods. They also plan bigger Christmas promotions than in many years and plan to start them earlier than usual.

Manufacturers, too, have been giving more thought to the consumer. They have set out to develop new ideas.

Makers of toilet goods have come out with a wide variety of cosmetic kits, toilet sets and novelties.

Gift Packages Return

"There is a marked awareness of the value of Christmas-gift packaging among cutlery and kitchen-tool manufacturers," said the editor of a house furnishings trade publication.

Towel manufacturers again are offering Christmas-packaged gift sets, which disappeared during the war. Notion departments have everything from casual slippers to kitchen-bowl covers in gift garb.

With lingerie a favorite item for women, one corset company is introducing in time for Christmas a new blouse-brassiere in a new washable nylon velvet. A first-of-its-kind article, the company said, the garment can be worn as a blouse for daytime or evening.

"Practical gifts will dominate sales increases," said the International Statistical Bureau, private research firm, in a summary of the Christmas outlook. That idea is borne out in a survey of consumers in 31 cities by Sales Management, a trade magazine.

The poll showed that women are asking for household goods and clothing as Christmas gifts. Men list wearing apparel as their first choice. Beyond that, women list jewelry as their third choice, and automobiles are second with men. After that, men will take radio-television-phonograph sets.

"Only a resigned one per cent of the men want neckties, and perfume ranks just as low with women," Sales Management found.

Toy manufacturers expect sales to reach a new high at about $300,000,000. Toy makers say the supply of toys of good quality at moderate prices, is far greater than a year ago.

Mary Lo Wishart Wins Carter $100 Scholarship

Mary Lo Wishart, last year's student at Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School, has been awarded the 1st. Carter scholarship of $100 for Hastings, it has been announced by Mr. G. E. Currie, school principal.

Winner of the second Carter scholarship was Allen B. McBurney, also of Belleville, who gets $60, while third place was shared by James D. Airth of Belleville and Ann Nickle of Madoc, both receiving $20 each.

This is the 35th award of scholarships from the J. I. Carter estate of Sarnia. The scholarships are awarded for the highest aggregate marks on not more than 10 papers in the 1948 Upper School examinations.

During the past year students of Belleville Collegiate have been especially successful in winning scholarships, according to the school principal. Not including Carter scholarships just announced, the amount received by local students in scholarships amounted to a total of $4,050 for the past school year.

This pactable little Victorian mantle of wild mink has most surprising collar for such a midget-short model, and it does a fine fashion trick, as photographed, or pushed up in a face framing, modish high collar. And by midgets we don't mean the wearer, for six feet of handsome woman would look just dandy wearing it.

V.O.N. NEWS

"Dear Mary:

I have such good news. I am to go home at the end of the month!

Do you recall when I wrote you in those early months, when I was first told I had T. B., and would have to go to the "San." How absolutely discouraged I was? I had to wait until there was space available for me. During that waiting interval, I had to be quiet, to rest, and "do nothing". To "do nothing" was about as possible as taking a trip to the moon. There was so much that had to be adjusted in our home routine. Just how to do this took lots of organization, time and understanding. I don't know just what we would have done, had I not noticed in the paper one day, the nursing service the V. O. N. give. I called, and a V. O. N. came over right away. Taught our household how to carry on, how I could rest and do certain tasks as well.

Now, I have been pronounced able to go home. They never release you if you are in any way infectious, you know. However, I have to take care, nor can I do as I did before I became ill. I have to rest, and take lots of it. And I'm not worrying in the least about the future. For if the need arises, I know I can count on the V. O. N. for any nursing service. This knowledge, this security, helps to build up good health."

Call 1125. A V. O. N. will answer your need at once.

Woman Attorney Is No Stranger To Precedents

By MARIENNE IZSAK

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, (CP)—Its no longer "Men Only" at the Federal Communications Commission.

Miss Frieda B. Hennock, a New York lawyer, has been appointed first woman member of the Commission, the United States government agency which regulates interstate and foreign communications by wire and radio.

The job for her, as for the six male members, lasts seven years.

Miss Hennock is not a stranger to setting precedents. At 21, she became the youngest member of her sex admitted to the bar in New York state. In 1941 she became the first woman member of the third oldest law firm in the country.

"I learned in the practice of law that there is nothing time and energy can't accomplish," she says. She admits she wanted the F.C.C. appointment, and she worked hard to get it.

Although she has invaded a masculine sphere, Miss Hennock is anything but masculine in appearance or tastes. She is attractive, with brown eyes; short, curled blonde hair, and a sun-tanned complexion. She likes heavy gold jewelry and feminine clothe.. Her hats are usually frivolous.

Born in Poland

But she's different from many of her sex in that she freely admits her age. She was born 42 years ago in Poland, one of eight children. Her father was a banker and brought his family to the United States when she was six.

Upon graduation from high school, Miss Hennock decided on a law career: She financed evening study at Brooklyn Law School by working days in a Wall Street office.

Immediately after receiving her law degree, she opened her own office, handling criminal cases, civil cases and estates.

Her biggest thrill was when President Truman appointed her to the F.C.C. she says. She is frankly enthusiastic about her new work—although she receives far less money than she did from her own practice. Zealously she is studying electronics and engineering in her spare time.

"Every day opens new vistas," she says. "Who knows what wonders may open up tomorrow?"

ZION W.M.S.

Mrs. Clifford Ketcheson opened her home to the W.M.S. for the November meeting. Twelve members being present. Mrs. Bunnett had charge of the worship service which also included a reading on Remembrance Day by Mrs. Rowe. Mrs. Percy Ray gave the Study Book. First part was taken in dialogue with Mrs. Rowe making a strong appeal for each one to read the Study Book of the Year, "West of the Gorges". The treasurer gave her financial report and mentioned the Thankoffering of $12.55.

Each member gave a brief report of the rally held at Plainfield. Plans were made for Rotary banquet. Mrs. Bunnett as chairman of Nominating Committee presented the slate of officers as follows:

President, Mrs. Roy Sills; 1st Vice President, Mrs. Elmer Tufts; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. Ralph Sills; Rec.-Secretary, Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson; Corresponding-Secretary, Mrs. Percy Ray; Press Secretary, Mrs. D. Cranston; Treasurer, Mrs. Clifford Ketcheson; Temperance Secretary, Mrs. Herb Casey; M. & M. Secretary, Mrs. K. Denyes; C. Stewardship Secretary, Mrs. H. Beatty; Supply Secretary, Mrs. H. Sloan; Mission Band, Mrs. Cranston and Mrs. Tufts; Baby Band, Mrs. Ralph Sills; Pianist, Mrs. Percy Ray; Assistant, Mrs. Floyd Ray; Finance Com.: President, Treasurer, Mrs. Rowe; Mrs. R. Sills; Group Leaders, Mrs. C. Ketcheson, Mrs. H. Beatty, Mrs. Ralph Sills, Mrs. K. Denyes; Nom. Com., for 1949, President, Secretary and Mrs. Sarles.

C.G.I.T

The meeting of the C.G.I.T. was held in Tabernacle United Church, November 23, with the worship service based on the theme "Brethren of Christ", which was followed by the installation of officers for the year.

Mrs. I. J. Muirhead, alto soloist of the church choir led the C.G.I.T. in a delightful singsong for which she was graciously thanked by Mrs. Harback and invited to return at any time and lead in the singing.

Afterward the girls went to their various groups and continued on their projects.

Last week the meeting was held in the homes of the girls of each group.

Successful Bazaar

A very successful bazaar was held in Rose-Lowery Hall, on Wednesday afternoon by the Friendship Group of the W.A. of the United Church.

Stockdale ladies of the United Church, report that the bazaar held there Friday night was an overwhelming success, bringing in over a hundred dollars to the church. In addition to the fine contribution to the people of Stockdale and to their church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lohnes were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Smith, on the occasion of Mr. Lohnes' birthday.

Y.P.U. Meets

The Young People's Union of the United Church held their weekly meeting in the Rose-Lowery Hall on Monday evening. In the absence of President, Phyllis Davis, Vice President, Claude Moran, was in charge of the meeting. After a call to worship, a hymn, and a short business session, Mr. Moran turned the meeting over to Dorothy Laver, Christian Culture convener. She had one of the best programs of the year prepared,: and it was much enjoyed by better than thirty young people present. Connie Reid sang a solo and Marion Free played a number of Chopin selections, following a reading on Chopin's life by Miss Laver. Rev. Mr. Lackey took charge of the Bible Study and discussion.

Following the meeting, the cast of the play the Young People's will be presenting in the new year, remained for a rehearsal.

Lions Club Meeting

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Frankford Lions Club was held in the Community-Memorial Hall. A fine dinner was enjoyed by all.

In the business portion of the meeting, reports were given by the various committees. The Trent Valley Juniors, taken over by the Lions Club was one item of business, and it was decided that each member of the Lions Club would take his turn in supervision of the boys' meetings, according to a roster which would be drawn up.

"Booster" prize for the evening was won by Lion Floyd Ketcheson, in a baby bottle contest. This little stunt brought much applause from the onlookers. Lion Charles Jucker provided the entertainment highlight of the evening, as he showed colored slides of Switzerland which he had taken and gave a very interesting running commentary.

Plan Charter Night

The Lions Club are expecting a gala affair for Charter Night, December 1. A large number of fine prizes have been donated for the evening. To mention a few items which some lucky winner will take home, Gair Company of Canada has donated $10.00 in groceries. An electric kettle, worth approximately $14.00 has been donated by Frigidaire, of Kingston. Canadian Canners has donated a case of corn. There are many, many more such prizes which will be given away at the bingo and draw to be run that night.

Card Party

The card party, held by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, Monday evening, was a very successful event. Prize winners: ladies, Miss Olive Rose; 2nd (tie), Mrs. Wilmott Rose, Mrs. V. Macaulay; men's, Albert Rose, Robert Marsokus.

Femininity is the keynote of the present mode, and even simple suits or coats are dressed up with pretty, but always harmonious accessories. The simplest of suits, for instance, will take on quite an air with a beautiful glove which might well be this pair imported by Aris from France. Of real glace kid in shadow tinted aqua they're whipstitched in red and daintily patterned with matching beads.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Correct to Use Red or Green Ink on Christmas Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

It is considered correct to use colored ink when signing your name on Christmas cards, or even when writing a message as well as your name? I have just bought two large boxes of Christmas cards that I like very much: they are quite large, have the word "Greetings" in bold red script on the cover, a narrow red border, and the second sheet is blank. I'm going to write my own messages on the inside pages . . . and I thought it would be nice to use red ink, to match the script and the border.

Cynthia S.

Yes, indeed it's correct to use colored inks for signing and writing messages on Christmas cards. . .the season's own colors, red and green, are festive and "merry". For the past several years and again this year, one of New York's smartest shops supplies a bottle of either red or green ink (your choice) with their "famous three" special designs of Christmas cards that are to carry handwritten messages.

Questions From the Groom's Mother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My son is to be married next month, a formal wedding in church, with wedding breakfast and reception following. What entertaining must I do for this occasion of his wedding?

2. My younger son is to be the best man for his brother. Are his duties merely the usual ones?

3. The best man's wife wishes to give a shower for the bride-to-be, at my house. Would this be correct?

M.H.

1. There is no must for your entertaining for the bridal couple. But of course it is a charming and generous plan for the groom's parents (or parent) to give some kind of party as a gesture to those most closely concerned with the wedding . . . the groom's parents have so little expense and social responsibility concerning the wedding that they usually feel that it would be nice for them to make a bow by giving a party as their contribution to the festivity of the wedding. Quite often they give a luncheon or dinner two or three days before the wedding, and quite often they choose instead to give the rehearsal dinner or supper. But whether or not they entertain for the couple depends entirely on their choice and on their circumstances.

2. Yes.

3. The very fact that you are, obviously, uncertain about this plan means that you too "wonder" if the relatives and friends of your family will misinterpret this idea. When a member of the bride's or groom's family give a shower for her, it certainly gives the appearance of a too-too-carefully planned "promotion" for gifts. And when the shower is given at the house of the groom's mother this impression is intensified. However, there are no exact rules about shower-giving . . . .and it is for you and your daughter-in-law to decide about the good taste of this shower-plan.

Open Salt Dish

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one has an individual open salt dish above one's place at the table, is it proper to dip celery or radishes into the salt in this dish?

R. S.

No. Put some of the salt on your bread-and-butter plate, or, when there isn't this plate, on the rim of whatever plate is in front of you. Then dip the celery or radishes or whatever into this supply of salt.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Pleasing Voice is a Charm Factor

Nothing so destroys the illusion of beauty as a shrill, raspy voice. You'd think, when considering the great efforts of the sisters to make themselves attractive, that people were all eyes. Many overlook the fact that people have ears that a charming voice makes a strong appeal. They use line, color and artistry to make the pulchritude grade, but their efforts mean little if the voice is the kind that gets on listeners' nerves, makes them want to run away.

There are loud speakers, mumblers, droners, squeakers and those who run their words together. Suppose, my friend, that you test your voice, just for fun. Read aloud, as if you were reading to someone. Listen carefully. When you say "this afternoon" do you give every syllable its true value or do you say something that sounds like "thzafernun"? When you greet friend do you ask "H'aryah"? That is the lazy way of talking, a sloppy way of speaking.

Let us hope that you pronounce "ing" completely, not drop the final g, a common habit and a bad one. After you have read for five minutes, read the same thing over in a whisper. That is a good means of forcing distinctness of delivery.

In your normal voice, pronounce the vowels clearly and slowly. Let the lips have free, full motion. Too many individuals mouth their words and then swallow them with the results that the listener is forever asking them to repeat.

What should be done if the voice is unpleasant? It can be improved under professional supervision. In almost any university there will be found a class in training the speaking voice. Bad vocal habits can be overcome. Men and women in all walks of life, of varying ages, all intent on self-improvement, attend these classes.

A shrill voice destroys the illusion of beauty

One condition to be avoided is tension. Tension makes for ugly sounds. The nervous, high-strung girl usually talks too rapidly, pitches the tone too high. Too much volume is the cause of loud speaking. One should remember that ladies do not shout, no matter what happens. It just isn't being done by nice people.

Learn to sing. That is one way to have a good speaking voice. A woman who sings well is usually one who gets on in social and business life, who radiates the energy and enthusiasm that are the necessary qualities of charm. So says an expert along these lines.

He says also that a good vocal exercise is to repeat four words—near, nair, nurr and nir—over and over again. They get the sound board into action.

Fashion Flashes

INCREASING in importance is the combination of black and brown. Black woollen is used for a handsome suit with a jacket that has a wide swing from narrow, natural shoulders. A nutria collar rises high from a bib-inset of the fur, and ties with corded streamers of the wool fabric.

A QUAINT LOOK marks many of the clothes designed for subteeners. Pretty and demure is a one-piece dress which has a two-pice look. Skirt is of red, white, black and green plaid taffeta and is full and flaring with bands of the fabric. Weskit-like top is of black faille with tiny bow and cuffs of the plaid taffeta.

TRAVELLERS just dote on the outsize bag, which is so smart, too, for wear with town or country tweeds. Calf-skin, leather-lined, is used for a handsome, roomy bag which has a double braided top handle with several inner compartments and slide-fastened pockets. An outer envelope-type pocket has an easy-to-open leather tab fastener.

CERTAIN TYPES look just wonderful in a hat of the Spanish sailor type. A beauty is of black velours appliqued with roses all around the inner brim, which dips down at one side and curves slightly up on the other side. Two silver braid tassels dip from the lower side.

NOTHING SO BEAUTIFUL as a delicate filmy white evening frock. White chiffon is used for a beauty that has a crushed effect at the waistline and crystal beading embroidered over the bustline of the strapless bodice. A sari of the chiffon is attached at the left shoulder.

BACK WITH A BANG is the sweater for both day and informal evening wear. A pretty evening sweater is in white, black or pastel wool chenille with an embroidered pendant motif in rhinestones, pearls and sequins.

Women's Activities

PHILLIPSTON-ZION W.I.

Last Thursday with the President, Mrs. Delbert Rowe, presiding, twenty-five members of the Phillipston-Zion W.I. met at the home of Mrs. Richard Cranston.

During the business period it was decided that the gov't grant be used for educational purposes in connection with the girls' work. The committee in charge of the recipe books reported that they would be available as Christmas gift. The secretary, Mrs. Percy Ray stated that this year over 300 pounds of food parcels had been sent to a sister institute in England.

Conveners of standing committees reported on their work. Mrs. Arthur Ray invited the ladies to hold their Christmas meeting in her home.

The topic "The Sign Post Pointing to the Cross on the Hill is Our Way to Peace", prepared by Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson was much enjoyed by all present. She recalled the fact that "sign posts were set by our forefathers to direct our paths and it is our duty to erect sign posts for future generations. Today we are in a world seething with fear, but let us work together regardless of color, race or creed, for the way of prayer, sacrifice and the Cross is the way of peace. May peace reign in the heart, mind and soul of everyone in our community and may our sign posts point to the Cross on the hill."

Highlights of the Area convention convened in Belleville were given by about seventeen members who were present. The prevailing thought was that this year's convention was the best that has ever been held in the Area.

The district president Mrs. T. Leslie spoke on the subject, "Needles and Pins". She told the history of the needle from the days of Pompei and said that in 1880 the first needles were made by machinery. Needles have claimed their place as one of man's most important inventions. Pins were originally produced from feathers and thorns. An exhibit of a lovely windbreaker made from used material with new knitted sleeves, collar and waistband, was displayed to an interested audience and a pattern left for use of the members.

Mrs. Leslie closed her remarks with this thought "When we help others we also help ourselves".

A reading on "Peace" was given by Mrs. Murney Simmons.

In serving refreshments Mrs. Cranston was assisted by Mrs. Arthur Ray, Mrs. Roy Sills, Mrs. Murney Simmons and Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson.

CARE: "Can we send a parcel through Care to an individual family in Budapest, Hungary? Is this city under Soviet rule? Would a parcel of used clothing or food get through? What restrictions are there on parcels?"

Post-office authorities tell us you can send a parcel to Budapest, Hungary, with every possibility of its getting through. You can send up to 20 pounds in either food or clothing. Postage on 10-15 pounds is $3.50, 15-20 pounds, $4.50. Care (193 Sparks Street Ottawa), will send food parcels for you at $10. This sum includes both food and postage.

CARROT CURLS: "How can I make carrot curls? I've tried different ways, but without any luck."

Scrape whole firm carrots. Using a potato peeler, shave thin slices lengthwise. Put in water for three hours. They curl like a new permanent.

EPILEPTICS: "Is there a hospital in Ontario for epileptics? Where can I get information and help?"

The out-patient department of any hospital can give your patient an examination and advice. According to the experts, the case of these patients is not considered nearly so hopeless as it once was. Special hospital for these cases is located at Woodstock, Ontario. Application is made through your own doctor.

MASONITE TABLE TOPS: "My pantry table top, shelf and work table are all masonite. How can I keep them good-looking?"

Say the building experts, rub frequently with warm linseed oil. After a week, your tops are ready to face the world.

BARTER SHOPS: "Are there any barter shops in Toronto now?"

The Trading Post, 2123 Yonge Street, looks like what you want.

WATERPROOFED MITTENS: "Is there any method of waterproofing home-knit woollen mittens?"

Says wool expert Mrs. Jervis Allan, there is no waterproof wool. Before the war manufacturers produced showerproof wool, but it was not satisfactory.

Catholic Church Still Strong Influence Against Suggestion Of Immorality in Books

Montreal, Nov. 24 (CP) — On Quebec's booming French publishing front a risque novel is given less chance of becoming a best seller than one from which the spice has been blue-pencilled.

"The (Roman Catholic) church still a strong influence against any suggestion of immorality in books," says Robert Charbonneau, publisher, critic, poet and novelist. Thus a book likely to incur a church ban is almost certain to wind up among the also-rans.

Nevertheless competition today waxes hot among 20-odd publishers for all literature by home-brew talent.

Says the dapper Montreal publisher: "All this competition is a far cry from the days when a writer couldn't crash into print unless he had the means to have his work published. Oftentimes the mortgaging of his salary was part of an agreement reached with a publisher."

Mostly Religious Nature

The preponderance of literature continues to be of a religious nature. But more and more novels, historical books and poetry are finding their way to the market from the pens of a promising lot of some 40 new writers. Montreal is the hub of French publishing activity in Canada.

Among established Canadian writers whose works remain much in demand, Charbonneau lists: Rinquet (Dr. Philippe Panneton), novelist; Leopold Desrosiers, historian and novelist; Chanoine Lionel Groulx ,Jean Burhcesi, assistant provincial secretary, and Victor Barbeau, historical writers.

Charbonneau rates Jean Jules of new authors because of his Richards as the most promising and who campaigned throughout "creative ability." A young veterthe war overseas, Richards' first novel, "Neuf Jours De Haine, (nine days of hate)," had a war theme and created a sensation.

Other talented young writers include Roger ILemelin whose first novel about Quebec City, "Au Pied De La Pente Douce," was translated into English under title of "The Town Below;" Alain Granbois and Anne Hebert, poets; Germaine Guevremont, novelist; Robert Rumilly, provincial historical novelist; Abbe Felix Antoine, lyric novelist, and Roger Duhamel.

The perennial best-seller among French-language novels continues to be "un homme et son Peche (a man and his sin), the story of a miser by Claude Henri Gringon, Mayor of Ste. Adele, Que. The runner-up: Gabrielle Roy's Bonheur D'Occasion," the English translation of which sold under title of "The Tin Flute."

Airmen Check Power Lines

Winnipeg (CP)—Garry Quirk, 26-year-old former R.C.A.F. officer, has turned his fondness for aircraft into a position with the Manitoba Power Commission.

Quirk is believed to be the only airman in Canada to cover trouble spots on power lines by air.

With his observer, Stephen Putnam—who was shot down over Germany during the Second World War and held prisoner of war for 18 months—the young pilot each month puts in 25 hours of flying time and covers more than 1,000 miles checking and spotting irregularities.

He looks for broken insulators, sagging wires, lightning damage and leaning poles.

It takes about a week for him to cover his district, which runs west of Winnipeg to the Saskatchewan border and south of Dauphin, Man., to the United States border.

He usually makes his patrol within the first two weeks of each month, using a light, two-seater aircraft.

Sherman Young Returns from Bush For 49th Time

Picton — When Lt.-Col. Sherman Young of East Lake returned with a deer from North Hastings it marked the 49th year that he has been successful. This year he was accompanied by his son George, 16, who also got a fine doe. Other hunters reporting good hunting were Laverne Wright, George Wilkinson and Les Williams. They brought back three black bears and two deer from the Boulter district.

To Spenser Team

At the Kinsmen Club meeting Monday night, it was decided to sponsor a bantam O.A.B.A. basketball team and to seek the co-operation of the Rotary Club in sponsoring a juvenile hockey league for boys. Films were shown by Nesbitt McKibbon.

C. R. Widdifield, K.C., gave an address to laymen at St. George's Church, Trenton, on Sunday.

Britons Buy Pythons For Household Pets

London (CP)—Pythons at £5 ($20) a foot are popular garden pets with Britons and demand far exceeds supply, says Mrs. Ellen Stone, a Chiswick, London, livestock dealer.

Best customers for her reptiles are mostly "bright young things" says Mrs. Stone, "and if it wasn't for the strict government import restrictions the country's python population would soon increase by several hundred per cent."

The pet craze is not only for pythons, but for crocodiles, monkeys and bears. Mrs. Stone, who has been a livestock dealer for 16 years, imports livestock ranging from elephants to birds so small that 1,000 of them are transported by air from the East in crates measuring three feet by one foot.

During the year she has imported two elephants, 27 bears, 1,000 monkeys, many of which she sells to zoos and to showmen, and hundreds of birds which find a ready sale in Belgium and Holland.

MONSTER HALIBUT

One of the largest halibut ever caught was one weighing 700 pounds and nine feet long.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1948

WHEATAGREEMENT MAY BE REVIVED ALMOST AT ONCE

U. S. Government Prepared to Make Long-Awaited Announcement

Washington, Nov. 24 — (CP)— The International Wheat Agreement, scuttled last year by the United States, may be revived almost at once, an informed source told The Canadian Press Tuesday.

He said the United States government is about to make a long-awaited announcement calling the 11-country wheat preparatory committee into session.

Among delegates to the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, there is speculation that President Truman will make it official in his address this afternoon to that world body.

The arrival in Washington of Charles F. Wilson, Canada's top wheat expert, lent weight to reports that the wheat pact is ripe for new discussion.

A spokesman for Canada's F.A.O. delegation said last week: — "Mr. Wilson will not be called from Ottawa to Washington unless there are going to be discussions on a new wheat pact."

Wilson, chairman of the preparatory committee, confirmed to reporters that he came to Washington in that capacity.

The committee includes Canada, the United States, the United Kingdom, Australia, France, Egypt, Brazil, Indian and Benelux countries.

A full-dress conference of the 36 countries which wrote the pact of last March can be brought together only on the committee's authority.

That agreement, approved by Canada and Australia, provided for those countries and the United States to export a total of 500,000,000 bushels during the next five years. The 33 importing countries were to have paid prices ranging from a $2-a-bushel maximum to minimums of $1.50 in 1948-49 and $1.10 in 1952-53.

The F. A. O. conference agenda does not call for discussion of wheat-agreement possibilities. But general interest in the question has made that a major topic of informal exchange of views.

H. H. Hannam of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said last week he thinks the conference will "miss the boat" if it does not "stress the importance" of early completion of a wheat agreement.

Sauerkraut, Pork Are Delicacies At Dutch Festival

Kitchener, Nov. 24 (CP) — Sauerkraut and pork—a delicacy of delicacies to residents of this district—was enjoyed to the full Tuesday night at the Dutch festival sponsored by the Kitchener Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The program—first of what is hoped will be a yearly event—saw almost half a ton of sauerkraut and pork consumed by the hungry gathering of more than 500 persons.

It is expected that by the time the three-day festival is completed about two tons of the stuff will have been consumed.

Dr. J. J. Talman of the University of Western Ontario was guest speaker. He told the audience that Waterloo county owes its agricultural and industrial importance to its early immigrants.

He reviewed how German, Dutch and Mennonite settlers had made this community and surrounding district "second to none" in Canada.

Rustling Activities Not So Extensive As First Indicated

Cornwall, Nov. 24. (CP)—Activities of an alleged cattle rustling ring in Matilda and Mountan townships have not been as extensive as early reports indicated, provincial police said today. Police said their investigation has disclosed that many cattle reported as stolen had strayed to neighboring farms and were being returned to their owners.

Three men charged with cattle theft are scheduled to appear in court at Morrisburg Friday. They are Kenneth Jackson, Kemptville; George Armstrong, Spencerville and William Hayes, Iroquois.

Major Fighting Rages on Plains Near Nanking

By HAROLD K. MILKS

Nanking, Nov. 24. (AP)—The Chinese government today continued to win the Battle of Suchow on paper, but neutral sources believed it was steadily losing vital ground to hard-pressing Communist troops.

Not even the pro-government newspaper reports agreed on what was happening. It was certain only that major fighting raged on the plains commanding the approach to this capital, less than 200 miles south of Suchow.

Air Support Hampered

The weather, a key factor, turned against the Suchow defenders. Increasing cloudiness hampered air support such as helped Nationalist ground troops blunt the Communists' opening offensive last week.

Shanghai, 165 miles southeast of Nanking, showed its worry. Chinese officials discussed "total-war" plans. British authorities set up three safety zones for their women and children. United States army planes evacuated American school children from Kuling, China's Summer capital, 460 miles west of Shanghai. Other aircraft evacuated 20 Americans from Hankow, 585 miles west.

The main fighting appeared to have erupted on the eastern flank of the Suchow battle. Neutral observers doubted government reports of successes in this area.

Encirclement Broken

One Shanghai newspaper said the Communist encirclement of Nien-Chuang, 33 miles east of Suchow, had been broken. Another said the Nationalist garrison had withdrawn to the northwest after undergoing night-long bombardment by red artillery.

Shanghai observers were convinced that Nienchuang and the eastern Suchow flank was lost to the government.

Production of Cheese Far Short of Contract

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Canadian cheese producers this year are 20,000,000 pounds short on their contract with the United Kingdom, Clifford Graham, Ontario deputy agriculture minister, said Tuesday. He told a deputation from the Ontario Cheese Producers Association and Marketing Board. C. N. Heath, secretary of the association, said later that cheese production in Ontaroa, which supplies 75 per cent of Canada's cheese, was down by 25 per cent compared with last year.

FOG BLANKETS BRITAIN

London, Nov. 24 — (AP) — Continuing deep fog over most of the British Isles kept air traffic at a virtual standstill Tuesday night. The only major airport still open was Prestwick, Scotland. The fog for a second day blanketed all of England except the south and southwest.

SENTENCED ON CAR THEFT CHARGES

Woodstock, Nov. 24 —(CP)— Rene Proulx, of Sudbury, David Mancuso of Sault Ste. Marie, and James Tesky of Camp Borden, all 16, today were each sentenced to two years in reformatory on two charges of car theft. The youth, woh escaped from a training school, pleaded guilty to the charges last week.

Refloat Carrier 14 Months After Collision

Cornwall, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Barring accident, the coal carrier Milverton will be refloated today, 14 months to the day after she collided with the oil tanker Translake in the St. Lawrence River west of Morrisburg. Twelve of the Milverton's crew died in the resulting explosion and fire that swept the vessel's decks.

Strong currents and bad weather have hindered salvage work, but officials said Tuesday they were confident the vessel would be removed from a rocky ledge in the Rapide Plat and towed to shore. The forward holds of the half-sunken ship have been pumped free of water. For the past two days salvage men have been working on the afterend, pumping out the engine room. Pumps with a capacity of 1,000-gallons per minute have been used.

Clayton Dunnett, former chief engineer of the Milverton, assisted in the salvage work Tuesday, aiding a diver who sealed off openings to the engine room.

Captain L. Beaupre of Kingston who is in charge of the towing job which will follow the ship's release, estimated it will take at least a week to tow the Milverton to Iroquois, a distance of about five miles. It is planned to use cables fastened to the mainland to inch the vessel along the shore line.

Amateur Robber And Brutish Thug Shot by Police

Detroit, Nov. 24 — (AP) — Police Tuesday night shot and killed an amateurish bank robber and a brutish thug on Detroit's East Side.

The incidents took place only minutes apart while scout cars swept through the streets in answer to alarms.

Engaging their man at close quarters, two officers killed Thomas James, 36, automobile worker, in a branch of the National Bank of Detroit.

Two bank employees, working late, said James hurled a brick through the door window, climbed in unarmed, and demanded money.

Within moments police arrived after one employee pressed a burglar alarm, and James was shot to death in a furious struggle.

Police said James had been released the previous day from a hospital where he had been under mental observation.

In the second fight officers slew Bishop Bellamy, about 20, Birmingham, Ala., stopping a hold-up and assault spree.

The apparently crazed gunman was trapped after he had crashed a stolen automobile into a filling station. From behind a parked car he exchanged half a dozen shots with policemen before officers' fire took his life.

Earlier Bellamy robbed a cab driver, forced his way into the home of Harold Vroom, 39, motor freight executive, and held up a used-car lot.

Both Vroom and his wife, Cora, 36, were beaten. Bellamy fled in their automobile, which he later wrecked.

Bill of Rights for Children Proposed By World Health Organization

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

Geneva, Nov. 24 (AP)—Adoption of a far-reaching world bill of rights for children has been proposed to the United Nations by the World Health Organization (W.H.O.)

The draft bill is expected to come before the next general assembly of the United Nations. It declares it is "the duty of every nation" to meet the obligations detailed in the seven articles of the bill.

The W. H. O. draft proposes:

1. "The child must be protected irrespective of considerations of race, nationality, religion, political belief, economic or social condition.

2. "The child must be given the means requisite for his normal physical, mental and social development, including the provision of adequate housing, nutrition and education. The child has a right to the best care of his health, which is a state of complete physical, mental and social well being, and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity.

3. "The child should live within a family in an atmosphere of love and security, which is incomparably the best environment for his development. If the child is deprived of a normal family life, the community must provide him with a home which produces as nearly as possible a healthy family environment.

4. "The child that is hungry must be fed. The child that is sick must be nursed. The child that is physically, mentally or socially handicapped must be helped. The maladjusted child must be re-educated. The orphan and the waif must be sheltered and succored. The child must be the first to receive relief in times of distress.

5. "The child must enjoy the full benefits provided by social welfare and social security schemes. The child must receive, through the discovery and development of his individual abilities, a training which will enable him, at the right time, to earn a livelihood and to conduct his life so as to become a responsible member of society.

6. "The child must be protected against every form of exploitation and must be provided with adequate recreation, leisure and rest.

7. "The child must be brought up in the consciousness that his maximum of achievement and satisfaction will be gained by the devotion of his energy and talents to the service of his fellowmen. The ability to live harmoniously in a changing total environment is essential to the healthy development of the child, and must be promoted. The child must be given opportunity and encouragement to assume social responsibilities at first in his family and later in the local, the state and the international community."

The draft, as drawn up by the W.H.O. did not specify up to what age children should be regarded as entitled to the rights conveyed by the bill.

FAIR ROUNDING OFF BEST PROGRAM IN ITS HISTORY

Champion Livestock Parade and Auction of Beef Cattle Closing Features

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP) — The Royal Winter Fair will close up shop tonight on its 20th annual show — in many ways the biggest and best yet.

With the completion of judging Tuesday, the show today will put its championship livestock on parade, auction off much of its beef cattle, present two more of its famous horse shows, and finally pull the curtains in a brief closing ceremony.

Tuesday's horse show was climaxed by the faultless performance of a six-year-old chestnut gelding jumper — Wings — who romped off with the rich $1,500 President's Jumping Stakes donated by the fair's president, J. A. Northey. Veteran steeplechase rider Bill Owens rode the horse to its win for W. R. Ballard of Weston.

The crowd's biggest applause, however, went out to a 16-year-old rider, Doug Cudney of Winona, who guided his father's horse, Nortino, to third place over the difficult course with only one point in errors against him. Thirty-eight older riders didn't do as well.

The Olympic - champion Mexican team left no doubt of its jumping superiority as Col. Humberto Marlles, team captain, rode Arete through an errorless performance in the "Knock-down and out" stake. It was the seventh successive win for Mexico's jumpers in as many nights.

One Canadian team member, Lieut. W. R. Ballard, jumped to a close second place behind the colonel. Only one hurdle knocked down by his mount, Skip Across, barred him from tying the winner.

The show's grand championship for two - horse heavy - draught teams was decided at Tuesday night's show. Two high - stepping Clydesdales entered by Zimmerman Bros. of Tavistock, ended the undefeated record of Belgions from Meadow Brook Farms of Rochester, Mich., to take the award. The American entry won the Reserve Grand Championship.

An American entry, Kalamara Honey from Green's Farms, Clarence, N. Y., won the $1,500 Phillips Saddle Pony Stake.

Best Clydesdale Mare

Tuesday's final judging of thoroughbred horses gave a Grand Championship Rosette to Lilac Grove Belle, shown by Alvin Taylor of Grand Valley, as the show's best Clydesdale mare. Taylor's entry also won the Mark Duff Memorial Shield for Clydesdales.

Four more grand champions were chosen from a line-up of purebred beef cattle.

Grand championship females in their breed were: Herefords — Silver Trophy, owned by W. A. Crawford-Frost, Nanton, Alta.; Shorthorns — Maxine Duchess, owned by T. G. Hamilton, Innisfail, Alta.; Aberdeen - Angus — Pardella M., owned by Witham Farms, Romeo, Mich.; dual-purpose Shorthorns — Cheapside Betty Anne, owned by H. M. Atkinson, Nanticoke.

Auctions Tuesday of beef and swine carcasses brought average prices of 56 cents a pound for beef, 61 cents for Wiltshire sides and 51 cents for hog carcasses.

Ribbon - winning carcasses brought top prices. Grand champion beef carcass shown by William G. Jackson and Sons of Downsview, brought 90 cents a pound; the champion Wiltshire side entered by Preston Hooker of Cooksville, sold at $1.40 a lb., and the winner of the Todd Trophy in swine carcass judging, William Pinkney and Sons of Cooksville, received $1.25 a pound for the carcass.

Championships were announced Tuesday in the judging of the following breeds of sheep:

Southdown rams and ewes — Don Head Farm, Richmond Hill; Shropshire rams and ewes — F.W. Gurney, Paris; Lincoln rams — John Gardhouse, Weston; Lincoln ewes—Leeland Farms, Highgate; Hampshire rams — David E. McDowell, Mercer, Pa.; and Hampshire ewes — R. B. Glaspell, Bowmanville.

STRATFORD LOOKS AHEAD

Stratford-on-Avon, England — (CP)) — An official of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre announced that during the 1951 Festival of Britain the theatre will present a series of Shakespeare plays.

Single Transferable Vote Gets Bare Nod Over Present Method Balloting in Federal Elections

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (CP)— Should Canada change her federal voting system?

Members of parliament are split, but among those answering a Canadian Press questionnaire the single transferable vote got a bare nod over the present method.

Aim of the single transferable vote is to prevent election of a candidate on a minority vote. The present system allows a candidate to be elected in, say, a three-way fight with only 34 per cent of the total vote.

The single transferable vote figures to get around that situation this way:

In multiple contests, the elector marks first, second, third and fourth choices, to the number that there are candidates. If on the first count no one has an absolute majority, there is a second count. The tail-end candidate is dropped and the other choices on his ballot are assigned among the survivors. This process goes on until one candidate comes up with a clear majority, or until the transfers have been exhausted.

Used In Alberta

A form of the single transferable vote has been used in Alberta provincial elections since 1926 and in Manitoba since 1927.

But some authorities here say the Alberta-Manitoba system can —and often does—defeat the purpose of the transferable vote.

In those provinces, the voters are not required to list preferences beyond the first. A valid ballot need only show a first choice; after that, the elector can indicate subsequent preferences for any, all or none of the other candidates.

This opens the way for "plumping"—voting only for a first choice.

And, say federal authorities, plumping can bring about two results:

1. Election of minority candidates.

2. Election, as a rule, of the contestant in the lead on the first ballot.

Where these developments take place, they reduce the transferable system in effect to that of the orthodox one-vote-to-an-elector method.

Australia has a more rigid single tranferable vote system. There, electors must list choices for all candidates or the ballot is spoiled.

That of course, eliminates minority election. Also, records show that the candidate leading on first-choice votes is defeated more often on the subsequent counts.

Breakdown of Opinion

Here is the breakdown of opinion by the 83 out o 245 members of parliament who answered The Canadian Press questionnaire:

The present system for Dominion elections is favored by 37; single transferable vote, 36; proportional representation with all seats multiple-member, 2; a combination of the single transferable vote and proportional representation, 4; no opinion, 4.

The choice by parties:

Liberal (30)—existing system, 18; transferable vote, 9; transferable-proportional combination, 1; no opinion 2.

Progressive Conservative (34)—existing system, 11; transferable vote, 22; no opinion, 1.

C.C.F. (9)—existing system, 6; proportional representation, 2; no opinion, 1.

Social Credit (6)—existing system, 1; transferable vote, 2; transferable-proportional combination 3.

Independent (4)—transferable vote, 4.

The King Will Carry Out Normal Routine

London, Nov. 24. (CP)—The King today continued to carry out his normal routine of state business at Buckingham Palace despite a circulatory ailment.

His Majesty's condition was described by the Press Association as an "affection of the arteries themselves which impeded circulation of the blood".

It was first disclosed in an announcement from Buckingham Palace early Tuesday which said the ailment forced cancellation of the royal tour of Australia and New Zealand which was to have begun in January.

While the King continued to carry out his normal duties, Sir William Gilliatt, gynaecologist, and Sir John Weir, the King's physician, who have been in attendance on Princess Elizabeth since the birth of her son, Nov. 14, called today at the palace. The Princess and the infant Prince are, it is understood, making satisfactory progress.

In future the King may use a wheel chair to rest his legs it was made known informally Tuesday.

The official announcement about the King's condition said, "The King is suffering from an obstruction of the circulation through the arteries of the legs which has only recently become acute." It was signed by the five attending physicians.

KILLED BY SEWER EXCAVATION CAVE-IN

Oshawa, Nov. 24 (CP) —Nicholas Tenawski, 53, was killed today when a sewer excavation caved in. Tenawski was struck with a piece of clay and macadam mixture weighing more than 100 pounds.

SAMPLES OF ORE ARE IDENTIFIED AS PITCHBLENDE

Uranium Ore Observed In Fractures at Theno

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP)— A report on samples of radio-active mineral taken from Theano Point in the Sault Ste. Marie district by Ontario Department of Mines' geologists says the samples were positively identified as pitchblende, a uranium ore.

The mines department report says pitchblende was observed in fractures which range in width from mere seams to as much as two inches and in one place a patch of six inches width was observed. Most of the visible occurrences of pitchblende and most of the fractures giving high geiger counter readings were found in the pegmatitized granite of the footwall.

The three samples submitted to the provincial assary office gave a uranium oxide equivalent as follows: Sample No. 1, 61.6 per cent; No. 2 63.8 per cent; No. 3, 56.3 per cent.

The reportin geologists state that until further exploration of the discoveries is carried out, it would appear impossible to state whether the occurrences constitute bodies of commercial grade. Disclosure of the find recently was followed by reports prospectors rushed into the district to stake claims.

Three Lancasters Seeking Missing British Freighter

Halifax, Nov 24 (CP) — Three RCAF search and rescue Lancasters took off from their Greenwood, N.S., base today to search for the British freighter Hopestar, missing some 400 miles southwest of Halifax.

Coast Guard officials at New York said the freighter carried a crew of 37 and was travelling in ballast.

United States Coast Guard planes combed part of the vast area Tuesday in a hunt for the 5,287 ton vessel, last heard from Nov. 13 when she reported "heavy weather damage." The Hopestar sailed from Newcastle Nov. 2 for Philadelphia.

A United States aircraft based at Agentia, Nfld., also searched the Atlantic Tuesday in the area where the Hopestar was last reported but had to return to her field after developing engine trouble.

The four Lancasters slated for search today returned to Nova Scotia from Newfoundland only Tuesday after taking part in the quest for a United States B-25 twin engined bomber, lost on a flight from Washington to Stephenville, Nfld.

United States planes based at Harmon Field hunted for the B-25 from Nov. 12 —when she lost radio contact with the naval base at Argentia until Monday.

As the search progressed, chances of finding the bomber —with six men aboard—dimmed and United States authorities gave up the task Tuesday night.

Police Set Up Road Block To Effect Recapture

Provincial Police from the entire Bay of Quinte district converged in the Napanee area this morning as officers set up a road block in an attempt to recapture Douglas Thompson, 24, who this morning escaped from the county jail at Napanee.

The escape took place at nine a.m.

Details as to how the escape was effected were not known by local police who were informed only that Thompson was being detained on a fraud charge. Thompson was stated to have no fixed address, but it was stated he had previously lived in Hamilton.

Provincial Police from Belleville, Kingston and detachment offices in the district were notified of the break and road blocks were set up but at late morning the escapee had not been recaptured.

Alexanders Regular Visitors to Ottawa's Tiny Anglican Church

By JEAN LOVE GALLOWAY

Written Specially for Central Press Canadian

Ottawa—There is a little Anglican church on Mackay St., back of Rideau Hall here, which has been the Vice-Regal place of worship since Confederation and has long been linked with royalty.

Their Exellencies, Viscount Alexander of Tunis and Lady Alexander regularly attend morning service and take communion at St. Bartholomew's along with the other parishioners, as have the Governors-General of Canada for more than three-quarters of a century.

When they are home from school in England, the Alexanders' three children sit with their parents in the pew at the front right of the church especially reserved for members of the Vice-Regal party. Visitors at Rideau Hall usually go along with Their Excellencies for Sunday worship. The first pew bears the royal coat of arms, and is furnished with five chairs.

Many governors-general were accustomed to reading the lesson in this church, though Viscount Alevander does not do so. Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, U.K. high commissioner is a frequent reader. Members of the families of the squires of Rideau Hall have taught in the Sunday school and sung in the choir down through the years.

No Tourists

Like most churches these days, St. Bartholomew's is not crowded. There are no tourists because this church is well off the main thoroughfares. The interior is dark, rather shabby, but mellow and pretty.

The congregation is used to seeing the King's representative come to church and with members of his party, aides and lady-in-waiting, file up the aisle at one minute to 11. There is no gold braid, pomp or ceremony about the presence of the people from Rideau Hall. They come, as do the regular parishioners, simply to worship God quietly and reverently at the nearest church of their faith.

Rev. A. T. Carson, formerly from Smith's Falls, now rector of St. Bartholomew's, will tell you that their execellencies are among his best parishioners as far as attendance and helping at church functions are concerned. "The Alexanders are devoted to their church," Mr. Carson says.

Viscountess Does Her Share

The Women's Parish Guild at St. Bartholomew's often call on one of their own members to officiate at their bazaars Lady Alexander. I was at a bazaar she opened there recently. Like any good church worker, the viscountess is ready to do her share of the work. She contributes articles for the sale, makes a speech and then, buys things.

Opening the event in the old parish hall, where the first stone was set in place on St. Bartholomew's Day, 1867, her excellency said: "I think that special mention should be made of the ladies who have put so much effort into the making of these articles and the decorating of the booths.

"The raising of money for the care and upkeep of the church is the work of the congregation," Lady Alexander continued. "They can relieve the rector of financial difficulties which will leave him free to look after the spiritual needs of our members. I am happy to open this bazaar and in so doing, wish you the very best of luck."

Her excellency then visited each booth chatting with the women in charge and commenting on the quality of articles for sale. Lady Alexander's first purchase was a blue baby's sweater and bootees. Then she bought a box of home-made chocolate fudge and two blue print aprons her own size. Then she had tea with Mrs. C. D. Howe, president, and the guild executive.

Located close enough to Rideau Hall to enable its residents to walk to church, the quaint old St. Bartholomew's parish hall was finished in 1867. The church itself was not completed until 1868 when Viscount Monck, Canada's first governor-general, laid the cornerstone.

Lady Victoria, the daughter of Earl Grey, G.G. 1904-11, was buried from St. Bartholomew's. In 1931, the infant son of the Earl and Countess of Bessborough was baptized at the altar. His sponsors were His Majesty King George V, with Sir Robert Borden, formerly prime minister, as proxy, and Lord Stanley, with Viscount Duncannon as proxy.

Royal Furnishing

Many of the church furnishings were donated by royalty. The altar cross and candlesticks were a gift of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. The large east window was given by the Duke of Connaught and was unveiled by the Prince of Wales, Nov. 19, 1919. The communion vessels were donated by Viscount Willingdon .The Duke of Devonshire presented a Bible. The altar desk was given by the Marchioness of Dufferin. The three bells were a gift of Princess Louise.

Two aged flags hanging in the chancel, the Union Jack and the Cross of St. George, were made by the hand of Princess Patricia. The Earl and Countess of Aberdeen gave the organ.

Many tablets in the church recall famous names. This is where the King's representatives have worshipped God for more than 80 odd years. Mingling with the rest of the congregation in praise and prayer are princes, dukes, marquises, earls, viscounts and barons.

I was at St. Bartholomew's for morning service on Sunday and I was struck by the way this church continues to wear its regal ties quietly, affectionately, and in an atmosphere of humble reverence. This is indeed a credit to the congregation and to those responsible for its direction.

St. Bartholomew's is truly a holy place what breathes the simplicity of greatness in the heart of the nation.

The Robinson triplets, George, Donald and John, will celebrate their fifth birthday at Brantford tomorrow. They will be joined at the party by sister Marylin, who will be 7 on Nov. 26, and sister Linda, 3. They are children of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Robinson. (Chandler)

A ROYAL PRINCE

WAS BORN IN BUCKINGHAM PALACE

To celebrate this event a gift of Heinz Baby Foods will be sent to all

CANADIAN BABIES

BORN ON NOVEMBER 14th, 1948

Many proud parents were thrilled that the long-awaited birth in their family occurred on the birthday of an heir to the British throne.

In almost a thousand Canadian homes that day, was born a young person who, although not of royal lineage, will soon be ruling all hearts. "His Majesty — the baby" is a title fondly bestowed on every cuddlesome infant who assumes the divine right of demanding attention "fit for a king".

To insure the utmost care for these lucky November 14th babies, Heinz will send their mothers a gift of Heinz Baby Foods, a handsome Baby Calendar and a booklet on "Your Baby's Diet".

If your child first opened his eyes on the little heir's birthday, simply send his name and his mother's name and address to: H. J. Heinz Company of Canada Ltd., 420 Dupont Street, Toronto 4, Ontario.

Dieppe's Heart Beats Strongly for Canadians

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Dieppe, France (CP)—Canadian liberation forces won for Canadians a lasting welcome in Europe. Almost to the point of embarrassment this is true in Dieppe, scene of the famous 1942 landing operation.

The Channel city's affection for Canada seems to the visitor to amount to a second loyalty, bidding, almost to engulf the first. The 1942 raid, in which thousands of Canadian soldiers were taken prisoner and more than 900 killed, has left unforgettable memories.

The waterfront up which the raiders stormed and streets along which some managed to infiltrate bear countless reminders.

There is a monument to Canadian troops generally on Canadian Square at the beach. There are memorials to individual regiments. There is the Avenue of the Canadians—lined with maples—and there is Canadian Crossroads, farthest point of the Canadian penetration that August morning.

Every week the play of the waters on the sands discloses some new memento of the Canuck assault: rusted and corroded rifles a ndBren machine-guns, shredded pouches and web belts, and cartridge casings.

When recently a monument was dedicated at nearby Pourville-sur-Mer three rifles were piled at its foot, a Bren lying before them—all four more decrepit than Waterloo relics, so effectively corrosive is the salt spray.

Dieppe Legend

Already the raid is part of Dieppe legend, as well as history.

Dieppois tell, with appearances of believing the alleged incidents themselves, of three Canadians who fought their way to the Cafe des Tribunaux on the main square and there paused for a beer each before retiring to the beach for evacuation by boat.

Even more admiringly they talk of the "Canadien" who fought his way to the square and disappeared into one of its tall, gabled houses for a few minutes' dalliance with a local belle.

Eyewitnesses to both occurrences are said to exist but they defy discovery.

"Canadien" is a magic word, unlocking welcome and hospitality so abundant as to be embarrassing. Sometimes European cordiality is suspect of self-interest but here it is patently open and sincere.

Canada has become so much part of the city that it has changed its coat of arms—the city crest is now inset in a maple-leaf background. When a bronze replica recently was presented to Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan the mayor said he hoped it would give the premier the feeling that the heart of Dieppe beat as strongly for Canada as for France.

Rawhide Ferguson Shatters the Air Down Halifax Way

By C. RAE CORELLI
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Halifax (CP)—When "Winston Churchill" recently solemnly asked Mount Allison University's student body to rise in deference to a song "dear to the hearts of all true Mount Allisonians," collegians weren't expecting "The Hot Clarinet Polka."

That, apparently emanating from staid studios of the BBC, is what they heard.

The pseudo London-Sackville, N.B., broadcast, carrying the equally pseudo voice of Britain's wartime prime minister, was just one zany caper of a University of Western Ontario graduate who has been storming Maritime CBC listeners for more than a year.

Imitator - announcer - gagman Max Ferguson was born in Durham, England, of Irish parents. Recently, at the invitation of Mount Allison's dean of men, he arranged the super-hoax and sprung it at the men's annual banquet from an adjoining room. Convincing sound effects of a trans-Atlantic hook-up by engineers and Max's rendition of Churchill's forceful voice had students completely fooled.

Ferguson nursed a desire to be a teacher practically from his infancy. Everyone from his brother to his own teachers discouraged the ideas, so about the time he cast his first ballot, Max gave up the desire.

He graduated from U.W.O. at London, Ont., in May, 1946 and went to work for station CFPL, London, as an announcer. After joining the CBC a few months later, Max moved to the Maritimes. He found himself sole heir of a morning hill-billy show over CBH Halifax—one of CBC's outlets in this area.

Thus was born "After Breakfast Breakdown" under the questionable direction of Max (Rawhide) Ferguson. He shattered the status quo of recorded hill-billy shows by adopting a voice reminiscent of the most creaky Kentucky mountaineer, panning the life out of records and performers alike and giving his own monologue skits their radio premiere.

Listeners Surprised

Many listeners get the idea Rawhide is a cantankerous, old, tobacco chewing guy with a beard. They are surprised when they see the 23-year-old announcer who is good-looking, dark-haired and slim and who is also a meticulous dresser.

An imitator—he can reel off 20 characters and 12 dialects — Max became a one-man cast and four of his mythical personalities frequently reappear on the show. He once played 11 parts in one skit.

Instead of becoming a flop, Rawhide Radio Show has soared to unbelievable success. He averages 2,00 fan letters a month on a non-give-away program.

Listeners—some of the most attentive are Newfoundlanders — have launched a flood of gifts — socks, fudge, cigars, cakes. Among overtures have been several marriage proposals. "Two of them were really bonafide, I think," says Max with a grin.

His theme song "The Hot Clarinet Polka" has proved the downfall of thousands of trusting listeners.

One morning at program time, "Churchill" made the airwaves once again. In a soul-soothing address, he assured Canada that England would stand by her in her hour of misfortune. The drawn-out reference to "misfortune" was the "Hot Clarinet Polka."

One of the best ad-libbers in the business, Max staffed the homecoming of Canada's Olympic team without any preparation.

Canadian Aerial Photograph Crews Help With Floods

H. DENT HODGSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa (CP)—The Royal Canadian Air Force maintains two squadrons each summer on a gigantic mapping program which will eventually cover the whole of Canada.

Although the primary object of the aerial survey is to map the Dominion and give air force personnel operational experience in the northland, the squadrons may be called on to perform other vital tasks.

Because of the disposition of crews in the north they are available for rescue work and to render assistance in an emergency.

Biggest non-photo assignment handled by the squadrons during the 1948 season was in connection with the British Columbia spring floods and the prairie floods in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Planes were diverted from their regular duties to fly sandbags to the B.C. flood area and also to photograph the flood areas to facilitate better control.

The service took a set of photos of the entire Fraser valley, which were flown to nearby Rockcliffe, processed and returned to flood control headquarters in B.C. during one weekend.

This summer one squadron started to photograph all of southern Alberta. These photographs eventually will provide a basis for flood or irrigation control planning.

Discover Land

During operations, survey crews discover new bodies of land, or locate others which have been incorrectly mapped in the past.

Some idea of how little is known of the far north came in the last few years as new islands were discovered and drastic alterations were made to existing maps.

Several years ago, for instance, it was discovered that Akimiski Island in James Bay has been completely reversed since it was first mapped. Its north end on existing maps was where its south end should be.

Last summer saw the discovery of two new islands in Foxe Basin which added more than 5,000 square miles of territory to Canada. The larger of the islands was about three times the size of Prince Edward Island.

Geographers were a little amazed at the discovery, in view of the fact that ships have been visiting Foxe Basin for several hundred years.

But it was no surprise to air crews of the photo squadrons, who realize the lakes, rivers and coastline on their charts of the Arctic are completely unreliable.

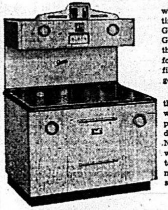
Gurney
STOVES HAVE

"the new look" TOO...



Over 100 years ago, when Grandma was setting up housekeeping, Grandpa bought her a Gurney. Then, as now, the name Gurney stood for dependability and efficiency in cooking ranges.

Today in the place of the black iron model of which Grandma was so proud, stands a new modern Gurney. It has the New Look — gleaming white porcelain, so easy to keep clean — these new, economical, labor-saving features:

—Large oven equipped with a modern heat indicator.
—Polished cooking top.
—Large utility drawer for storage.
—Modern, rustless, chromium trim.
—Whether you burn coal or wood, the firebox can be readily adjusted to either fuel.

Don't struggle along with an old-fashioned stove. See the latest Gurney coal or wood-burning models.

EASTERN WINNERS—You'd hardly think the white-helmeted ball carrier, Tony Golab, would manage to cross the Tiger goal line with Frankie Filchock (7) and another Tiger player blocking him. But Ottawa's Golden Boy made Rough Riders' third touchdown on this third quarter play in the East-earn Canadian final at Ottawa Saturday. George Festeryga (25) is backing the Tiger line but Rider players managed to push Tony over. The final score in the sudden death game to decide which team would meet Calgary in the east-west final was 19-0 for Ottawa. (CP Photo)

Riders Go into Canadian Football Final With Six All-Star Players in Lineup

Toronto, Nov. 24 — (CP)—The stars will be out in force when Ottawa Rough Riders meet Calgary Stampeders for the Dominion football title at Toronto's Varsity Stadium Saturday.

The Riders placed six players on the 1948 Eastern Canada All-Star team, announced Tuesday night. Seven Calgary Stampeders previously were voted positions on the Western Canada League's dream team so that means a total of 13 All-stars may be on the field at once.

Football writers and coaches in eight cities, who selected the all-eastern squad for The Canadian Press, also chose a second team and awarded one more Rough Rider — quarterback Bob Paffrath — a berth on it.

For the first team, they practically chose the Big Four All-star team intact. The only change was to replace Paffrath with the Ontario Union's Frankie Filchock, ace playing coach of Hamilton Tigers. Besides the six positions awarded Ottawa, they picked four Montreal Alouettes and one Toronto Argonaut — Joe Krol.

With the vote weighted to give equal voting strength to each city, the only player drawing a unanimous nod was Tony Golab, Ottawa's line-smasher having one of his greatest of many great seasons. The 32-year-old halfback, who has scored six touchdowns in Ottawa's three playoff games, polled the full 396 points.

Calgary Tops by One

The other Riders voted first-team status were Howie (Touchdown) Turner, snap Don Loney, outside Bert Haigh and two American linemen playing their first Canadian season — Eddie Michaels and John Wagoner.

Calgary can top this stellar array by one. The western champions' all-stars are quarterback Keith Spaith and fullback Paul Rowe, both unanimous choices, snap Chuck Anderson, linemen Bert Iannone, Johnny Aguirre and Dave Tomlinson and outside Woody Strode, Spaith's ace pass-catcher. Spaith, Anderson, Aguirre and Strode are U. S. imports.

The four Alouettes catching places on the all-eastern starting squad are Virgil Wagner, Montreal's consistent ground-gainer, linemen Herb Trawick and Lloyd (Bronco) Reese and outside Ralph Toohey. Wagner and Trawick have been selected every season since coming to Canada three years ago.

Selected Fourth Time

Krol is the only player with a better record. Crashing the lineup for the fourth successive season even though Argos finally relinquished their crown.

In all, seven U. S. imports were picked for the first team — Wagner, Turner, Filchock, Michaels, Reese, Wagoner and Trawick.

Paffrath was the only American to catch a place on the second team. The selectors chose five from the University of Western Ontario, two each from University of Toronto and Hamilton Tigers, and one each from Argos and Toronto Beaches Indians

Fox Absorbs Terrific Beating From Ted Lowny

Buffalo, Nov. 24 (AP)—Billy Fox, 22-year-old boxer from Philadelphia, was unconscious in hospital early today after absorbing a terrific beating Tuesday night in Memorial Auditorium.

He apparently suffered a head injury, a physician said. The hospital said his condition was not critical.

After losing a 10-round split decision to Ted Lowry of New Bedford, Mass., Fox left the ring under his own power. In the dressing room, he suddenly complained of being ill and lapsed into unconsciousness.

Fox, whose impressive knockout record twice earned him title bouts with the light heavyweight champion, Gus Lesnevich, was not knocked down during the bruising battle ,but received a heavy pounding for most of the fight.

Lowry weighed 176 1-4 and Fox 160 1-4.

Promoter Charges Breach of Contract

Oakland, Calif., Nov. 24 (AP)—Fight promoter Jimmy Murray threatened today to sue Rocky Graziano for $50,000, charging breach of contract for "running out" on his Dec. 1 fight with Fred Apostoli.

The promoter began refunding money to the customers after confirming from Irving Cohen, one of Rocky's three managers, that the formr middleweight champion wasn't coming back west.

Graziano disappeared from his Oakland hotel last Thursday. His friends at first thought he was out on a conditioning walk but he showed up at his Brooklyn home a couple of days later.

In New York Tuesday night Cohen declared his fighter is "mentally depressed" and "is in no condition to enter a ring."

"Rocky is as ill-equipped to fight today as he would be if he were suffering from some physical ailment," Cohen said.

Murray Tuesday night signed a tough local middleweight, Earl Turner, to fill in for Graziano against Apostoli on the Dec. 1 card.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Belleville Rockets roaring into mid-season form came from behind last night to stave off the bid of a determined RCAF Flyers team and nudge out a 4-2 victory. It was by far the best game of the season and if the buckaroos keep producing this brand of hockey the rafters will groan from overweight of hockey population. It was slam-bang crowd-pleasing stuff with the players of both squads willing to mix matters when the opportunity presented itself. Four major penalties were handed out by Referee St. Louis and the tempo carried at high speed throughout the melee.

Joe "Pavlowa" Nolan, who can waltz or Rhumba with an occasional dash of the Samba thrown in "was the hero of the piece last night from this observer's point of view. Joe turned on the heat, got himself in high gear, threw away the brakes and flitted hither and yon over the ice like a jungle-juiced butterfly. His third-period goal which turned the tide of battle to the Rocket's side was a honey. He took off from behind his own goal-line and skating beautifully ripped through the Flyer front line, rounded the defence in one of the best streamlined pieces of travelling seen here this season, and completely fooled the Flyer goalie. The "mob" gave the slim defenceman a well-deserved hand. He earned it.

But Rockets had a close shave. The Flyers were a completely different squad to that which skated on the ice last week. Messrs. Christie, Ault, Sargent, Middleton et al are rounding into shape and had one time last night had the game in the bag. They led 1-0 at the end of the first period but the Rockets roared back to notch two in the second. Then came the torrid third with a couple of bouts of fisticuffs. Christie, one of the Flyer's shining lights last night evened matters near the halfway mark, then came Nolan's fine effort and the game was tucked away. Trussel ripped through the Flyer line four minutes later to fire home the clincher goal and Rockets trotted off with their second consecutive win under their belts. Both teams performance was vastly improved over that of last week, and future games will see some stirring action.

Napanee Legion threw a scare into the strong Trenton Hockey Club in the second game and very nearly snatched defeat out of victory. Although the game was not played with the same fast tempo that featured the Flyers-Rockets clash, it was nerve-tingling at times as the desperate Gibbardville crew tossed caution to the winds in an effort to crash the win column. They were down 2-1 at the end of the second period and roared into the lead with two goals in the third. They were on the right side of the ledger until the fourteen minute mark when Johnson scored the equalizing goal and Schmidt ripped home the winner on a fine effort with but sixty seconds remaining on the clock. Play was fast and exciting especially in the third period. Both goals had narrow escapes and during that last heat, Bridgeman literally picked the puck off Walt Gerow's stick at the goalmouth when the rangy winger was close in for the kill.

Flyers roar right back into the hockey picture tomorrow night when they meet Ed Haynes' Cobourg "Ghosts". In the nightcap the Trenton Hockey Club face a real test when they meet the strong Northern Electric squad. The games and teams are improving nightly and next week should see all squads rounded into form. If the games last night are any criterion, fans are in for two night's of razzle-dazzle hockey here next week.

Scoring the first goal in a hockey game is a mighty important achievement. Records reveal that in the first 34 games played in the National Hockey League this season, the team that notched the first counter usually finished the tussle on the right end of the score, according to the N.H.L.'s Ken McKenzie.

Detroit Red Wings and Boston Bruins, the two top teams in the National circuit, are lucid examples of the importance in pumping home the first tally. Boston has won all five games in which they scored the first goal for a perfect 100 per cent. Detroit scored the first goal seven times, winning six of these and drawing the other, for an 85.7 percentage.

Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers have won 50 per cent of the games in which they scored the first goal. In eight contests the Habitants won four, lost two and tied two. Rangers were he first club to flash the red light in four games, winning a pair of these and dropping the other two.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks have each won 33.3 per cent of the games in which their squad tallied the initial marker. Leafs won two, lost two and tied two in the six games they scored the first goal. In the three times that Chicago dented the cordage first, they won one and lost two.

Boston's record in which they scored the first goal is unimpeachable. However, in the five games that the opposing club scored first, the Bruins only won twice, while losing two and drawing once. This means the Beantowners won 40 per cent of the games in which the opposition flashed the light first.

Detroit, who boasted an 85.7 percentage when they tallied the initial goal of the contest, only won 25 per cent of their games when the opposing team scored first. Out of four such games the Red Wings won once and lost three times.

Montreal and Chicago have each won 33.3 per cent of the games when the opposing team scored the inaugural counter. In three games Canadiens won once while losing twice. Chicago won three and lost six of the nine games in which their adversaries broke into the scoring column before them.

In the five games that their opponents scored before they did, Toronto Maple Leafs were only able to win once, while dropping four for a winning mark of 20 per cent. New York Rangers were defeated three times and drew four times in the seven games that the "other team" scored first.

London, Nov. 24 (CP)—Shades of those paper-backed thrillers in which sports heroes alternately fight off Dirty Dan, the King of the Underworld, and score breath-taking goals that win the championship for the good old team.

A few hours before the scheduled kick-off of a Division I soccer match between Liverpool and Newcastle United, Jackie Milburn, star centre forward of the United, telephoned his manager to say, in the best Frank Merriwell tradition:

"I've been kidnapped and I'm being held for ransom."

Police were called in and police-beat reporters got set for the story of their lives.

The kidnappers turned out to be students of King's College, Newcastle. During their annual breaches of the peace are committed by the scholars, "rag-week" when all sorts of they had held Milburn in an effort to raise funds for a college charity.

He was released unhurt just in time to get over to the stadium.

The sequel: just what you expected. Final score: Newcastle 1; Liverpool 0. Only scorer: Milburn.

Sir Arthur Elvin, who staged the Olympic Games, wants to bring six-day bike racing back to Britain.

Difficulty is to get a track. There are plenty of good Belgian, Dutch, French and Italian riders itching to get back to Britain where before the war they used to pack in the six-day addicts.

Lumber and labor shortages make it tough for Elvin, but few think they'll hamper him for long. If anyone can think of a way to stage the promotions he wants to, it's Sir Arthur, just about the smartest operator in big-time British sport.

It's likely one of his right-hand men in the venture will be Piet van Kampen, familiar to Canadian and United States cycle bugs in the golden days of the sport. Piet rode in 165 six-day events and was on the winning team 30 times.

Billiard-table trick perfected by Leon Geoffard, veteran Belgian star, reported in the magazine Billiard Player:

Geoffard sits a partner on a chair on the table and plays the ball with great force through his legs against the top cushion. The ball rebounds over the partner's head back to Geoffard who catches it in his hat.

Last season Lincoln City won the Third Division North championship without one full-time professional on their books.

Winnipeg, Nov. 24 (CP) —The University of Manitoba football team has been losing more games and taking such shellackings in the last few years that local pigskin enthusiasts are beginning to think it isn't funny anymore.

The Manitoba Bisons, members of an American colleges exhibition loop, went through this season without a victory.

Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan asks—"Didn't it ever strike you as ironical that the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who play Canadian football should build their team around a nucleus of American imports while the University of Manitoba Bisons, who have adopted the U.S. code, rely wholly on homebrew players who know next to nothing about the American game."

No Way Out

Athletic scholarships are no way out, Allan continues.

If the University of Manitoba is to continue playing American football and Allan sees no alternative, the obvious solution to the problem is for Bisons to grow their own "American imports" by fostering American football in the schools.

Allan feels support could be found from the Manitoba Schools Rugby League.

Everything to Gain

The M.S.R.L. has nothing to lose by such a move. Once it had adopted the U.S. code, it would be the natural inclination for its graduates attending the university to turn out with the Bisons rather than play junior football or to catch a place with the Blue Bombers.

"It's all very well to poke fun at Coach Acey Olson's Bisons," says Allan, "but just imagine how a hockey coach would feel if the first thing he had to do was teach the kids how to skate."

It was Joe Nolan's night to howl last night and the rangy Rockets Juniors defenceman turned in a brilliant performance. He scored what proved to be the winning goal against Trenton Flyers on a neat third period effort. Doug Bone, Rockets forward helped himself to two assists in the Rockets 4-2 victory.

Oshawa Generals Blanked 2 to 0 By Marlboros

(By The Canadian Press)

The cellar-dwelling Toronto Marlboros Tuesday night registered their third win in 14 starts in the junior Ontario Hockey Association loop by blanking the second-place Oshawa Generals 2-0.

In another junior tilt, Toronto St. Michael's College Majors took sole possession of fourth place by beating Galt Rockets 3-1.

Marlboros fought through a scoreless first period, notched 2 counters in the middle frame and went through a pointless third period. George Armstrong drove in from the blue-line, took a pass from wing mate Bobby Hazard and outguessed the netminder Steve Hendry for the first Toronto goal. Seconds later, Murray Orenke put Marlies ahead 2-0.

Dusty Blair, Ted O'Connor and Red Stephen were Oshawa's chief threat on the forward line, while Frank Sullivan and Don Hall turned in good defensive chores.

St. Michael's battled to a 1-1 deadlock in the first period, led at the end of the second and counted once more in the third in their game against Galt. Don Rope, Tim Horton and Con Bonhomme each counted singletons for the Irish. George Beecham scored Galt's only goal.

Beecham got Galt off early in the first period scoring when the game was only two minutes old. Horton got the equalizer near the end of the period, when he beat goaler Sommerville on a lone rush.

Con Bonhomme tallied the only second-period goal and Rope counted in the third.

Toronto Marlboros clash with Hamilton Tigers and Owen Sound Mercurys meet the league-leading Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen in tonight's senior games.

In the junior division, Guelph Biltmores play Windsor Spitfires and St. Catharines Teepees clash with Barrie Flyers.

Maybe you don't know me, but I've got myself a swell job. I've just been hired as a salesman for West End Motor Sales, Belleville's largest used car dealer. Strange as it may seem, you'll never find me at either one of their lots at 123 Front Street or at Herchimer Ave. and Kingston Road. The place to look for me is in this newspaper. I'll show up from time to time to tell you of the swell values in used cars which you'll find at West End Motor Sales, and believe you me, I've got a very easy job, because anything I tell you will be backed up by the management of the firm I'm working for.

For example, there's a 1939 Packard Sedan up on the Herchimer lot that we're really proud of. It's fully equipped with radio and heater and it's as lovely a car as has been offered in a long time. You can prove to both yourself and to me whether I'm a truthful fellow by looking over this really fine car and letting us know what you think of it.

If you can't make it during the day time, don't forget that West End Motor Sales are open every evening and the lots are well lighted by means of gasoline driven generators.

Ottawa Riders Start Training For Stampeders

Ottawa, Nov. 24. (CP)—Coach Wally Masters has unbuckled his training whip and unleashed his dogs of war.

For the first time since the Ottawa Rough Riders walloped Hamilton Tigers for the Eastern Canadian Football Championship, they were out on a wet, muddy field Tuesday in a heavy kicking and passing session.

Even those who will be unable to participate in the Grey Cup classic Saturday against Calgary Stampeders turned up at the long workout in Ottawa's Lansdowne Park.

George Hall, inside wing, hurt Saturday, appeared with his left leg in a cast and using a crutch. Pete Finlay, outside wing, out with a broken bone in his left hand, also put in an appearance, sitting on the bench and consoling with Hall.

Meanwhile, what might have turned into one of the wildest scrambles for tickets in Ottawa's history was nipped in the bud. Rough Rider football club officials announced at the eleventh hour Tuesday night that a general sale of pasteboards has been cancelled.

The sale of some 4,000 ducats was scheduled to be opened today at a downtown store. Hundreds of Ottawans were preparing to stand there all night, if need be, to get their hands on a pasteboard.

But, says Manager Jimmy McCaffrey, "requests were coming in at such a pace, they were more than we could handle. Every ticket we could get from the C.R.U. has been spoken for.

However, the Riders are assured that they will have at least 4,000 supporters when they meet with the Stampeders for the Dominion Football Championship in Toronto's Varsity Stadium.

Incidentally, whether Stampeders like it or not, the Riders will definitely refuse to the use of 29 men.

Masters and Manager McCaffrey point out C.R.U. rules are that only 24 men can be used. However, in a pinch if the Stampeders persist, the Riders are willing to allow as many as 26.

TAKES SCREAMING SPOUSE FOR RIDE ON FENDER

Vancouver, Nov. 23 — (CP) — A man who took his screaming spouse for a ride on the front fender of his automobile Monday was sentenced to seven days at hard labor. He was convicted on a charge of drunken driving.

Magistrate Mackenzie Matheson said Charles W. Skinty was either a fool, a potential murdered, or intoxicated.

There was no explanation of how Mrs. Skinty, who had been involved in a quarrel with her husband, became perched on the chassis.

Roxy Engagement For Barbara Ann Opens Dec. 22

New York Nov. 24 (CP)—Barbara Ann Scott's future may depend upon how well her professional debut here next month is received by the public.

Show business sources say that the pretty Canadian skater's career hinges on the public's reaction to the Christmas holiday show she is headlining at the Roxy Theatre here, opening Dec. 22.

Commenting on a statement by officials of the Music Corporation of America, Barbara Ann's agents, that a theatre tour is being arranged in the United States following her debut, these sources said the chances of Miss Scott making motion pictures will depend upon her appeal to the public during her Roxy engagement and ensuing ones.

The sources said plans for Barbara Ann undoubtedly involve making a motion picture star of her. While personal-appearance tours are most successful for established film stars, audience reaction to the skater is being sought prior to sending her to Hollywood, they said.

Barbara Ann, billed as "The Princess of the Ice," is due in New York about Dec. 5 to start final rehearsals. The Canadian skater at 20 holds the world and Olympic figure skating titles.

An M.C.A. spokesman said her act will be solely a skating one, with no speaking part contemplated. It will be performed before an elaborate set. Costumes and routines will be of her own choice.

While no salary has been announced, rumor has indicated she will get about $10,000 a week. A proportion of this will be given to the St. Lawrence foundation, set up early this year to administer Miss Scott's contributions to the welfare of crippled and under-privileged children.

Battle for First Place in N.H.L. Resumes Tonight

(By The Canadian Press)

When the smoke of battle clears on the National Hockey League front tonight, either Detroit, Boston or Montreal may be leading the pact, or all three could be deadlocked for top spot. The red-hot race is that close.

The three-way tie could come about if Montreal Canadiens knock off the Leafs in Toronto while Boston and Detroit play to a tie in the motor city. This would leave all three with 17 points.

Dick Irvin's Flying Frenchmen invaded Toronto today all set for the opener of their double-date with the floundering Leafs. The teams move to Montreal where they clash again tomorrow night, and a pair of victories against their bitter rivals would boost Canucks into sole possession of top spot no matter what the other teams do. Both Boston and Detroit are idle Thursday.

Butch Bouchard, solid-blocking Montreal rearguard who suffered a pulled tendon in his left knee two weeks ago, will sit out tonight's game in Toronto. Doctors who examined Big Butch Tuesday found the knee hadn't healed sufficiently to allow the Hab rearguard to take the ice.

The final word on defenceman Bill Barilko, and forwards Joe Klukay and Vic Lynn—casualties in the Leaf camp—will come late today when the medicos give the three a final checkup.

All three are laid up with ankle injuries. Lynn, who practised Tuesday, is the most likely starter.

Asked about the slump of ace sniper Maurice (Rocket) Richard who has only scored two goals in 13 games, Irvin said he thought the Rocket had been playing "very well", although at the moment his plays "just aren't slicking".

Misunderstanding Over Negro Player

Easton, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP) — Lafayette College authorities were hoping today that someone would throw a little light on the Sun Bowl situation after an apparent misunderstanding over a Negro player.

Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison, Lafayette president, announced Tuesday that the Pennsylvania college had rejected a bid to the New Year's Day football game at El Paso, Tex., because it would not be permitted to play Dave Showell, Negro back.

Dr. Hutchison told 1,500 demonstrating Lafayette students that the bid to play Texas College of Mines was rejected as the result of a telephone conversation between William H. Anderson, Lafayette director of athletics, and C. D. Belding, chairman of the game selection committee of the Sun Carnival Association.

Anderson said Belding told him the laws of Texas forbid a Negro playing in the stadium where the New Year's Day game is to be held.

At El Paso, however, Belding denied he told Anderson that Showell would not be permitted to play. Belding said the only stipulation made was that the Negro player would have to be housed in separate lodgings.

Chuck Whitlock, sports editor of the El Paso Times, and some Sun Bowl officials are "highly in favor of Lafayette bringing its Negro player if they come to the Sun Bowl."

CALGARY STAMPEDERS WELCOMED IN EAST BY WESTERN CANADA CLUB

Calgary's football cowboys, better known as the Calgary Stampeders, have been given a royal welcome by the East and Toronto, where they will play in the Canadian football final against the Ottawa R oughriders. Members of the Western Canada club, with locals in Toronto, London and other eastern localities, were on hand to greet the boys when their train rolled in. Two of the lovelies who welcomed the players are Tra Morrison, frmerly of Winnipeg (left) and Hel en Mills, formerly of Regina (rightt). The lucky lads read from left to right: Cedric Giles, Keith Spaith (ace quarterback) and Fredd ie Wilmot. Calgary, undefeated in 15 games this season, are making their first bid for the Grey Cup, emblem of Canadian football su premacy, since 1911. (Central Press Canadian)

Montreal Team Will Meet Cobourg For Eastern Title

(By The Canadian Press)

Montreal Rocklands, Quebec intermediate football champions, will travel to Cobourg, Saturday, to meet the Galloping Ghosts, Ontario title-holders, in a Quebec - Ontario sudden-death playoff, Norm Gillespie, secretary of the Quebec Rugby Football Union announced Tuesday night.

"The Cobourg team boosted their original guarantee to make it possible for Rocklands to make the trip," said Gillespie, "and Rockland club officials now are well satisfied with the financial agreements.

Rocklands, who defeated Lakeshore Flyers for the Quebec title last Saturday, will leave for Cobourg Friday afternoon.

Peterborough Collegiate and Torontos Upper Canada College will meet in their sudden-death interscholastic Ontario Rugby Football Union championship game Friday afternoon, Nov. 26, at Upper Canada College, Harold Bailey, secretary of the O.R.F.U. said Tuesday night.

It will be the first title playoff since the war.

Prof. Nelson C. Hart, newly-elected president of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, is not going to wait until spring before cleaning the A.A.U. house.

Hart, who succeeded George Machum, of Montreal, as head of Canada's amateur sports governing body at the A.A.U. meeting here last week, said Tuesday night at London, Ont., that some of the "deadwood" now clogging up the A.A.U. would have to be cleared away before the organization can function properly.

"With due respect to some of our members," he said, "there's little doubt but that some changes are necessary. Our group has to be modernized, brought up-to-date. A speedy house cleaning is in order.

The agreement under which Lepine goes to Buffalo permits a player to play three games with a professional team and still retain his amateur standing.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler has summoned Leo Durocher, manager of New York Giants, and Freddie Fitzsimmons for a conference during the Chicago winter baseball meetings to explain Fitzsimmons' signing as a coach with the Giants, the commissioner's office announced Tuesday at Cincinnati.

Walter Mulbry, secretary of baseball, said that when Fitzsimmons signed with the New York club "about a month ago" he still was on the reserve list of the Boston Braves as a coach.

Lou Brissie, rookie southpaw pitcher who hung up a 14-10 record for Philadelphia Athletics last season, arrived in Philadelphia Tuesday for a series of examinations of his war-shattered left leg.

The leg, on which Brissie had 20 operations to save amputation after being wounded in the Italian campaign, bothered the hurler near the end of the season.

Welterweight champion Ray Robinson Tuesday asked the Tournament of Champions for a protective contract in case he loses to Steve Belloise at Jersey City, N.J., Dec. 9.

George Gainsford, manager of Sugar Ray, said he neglected to have the return stipulation in the papers, but wanted to fix that up now if possible. Gainsford said the bout was important as Robinson was hoping to get a shot at middleweight champion Marcel Cerdan of France.

Promoter Andy Niedereitter said it was too late to change the contract.

The Indian team which will compete against Canada at Toronto in the first round of the Thomas Cup international badminton matches was named yesterday by playing-captain George Lewis.

The Indians are working out on the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association courts in Montreal for the matches next week. Players selected for the matches are: Devinda Mohan of Simla; D. G. Mugve, B. V. Ullal, H. Ferreibra, B. D. Shroffand and Lewis, all of Bombay.

Fighter Sent To Hospital After Beating

Honolulu, Nov. 24 (AP)—Tough Frankie Fernandez, 146 12, Honolulu, Tuesday night sent Tommy Bell, 146 1-2, Youngstown ,Ohio, to a hospital with possible concussion after knocking him out in the final stanza of their 10-round bout.

Bell sprawled on the floor after a flurry of blows from Fernandez and had to be carried to his corner. A few minutes later an ambulance was called and Bell was rushed to hospital for further examination.

Fernandez, who hopes for a shot at Sugar Ray Robinson's welterweight title felled the Ohio Negro three times in the last round.

Mrs. Knittingham still uses the eins, swei, drei system. She bids one, should make two, and goes down three. There is an excuse for her, however. She does not even pretend to be a good player.

Players with an accurate trick count should always reach the correct contract. They are capable of dispationate decisions. They need not depend on emotions to judge how high they should go.

An opening one bidder shows, among other things, a definite minimum number of tricks. From there on, each raise by him shows another trick in his hand. Or he may show a quantity of tricks with a jump.

Of course, a few correct contracts will be defeated. On rare occasions more than the trick count will come in. But such results may produce a trick that could not be reckoned in advance.

There was this deal:

♦8 7 6 2
♣A 4

SOUTH

♣Q 5

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 S	2 C
2 S	2 NT
3 S	4 S

South has six tricks and showed them in the bidding. North has four tricks and showed them in the bidding. But the opening lead from west was heart deuce and declarer took 12 tricks.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 24 (AP)— It's Bud Abbott's lament: Consider the plight of the straight man.

Lou Costello is the more prominent member of the Abbott and Costello team, in more ways than one. All eyes are on the pudgy comic, and he's the one that draws the laughs. But where would he be without Abbott?

"Louis is the funniest man in the world," admits Bud, "when he wants to be." Meaning: When Bud is "feeding" him.

Feeding is a special craft in show business. A feeder is the mug who tosses straight lines to the comics. Amos feeds Andy; George Burns feeds Gracie. You get the picture.

"I trained for this job for a long time," Bud confided on the "Agrica Screams" set.

"I was in show business before Lou was born. I worked with many comics in burlesque, waiting for the right one to come along. When I saw Lou, I said 'this is it!'"

Bud declared there are only a few comedians, such as Milton Berle, Joe E. Lewis and Henny Youngman, who can do single acts. The others need feeders.

Success is a matter of the straight man's timing, he added. "I can make anyone a comedian—even you."

As a demonstration, Bud tried out the "Who's on First" routine. All I had to do was answer "who" "what" or "I dunno" to Bud's rapid-fire questions. The results were hilarious, at least to me.

Kiwanians Hear Inspiring Talk On Human Rights

Venerable Archdeacon Arthur Smith and member of the Kiwanis Club gave a most inspiring message to the members at their weekly luncheon held at the Kiwanis Centre on Tuesday, he substituting for the late Leonard Dandeno, who died suddenly on Saturday and who was to have spoken on the hydro shortage. Before launching into his address Mr. Smith paid a fine tribute to his brother Kiwanian stating that if an award were given in the club for honesty, industry and integrity the late Mr. Dandeno would have easily won. Before the meeting was opened tribute was paid to the memory of Mr. Dandeno by the president Ted Schwab and a minute of silence was observed.

The president requested that more members assist in the Hobbycraft work sponsored by the club. He stated that on Wednesday night there were 60 children present and only three Kiwanians on hand to assist the instructors. Mr. Schwab also thanked the C. N. R. firemen for donating the proceeds from their dance to be held to the Kiwanis Fresh Air and Camp Fund. The president announced that Mark Vanner had been elected secretary of the club for the coming year with W. S. "Bob" Stone as treasurer. Taylor Franklin, chairman for "The support of churches" asked all the members to be in attendance at the service to be held in the Salvation Army citadel on Sunday evening.

New Member Introduced

Fred Symons introduced Bernard "Bun" Cassidy, sales manager of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, as a new member of the club, and initiation was conducted by Ken Graham.

The speaker was introduced by the president and Kiwanis appreciation was expressed by Dr. Harold Craig. "The most obvious things that we enjoy in life" said the speaker, "we think so little of."

The speaker explained that members met every week of their own free will, enjoy good fellowship and there was no one to deny them that right. He also showed that anyone could hire a hall and say anything that was not libelous and against the laws of the country. The speaker claimed that all had the freedom of opportunity and had an amazing range to choose from. "All these things are taken for granted" said the speaker. This has not always been the case and it has been a long, hard struggle to get to the top and many have given their lives so that this way of life was open. The new freedoms were given by the Magna Charta and the Declaration of Rights.

Mr. Smith then explained that a new political philosophy had arisen which sustains that the individual exists through the power of the state. This is not a new doctrine but is new in our time. He explained the Atlantic Charter and claimed that essential human rights were, that man must have right to personal security, the inherent right to exercise his own gifts and opportunities, the right to produce a family, the right to possess some personal property, the right to freedom of speech, to have freedom of the press and above all to have religious freedom and that the training of children in religion must be left inviolate with the parents.

London's Transportation System Operating at Peak of Capacity

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Nov. 24 (CP)—London is bursting at its transportation seams.

And Londoners, though still boasting theirs is the finest travel system in the world—233 miles of underground railway, 7,000 buses serving more than 150 routes—are feeling the strain.

Charing Cross and Piccadilly at the rush hours now are something akin to dollar-day in a Canadian bargain basement.

London, transport officials recently took a close look at their system, nationalized along with Britain's railways at the beginning of this year. Even they were amazed.

Up to September this year, London's travel stampede had reached a record peak of 12,400,000 passengers carried daily on buses and the underground. That didn't include the thousands of persons who commute morning and night on suburban electric and steam trains to points outside the London boroughs.

The city travel surge was up 1,000,000 passengers a day on the daily average carried in the peak months of 1947. And to do it London's buses and tube trains travelled the staggering combined total of 438,743,000 miles in the first eight months of this year, an increase of 25,612,000 miles over the whole of 1947 and 51,000,000 miles more than they travelled in 1938.

The travel headache is almost as bad for transport officials as for crush-weary passengers. New buses are delivered at the rate of 20 a week and immediately pushed into service. But the rate of London replacement of the big two-deckers—26 passengers below 30 on top—is restricted to 811 this year. Many more are manufactured, but with "export only" labels.

To meet the emergency 500 private coaches have been hired and put into service. At the main bus garage at Chiswick—"the biggest bus hospital in the world"—4,000 workers sweat to keep old buses going and rebuild others.

Board Requests Steam Plants To Boost Supply

Brockville, Nov. 24 (CP)—Construction of steam power plants to prevent a break in plant production was advocated Tuesday night by the Eastern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade.

The Boards adopted a resolution to request the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission to undertake an immediate survey in the eastern end of the province for the establishment of the steam power plants in order to boost power supply

Rishard Durnford, an official of the Ontario Hydro Commission, told the meeting that the present shortage of power will continue into the next few years.

But by 1951, when more generating plants will be brought into operation, the critical power shortage will disappear.

He said the present shortage was due to a lack of water and added that plants would have been able to supply the province with enough power today if there was no water shortage problem.

In reference to the St. Lawrence power plan, Mr. Durnford said the Hydro Commission was ready to go ahead "as soon as it got the green light." The commission considered this project "a must."

Rockets Defeat Flyers 4-2; Trenton Nudges Napanee 4-3 In Hard-Fought Hockey Games

Belleville Rockets juniors flashing mid-season form in the best game of the season to date nudged the Trenton RCAF Flyers in a rip-roaring hockey battle at Memorial Arena last night defeating them 4-2 after being on the short end of the score. In the nightcap of the double header the Napanee Legion team after leading Trenton Hockey Club in the third period dropped a close 4-3 decision when Schmidt, flashy Trenton defenceman scored the winning goal with but a minute to go.

All four teams showed a vast improvement over last week and nearly 900 fans thrilled to two fine exhibitions. Four major penalties were handed out by Referee Speedy St. Louis in the Flyer-Rockets game as tempers started to flare but the sin-bin sentences cooled off the warring warriors and peace reigned again.

Joe Nolan, rangy defenceman stole the individual lime light last night. The Rockets player scored one of the best goals of the season on a beautiful individual effort when he swept through the entire Flyers squad to score what proved to be the winning marker.

Rockets 4, Trenton RCAF 2

Both teams roared into action at the opening whistle with the front lines showing marked improvement over the performance of last week. Flyers raced to the attack early in the period but were met by the fast-skating Rockets at their own game and the result was a period of fast furious hockey. Both goalies had narrow escapes at the forward lines swept in close but both defences stood out with hard checking.

Miller, starry Flyer forward opened the scoring at the eight minute mark when he took Ault's pass to sweep in and drive the rubber behind MacKay in the Rocket nets. Rockets drew all three penalties of the period with Green, Nolan and Jud Semark getting the gate.

Rockets roared back to the attack in the second heat and midway through the period Hogan fired home Doug Bone's pass to tie up the contest. Jud Semark put the youngsters one up near the end of the session taking Bone's neat relay to park the rubber behind Keays in the Flyers' nets.

Play speeded up in the third period as the desperate Flyers roared to the attack in ganging efforts to tie the score. Their plays clicked when Christie, Gray and Ault swept down ice in a three-man attack with the former ramming the rubber home to even matters.

The play speeded up and tempers began to flare. Schreider and Middleton started a pushing match and got major penalties and later Sherman and Green drew the same punishment for getting over anxious. Play ranged up and down the ice at top speed and the break came when Joe Nolan, Rockets' defenceman, executed the finest play of the season. He raced down centre ice, eluded the Flyer back checkers, rounded the defence and swept in close on Keays. With a neat piece of work he completely fooled the goalie and rammed home the rubber with what proved to be the winning goal. Trussell, Rockets' centre man, clinched the victory three minutes later with a neat goal-mouth effort.

Nolan, Bone, Taylor and the Semarks went well for the Juniors with the former standing out. Hogan turned in another neat effort.

Trenton Hockey Club 4, Napanee 3

It looked for several minutes in the third period of this clash that the hard-fighting Napanee squad would at least tie or even snatch a win. A third period splurge with the score 2-1 against saw the Gerow-led crew notch two quick goals to assume the lead, but Trenton raced right back to tie the count and Schmidt scored the winning goal with but a minute to go.

Trenton did not flash the form that carried them to victory over Flyers last week. The ace sniper Watson, did not have his shooting eye with him and he accounted for but one goal.

Play was sluggish in the first period, or so it seemed after the razzle-dazzle display of the first game. Trenton drew first blood at the halfway mark when Bert Bastedo tobied the rubber home from McQuooster's pass.

Watson increased the lead to two early in the second period from Johnson's pass but Napanee roared back into the picture near period's end when a characteristic Gerow goal from Ken Murphy made the score 2-1.

The Legionnaires flashed back to the attack in the third heat and with play speeded to a fast tempo Holmes sank the rubber to tie up the pastime. Both teams opened up and J. Murphy, brother of the veteran Ken put the Napanee crew one up at the eight minute mark. Play ranged up and down the ice as both teams went all out. Schmidt "wound up" behind his blue line and on a neat effort raced through to give team-mate Johnson a neat pass and the latter made no mistake, to tie the score at three-all.

Napanee sent every player up on the attack in an effort to break the deadlock but with sixty seconds to go Schmidt raced through to score the winning goal. The game was exceptionally clean with but four penalties handed out by the officials.

Gerow, the Murphys and Currie went well for the losers with Schmidt, the Bastedos, McQuooster, Johnson and Watson looking best for Trenton.

Graziano Tries to Explain Why He Ran Out On Fight

New York, Nov. 24 —(AP)— "It's like a guy slaps you in the face and you can't do nuttin' about it."

That was how a confused Rockey Graziano tried to explain why he "ran out" on an Oakland Calif., fight with Fred Apostoli.

Whiskers sprouted from his chin and neck. His wiry hair bristled and his eyes flashed as he attempted to put into English his scrambled feelings. He clenched his right fist as though hoping that would do his talking.

"Out there (California) they ask me questions," he said. "What's this about the bribe? What's this about the army? How come you can't fight in your own state? They drive you crazy. It's as if I'm going to jail. It really hurts, you know. It's like I had a mark on my face.

"I'm boxing in the gym with a couple of salamis. And I have no feeling. You know what I mean? I have no ambition. I don't care if I throw a punch or not. I can't get myself in shape I just stick out my face and they smack me.

"When I get away from home I get moody. Out there, something in my head says 'get out of here.' So I get on a plane and shoot right back home.

"No, I'm not retiring. I just want a little more time. Maybe a couple of months. I don't know I just don't feel like fighting. I'll just go away to some quiet place."

In the next breath, Rocky was telling how he was going to go to the New York State Athletic Commission and ask to be reinstated. His licence was revoked in 1947 for allegedly failing to report a bribe attempt for a bout with Ruban Shanks in Madison Square Garden which never came off.

"Theres nothing wrong with me that a little happiness wouldn't fix up," Rocky said.

"What did "a little happiness" mean?

"Gimmie my licence in New York," the Rock replied.

"All this trouble started when I began messing around with smart people," he said. "When I start to think, it's rough, you know. I was better off when I was a dope and didn't know nuttin. It's hard to understand."

Oppose Gun Range Near Holy Island

London (CP)— Despite considerable public opposition, an anti-tank range will be established in a 1,100 acre area at Ross Links Northumberland, near the famous Holy Island.

War office plans for the range were approved by the government after a public inquiry was held last summer at Newcastle-on-Tyne. The government said it appreciated the complaints which were lodged, but it had to consider the exceptional advantages of the site.

One protest was made by the Bishop of Newcastle, who objected to the range's proximity to Holy Island, reputed birthplace of Christianity in England. Complaints were also made by local farmers and bird lovers in England.

Coal Board Closes Unprofitable Mines

Cardiff, Wales. (CP)—The Nation Coal Board which operates Britain's nationalized mines has closed two Welsh coal mines because of high production costs and declining output. They are the Steer and East Pits at Gwaun-cae-Gurwen in the Swansea Valley which employ 1,608 miners., Most of these were dismissed Oct. 25 when they refused to accept a revised wage scale.

A Coal Board statement said that total losses in the 18 months up to June 30, 1948, were £596,435 ($2,385,740). Production had declined to the 'intolerably low figure" of 6.5 tons of saleable coal per man shift.

UNKNOWN PEST

Port Elizabeth, South Africa — (CP) — Infestations of an unknown pest is threatening the sheeplands in this area. The small white insect that looks like a bush tick, has laid bare large areas of good grazing land.

Haynes Traded To Cleveland For Joe Tipton

Cleveland, Nov. 24 (AP)— Pitcher Joe Haynes, one of the few outstanding players of Chicago White Sox, has been traded to Cleveland Indians for second-string catcher Joe Tipton.

The even trade was announced in Chicago today by Bill Veeck, president of the world champion Cleveland team.

Haynes, a long time jinx for the Indians, has won 66 and lost 61 during his ten years in the majors. With the dismal White Sox last year he won nine and lost ten. His best year was 1947 when he won 14 and lost six.

Tipton came to Cleveland from Wilkes-Barre in the Eastern League. He batted .289 in 47 games last year.

Irish Zoo Animals Hurt by Children

Belfast, Northern Ireland, (CP)—Recent deaths of several animals in Belle Vue zoo, attributed to cruelty by children, have moved zoo authorities to take legal action.

Curator Capt. A. McLean said razor-blades had been given to monkeys and matches to parrots. Lighted matches had been dropped in the reptile enclosure.

A valuable Cape seal died recently after being struck on the head with a large stone. Its pond, drained afterwards, disclosed four buckets of stones.

Re-open Colliery Idle Four Years

Allerton Bywater, Yorkshire, England (CP)—Ledston Luck colliery, closed four years ago to free manpower to other coal mines is to be reopened and re-equipped at a cost of £280,000 ($1,120,000).

In two years the mine is expected to be producing 500 tons of coal a day, and twice that a year later. With modern equipment it is hoped to achieve a daily output each manshift of 40 hundredweight, which would be the highest in the country.

THE VENABLES

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

One day Alan came whistling into the office to ask Flo if she would have lunch at the Palace Hotel as his father's guest. The mere idea made Flo feel sick with excitement. She wanted to more than she had ever wanted anything in her life and yet she did not want to.

She was afraid of risking inspection; suppose Mr. Wellington did not like her! And she had on an old shirtwaist and had lost one of her cuff links. Her coat was all right; it had been Gussy's and was quite handsome if a trifle old for her. She could keep it on . . .

"Come on, I want you to meet the Old Man! He's full of character and gravity and what not," said Alan.

"At the Palace!"

"What's the matter with the Palace?"

"I don't know, because I've never been there."

"You've never been there!"

"No, I've heard of the Turkish Corner and the Palm Court all my life, but I've never been there."

"Help! Then it's time you did."

"I look awful." She was trying to arrange her heavy red hair.

"You look all right. Come on!"

They walked down Market St. together and went into the big hotel and across the open court under the lofty dome. Flo looked up and saw the clustered white globes of the lights, rising tier upon tier high up to the white glass roof, balconies going up, up, up all around. It made her dizzy.

A carriage clattered into the court, and an elegant lady with two small children descended from it; trunks were being thumped about. Flo had never seen anything so rich and impressive and dashing; she thought she would rather be that lady than anyone else in the world.

"Lily's been here with Aunt Lizzie," she said, "and Papa brought Mama here for dinner — once," she was going to add, but instead substituted "sometimes."

But Alan was not impressed; he was not even listening. He had guided her into the dining -room and to a table where an elderly man with a full-jowled red face, silver hair, white whiskers and a checked suit was sitting with a very pretty young girl.

The man was Alan's father, who smiled in a paternal manner upon Flo; the girl was Marie Bostwick. Flo felt cold when she saw Marie.

Marie was very much at home, not to say flirtatious, with Alan and had apparently been in his company constantly. [illegible] or a thousand adventures they had shared and kept the conversation upon personalities regarding their mutual friends.

Flo knew none of these, but she did the best she could and entertained the older man gallantly. Now and then Alan overheard something of their talk and interrupted Marie to laugh and comment, but on the whole the occasion was one of heavy disappointment to Flo.

It did not matter that she was lunching at the Palace. What mattered was Marie, who evidently not only had lunched and dined here frequently in her 19 years, but at one time had lived here with her father and mother.

"Yes, I have three sisters," Flo presently said to Oliver Wellington in answer to a question. "Two younger ones and an older sister, who is married to Mr. Arnold Belcher."

"Married to Arnold Belcher? Is that so?" The rubicund old man was plainly interested at last. He wiped his mustache after having negotiated six oysters Kirkpatrick beneath it. "She's quite a young girl, isn't she?"

"Lily? Yes, she's only twenty now."

"Lucky thing for him, that Burns thing," said Alan's father.

"You mean managing Major Burn's affairs?" Flo was going on to explain that her mother's modest fortunes had been very much mixed up with those of the generous old Major when the man spoke again:

"I mean Burns leaving him all his money."

"Wasn't it nice?" Flo said automatically.

"Yep. Must have been fifty or sixty thousand."

Money, mentioned in sums, had no special significance for Flo. But money as money was important. Why had Major Burns left all his money to Arnold?

Arnold was his lawyer, of course but he had not been especially fond of Arnold; he had once called Arnold a pompous gilt-edged ass." He had said he was going to leave Flo something, had said it repeatedly. Had he left the Shotwell Street houses to Arnold? And, if so . . .

Slow color rose in Flo's face, and she felt a little sick, as if the air of the dining - room were too hot for her. There was a tremendous difference between sixty thousand dollars left to Arnold who had only been his lawyer and five hundred dollars left to his little petted friend Flo.

He knew how poor Mama was, and he had loved Papa. Once, when they were young, Papa had talked him out of suicide and so had saved his life; she had heard the story a hundred times.

Alan walked back to the office with her, but Marie came too. She wanted Alan to cut classes and go to the Orpheum with her; Flo left them arguing as she entered the elevator to return to her own office only a few minutes late.

"Mama," she said late that afternoon, when in the kitchen she was mixing cornbread for supper, "why should old Major Burns leave Arnold money?"

"Did he?"

"Alan's father was saying he did."

"Arnold Belcher wasn't anything to Billy Burns," Flo's grandmother said unexpectedly. "I don't know why he should leave him anything. Burns was partner years ago to Judge Troutt, and Belcher was in Troutt's office. That's how he come to get Billy Burns' business. Troutt left Arnold some money, and that was a funny thing too! You remember, Willie, Minnie Troutt and Kate—that married Jim Savory—made a fuss about it when the old Judge died?"

"I remember something," said Willie.

"I wonder if an old man like Major Burns might get confused at the end, and sign anything that was put in front of him."

But Lily's husband! That was the rub. It would be horrible to discover anything discreditable to Lily's husband! Perhaps Major Burns had owed him money. Still — Flo did not like Arnold, but up to this point she had trusted him.

She had an active brain, and she began to ponder on ways of securing some proof that he was not to be trusted. Flo owned the Shotwell Street houses now, for example? How could she find that out?

It was easy to get the information she wanted. The Shotwell Street property was owned by Mr. Arnold Belcher, and there was Arnold's name and address—Lily's address!

Why had Major Burns left the property to Arnold? He knew how Mama needed help; indeed he had been one of the first to proffer it after Papa's death.

It could not conceivably be his idea that Mama should pay rent to Arnold? Perhaps he thought that as Mama's son-in-law Arnold would be the one to manage the business? But no, in that case the family would have been left in possession of the home they found so satisfactory; they would not have been banished to dirty, uncomfortable Ellis Street.

Arnold had offered them their present haven rent-free. Flo knitted her brows, remembering this. [illegible] lar rent from his tenant on Shotwell Street, how magnificently he could waive the question of rent for worthless premises downtown!

She did not want to think it for sheer loyalty to Lily. But she had to think it. It all fitted together. A dozen gallant little speeches from the white-whiskered old Major came back to her memory. "I'm not going to let you worry, Miss Willie. Paul was a good friend to me." "So you're kinder fond of the old man, Flo? Why, you and Lily here'll be having beaus before you know it and laughing at old 'Keep-steppin' Burns' ! But I've got ye down for a nice little nest egg just the same. We can't have Mama burdened with all these girls and boys, eh? A home, eh? And a nice little nest egg, eh?"

Major Burns had left Flo five hundred dollars; a sum that had seemed magnificent to Flo and to her simple little mother, too, at the time. But he had left Arnold many times that many thousands — and he hadn't specially liked Arnold . . .

In sore disturbance of mind, Flo walked home, wondering if there were in the world a human being with whom she could discuss this. No, not anywhere. Not one. Rose would have been the person, but Rose's life and hers had somehow become completely separated.

She must keep her own counsel about Arnold. To mention it to her mother or aunts was unthinkable; they would gossip over it interminably, and eventually something of it would leak to Lily and break Lily's heart.

"Hello, is this Burlingame, three, two, two? Is Mr. Wellington there? Mr. Alan Wellington?"

"Who is it? Miss Florence Venables, please. Oh? He's not there? Thank you. Will you tell him I called? Thank you."

"Alan, I thought this would amuse you, I just found it in the paper, and as I'm writing other notes tonight . . .

"Dear Alan, I went to the Chutes the other night and found they've put a brass tablet where you and I gave the elephant a cream puff . . .

"My dear Alan, if you're in town . . .

"My dear Alan, it's too ridiculous to suppose that you're mad about anything . . .

"Alan, I want to see you about something, completely unimportant, so be sure to forget it . . ."

Her face burned. She stopped writing, destroyed the hundredth note. At any thought of him now her face would begin to burn, for all thoughts led to the one central fact that she needed him and missed him, and that he knew it and did not come.

Every ring at the doorbell, every telephone call might bring him back. Every letter was from him until it proved to be otherwise. He might be around any street corner, coming toward her! He might be deciding this minute — this coming minute — to get in touch with her.

Or they might encounter each other in the street, he laughing, together again, her hand in his.

"Alan! If I hadn't seen your name in the society columns now and then I'd have had every reason to believe you were dead and buried!

"Hello, hello, hello" Doing anything tonight?"

And then all the fun, the dear companionship, would begin all over again. The silliness and excitement and the occasional moods of seriousness that to her had been the sweetest of all. She remembered them, bad as was the hurt of remembering them.

"Finch saw us and asked me if you were my girl," he had said once.

"And what did you say?"

"I said sure."

Another time it had been: —"Mom sent you her love."

"Did she really?"

"Yip. Said you were having a good effect on me."

And once: "You wouldn't want a big wedding ever, would you, Flo?"

"What! From Ellis Street? Or Aunt Lizzie's, that'd be worse. Or Lil's, good heavens, no!"

Santa Claus Parade For Vancouver Kids

Vancouver, (CP) — Whoever says there's no Santa Claus has never met Nelson Dorwood or visited his Vancouver home.

For Dorwood and for his neighborhood—and its 1,700 kiddies—there was a real live Santa Claus last year and there will be another this Christmas time. Santa will ride in a sleigh and there will be more than $20,000 worth of tree toys for all the kiddies along the Christmas route.

Dorwood thought the idea up one night last winter. He canvassed local merchants and collected enough toys and novelties to put on a real show.

Gifts For Children

The parade went up one street and down the next, sleigh bells ringing and Santa shouting. There were gifts for all the kiddies. This year, Dorwood's idea has expanded. Of the 235 merchants he contracted throughout the city 233 have joined the fun. And there will be 200,000 real balloons.

Instead of being a neighborhood stunt, the parade this year will cover the city—divided for convenience into 15 districts. A special committee composed of merchants, board of trade members, fathers, mothers and kiddies' friends now are working on the huge parade which will ring through the streets just before Christmas.

Now called the "Local Merchants Balloon Day Parade", the children's holiday will begin Dec. 17 and carry on until Dec. 22.

WILL BENEFIT — When John Ross Robertson, founder of the Toronto Telegram, died in 1918, he stipulated in his will that his estate should go to the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, for maintenance of that institution. Terms of his will were such that the paper could not be offered for sale until the death of his widow. Now the trustees of the estate, who have been operating the paper, have asked for bids. These were opened this morning. Proceeds of the sale of the paper will be added to the estate and the entire amount will be turned over to the hospital. Under construction at present is the new 600-bed building to replace the present inadequate facilities. An architect's scale model of the new hospital, to cost an estimated $7,500,000, is shown here. Although the estate will not help to build this building, it will be used for its maintenance. — (CP Photo).

Toronto Evening Telegram Purchased by Geo. McCullagh

Bid of $3,610,000 Highest Of Four Tenders Submitted

Toronto, Nov. 25 — (CP) — The Toronto Evening Telegram has been sold to George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail for $3,610,000, the Telegram trustees announced today.

Four bids were received for the 72-year-old newspaper, sold under the terms of the will of its founder, John Ross Robertson. One of the four bids was not in proper order. Amounts of the other bids and the names of those bidding were not announced.

The trustees said Mr. McCullagh's offer was "well-over" the secret reserve price they had set.

Accompanied by Cheque

Mr. McCullagh's bid was accompanied by a cheque for $361,000. The conditions of sale provide that he may take over the paper Dec. 1 and must complete his payments and take possession by next Jan. 20.

The sealed tenders for the papers were opened in the office of a Bay Street lawyer in the presence of bidders, trustees of the Robertson estate and the paper's solicitors.

Mr. McCullagh told The Canadian Press later in an interview that he will take over The Telegram next Wednesday, Dec. 1.

"It will be politically independent," he said. "I hope to preserve the best traditions of The Telegram and improve it as a newspaper".

He said The Telegram would be a separate entity" from The Globe and Mail. It would have its own editor and its own staff. He had not considered any staff changes.

The trustees advertised for bids last Oct. 29. The Telegram has been operated by trustees since the death of Mr. Robertson in 1918. His will directed that the paper be sold after the deaths of his two sons and widow. The last of these — Mrs. Irving H. Cameron, his widow who re-married died in 1947.

Proceeds of the sale go to the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children under the Robertson will.

Controls Two Papers

Purchase of the Telegram gives Mr. McCullagh, 43, control of two of Toronto's three daily newspapers. A month after he purchased the Globe in 1936 with the backing of William H. Wright, mining millionaire, Mr. McCullagh bought the Mail and Empire and amalgamated the two morning papers.

He began his newspaper career as a newsboy in his native London, Ont. In his youth he joined the staff of the Globe in the circulation department, selling subscriptions in Western Ontario.

After serving for some time as London circulation manager he was brought to Toronto and got his first take of editorial work—covering sports and spot assignments. After a brief stint as a reporter he became the Globe's special representative, assigned the task of travelling throughout the province in seach of promising young men who might act as Globe correspondents.

He returned to the editorial offices as a financial editor. In 1928, backed by his experience in this department, he left the Globe to become stock exchange manager of Milner Ross and Company. Five years later he became a partner of the firm Barrett, McCullagh and Company, members of the Toronto Exchange.

With his purchase of the Globe, he became at 31 its president and publisher.

Mr. George McCullagh, publisher of Toronto Globe and Mail, who today submitted highest tender for The Evening Telegram.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)—Synopsis: The persistent cloud cover over Southern Ontario is at last showing signs of breaking and there should be occasional sunshine in this area today. However the overall weather picture remains unsettled in view of a fresh disturbance brewing over Oklahoma state this morning. With its anticipated northeastward motion, clouds will again thicken over Southwestern Ontario tonight and occasional rain will fall on Friday. Temperatures in Southern Ontario will drop to the high 30s tonight and climb to near 50 on Friday.

Mothers Given Wrong Baby Daughters In Melbourne Hospital in 1945

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 25 — (CP) — A Melbourne Supreme Court Justice today ruled that two mothers were given the wrong baby daughters June 22, 1945.

The babies were born within a few minutes of each other at Kyneton District Hospital, Melbourne. About a year after the births, one of the mothers, Mrs William Henry Morrison, claimed the baby being brought up by the other mother, Mrs. Noel Henry Jenkins, bore greater resemblance to her than the child she herself was rearing.

When the babies were three years old, the Morrisons issued a writ of Habeus Corpus demanding that the Jenkins couple deliver to them the child known as Ntela Jenkins. Mrs. Jenkins bitterly contested the writ.

Justice Barry said in summing up the lengthy case that blood groupings established the fact that the child known as Joanne Lee Morrison could not be the Morrisons'. However, the child could be that of Mrs. Morrison and another male, but as the character of Mrs. Morrison was never challenged he ordered Mrs. Jenkins to surrender her child to the Morrisons.

Judgment was stayed for seven days to allow the Jenkins to submit to blood tests or prove conclusively the child was theirs. No order was made on the fate of the other child.

Condemned Tojo Eating Turkey On Thanksgiving

Tokyo, Nov. 25. (AP)—Hideki Tojo was having turkey and some of the trimming today just like American solders in Japan observing their Thanksgiving day.

Sugamo prison authorities arranged the holiday meal for the former premier and six other Japanese war leaders sentenced to be hanged

Meanwhile, officials began making preparations for the seven executions. Col. M. P. Echols, public information officer, announced these details:

It is likely four of the prisoners will be hanged at one time, and the other three in a second drop. The gallows will be erected in a smaller building adjoining the main prison but within the same high concrete walls. The condemned men will pass two Japanese shrines on the way.

Although correspondents and photographers will be barred, more than the usual brief announcement will be given out afterward. Prison officials have promised to make public some details and perhaps any last messages.

The execution date has not been set.

Mother Admits Throwing Two Babies off Trestle

Vancouver, Nov. 26 (CP)—The body of 18-months-old Frances Jennifer Jones was found by searchers Wednesday on the shore of English Bay as her mentally-ill English war-bride mother was held in custody.

Mrs. Leslie Jones, 28-year-old expectant mother, told police Tuesday night she hurled her two baby girls from Kitsilano Trestle, 30 feet above the creek.

Her three-year-old daughter, Gilda, was rescued by a startled fisherman who discovered her floating face up as she was being swept seaward by the tide.

Mrs. Jones recently released from the mental ward of the General hospital here, will be examined by Dr. K. D. Panton, city pathologist.

THREE MEMBERS WINDSOR FAMILY DIE FROM FUMES

Everywhere Evidence Of Household Routine

Windsor, Nov. 25 (CP)—Death from gas fumes, undiscovered 24 hours, wiped out three members of a Windsor family in a domestic setting that was as dramatic as it was tragic.

Philip Ouellette, 44-year-old Canadian Industries Limited worker, his wife Marie, 43, clasped in his arms, was found by police Wednesday night on a cellar stairway in their tiny frame dwelling on Windsor's Glendale Avenue. Their 18-months-old son, Gary, clad in a nightgown, was found dead in his crib, apparently asphyxiated during his sleep.

Everywhere was evidence of interrupted household routine. A washing machine was whirring in the basement. A bucket of whitewash was standing nearby. The water in the washer was at room temperature. The contents of the bucket were fast becoming solid.

Coroner Dr. James M. Young said the trio were dead at least 24 hours. He believes death was accidental but has ordered the bodies held for a full examination.

Mr. Ouellette, a veteran of five year's service overseas in World War II, has been back in the Dominion nearly two years.

Gas jets were found burning full blast by police who broke their way into the dwelling when notified by neighbors who became suspicious of lights burning throughout the day.

The flue of the gas water heater in the basement, burning so furiously that it produced a yellow flame, was found plugged and the water heater on the verge of exploding. A washing machine nearby was running. A gas heater in the living room was also burning.

Police found Mr. and Mrs. Ouellette half way up the cellar stairs. Mrs. Ouellette was clasped in her husband's arms. Baby Gary clad in a blue sleeper, was found in his crib.

Police said later they believed Mrs. Ouellette was doing her washing and he was whitewashing the cellar when gas fumes escaped from a jacket water heater.

Police believed Mr. Ouellette attempted to take his wife up to the upper floor and that when he reached the landing he was too overcome.

Young Policeman Saves Woman Thought Dead

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)— A pretty blonde who was given up as dead Tuesday was still alive today in a New York hospital, though her condition was critical.

She had a chance to live because a young policeman —sent to stand guard over her apparently dead body —saw a flicker of life.

The woman, Miss Mary Grey, 25, was pronounced apparently dead by an ambulance attendant Tuesday in her hotel room. Police noticed an empty bottle of sleeping pills in a table drawer.

But the policeman, Richard Petrocine, sent there as a guard, saw her stir slightly. He noticed tiny beads of perspiration on her forehead.

For half an hour he gave artificial respiration.

Then he held a mirror to the woman's mouth —and found there was moisture on it.

Four Scholarships Won in Year

Brantford, Nov. 25. (CP)—Walter J. Smolinski brought his total of scholarships this year to four when he was awarded the first Carter scholarship for Brant County. Announcement of the Brant Carter scholarship winners was made by headmaster W. S. Turner, of the Collegiate Institute and Vocational school here.

Smolinski, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smolinski, top student at the B.C.I. this year, also won the Engineering Alumni Admission Scholarship, University of Toronto, valued at $300, the Grand Valley Group of Engineers' scholarship, $100, and the James Shortt Wilson Chapter I.O.D.E. scholarship $25.

Inadequate Labor, Farm Machinery Blamed for Loss

Brockville, Nov. 25 (CP)—R.S. Duncan, assistant Deputy Minister for Agriculture for Ontario, Wednesday attributed Canada's inability to meet her United Kingdom cheese commitments to inadequate labor and farm machinery.

He spoke at the official opening of the annual Eastern Ontario export cheese show. Mr. Duncon said that as the result of a decrease in cheese production caused by a lack of labor and machinery, "it will be a miracle if Canada can meet its 50,000,000 pounds overseas commitment.

So far this year, Canada has shipped a little better than half of the commitment. Federal government officials have already stated they do not hope to be able to complete the overseas contract.

The cheese show was termed by Mr. Duncan as the cheese show window of Eastern Ontario and complimented producers on the fine quality of cheese on display.

David Dean of Delta, Ontario, was awarded the J. F. Singleton Silver Challenge trophy as grand champion cheese producer of Eastern Ontario.

Two Killed On Way Home From Church

Renfrew, Nov. 25. (CP)—Two young pedestrians, a youth and girl, were killed Wednesday night when struck by a taxicab on their way home from church.

Dead are: Bernard Culhane, 20, of Ashdad, a small settlement near Renfrew, and Carmellita Mask, 19, of Thomsonville, a suburb of this eastern Ontario town.

Police are holding John Sheparski, 19, of New Glasgow, N.S., driver of the cab, pending a decision on the double fatality by Crown Attorney H. B. Johnson, Pembroke, Ont.

Police said the young couple had attended benediction and confession at St. Francis Xavier Church and were walking along Horton Street South in Renfrew, when they were struck from behind.

Sheparski told police he was in the process of dimming his lights against the bright lights of an approaching vehicle when the accident occurred.

The next thing I knew, I struck something," he said.

He stopped his car and found the couple lying on the road.

Receives Medal At Investiture Held in Cafeteria

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)—Testimony by a Barrie doctor in police court here Wednesday that he gave a confirmed dope addict narcotics to "relieve his pain," destroyed the crown's case against Neil and Marjorie Hicks, charged jointly with illegal possession of drugs.

Hicks, 31, and his 27-year-old wife were arrested Oct. 30 in a downtown hotel.

Dr. Andrew R. Turnbull today told Magistrate Thomas Elmore that about three weeks ago Hicks came into his office in Barrie and pleaded for a "shot" after admitting that he was a drug addict. The doctor said he gave Hicks methodine tablets.

Crown counsel Norman L. Mathews said that since the accused had obtained the drugs "legally and without fraud," the crown had no case againstt hem and asked that the charge be dismissed.

Convict is Committed For Trial on Assault

Kingston, Nov. 25 (CP)— Convict Patrick MacKenzie, 31, of Toronto was committed or trial by a higher court when he appeared before Magistrate James B. Garvin on three charges of assault.

MacKenzie is charged with common assault on Kingston Penitentiary guard L. W. Stanley Oct. 5 and with assault occasioning grievous bodily harm on guards H. E. Goodfriend and J. R. Hodgson Nov. 4. Goodfriend was stabbed sixe times and Hodgson twice.

MacKenzie's trial is expected to be held early next month.

He now is serving six years sentence for wounding and three years concurrent for theft.

MILITARY JUNTA TAKES OVER RULE OF VENEZUELA

Army Topples Govt. Of President Gallegos

Caracas, Venezuela, Nov. 25. (AP) — A military junta took over provisional rule of Venezuela today, a few hours after the army toppled the government of President Romulo Gallegos.

The announcement, issued just before midnight Wednesday, said Lt.-Col. Carlos Delgado Chalbaud has been named president of the junta. Delgado was defence minister in Gallegos' cabinet.

The junta will govern Venezuela until a new government is formed, the announcement said. It will rule under the 1936 Constitution and parts of the 1947 constitution that are considered progressive.

The bloodless revolt occurred at noon Wednesday when troops took over all public buildings.

Gallegos, who took office last February as Venezuela's first president elected by direct vote, was at his home under army protection. The whereabouts of other political leaders was unknown.

Lt.-Col. Marcos Perez Jiminez, another member of the junta, said the army staged the coup because of the "incapacity" of Gallegos' administration, made up of members of the Democratic Action Party, and because "Extremist" labor elements were threatening a general strike.

The army apparently acted when Lt.-Col. Mario Vargas, inspector-general of the armed forces, returned from a recuperation of several months in the United States, and threw in his lot with the military.

Private reports from Maracaibo, in Western Venezuela, centre of the oil industry where American capital has a stake of about $2,000,000,000 said oil workers had called a general strike throughout the State of Zulia, the region around Lake Maracaibo.

Israeli to Seek UN Membership In Week or Two

Paris, Nov. 25 (CP)—Israeli will apply for membership in the United Nations within the next week or two, an authoritative source said today.

This move by the new Jewish state will pose the question of whether a country with disputed frontiers can be recognized by the United Nations.

Opposition to recognition of Israel will probably come from Britain which maintains that she will not recognize the new state until its boundaries are set. And there is virtually no possibility that Israel's boundaries will be fixed within the next two weeks.

However, what the British delegation will do if Israel makes its application, is only conjecture. Delegation spokesman refuse to comment on that possibility.

Greek Commandos Attack in Snow, Shatter Rebels

Athens, Nov. 25 (AP)—Government commandos attacking in the snow have shattered a rebel concentration threatening two major highways out of Kozane, the Greek army reported today.

A communique said the attackers killed 81 Communist guerrillas in two nights of fierce fighting and suffered losses of 25 dead and 40 wounded.

The foray occurred in the mountains 25 miles from Kozane, capital of western Macedonia.

FRENCH GOVT. SUSTAINED

Paris, Nov. 25 — (AP)— Premier Henri Queuille's Moderate government defeated the Communists in parliament again today, 412 to 180.

The National Assembly by that vote tabled a Communist question on fighting between Communists and police here Armistice Day. In accord with French practice, no specific question was placed before the Assembly.

Six Communists and supporters indicated their intentions to ask questions more or less related to the fight had the motion carried.

Another Increase Granted Southern Ontario Consumers

Saunders Says Increased Rainfalls Boost Output

Toronto, Nov. 25 — (CP) — Southern Ontario municipalities have been granted an additional 2½ per cent in the daily hydro-electric power quotas, Chairman Robert Saunders of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission announced today.

The increase was made possible by heavy rainfalls at Northern Ontario and Quebec power sources, hydro officials said. The increase is in addition to a 2½ per cent boost made earlier this week.

Officials of the Toronto Hydro-Electric System announced at the same time that the city's one-hour morning cut-off will be eliminated. Toronto now has only one daily power interruption between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. A 45-minute evening cut-off was eliminated Wednesday when downtown cuts went into effect.

Provincial Hydro Commission officials emphasized that power-saving still is as necessary as ever throughout the province. But municipalities found that this week's 2 1-2 per cent increase in power quotas made it easier than formerly to keep within their allotments.

Oil lamps and candles lighted skyscraper offices as Toronto's downtown area, excused from earlier power breaks due to mechanical difficulties in providing for switch pulling, underwent its first blackouts. One fire in an office building was blamed on an oil lamp and an oil light flared up in Mayor Hiram E. McCallum's office but caused little damage.

Many firms dismissed staffs for the day as time approached for the 4 p.m. power cut, the day's second hour-long break. Police reported the action extended the rush hour, jammed street cars and buses and caused traffic tie-ups. Traffic lights, tied in with regular lighting circuits, were blacked out during the cut-offs.

Mayor McCallum announced that if fire broke out during a cutoff, power would be turned on immediately in the section affected.

Toronto's Gas Company could not use gas light during power breaks as it had no gas mantles. However, a downtown restaurant imported some mantles from the United States and made oldtime gas fixtures work.

As elsewhere, dealers in Toronto reported sales of electric goods hard hit by the power shortage brought on by low water at generating plants. But several merchants said they were selling sufficient coal-oil lamps and candles to partly make up for the sales drop.

Stores in Preston voluntarily turned off all their lights and other electrical devices for 12 hours Wednesday to co-operate with the power saving program of industries there. Wednesdays have been Preston's peak days for industrial use of power. Waldemar Village, 60 miles northwest of Toronto, reported that it was getting along without using any electricity at all. Power lines haven't reached there yet.

Two Winnipeg Hunters Missing Since Tuesday

Winnipeg, Nov. 25. (AP)—Air and ground search parties today are combing bush in the Lac Du Bonnet district, 60 miles east of here, for two Winnipeg hunters missing since Tuesday. They are Maurice Broughton and William Gavoga, both 24 years of age and Canadian National Railway repair track apprentices.

The missing hunters' car was discovered unoccupied 28 miles northeast of Lac Du Bonnet. Tracks in the snow indicated one man had headed north, the other east.

News of their disappearance followed closely the finding of two other missing hunters. They were William Mosloski of Kenora, missing since Sunday in the Kenora district, and 17-year-old Roland (Cubby) Barrett, lost since Monday in northcentral Manitoba. Both men were found Wednesday.

Police are continuing dragging operations on the Red River for the body of twoyear-old Freddie Wittneben of Winnipeg, believed to have drowned Monday.

U. S. NAVY TRANSPORT PLANE MISSING

London, Nov. 25 — (AP) — United States navy headquarters here said today a naval transport plane with four aboard is missing between Gibraltar and Port Lyautey, Morocco.

The plane has been lost since 9 p.m. Tuesday. The flight to Port Lyautey normally takes one hour.

SETTLE CRIPPLING MARITIME STRIKE, 13-CENT INCREASE

65,000 Dock Workers Have Been Out for Sixteen Days

New York, Nov. 25. (CP)—The longshoremen's strike which has crippled shipping in United States east-coast ports, caused a diversion boom in Halifax and a passengers' strike aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth in Southampton, England, appeared settled early today.

Cyrus Ching, Canadian-born head of the United States mediation and conciliation service, announced an agreement which came on the 16th day of the strike.

The agreement, subject to approval by union members, gives some 65,000 striking dock workers a 13-cent hourly wage increase, retroactive to August 21, when previous contracts expired.

Previously, the International Longshoremen's Association (A.F.L.) had demanded a 25-cent hourly boost in the straight, daytime pay rate of $1.75 hourly.

The employers' top offer, up to the time of the agreement today, was 10 cents an hour.

Ching said he was "hopeful" the union members will approve the agreement.

The agreement also was subject to approval by the individual employers.

Besides the 13-cent hourly increase in regular day rates, the agreement calls for:

1. Retention of the traditional twice-a-day "shape-up" or work-call, with the guarantee of four hours work for men called to work only once in a single day.
2. For those called to work both at the 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. "shape-up" a total of six hours work is guaranteed.
3. A one-week paid vacation for those working between 800 and 1,349 hours a year, and a two-week paid vacation for those working more than 1,350 hours a year.
4. A welfare plan.

HUNTER NEARLY STARVED

Oliver, B.C., Nov. 25 — (CP)— A near-starved hunter, 17-year-old Leslie Ukos, was in hospital today after being lost for three days and two nights in the wild Kettle Valley country, 55 miles from here. Searchers found him Tuesday unconscious in the snow. He suffered exposure and frozen feet.

PUPILS TO ENJOY HOLIDAY FRIDAY

Pupils and students of Belleville's public and secondary schools will enjoy an extended weekend according to a statement issued by the Hon. Dana Porter, Minister of Education, about a week ago.

Friday is being declared a school holiday in honor of the birth of the Royal Prince on Sunday, November 14.

STONE THROWN UP BY STREET SWEEPER BREAKS WINDOW

Young boys testing their stone throwing abilities or trying their aim with air rifles are often rightfully blamed for many broken windows, but boys cannot be blamed for the breaking of a window in a local business place this morning.

The city street sweeper was making its regular rounds at an early hour today when as it passed the Tip Top Tailor building at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets, a stone flew from beneath one of the wheels and crashed into the window.

Just to relieve any anxiety on the part of the store manager as to who may have been responsible for the broken window, the driver of the sweeper arranged for the manager to be notified.

INTER-SERVICE CLUB WILL SPONSOR JUVENILE HOCKEY

Sponsorship of a Belleville juvenile hockey club has been assumed by the Inter-Service Club Committee, it was announced here today. The announcement also stated that the team will be managed by William Dennis and coached by Eddie Schrieder, president of the Belleville District Hockey League.

Entry into the juvenile playdowns of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association — or a district grouping is expected to follow.

WHEELS OF FLOAT PASS OVER FOOT OF YOUNGSTER

Undoubtedly every small child who witnessed the Santa Claus parade which visited the city today will long remember Santa with his red suit and white whiskers, as well as the many colorful floats.

But little nine-year-old William Dix, Octavia Street, will remember the parade just as long — but for a different reason.

The young lad was watching the parade from the sidelines when in his interest he got a trifle too close to the travelled part of the thoroughfare and the wheels of one of the floats passed over his foot. He was rushed to hospital where the injured foot was X-rayed, it being revealed that no bones were broken. But William nevertheless will have a very sore foot for the next few days.

DISTRICT HOLSTEINS GET FAIR AWARDS

LEGISLATURE FOR GIBRALTAR

Thousands of Children and Oldsters Greet Colorful Santa Claus Parade

Upwards of 10,000 youngsters ranging from six months to 90 years forgot about taxes, threats of war and other worries today as they packed city streets to welcome the first visit of Santa Claus here in years.

Eager children, shining eyed teen agers and oldsters with the warm glow of excitement flushing their faces viewed a colorful parade of floats that formed the story book escort to jolly old St. Nick.

Business along the city's main thoroughfares stopped all activities. The crowds along Front St. stood three and four deep. Windows on second and third floors in office and shop were crowded with excited spectators. Some lined the roof-tops high above the cheering throngs below. Workmen on construction dropped tools and watched the procession.

Given Real Send Off

Crowds watched the parade all along the route of march. It was given a vociferous send-off at the Exhibition Grounds, and from there on the decorated floats wove their way through surging crowds which left the sidewalk to crowd about the parade for a close-up view.

It was greeted with cheers as the first official car crossed the upper city bridge to Front St. People who had waited patiently for two or three hours, and some from outside points, longer than that, forgot age, rheumatism and other physical disabilities and piled out on the road to greet the procession. Babes in arms cried in the excitement. Two, three and four year olds and older aged kiddies shrieked their glee and dragged willing parents from their pavement perches to the centre of the street. Members of the Belleville Fire Department and the City police were the busiest men in the city for two hours at least.

Music and Clowns

There was music and clowns. The Belleville Kiltie Band with kilts swaying led the parade from musical point of view. Second came the Belleville Municipal Band looking not exactly comfortable aboard a large motor transport and thirdly the colorful drum and bugle band of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Trenton, with its huge drum-major tossing high his wieldy mace. Overhead jet planes and other aircraft sped through the airlanes their motors roaring a seasonal salute to Santa Claus. As the parade entered Front Street, grey clouds which had hung threateningly overhead dispersed and a bright sun shone down on the proceedings.

Three troupes of clowns, of local vintage, kept the large crowd in a state of merriment with their funny antics. Grotesquely garbed, the funny men had a field day at the expense of spectators and proved an amusing addition to the parade.

14 Floats in Parade

Fourteen floats comprised the parade while two or three of local make-up brought up the rear. These carried humorous characters with one having on board an assistant to Santa Claus.

The main attraction of course, was the jolly old fellow who was garbed in the traditional red suit and cap with flowing white beard and other legendary apparel. Mounted high on a large colorful float, Santa shouted cheery greetings to the "children of all ages." Ahead of him pranced his famous reindeer, while tinkling bells and music added to the general Christmas picture.

Children shrieked greetings to him as the cavalcade moved slowly along the route. Oldsters clutching their excited offspring crowded to the centre of the street. People on the crowd packed streets cheered. Santa bowed and smiled and waved to his admiring audience.

Headed by Cruiser

The approach of the parade was heralded by the skirling pipes of the Kiltie Band. In the vanguard was a police cruiser with Chief Walter Probert at the wheel. Then followed the official car containing Mayor D. L. Storey, President Harold Seldon of the Chamber of Commerce, Bill Brown, chairman Retail Merchants' Division, Chamber of Commerce and Bob Boyce.

A huge Mother Goose, head in motion and clucking to her goslings was the first float. Then came "I Say a Ship A-Sailing' a beautiful float with a golden ship on a papier-mache sea with Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and other Disney characters as a crew.

The Big Bad Wolf, snarling at his three victims "The Three Little Pigs" was next and then came a group of clowns.

The "Candy Train" with huge lollipops, and other candies in the form of a locomotive attracted a lot of attention, then "Peter, the Pumpkin Eater" followed with a huge pumpkin and colorful figures.

Stirring Band Music

The stirring music of the Belleville Municipal Band mounted on a large truck echoed in the streets at this point and in its rear came the old favorite "The Woman Who Lived in a Shoe." The famous character was depicted with her many offspring and she was seen giving one an old-fashioned spanking.

Nearly all the fairy-tale favorites were there. There was Cinderella, dressed for the ball alighting from her beautiful coach driven by four white horses, then came "Jack and the Beanstalk" with the youthful Jack seen at the top of the stalk while the giant leers at him with club upraised.

"Ding-Dong-Bell" was seen with a mischievous urchin tossing the Pussy Cat down the well, and behind the jolly Old King Cole with a jester offering him his pipe and three fiddlers sawing their bows in the foreground. The "Three Men in the Tub" were depicted riding the waves atop a spouting whale.

Snow Was Missing

Then came a big pink elephant with polka dots and his elephant msuicians. A handsome coach and four followed and then came the big moment with Santa Claus in the role. The lively music of the R.C.A.F. band preceded the big float. Three smaller floats crowded with humorous characters brought up the rear of the procession.

The only thing missing perhaps, in the Christmas atmosphere was actual snow. The weather was very conducive to a spectators viewpoint, but with all the procession heralded the approach of the greatest festive season of the year.

The parade left the Exhibition Grounds at 9.30 proceeded along Yeomans Street thence to West Moira and Front. It swung east on Bridge Street to MacDonald Avenue.

The procession was brought here under the auspices of the Retail Merchants' Division of the Chamber of Commerce. School children were given "a couple of hours off" as one student put it, and directly after the parade they were seen trooping back to the classrooms.

One Santa Too Many

Yes sir, Santa Claus came to town today, but to the somewhat confused minds of many of his small admirers, he brought along a reasonable facsimile of himself. The presence of the second Santa Claus immediately behind the big float, caused several little fellows to raise eyebrows and ask fond parents embarrassing questions.

Two Retiring C.N.R. Engineers Honored by Fellow Members

Members of the local branch of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers honored two of their retiring members Wednesday evening when a banquet and social evening was staged in their honor at the Y.M.C.A.

Approximately 150 members and their wives and friends were in attendance to hear officials of the organization and to listen to the retiring engineers recount their earlier experiences, both as railroaders and in other occupations.

George Secker, Cannifton Road and George Gregory, of Brighton and formerly of this city, were in loquacious mood as they were called upon to make a few remarks as they accepted appropriate gifts in honor of their retirement. Mr. Secker was presented with a handsome fishing rod and reel while Mr. Gregory was the recipient of a fine pair of pipes. The wives of the two men were presented with cups and saucers.

37 Years of Service

With 37 years' service on the railroad, Mr. Secker had the longer association of the two men with the Canadian National Railways. He started as fireman back in 1911 at Belleville and throughout his entire railroad career worked out of Belleville.

Mr. Gregory started with the railroad in 1916 and also served as fireman and engineer. He was on yard engines at the time of his retirement. Both men came to Canada from England, where Mr. Gregory spent his early life as a member of the Royal Navy.

A third engineer W. J. Richards, Toronto, but formerly of this city, retired during the year, but ill-health prevented him making the trip to Belleville for the banquet.

Varied Program

A varied program was offered for the entertainment of those in attendance, this consisting of toasts to the City, to the C. N. R., the Grand Lodge, to the local divisions of the B. of L. E., to the International Auxiliary and to the Motive Power Department. Alderman Jack Allin, representing Mayor D. L. Storey, replied to the toast to the city, while Mrs. Winslow responded to the toast to the Auxiliary. U. W. Carpenter, Montreal, Assistant Grand Chief Engineer, replied to the toast to the Lodge.

Mr. Jack Marshall, Montreal, general chairman of the Lodge, was heard in a few brief remarks.

Miss Barbara Diment, talented local entertainer, was heard in two much appreciated solos, while "That Character McGuire", with Frank Hockaday, ventriloquist, kept the audience in good humor. Mr. E. Brown also sang two solo numbers.

The toast to the honored guests was proposed by H. Drury, while Larry Grey made the presentations. Dancing and cards concluded the evening.

Escapee Enjoys Less Than Six Hours of Freedom

Less than six hours freedom and the tine of a farmer's pitchfork through the fleshy part of his leg, is all that Douglas Thompson, 24, has to show for his break for freedom Wednesday morning from the county jail at Napanee.

At nine o'clock Thompson escaped custody from the jail and at two-thirty was ferreted out of a farmer's hay mow about two miles north of Napanee on the Newburgh road.

The provincial police radio flashed the news of Thompson's getaway and officers from Belleville, Kingston and Northbrook converged on the area setting up a road block. Acting on a tip from a Napanee area farmer that the escaped man was believed to be on his premises, officers searched the barn and found the escapee hiding in the hayloft. The search for the man was directed by Cpl. Everett Smith of Napanee.

Thompson, believed to be from Hamilton, was arrested in that city in October on a fraud charge and was awaiting sentence in Napanee jail when he made his break for freedom. The amount involved in the fraud was stated to have been $600.

Police officers in searching the farmer's barn were unable to locate the escapee and Constable Charles Siple of Belleville took a pitchfork and commenced jabbing into the hay in the loft. He felt the tine of the fork strike an obstruction and when they hay was pulled away Thompson was uncovered.

Police stated that Thompson made no outcry when the fork tine was jabbed into his leg, apparently thinking that by remaining quiet he would escape detection. In addition to the fraud charge he will now face a second count of escaping custody.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)— The Thanksgiving Day holiday in the United States left the Toronto Stock Exchange to make its own way. Prices were irregularly firmer with golds and base metals edging upwards in moderately active trading. Industrials showed a slightly weaker tone with a comparatively small number of issues mixing gains and losses.

The industrial list moved quietly with a few issues touching new highs. Generally the list was down. Oil weakened and papers and foods were easier. Utilities showed a slightly stronger ton and Dominion Tar led a downward construction group. after a weak opening. Smelters Liquors climbed strongly.

Base metals climbed slowly added a fraction and Pend Oreille, New Calumet and Sherritt were also ahead. Noranda, Waite Amulet and Eureka dipped.

Nicholson was an active junior gold for a moderate advance. Teck Hughes, Sheep Creek, Kerr Addison and Negus also strengthened.

B. Allen Elected President Of Tyendinaga P-C's

Members of the Tyendinaga Progressive Conservative Association injected new blood into its executive at the annual meeting held in Melrose Town Hall last night when they elected Brooks Allen, Lonsdale president for the coming year. Mr. Allen has never held office in the association before. He succeeds Lorne Weese, president of the association for a number of years.

Other officers elected are, 1st Vice President, Bruce Portt; 2nd Vice, Donald Foote; Secretary Treasurer, Sherry Demille, Ward chairman are, No. 1 Robert Little, No. 2 Thos. Howard, No. 3 Francis McCullough, No. 4 John Goodfellow, No. 5 J. H. Whiteman, No. 6 Delbert Harvey, No. 7 Clare Cockins.

Several Special Guests

The meeting was well attended. Special guests who spoke briefly during the evening included T. C. Graham, president Hastings South Progressive Conservative Association, Frank G. Cushing, K.C., Secretary of the Association, Geo. H. Stokes, M.P., Hastings South; Roscoe Robson, M.L.A., Hastings East and Harold Varty, Hungerford.

A feature of the evenng's entertainment was the splendid tap dancing performance given by dainty five-year-old Gail Juby, clever daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Juby, Shannonville. The little Miss delighted her audience with her outstanding performance and received a splendid ovation. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Lorne Weese. Mrs. Arnold Reilly, Melrose, offered vocal selections.

Mrs. Ken Vivian, Shannonville, was elected president of the women's division of the association. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

Tools, Clothing Recovered, Man Arrested

Less than 24 hours after $250 worth of millwright's tools and clothing valued at $50 had been taken from a truck parked outside a local hotel, police last night arrested a man at Bayside and charged him with the offense. The man charged with the theft of the articles is Floyd Wood, 32, of Bayside, six miles west of Belleville.

Tuesday night Romeo Ross, Point Anne, told police that his tool box containing valuable tools, together with a suitcase containing clothing had been stolen from a truck outside a local hotel.

Yesterday Inspector Clair Hayes and Sgt. Arnott obtained a lead which led them to Bayside where Wood was arrested and charged with the offence. The toolbox was recovered, also the stolen clothing at the Wood home. The remains of the suitcase which had contained the clothing was discovered in the furnace.

Corporal Sam Ervine of the provincial police accompanied the city officers to the Wood home.

Bonarlaw

Bonarlaw—On Wednesday evening of last week, over thirty Oddfellows from Springbrook Lodge No. 429 attended the banquet held at Campbellford, in honor of the Grand Master, Bro. Wm. Knox, of Ottawa. Adverse Balance Disappearing

Britain's adverse trade balance has been greatly reduced according to October returns — in fact the trade gap stands at the lowest level reached in almost two years. Actually the position is more favorable than the figures indicate since United Kingdom imports are valued C.I.F., meaning that the purchaser pays cost of insurance and freight. In October exports were the highest on record except for the single exception of last July.

Allowing for the rise in prices since 1938, the volume of the U. K. exports in October was estimated provisionally at 142 per cent of the 1938 average compared with 138 per cent in the third quarter and 149 per cent in July.

Last month's exports were $18,400,000 over the average monthly figures for the previous quarter and this increase was shared by each of three main classes, food, drink and tobacco exports rose by four million dollars to over thirty-two million and exports of raw materials above twenty-six millions coal at seventeen millions accounting got over half this rise. Manufactured goods too were up, nearly half the rise being due to increased exports of iron and steel goods.

On the other side, the value of Britain's imports last month was the lowest since February with the exception of August and September.

Exports to North America and Argentina rose in value and proportion. A slight rise in exports to the United States was more than offset by the increase of exports.

Exports to Canada and Newfoundland continued to increase. The proportion of goods coming to Britain from these two countries fell still further in the third period to 10.3 per cent so that there was a reduction of just over thirty-two million dollars in Britain's adverse balance.

Giving Them Sight

One of the marvels of modern science has to do with the work of the eye-bank. An article in the New York Times on the Eye-Bank for Sight Restoration, Inc., reveals the magnificent work which has been done by that organization for humanity. In its third year the Eye-Bank is able to say that "no emergency request for corneal material went unanswered, thanks to the last beneficent gifts on earth of persons who before death, signed the necessary forms donating their eyes to sightless fellowmen."

The Eye-Bank works ceaselessly to create greater interest in its efforts to fulfill the demand. The increase is about a third more than in previous years and the total number of gifts received at New York headquarters since its inception has risen to almost 1,000.

Commenting on this work for handicapped humanity, the Times says: "the work and research constantly going on to keep the Eye-Bank equal to the demands upon it, are leading to new advances that in time are bound to cure or aid additional forms of blindness."

What vast possibilities lie even in this phase of the work can be understood by anyone who has been encouraged by the work of investigation and research of modern science. The discovery of cures and means of aiding various forms of blindness are another of the most magnificent likely consequences of this fine cause.

A Nobel Prize

There was no Nobel peace prize this year, says the Hamilton Spectator which expresses the view that "there should have been an award to one of the few men on earth who knows definitely where he is going and why."

That man is Professor August Piccard of whom it is noted that "his directional fidelity in an age that likes to describe itself as sick, confused, lost and gangrenous, is so simple that it is stupifying — he wants to go as high as he can in the air and as deep down as he can in the water. . . . As he took his bathyscaphe or undersea balloon in a trial descent of Boa Vista in the Cape Verde Islands the other day, he was eagerly watched by experts, for, after all, the man who soared 53,000 feet in a balloon sixteen years ago bears the marks of authenticity," the Spectator goes on.

As the bathyscaphe bobbed up and down on the sea of Boa Vista before the dive a naval officer in frogman's kit swam to peep in at the porthole to find out what form of witchery Professor Piccard and his teammate in the expedition, M. Mond, were employing.

He found out soon enough.

They were engrossed in a game of chess.

There is a sense of reality about what such men are doing as contrasted with the mood of the many inhabitants of the earth.

THANKSGIVING

Song of the grateful mind, I sing,
Remembering the good,
With gratitude for every
Of field and stream and wood;
The flag of freedom overhead,
God's bounty round about us spread.

We find God's love in countless ways.
So richly are we blest

And nights of peacef... rest.
Ours is a land of song and prayer
And knowledge all are free to share.

Land of the cheerful hearth is ours,
Of school and temple free,
Of little gardens gay with flowers,
And grateful all should be.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 25th., 1928

Apples grown in Prince Edward County were awarded first prize at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto and also the Government diploma for the finest apples grown in the Province of Ontario.

George Weeks, operator of the hydro sub-station at Trenton, was the recipient of a bronze medal yesterday in recognition of the presence of mind and courage shown by him in going to the assistance of a fellow workman and pulling him away from a live wire with which he had come into contact resulting in unconsciousness. Mr. Weeks applied resuscitation with the result that in about fifteen minutes the injured man was restored to consciousness and later taken to hospital. He certainly saved the man's life. The medal was presented to Mr. Weeks at the hydro office here in the Bank of Montreal Building by Mr. Don Carlos and Mr. McLachlan. The accident happened about two months ago.

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 25th., 1918

Last evening in Bennett's Academy the members of Sprague's Orchestra were at home to their friends. The orchestra was under the direction of Frank Robinson and the music was excellent.

Ice formed on the water in the harbor last night.

Lieut. Col. W. N. Ponton was in Toronto yesterday to attend a meeting of the Central Committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society. Among those present were the Governor General, two Lieutenant Governors and several provincial premiers.

Inspector Ruston of the Children's Aid Society went to Toronto today.

Dr. Charles Richards of Warkworth was in town today.

40 YEARS AGO

Ex. Alderman A. Robinson entertained a number of friends at his residence last evening.

Mr. George Dulmage spent yesterday with friends in Trenton.

Cadet Gordon B. Johnson was home from the Royal Military College, Kingston, to spend yesterday.

STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

THANKSGIVING

"What shall I render unto the Lord, for all his benefits toward me?"

There have been many blessings this past year. If everyone on Thanksgiving Day were to sit down and for ten minutes try to recall the unusual blessings which had come upon his life during the past twelve months, he would go about his business at the end of that time with a renewed sense of God's goodness. Perhaps amid those gifts there would have been some misfortunes pretty hard to take, but misfortune or no misfortune, the good things and the happy things were there.

The psalmist who asks the question, what he shall render unto the Lord for his manifest blessings, has an answer which at first glance seems incongruous. His answer is, "I will take the cup of salvation and call upon the name of the Lord." In other words, he will use the things God has given him and acknowledge God to be the giver.

The ebst things we can render God for his gifts is a good use of those gifts. They way to show God that we really appreciate what He has done for us is to use the things and opportunities He has given us to high ends. The Bible assures us (I Tim. 6:17) that God "giveth us richly all things to enjoy."

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

PRAYER OF THANKSGIVING

For the abundance of Thy blessing, Lord, we thank Thee. We thank Thee for our free land in which we may raise our voice of thankfulness to Thee and be undisturbed in doing so. We thank Thee for the fruitfulness of this beautiful earth, and for the material and spiritual sustence that it affords at Thy hand.

grateful hearts, that we may in turn seek to bless those less favored through birth or circumstance. Purge each one of us of all selfishness, O Lord, helping us to know Thy will, and directing us as to what we should do, and the manner of its doing.

We pray to Thee, Heavenly Father, for peace of mind, for an emancipation from all fear, and for a new kinship with all the nanimous, kindly toward all and full of understanding. May we be imbued with the spirit of the Gentle Nazarine, who went about, simply and without show—doing good.

For universal peace, in this troubled world, Lord, may we dedicate every ounce of strength with which we are endowed, and at this season of the year when we gather to express our thankfulness to Thee for all our endless blessings, may this greatest of all blessings — peace on earth and good will toward all men — become the heritage of all. That is the Heaven for which we all utter this prayer from a fervent heart.

Give to us, Lord, the clear, far-seeing eye. Endow us with the wisdom of the simple, so that we may know the common touch. Inspire us to divide and to distribute these blessings of ours, making each one of us a thanksgiving servant in this earthly Kingdom

Mackenzie's Column:

MacArthur Pens Psychological Pronouncement

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

In affirming the sentences of death and imprisonment passed in the trials of 25 Japanese war lords, Gen. MacArthur has penned a notable psychological pronouncement.

He says he undertook his reviewing duties reluctantly. Referring to the death sentences on former Premier Tojo and six others he asked the Japanese people to pray on the day of execution — to seek Divine help and guidance that the world keep the peace lest the human race perish."

When the sentences were passed in mid-November this column called attention to the argument which has revolved about such trials — whether they are admissible under international law and, if they are, whether there is moral justification for death sentences. I wound up the column like this:

"Of course there's no possible doubt about the guilt of Tojo and his barbaric leaders. If anyone ought to die for crime, they certainly should."

Brings Letter

That column has brought me a letter which I want you to see. It is from Lesta Shackelford, a 30-year-old war veteran who was a member of the Texas House of Representatives the last session. He now is a university student. He writes:

"It is in the last sentence that you may have put your finger on the crux of the problem. There is a strong group of very important people in the world today who apparently are convinced that a person ought to die when he deserves death. Your qualification in the last sentence of your column indicates that you are at least in doubt as to the soundness of this principle.

"But I wonder if you have considered, in your doubt, the effect that the execution of a human being by a state or a group has on the morale of that part of the world population who are so unfortunate as to learn of the execution.

What About U. N.

"If U. N., before the dawn of another day, resolves that all executions must cease immediately, and if U. N. had the power to enforce a world law based on such a resolution, the greatest burden of all would slip from the weary shoulders of mankind.

"No one has yet been able to argue with conviction that the death penalty has served to deter crime. But when a government undertakes to force the individual to recognize certain qualities in human life which make it inviolate and yet refuses to honor those qualities itself, should we wonder that there is general disrespect for laws?

"We too often find ourselves preaching example, but not practising it. How else can we leave the way open for sweet revenge—which is what we really want, isn't it?"

Whitehall Notebook

Former Constable Becomes Leader Of Commissioners

London, Nov. 25 (CP)— Former Constable W. J. Jordan—"Bill" to many of his New Zealand countrymen—has become the leader in precedence among the Dominion High Commissioners in London, taking the place of Norman Robertson, Canadian representative.

The Commonwealth Prime Ministers' meeting decided that in future precedence should be decided on the basis of seniority of appointment, and Jordan has been here since 1936. Previously Canada, as the Senior Dominion, had been accorded precedence when High Commissioners were together.

Jack of All Trades

Jordan's an example of local boy made good when he participates in the notable occasions of London town. He retains a trace of his cockney accent, for although born at Ramsgate, Kent, his family moved to London's East End when he was a boy and he was educated in a parish school.

His first job was sweeping a goldsmith's shop, taking particular care to see none of the valuable filings were thrown away. Then he was an apprentice coach builder, a post-office worker and finally a policeman in the Limehouse slum district where Prime Minister Attlee was a social worker.

He heard New Zealand had "no snakes or millionaires" and emigrated and proved himself as a logger, painter, paperhanger and beekeeper.

Active Labor Member

He served as a sergeant in New Zealand forces in the First World War and suffered severe wounds. He wsa active in the Labor party on his return to New Zealand, serving as member of Parliament for Manukau for 14 years until his appointment to London.

MARRIES CHILDHOOD SWEETHEART

Chicago, Nov. 25 (AP)— A 41-year-old ex-convict who spent almost 20 years in prison for stealing $2.43 worth of postage stamps married his childhood sweetheart Wednesday.

Cecil Wright, "The Grain Brain of Alcatraz," and Beulah Brimberry, 38, exchanged vows in a ceremony performed by Judge Carl Smith.

Wright acquired the nickname while serving time on "the Rock" in San Francisco harbor. He studied law in prison and the knowledge he acquired over the years finally won him his freedom.

WILL BE CANDIDATE

Renfrew, Nov. 25 (CP)—A. A. MacLean, Arnprior lawyer and former Mayor of that town, Wednesday was unanimously chosen as Progressive Conservative candidate for Renfrew South constituency in the next general federal election. The seat now is held in the Commons by Revenue Minister McCann.

The Packsack

of Gregory Clark

The men's hat manufacturing industry seems to be having a little trouble thinking up reasons why men should wear hats. Their latest advertisement in the street car cards says "Successful Men Wear Hats." This proves too much for the lads who draw mustaches on pictures. They strike out the word "successful" and substitute the word "bald."

Here is a small contribution, gratis, to the hat campaign. In pre-war European restaurants, your hat was checked by a man rather than by a girl. The cloakroom was always so located that it was visible to the head waiter standing, menu in hand, at the door of the dining room.

Your hat determined what kind of a table the head waiter assigned you. Apparently the principle is: an insignificant person may wear a good coat; but only a person of distinction wears a good hat. As you handed over your hat and coat to the cloakroom attendant, he immediately glanced into your hat to examine the label. If it were a Habig from Vienna or a Lock from St. James' Street, London, the hat check man would give an imperceptible nod to the head waiter. And though your coat were frowsy and you needed a hair cut, the headwaiter would smile that knowing smile which is reserved for people of distinction everywhere, and show you to the best table in the room.

Lock's, in St. James' Street, has one of the narrowest store fronts perhaps in the world. Its tiny Georgian windows stand slightly askew. They reveal a few fawn beavers of the period of Beau Brummel. When in search of distinction, I entered the unpretentious front shop, two very elderly clerks stood ready. I enquired what hat would suit me. They decided a dark green pork pie would be the ticket. They set an antique gadget with a flexible steel tape on my head to determine the size. From a box, they extracted a hat in the raw, as it were, in the round. They dinted it into pork pie shape and set it on my head. When I turned to look for a mirror, they protested. I resumed my stance before them. "A little off the brim," suggested the elder clerk. The younger, a man about 70, took a large pair of shears from a drawer and calmly, if you please, by hand, scissored a little off the brim.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF MRS. W. J.

I am 26, have been married four years, enjoy good general health if not v-i-t-e (we have no bowling green here) and in another year or so we expect to start producing little J——'s, writes Mrs. W. L. J.

Like millions of other dumb —oh, well, then say uninformed and misinformed Americans — North, South and Central—Mrs. J. had been a victim of the physic habit ever since Granny, Saireygamp or Mrs. Sumsey had started her on the habit with the first dose of castor oil.

"My mother never did anything about this condition except deplore it and suggest that I eat prunes, bran and the like."

Poor mother. The blind leading the blind.

Finally, Mrs. J. continues, my friend Dr. Mary ——— suggested that I go to a gynescologist, Dr. ———, who discovered a small servical tumor which she removed and found to be benign. But I continued to have cramp-like pains in the abdomen. So the gynecologist referred me to an interist.

An internist, folks, is a general practitioner or an all-around specialist who limits his practice to the region between the calvarium and the phalanges.

The internist kept the patient "under observation", in the parlance of the trade, for months. The patient had to take not just one, but, believe it or not, two enemas a day, in a process of reeducation, as the internist called it.

If I had a little more elbow room and a little less censorship I could expatiate about such "education", but let Mrs. J. finish her recital.

After several months of enemas the internist absent-mindedly asked the patient how she was doing. Mrs. J., waiting for just such a lowering of the specialist's guard, jolted him with the report that she was not getting along at all but getting worse.

"Then", said the internist, "I guess we'll have to remove your hemorrhoids." And that, squawks Mrs. J., was the first she had heard of the hemorrhoids.

The specialist urged the patient to go to the hospital for a week, have the operation, and be rid of her troubles all at once. . .

At that point Mrs. J. discovered Doc Brady's alleged health column in the paper she had switched to recently. By an odd coincidence he discussed the ambulant (painless, injection, office) treatment of hemorrhoids, so she took a chance and wrote to Dr. Wm. Brady, in care of this newspaper, and asked for a copy of the pamphlet It Is Stupid to Suffer from Piles, carefully inclosing a stamped envelope bearing her address.

Life long physic habit is the usual effect of the unnatural interference with the autonomic or automatic control of regulation of the alimentary function by Granny, Saireygam and Mrs. Sumsey.

What Mrs. J. needed, what countless other victims of such interference need, is some elementary instruction on the physiology of digestion.

Such instruction is given, in the plainest language I can use in the booklet The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene for a copy send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Whether the interference habit was responsible for the hemorrholds or the hemorrhoids were caused or aggravated by the irritating medicines and enemas the victim used, we can only surmise. But the vague symptoms the reader describes are not unlikely to disappear when the internal piles are obliterated by the injection treatment.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Don't Show Your Ignorance

Five year old niece had virtus pneumonia. Parents blamed it on drafts at kindergarten, as the teacher there had children lie on pads on floor at rest period, with window and door open. (Miss C. W. L.)

Answer — I hope the child's parents didn't show their ignorance by expressing their belief about that. What we need in our public schools is more good teachers who will permit children to get more fresh air.

Electric Washer Is Better

I'd like to have your instructions for the iodin ration. Will this also help my hearing? (Mrs. H. P.)

Answer—Anyway it won't do your deafness any harm. Please understand the iodin ration is not medicine. It is just food which every man, woman or child requires for good nutrition. I do not recommend it for drying the dishes, for example. For the pamphlet The Iodin Ration send stamped self addressed envelope. Ask for it in writing. A clipping will not suffice.

Halifax Dockmen Still Uncertain About Policy

Halifax, Nov. 25. (CP)—Despite apparent settlement of the United States longshoreemn's strike, Halifax stevedores will continue with their plan to have their legal status in the matter decided by a Federal Arbitration Board.

The Board will be asked to make a make a ruling for future guidance, it was learned today.

Halifax longshoremen will breathe easier if the U.S. dockworkers accept the latest settlement proposal.

If they work ships diverted here from strike-bound ports, the International Longshoremen's Association (A.F.L.) say it is "strikebreaking".

If they refused to work the ships, local officials say they are liable to heavy fines.

Decision to put the matter up to the Arbitration Board came Wednesday night at a closed meeting of the Halifax Longshoremen's Association (A.F.L.) The Association decided all ships would be worked pending decision by the Federal Board on whether it could legally refuse to work any ships.

Trans-Atlantic liners and freighters began to seek haven here when the American tie-up began more than two weeks ago.

Vancouver, Nov. 25 (CP)— A passenger aboard the first train into Vancouver, which arrived in 1887, died Wednesday. The woman, Mrs. Ann Miller, native of Collingwood, Ont., was 89.

Receives Medal At Investiture In Cafeteria

Toronto, Nov. 25 — (CP) — Staff Sergeant William H. Beckley —who was too shy to attend an official vice-regal investiture— received his British Empire Medal Tuesday at a private investiture in a cafeteria.

When Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada, visited the Maclean-Hunter publishing plant at suburban Lansing Tuesday he was told that Sgt. Beckley, a mailing room clerk, had received his medal and a citation in the mail the day before.

"Come along with me, young fellow, and we will have an investiture," His Excellency said to Beckley who had congratulated himself on avoiding a public appearance.

While about 100 of his fellow-employees gathered in the company cafeteria the Governor-General read the citation, which Beckley had brought with him to show his friends, and pinned the medal on his chest.

Women's Aux. Holloway St. Church Holds Successful Tea and Bazaar

Low, autumnal skies, and air with a prophetic 'tang' provided the throng of patrons and friends who flocked to the successful bazaar and tea on Wednesday afternoon, held under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of Holloway Street United Church, in the Sunday School rooms; with an added enthusiasm.

On opening the outer door, one was accosted by the pungent, aromatic scent from an emerald green spray of plume-like pines, tied with a huge, red bow, and sheltered in a niche in the wall at the right. Down a few steps, through another door, and there a beauteous panorama of stately pillars, crested with more plume-like pines, so like the graceful acanthus columns beloved by the ancient Greeks; tall, ivory tapers, softly glowing in their silver holders from little tables, tall pedestals with baskets of lovely bronze and white chrysanthemums; the evergreen Christmas tree with its tiny, silver rope-like roads leading to miniature worlds of red, and blue, and silver and gold; its straight, uplifted finger silently monitoring to the One who "so loved the world"; the long, snow-white tea table with its stately tapers of red and white, stationed like sentinels at either end of a beautiful, snow-covered church with its steeple-tipped, glistening star, and the lovely, silver tea services, all so perfectly blended together, making a picture not soon forgotten.

Guests Welcomed

Here, at the entrance to this scene of enchantment, the guests were welcomed by the president, Mrs. A. C. Campbell, and her assistants, Mrs. C. Perkins, and Mrs. G. E. Dobbs, and directly across from them were the treasurers, Mrs. W. Green and Mrs. S. Lough.

Wending the way slowly, because of the dense crowd, one came to the home-cooking table in a large alcove-like room at the left. Here, upon a white-topped table, with ropes of pink and blue and turquoise, and centred with a crystal bowl of mauve and white 'mums, and pastel-tinted Soudan grass, flanked by tall, green and white tapers, were the delicious results of tireless, expert blending of the culinary art, cakes of all kinds, shapes and colors; Chinese chews, short breads; raisin pies, raspberry pies, apple pies, mince pies, gems with brown tops, gems with pink tops and a whole walnut meat in the centre; cakes with whipped cream, looking, oh, so good!, and many others too numerous to mention. Over this presided Mrs. A. Lennox, Mrs. F. Scott, Mrs. C. Hitchon and Mrs. B. McMurray.

Cleverly-Wrought Gifts

At right angles to this was the C.G.I.T. gift booth in blue and white, and centred with the crest of the Canadian Girls in Training and was convened by Mrs. P. Moynes. This booth was one of suggestions as well as one of gifts. Displayed were various kinds and shapes of bottles, all gaily decorated, and for use in the kitchen, and other places. Bottles which had been discarded and were reclaimed, painted, and beautified by handcraft. Also old records which no longer played without stuttering, had been shaped into table dishes for raw fruits, and silvered\ and cleverly decorated with frosted pine cones. Then there were napkin rings painted red and enhanced by the addition of floral transfers. These napkin rings had once been emptied tins of baby food. All showing what a little ingenuity can achieve when necessity prompts.

Down the side from this table was the Country store, with its heterogeneous display of everything from soup to nuts. There were tins of canned foods, canned pears, corn, bottles of pickles, jelly powders which would have brought tears of joy to the eyes of most all housewives had they been as plentiful three or four years ago. This booth was decorated in turquoise, coral and white, and very attractive, judging from the number of purchasers. Mrs. M. E. Ferguson, Mrs. Quincey, Mrs. J. Tweddy, Mrs. T. Ketcheson, Mrs F. Jeffery and Mrs. W. Johns were in charge of this.

Aprons and Aprons

Out into the large room of stately pillars, and at the left the apron booth, with its white skirt, decorated with strips of mauve and gold. Aprons of every hue, and kind of material, shape and trim were on exhibition, but not for long. Aprons in blue with white vines running all over them; aprons with yellow roses, some with pink roses, and others in white with colored rickrack and one that caught the eye as of white or cream factory cotton with a border of trellised cretonne with red roses running up the trellis. Another apron of note was of patchwork pieces, set diamond fashion, in rows of black, green and mauve, ending in sharp points at the bottom, finished with white rickrack braid. The conveners of this were: Mrs. R. Andrews, Mrs. R. Joss, Mrs. F. Morden, Mrs. W. Symons, Mrs. F. Harrison and Mrs. L. Wilkes.

Down the side from the apron booth was the booth of knitted goods and fancy work, with it valance of red and green streamers, its red and white skirt, with red bows and sprays of emerald pines. At one end was the red-brick fireplace, and it must have been the night before Christmas, because the stockings were all hung up in a row along the top; little white, knitted stockings, little pink sockettes, and right on top was one of Santa's reindeers which could it be? Many beautiful articles were for sale here; tea towels with stencilled cherry clusters, some with green gages, others with pears with pink checks, crocheted hot mats in all designs, some like little doll dresses, others resembling pink, Michelmas daisies; knitting boxes all beautified with enamel and cutout flowers; nosegays made from pretty colored handkerchiews; parasol of handkerchiefs, some with sugar-cane handles to appease both the outer and inner man; two, red, oil-cloth cats with white, button eyes sat beside the fireplace belligerently eyeing each other; on closer scrutiny, it was seen they had pockets for matches, when the hydro went off, or to find each other more easily. Over this combination booth of knitted goods and fancy work were the conveners with the co-conveners: Mrs. W. Oliphant, Mrs. Ricketts, Mrs. D. Ferguson and Mrs. Regensburg.

Delectable Candies

The candy booth was convened by Mrs. Grills, Mrs. V. Moorman and Mrs. W. Wagg, and was very pretty with its huge Christmas cane suspended above, its deep red skirt below, and on top boxes of dainty home-made candies of fudge, marshmallows, divinity fudge, chocolates, all alluring to those with a special weakness.

Across the far end was the large platform upon which the Energetic Club exhibited their toys. These consisted of beds with rubber wheels, little chairs and black-boards, all varnished, and exceptionally well made in charge of Mr. L. Buck and Mr. O'Neil.

In charge of the tea room were Mrs. O. Denyes; Mrs. J. F. Wilson and Mrs. Don Fraser. Those who poured the tea from 2:30 to 4 p.m. were Mrs. C. Holmes and Mrs. McCoy, while Mrs. L. Buck and Mrs. G. Coulter poured from 4 to 5 p.m.

Those, who from time to time, replenished the tea table were: Mrs. H. Poste and Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. D. Fraser and Mrs. Bell who gave their willing services during the hours from 2:30 to 4, and from 4 to 5, respectively.

Those who served from 2 to 4 were: Mrs. Homer Townsend, Mrs. C. White and Mrs. C. Lowther, and Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. Riley and Miss M. Barnum from 4 to 5 p.m., while Mrs. M. Hicks was the gracious hostess to the tea room and Mrs. W. Jeffery prepared the tea.

Over all the booths with their outstanding displays were Mrs. L. Hopkins and Mrs. C. Gibson, with Mrs. Garn Dobbs convener of the bazaar and tea as a whole.

A truly lovely bazaar, carefully planned, artistically arranged and successfully concluded, bringing credit to all those who labored so untiringly.

Discussion Period Features Meeting Young Women's Guild

The Young Women's Guild met at the home of Mrs. H. R. Gibson, Foster Avenue., Miss Hazel Thompson presided over the meeting.

The Devotional period was conducted by Mrs. A. E. Cornish, based on some of the findings of the Lambeth Conference.

Mrs. Emery gave a resume of the recent talk on "Women's Responsibility in the Canada of the Future" by Mrs. Bryne Hope Saunders, editor of the Chatelaine, who spoke to the Woman's Canadian Club.

Miss Frances Sullivan led the discussion and many pertinent facts were brought out.

Does the fact that many of the former responsibilities of the home have been transferred to the state and other agencies have any bearing on the breakdown of home life?

Is there any connection between the fact that many mothers are employed outside the home, and the increase in juvenile delinquency?

Has the fact, that the average age of marriage been postponed for several years, due to economic conditions, and also the fact that there is little or no training for the profession of marriage any bearing on the increased divorce rate?

Lack of economic security makes for a great deal of the unrest all over the world. People want the assurance of a successful peace if possible.

Following the discussion period a very successful Auction Sale was held. Miss Olive Elson proved to be a very persuasive auctioneer. A considerable sum was realized to be used for the charitable purposes of the Guild.

Surprise Party Given Couple On Eve of Departure

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Geddes, Belleville, R.R. 4, who have been residents of this community for nearly half a century, living in the same farm house, were pleasantly surprised when friends and neighbors gathered on the eve of their departure, to do them honor, and to wish them much happiness in their new home in Deseronto.

At the close of an address of tribute read by Mr. Clazie, on behalf of the community friends, they were presented with two walnut occasional chairs, and a walnut magazine end-table, tangible evidences of the esteem and high regard in which Mr. and Mrs. Geddes were held. Little ten-year-old Barbara Greatrix added her appreciation of a very fine couple by reciting "Farewell", a poem of her own composing.

The ladies of the Women's Auxiliary of the Front Church, also showed their love and appreciation by presenting Mrs. Geddes with a Wedgwood pitcher-vase.

The evening was passed in a social get-to-gether, recounting the happy memories of the days past in fellowship together.

Mr. and Mrs. Geddes thanked the many friends and neighbors for their kind wishes, stating they would always treasure the days passed in the community, and would look forward to seeing them in their new home.

Later refreshments were served by the ladies.

German Young People Praise And Idolize Hitler Dr. Smith Tells Youth Fellowship Group

"Young people in Germany, twenty-four years old and under, are full of hatred, such hatred as I have never known in my life," said the Reverend Oswald J. Smith, D.D., Litt. D., F.R.G.S., speaking before a packed auditorium Tuesday night in Holloway St. United Church at the monthly meeting of the Christian Youth Fellowship.

Dr. Smith, who is pastor of the People's Church, Toronto, and an author and hymn writer of note, has recently returned from a tour of Europe, where he gained a first hand impression of conditions in the war-ravaged lands.

"The German young people still praise and idolize Hitler," said Dr. Smith. "I did not think it possible to eradicate Hitlerism from their hearts." Yet, after addressing an audience of 3,000, Dr. Smith stated that more than two hundred stayed behind to make a decision for Jesus Christ. The Gospel of Jesus Christ accomplished what nothing else could do. The German pastors pleaded with him to come back and help to evangelize Germany, after they saw the Gospel of Jesus Christ soften those bitter hearts and accept the message from an enemy.

"There is no other solution for Germany," said Dr. Smith. "The Marshall plan isn't going to do it. What we need is a spiritual Marshall plan."

Wide-Spread Paganism

In France Dr. Smith found wide-spread paganism but the people were receptive to the Gospel. He preached to over 18,000 in the ancient Roman amphitheatre at Nimes in southern France, where many Christians were martyred at the beginning of the Christian era. There are 353 decisions for Christ. In Italy he found no hatred. The people were warm-hearted and gladly heard the Gospel. There were many decisions for Christ in Rome and Naples.

"Europe is one of the greatest mission fields in the world," declared Dr. Smith. "If we do not evangelize Europe now they will return to paganism. If the Russians strike, the doors will be closed, the curtain will fall. We are desperately trying to get the Gospel of Jesus Christ to them now. Then if the curtain does fall the Gospel will be there and we will have people who can carry on.

"Every country is going through a testing time such as the world never has seen before. Pastors in Europe know that demon forces are at work. These demon forces are trying to cross the ocean. If they do we in Canada and the United States will see some of the brutalities and horror that Europe has suffered.

"It behooves us to pray about the immediacy of the hour. Satan is on the march, trying to destroy the church of Christ. Anyone, awake to the seriousness of the hour will be anxious to help evangelize the world."

Have Not Obeyed Command

Dr. Smith referred to the command of Jesus to His disciples, 'Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature.' "We have done everything but obey that command," he said. "Jesus never told us to build churches, schools, hospitals, colleges, houses of refuge. Yes, we ought to have done all these things but we have not obeyed His only command

"Sixty-five per cent of the world is not yet evangelized. There are 2974 major languages in the world. Only 1185 have the Bible, which means that 1789 haven't any part of the Bible. There are a thousand tribes, not villages but nations, in the various continents of the world, still without a single missionary. And we have been preaching the Gospel for nearly two thousand years.'"

Dr. Smith stated that his church supported 240 missionaries and they would never be satisfied until they had 500 workers in foreign fields. The People's Church, Toronto, spent last year $157,000 for missions and only $33,000 for their own purposes. Every church should be spending more for missions than for themselves, said Dr. Smith, if they would be true to Christ's commission. He was sure that any church following that vision would prosper in a wonderful way.

Musical Program

During the service the C. Y. F. Chorus, under the direction of Stan Leesels sang two of Dr. Smith's hymns, "There's Joy in Serving Jesus" and "The Need of the World is Jesus." Guest soloist, Rev. S. Leon Cooke of Rochester, N.Y., sang "Then Jesus Came." He also played a violin solo "The Glory of His Presence." Miss Dorothy Mitchell was accompanist for the chorus while Miss Margaret Sullivan accompanied Mr. Smith. The Salvation Army Band played several numbers. The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Smith and Rev. C. A. Perkins pronounced the benediction. The service was in charge of Mr. Eric C. Naylor.

PARENTS' QUARRELS UPSET BABIES

London, Nov. 25 — (CP) — A baby can tell when parents are quarrelling and is upset by it, Dr. Doris Odlum, psychiatrist, told a nurses' conference here. "The mother and father must be a team," she said. "If they have a row they must have it where the child cannot hear."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Problem of an Army Flier's Wife

he problem of the wife whose band is unfaithful to her is sented from a little different le in the following letter from oung wife whose husband is Army flier. This couple has g children, and because ature of the young man's k he is away from home a at deal.

My problem is," writes P. R., at he is unfaithful to me dur- these absences. I have con- ive evidence.

I love my husband dearly, he wonderful to our children and ts me grand except for this fault. I am a loyal wife, but n always so miserable when is away, which is sometimes so long as three months. I ere are many other fliers' o have the same trouble, we are at a loss to know t to do.

When I have discussed this n my husband, he says all boys do it; that it is just my lity that makes me concerned, I am nagging him, that a woman's place is at home and she should not question her husband's activities. As a result, I go on being a good wife to him and try to pretend nothing is wrong, while all the time my heart feels as though it is going to break.

"Should I put up with this the rest of my life, being unhappy every time he goes away because I know he will be with other women, or should I divorce him now, while I am still young enough to start a new life for myself and my children? I have more than any of the girls I was raised with, but is it worth it for the misery I must go through? I was married very young and have no career I could go back to."

As in the case of most other wives confronted by this type of problem, about all this girl can do, I'm afraid, is to try and figure out whether she would lose or gain more by leaving her husband. And I think the chances are that, under her particular circumstances, she is one who would lose instead of gain.

She says she has no work to which she could return if she were to divorce her husband. Even if she did have, her children are young, and it might be a problem to have them cared for if she were away from home all day. Even if she were to get sufficient alimony from her husband in case of divorce so that she would have no worries about supporting herself and the children, to be alone all day with her youngsters, knowing that there would be no husband coming home to give her at least a certain amount of companionship from time to time, might be harder to get used to than to accept and live with the problem she now has.

Where most women make their big mistake in a case of this kind is to argue about the matter with their husbands, and to keep up a constant stream of tears and reproaches. All of that can accomplish nothing but make worse an already bad situation. No husband ever stopped philandering because of his wife's tears.

On the other hand, it is not at all impossible that if a wife can have the courage and fortitude to be silent about her unhappiness, and do her best to keep her home a happy place for her husband to come to, that technique may, in time, if the husband is worth anything at all, bring results. At any rate, I think it is her best bet.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Foreheads Should be Satin-smooth

The forehead is in the public eye

Sweet young things are going in for bangs in a big way, and these fluffy fringes just north of the eyes are as cute as a button. But the grown-up girls are still displaying foreheads that are naked and unashamed. Sweeping the hair upward, whether it be to a topknot twist or a close clip, imparts that clear-cut, cameo look that now seems necessary.

Neatly arched eyebrows, nicely laid on lipstick, cheeks void of rouge, all contribute to this type that has continued in favor for so long a time. There is a freshness of appearance, and a sort of vitality of countenance that are intriguing.

The noble brow is in the public eye; for that reason—aside from the reflection in the mirror—it should be presentable, kept in tip-top form.

It is a rich field for what is called 'expression' lines. These are self-inflicted and there is no reason why one should create them. Time itself does enough damage to the face without giving it any assistance.

Frown lines express irritation or disapproval, though concentration may bring them. They are definitely habit furrows, wouldn't be there if one could maintain the calm and serene look of a happy contented individual. At the first sign of a furrow, treatment should begin immediately. The area should be lubricated with a heavy cream. With one finger, do tiny circles. Place the thumb at the lower end of the line, first finger at the upper terminal. Hold the finger stationary; iron upward with the thumb. This movement lifts the flesh up out of the groove. Then slap and pat briskly.

Frowns will not depart of their own accord. Not at all, my friend. They dig in deeper with the years and there is no health in them. Women with impaired eyesight are inclined to have them if their glasses are not what they should be.

Then there are those lines that go trekking across the forehead. How do they get there? Because a woman is not content to express surprise in words, but must lift her eyebrows. Cream that area, too. Do wide circles there. With the first and second fingers of each hand rub up and down, moving them upward with heavy pressure, coming down with a light touch.

The pattern of the eyebrows is important, as every woman knows. Some of our home designers don't do well by their eyebrows, tweezing them to a single marching line of silky fuzzers. That's old stuff, my children. Eyebrows are themselves again, in natural formation.

Fashion Flashes

GROWING in popularity for theatre wear is the skirt and separate top. Skirts of taffeta, of velvet, of brocade, and of metallic cloth are frequently seen, as are lace or wool jersey tops with very scooped out necklines. Now and again one sees the strapless, wired bodice, a nice choice for the young, slender figure, but not for any other type, we're afraid.

IT'S WONDERFUL to see how beautiful wool dresses are this season. One of the most original dresses seen at a recent evening party at a picture gallery was an ankle-length dress of tissue weight, off-white woolen with a neckline deep and straight in back and curved to a deep rounded bertha point in front with a tailored self bow. The skirt is softly gathered onto a very slim, beltless waistline.

IT LOOKS LIKE the biggest season yet for fashion revivals, so it doesn't astonish us to see, here and there, the fine gold mesh bag. Sometimes this is used inside an evening bag to hold compact and lipstick.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Family Finances

One of the many things on which a man and a women should have a definite agreement before marriage is the matter of the family finances. It is all very well for a girl who is in love to take it for granted that the man she marries is going to support her. What many poor innocents find out too late, however, is that while their husbands may carry out the responsibility of supporting them, they never are given so much as five dollars for themselves. The husband pays the bills and thinks his wife should be satisfied with that.

Other wives have a sad awakening when they discover that any money of their own they may happen to have is considered by their husbands to be common property.

I was glad to see, therefore, that a young woman who writes me she is contemplating a second marriage, after a divorce, has the good sense to want the matter of whose money is whose, settled before the wedding day. She is 38, she says, and the man she expects to marry is twelve years older—both of them supposedly mature enough to take an adult view of life in general.

"I have a lovely five-room home," writes this young woman, who signs herself "R.H."; "a double garage and a newly furnished apartment from which I get $75 a month income. I spent $1,500 to improve the apartment so I could rent it. My home is also very nicely furnished and I have a 1941 automobile. All of this is clear.

"This man owns two lots and equipment for his work, the equipment being valued at $2,000. He is willing to put this into community property and has offered to spend $500 for rugs and drapes for the house, which is all it needs to complete it. We intend to trade my car in on a new one, the balance to be paid out of his earnings. He would move into my home with no rent to pay except for general upkeep.

"Now the argument is, he thinks we should have a joint bank account and our earnings should go into it, and that I should put the income I get from the rent of my apartment into that joint bank account. The house is to remain my own property.

"I think I am entitled to keep my income in a bank account of my own or do with it as I see fit. I feel that he should clothe me, make our living and put his savings in a joint account for us. He makes good money but thinks it's no more than fair that my income should be community property after we are married. I want to do the right thing so would you please advise me."

As I have said, I think "R.H." is very wise to have financial matters definitely organized before her marriage. I think also that her own personal income should remain under her own control and not be made a part of their community property.

It does seem to me, however, that if she reserves that right for herself, it would be only fair for her husband also to have an account which is his alone, to do with as he see fit, just as she believes she should do in the case of her own income. She is expecting, and rightly, I believe, that her husband should be financially responsible for her after she is his wife. But if he carries out this responsibility fairly and generously, then I see no reason why she should lay claim to every cent he makes by insisting it all go into a joint account.

If this woman wants her second marriage to be a success, as obviously she must, she should start right now to be as fair on her side as she expects her husband to be on his.

Shannonville

Milltown Couple Feted by Friends On Anniversary

Shannonville (Special)— Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bennett were pleasantly surprised on Saturday evening when relatives and friends from Belleville and Point Anne joined with Milltown friends to help Mr. and Mrs. Bennett celebrate their silver wedding anniversary.

Seventy-five guests were present for this special occasion. Cards were enjoyed by many while others joined in a sing song led by Mrs. W. Stewart and Mrs. Herb Houston. Mrs. Margaret Duncan was the pianist for the evening.

Dancing was much enjoyed by the younger guests with Mr. Bill Houston calling off in his usual fine manner.

Address And Presentation

Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett were called into the living room, where they were seated in the midst of the circle of friends. Mrs. Herb Houston read a short address and Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald presented the couple wich tray, a silver brooch and a sugar set, also pair of white Trapper Point blankets with rainbow borders. Mr. Bert Charlton of Point Anne asked Mr. and Mrs. Bennett to accept a beautiful pair of table lamps from their Point Anne friends. The couple also received two silver dishes, a sandwich tray, a sliver brooch and a complete set of pyrex ware.

Delicious refreshments were served which included anniversary cake from Mr. Bennett's mother, Mrs. John Bennett of Point Anne, also a very attractive cake with "Happy Anniversary and 2 years" inscribed in the icing which was the gift of Mrs. Bennett's brother, Mr. W. Frawley and Mrs. Frawley of Belleville.

Another Anniversary

This occasion also marked Mr. and Mrs. Herb Houston's thirty-ninth wedding anniversary and Mr. and Mrs. W. Frawley presented them with a similar cake with the inscription "Thirty-nine years."

After the refreshments dancing was resumed with the music furnished by Mrs. Duncan of Belleville, Mr. Victor Godfrey of Mountain Grove and Mr. Sidney Fitzgerald of Milltown.

An enjoyable evening was spent with Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and family and all present wished them many more happy years of wedded life together. The evening was brought to a close.

Rawdon

Toronto Pastors Claim CBC Policies Have Driven Church Services off the Air Sunday

By WILLIAM WILSON

Ottawa, Nov. 25 —(CP)— The Canadian Council of Churches was scheduled to discuss today complaints of a Toronto clergyman that CBC policies have driven church services off the air and secularized Sunday evening broadcasting.

The complaint has been pressed by Canon J. E. Ward of St. Stephen's Church in Toronto and is the subject of a report to the council. It was to have been discussed Wednesday but was not reached.

A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC Board of Governors, issued a formal statement Wednesday, denying that the CBC had driven services off the air. His statement was issued when the council placed Ward's complaints on its agenda.

Canon Ward has charged that the CBC, by favoring revenue-producing network programs on Sunday evenings, has set an example which private stations have followed with the result that so far as radio is concerned "complete secularization of Sunday evening has been accomplished."

"The CBC is not driving any church service from the air," said Mr. Dunton. "The present discussion arises from cancellation of Canon Ward's Sunday evening service in Toronto which had been carried for many years by station CFRB.

Station Dropped Service

"It was this station which dropped the service entirely of its own violition and the CBC had nothing to do with the cancellation."

A report drawn up for presentation to the council by Rev. W. J. Gallagher, general secretary, cited Canon Ward's complaints but noted, among other things, that private stations linked to the CBC were bound to carry its religious program Church of the Air.

They were under no obligation, however, to carry its national programs during Sunday evening church time. Mr. Gallagher described the CBC's religious programs as possessing "high merit."

Mr. Gallagher said that if the CBC and private stations could be induced to agree to the prior claim of religious broadcasts on Sunday evenings, there were four possible courses which could be followed. They were to:

1. Reserve all of Sunday evening for religious broadcasting on both the CBC networks and private stations.
2. Provide one or more network programs of a religious character on Sunday evening.
3. Provide a religious service at church time in each zone, leaving the rest of the network to carry on as usual.
4. Require local stations to provide a religious service or program on Sunday evenings.

Abandon Hope For Ship and 37 Lost in Atlantic

Halifax Nov. 25 (CP)—Canadian and United States planes prepared to take off at dawn today in what may be a final search for the British freighter Hopestar, missing since Nov. 14 with 37 men aboard in the North Atlantic.

Wednesday, search-weary crews of three Lancaster bombers from R.C.A.F. base at Greenwood, N. S., scoured 10,000 miles of the Atlantic centred some 500 miles southeast of here but returned to base reporting negative results.

Search and rescue said here "It is felt that (today's search) will be the last physical effort to find the Hopestar." They added, however, that listening watches on alerted shipping will be maintained for possibly two weeks.

R.C.A.F. said here that United States Air Force and coast guard planes would also take to the air again this morning. The hunt began Tuesday after the Hopestar reported "heavy weather damage" some 400 miles southeast of Halifax.

The vessel was en route from Newcastle to Philadelphia.

Some 25 hours were logged by the Lancaster aircraft, which carry lifeboats that they can drop to stranded seamen.

United States planes from the naval base at Argentia, on Newfoundland's south coast, returned to base Wednesday reporting negative results.

Blackouts Worst Fire Hazard In Toronto's History

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)— Sam Hill, Toronto Fire Marshal, said today downtown blackouts are "the worst fire hazard the city has ever faced."

He urged drills for workers in downtown office buildings. Flame lamps and candles particularly were a menace and one of the principal menaces was Toronto's City Hall, he said.

During Wednesday's cut off he asked Mayor Hiram McCallum to order civic employees in the fourth-floor "attic" to vacate their offices and to ban open lamps on that floor, served only by three stairways.

A small fire broke out in a wooden counter in the city clerk's department, being used as a distribution centre for lamps. Coal oil and gasoline had slipped on the counter as the lamps were being primed.

Boost in Pari-Mutuel Betting Noted by Agriculture Dept.

Ottawa, Nov. 25 — (CP)—Pari-mutuel machines clicked merrily this year as chalk and long-shot players jammed wickets to lay their money on the line.

The Agriculture Department reported today that bettors fed the machines $56,178,491 during 1948. This was approximately a per-cent boost over 1947 when racing enthusiasts dug down for $48,519,909.

The 28 racing associations held 349 days' racing in 34 meetings. This compared with 329 days last year when 29 associations held 36 meetings.

Prize money totalled $2,755,000, compared with $2,323,675 in 1947, with Ontario paying the most in prizes at $1,544,300 against $1,231,900.

Ontario race-track customers, in fact, appeared to have a lot more money to wager. More than half the total bet was placed in Ontario, although the province held considerably less than half of the total racing days.

With 144 racing days, race-goers in Ontario wagered $37,368,215, compared with $29,034,232 during 126 racing days last year.

That was the year the federal government moved out of the tax field as far as pari - mutuels were concerned, and the bettors paid varying provincial taxes — 5½ per cent in Quebec, 10 in Ontario, five per cent in Alberta and Saskatchewan and nine in British Columbia.

Total purses increased in every province compared with last year, while amounts wagered increased in every province except British Columbia. There the total fell from $8,895,929 in 1947 to $7,213,900 this year.

Largest amount wagered was at the fall meeting of the Ontario Jockey Club held at Woodbine Park, Toronto, when $2,280,007 was collected at the mutuel machines.

80,000 PERSONS ATTEND WINTER FAIR AT TORONTO

France Wins International Team Trophy on Last Night

Toronto, Nov. 25. (CP)—It was back to the farm today for the thousands of farm animals that have held the spotlight through eight days of glamor, crowds and prize-giving at the 20th Royal Winter Fair which ended Wednesday night.

For them it was a great show. Many of them carried away more than 10,000 ribbons won in competition which fair officials said matched any since the fair began in 1922.

It was a great show for the officials too. W. P. Watson, general manager, called it "a record year for overall attendance". Some 80,000 persons saw the Fair's biggest attraction, the horse show.

Wednesday night's horse show ended on a high note for the four-man military jumping team of France when they won the international team challenge trophy for the first time since 1927.

Undaunted by the record of the Mexican team —undefeated since the fair began—Capt. Max Fresson and Lieut. Guy Lefront put their team ahead with faultless jumping over the 11 barriers of the course. Team Captain Col. Perre Cavaille clinched the victory atop his team's best mount, Marquis III. The horse, slightly lamed from previous jumping, carried his rider through with only one balk at a difficult jump.

The Mexican team placed a close second, one point behind the winners, and the Canadian team took over third spot.

Many Ship to Chicago

For many fair exhibitors, the closing doesn't mean the end of competition. A long line of cattle cars Wednesday night began taking on the prize-winning livestock that will be shipped to Chicago to seek prizes at the International Livestock Exposition which opens there on Saturday.

Canadian farmers kept all the world titles. Three of them went to Alberta farmers—to John Allsop of Red Deer for wheat, to John Boulton of Abee for oats and to R. Wennerstrom of Camrose, for rye. Louis Robbins of Laura, Sask., is the world barley champion and Arthur Budarick of Palmer Rapids, , Ont., won the world championship for potatoes.

Tops among Ontario's Junior Calf Club members was 19-year-old Ken McKinnon of Hillsburgh, who won the 50 King's guineas for the second year in a row with his Aberdeen-Angus steer Danny Boy, the grand champion of 96 steers entered from Ontario. .

$6 Pound For Steer

The show's best among market steers from 114 Canadian farms was Cannonball, an Aberdeen-Angus steer shown by an Ontario farmer, Lloyd Mack of Rockwood. It sold at auction for $6 a pound, bringing its owner $5,280.

Star performer among 1,200 dairy cattle was a 3,200-pound Holstein bull, Chip of Nettie and Aggie from Franlo Farms of Hopkins, Minn. "Chip", the largest animal in the show, carried off the grandchampionship rosette for bulls in the black and white class.

One small lamb, grand champion among all wether lambs, brought a fancy price from an evening crowd at one horse show. Buyers bid the lamb up to $5 a pound for its owner, W. J. Brodie of Stouffville, Ont.

Of all riders in jumping and hunter events at the Fair's horse shows, a 16-year-old horseman took top prize for his riding skill. He was Doug Cudney of Winona, Ont., who won the W. S. Wilson trophy for the fair's best record over a series of gruelling contests.

Americans Show Gratitude For Bounty, Share With World In Spirit of Thanksgiving

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP) — Americans, their country prosperous and at peace, give thanks today for the bounty which they are sharing with their neighbors around the world.

The 1948 United States Thanksgiving Day brought a new breadth to the traditions established 327 years ago, when the Pilgrims shared their harvest with their Indian neighbors.

Today, instead of merely bringing their baked corn and new-plucked vegetables to a community feast table, the people were sharing their goods internationally through the Marshall plan.

But the tradition of the food-heaped table remained a big part of the celebration for Americans, who today were gathering throughout the land for family reunions and to eat turkey-and-trimmings.

Railroads and airlines scheduled extra facilities to handle the stream of home-bound travellers. Highways were jammed.

There were banquets, entertainments, football games, and in many places, special prayers.

Most places of business and public buildings were closed, but inns and movie houses were crowded.

In Washington, President Truman planned to spend most of the day working at his desk, except for time out for a turkey dinner at Blair House across the street from the White House.

In New York and Philadelphia department stores stage their big Thanksgiving parades featuring Santa Claus and toyland wonders, and attracting thousands of spectators along the avenues.

On New York's bowery, the Down - and - Outer Association planned its annual turkey dinner —with the meal on the house.

Loney's Mother, "Mom" to Ottawa Rough Riders, Finds Players Very Fond of Chocolate Cake

Ottawa, Nov. 25 (CP)—No. 161 Greenfield is "Football House" to many Rough Riders, Eastern Canadian football winners

This is where Riders' stalwart snap, Don Loney, lives. Nels Green, backfielder on the Ottawa squad, also stays at the comfortable Loney home where Don's mother, Mrs. J. G. Loney, is hostess to at least a half dozen Riders nearly every Sunday.

"I'm mom to the boys," laughed the friendly, warm-eyed woman. "They're always dropping in to talk football. I always find these players especially like chocolate cake."

Football is rated ace-high in the Loney family. And even Don's 11-year-old brother, Teddy, has a spot with the Ottawa team.

"He's water-boy," said Mrs. Loney, who has been following the pigskin game ever since Don began playing back in high school 11 years ago.

Mrs. Loney will be among the hundreds of fans taking the Toronto train Friday night for the Grey Cup final.

Another "special" fan who will see the playoff is Mrs. Doug Smylie.

The black-haired dark-eyed beauty joined the army of football wives a year and a half ago when she married the Ottawa halfback. But her interest in Athletics began well before then.

"I played quite a bit of basketball and ice hockey when I was in Varsity at Toronto," she said.

Practices and travelling with the R.C.A.F. Transport Command also keep Tony Golab away a lot during the football season. But when the all-star halfback is home he spends much time giving two-year-old Shelby "workouts".

"I don't know whether Shelby will grow up to be a rugby player, but Tony already has him doing calisthenics," said Mrs. Golab.

HAS MENTAL AGE OF EIGHT

London, Nov. 25 — (Reuters)— Reginald Wood, 20-year-old laborer said by a medical witness to have a mental age of about eight, went on trial Wednesday for the murder of 15-year-old Doreen Lowther. The girl's naked body was found badly beaten in a passage in the London east-end dock area.

MAN STILL MISSING

Toronto, Nov. 25 — (CP) — Irwin Hilliard, 85, is still missing from his Toronto home, police said today. One-time Conservative member for Dundas in the Ontario legislature, and former Master at Osgoode Hall, Mr. Hilliard disappeared Wednesday during a walk with his daughter-in-law.

PASSENGERS STILL HOLDING OUT ON QUEEN ELIZABETH

Settlement of Strike in United States May Ease Tension

Southampton, England, Nov. 25 —(CP)—Settlement of the longshoremen's strike in the United States today ended the tension caused by Wednesday's order to passengers to get off the liner Queen Elizabeth by this morning.

The Cunard White Star Line posted notices in the Queen Elizabeth announcing that the liner would sail for New York at 8 a.m. Sunday.

The passengers had remained aboard since the Elizabeth's sailing, scheduled for earlier this week, was indefinitely postponed by the strike in east-coast United States ports.

Wednesday the passengers were ordered to leave by this morning, since at that time no settlement of the longshoremen's strike was in sight. Approximately 900 passengers refused to disembark and voted for a "sit-in" strike.

News this morning that an agreement to end the longshoremen's strike has been reached in New York was greeted with cheers by the passengers.

When the passengers protested the disembarkation order Wednesday, Capt. C. M. Ford, the ship's commander, said the "sit-in" strike would not be tolerated, and that water and lights would be cut off. However, he added, the company would try to take care of those passengers in financial straits.

Cunard said the Elizabeth's sister ship, the Queen Mary, would sail for New York Wednesday, Dec. 1, a week later than scheduled. The strike also had held up the Mary idle here.

Another Cunarder, the Parthia, will sail from Liverpool Sunday, one day late.

The Elizabeth originally was to have sailed for New York Nov. 17, but her departure was postponed to Nov. 20. Then a third of her crew of 1,250 walked off the vessel in sympathy with the striking American dockers. The passengers boarded the ship Nov. 19.

The principal reason for delaying the sailing until next Saturday, a Cunard spokesman said, is to call back some passengers who have gone ashore temporarily — a few to such distant points as London.

TOOK NO CHANCES

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)— The bandit who held up Leslie Penny in West Central Toronto Wednesday night took no chances with his victim.

He kept a gun poked in Penny's back while he unzippered Penny's wallet with his teeth.

Said Penny: "He must have had strong teeth for he unzippered my wallet in a flash. He took out $48 and told me to chalk it off as experience."

Boy, 14, Awaits Death as Muscles Waste Away

Seffner, Fla., Nov. 25 (AP)— Fourteen - year - old Donald Younglove won't have his Thanksgiving turkey today.

He won't have anything—not even a glass of water. He had his last drink of water one week ago today.

In another two weeks he will be dead, doctors said. And there is nothing they can do for him. Donald wishes he didn't have to wait two weeks.

Last June Donald's parents, Mr. and Mrs T. F. Younglove, noticed he complained frequently about excessive tiredness.

Tonics and vitamins were prescribed. Donald, a husky 105-pound youngster, began to lose weight.

The father took him to a specialist in nearby Tampa.

The specialist said Donald had dermatomyesitis, a rare metabolic disease in which something goes wrong with the muscles and they waste away.

Today Donald weighs 35 pounds. His skin is leathery, sallow, dead.

NO BLAME ATTACHED IN HIGHWAY FATALITY

Cobourg, Nov. 25 — (CP) — No blame was attached to anyone by the coroner's jury at the inquest Wednesday night into the death of Marion Findlay of Grafton who was killed in a highway accident a few miles east of here on the night of Nov. 5. The jury found that she was thrown from a light truck driven by Beverley Harnden of Grafton, when Harnden, in order to avoid striking a car ahead skidded into the path of a truck driven by John Inglis of Toronto and then into another truck driven by Leander King of Montreal. The Harnden truck upset and the girl received a fractured skull.

CINNAMON BEAR SHOT

Gravenhurst, Nov. 25 — (CP) —A 650-pound cinnamon bear, believed the largest ever killed in central Ontario, was shot by Herbert Woods while he was hunting deer 10 miles from here. He killed it with three .38-calibre bullets.

Arms Truckload, Munitions Seized, Five Arrested

New York, Nov. 25 — (AP) — A truckload of arms and ammunition was seized by police early today at an upper Manhattan garage.

Five men were arrested at the scene, and charged with violation of the Sullivan (weapons) law.

Police said the five denied knowing their crated cargo, which was covered over with old clothing, consisted of rifles, machine-guns, ammunition and other weapons.

Police said the 2½-ton truck contained 46 army rifles, 75 side-arms including automatics and revolvers, four machine-guns, one sub-machine-gun, a box of hand-grenade parts, four boxes of rifle ammunition, two clips of tracer bullets and a belt of .50 calibre machine-gun cartridges.

Those taken in custody were identified as Bertram Koppelman, 22, Ephraim Gelhard, 22, and his brother, Ralph, George L. Stubley, 18, and Michael Dermier, 21.

The truck bore the name "New Brunswick Iron and Metal Company, New Brunswick, N. J.," according to police, who said the men had no licence to operate it.

FULFORD NAMED CANDIDATE

Brockville, Nov. 25 — (CP) — George T. Fulford, former Liberal Member of Parliament for Leeds was the unanimous choice as the federal candidate for his party in the next election at a nomination meeting held in the central Leeds village of Athens on Wednesday evening.

Secretary of State, Hon. Colin Gibson, the guest speaker, told the meeting that the responsibility for the Ontario hydro shortage must be placed squarely on the shoulders of George Drew. Said Mr. Gibson, "He should not have been devoting his time to such federal matters as immigration but should have been looking after provincial affairs."

Baby's undeveloped digestive juices often have trouble penetrating his first solid foods. As a result, baby's food is often incompletely digested, causing upsets, and baby fails to get much of the nourishment in the food.

But Libby's Baby Food, the only baby food which is both strained and homogenized, is at least ten times finer in texture than foods which are strained only. With the work of digestion made easy, baby gets more nourishment from the same amount of food, a fact which clinical tests have confirmed.

CAR ON WAY TO JUNK YARD DEMOLISHED BY TRAIN

Kitchener, Nov. 25 — (CP) — An ancient automobile on its way to a junk yard didn't quite make the final trip Wednesday night. En route it was struck by a train and completely wrecked.

The driver, John Smith, escaped without injury.

Constable Edward Tschirhart who investigated said that the auto turned out to pass a bus which had stopped at a level crossing. Just as the auto went to cross the tracks the train which was backing up struck it and carried the car along the right of way for about 75 feet.

Fire Destroys Home, Contents In Hungerford

Thomasburg.—Mr. and Mrs. Morley Fox had the misfortune to lose their home by fire one evening last week. Mr. and Mrs. Fox and family had recently vacated the house, which later was occupied by Mr. Fox's sister, Mrs. Smith, who a few days previous to the fire, had moved to Peterborough. Considerable furniture belonging to the Fox family and also to Mrs. Smith, was lost in the blaze. It is undetermined how the fire started and despite all efforts of neighbors it was impossible to save anything. The Fox home is on the 4th Line of Hungerford, four miles east of the village. During the Summer they lost a garage by lightning at the same home.

France Given Direct Voice In Allocation

London, Nov. 25 (AP)—Britain and the United State have decided to give France a direct voice in allocation and management control of coal and steel in their section of occupied Germany, the Foreign Office reported today.

A spokesman told a press conference that the two have agreed the "French government shall be invited to become a member of the German coal control group and the steel control groups."

Up until now, that direct representation has been held up pending a proposed fusion of the French occupation zone in Germany with those of the United States and Britain.

The action marked a major step toward giving the French a greater voice in big-power arrangements for western Europe integration.

The spokesman said the move would have no direct effect upon current talks here on the future of the Ruhr Valley industries, which lie in the British zone.

ITALIAN POLICE, PEASANTS ENGAGED IN QUARREL

Rome, Nov. 25 — (AP)—Eleven persons were wounded and 120 arrested during several hours of fighting Wednesday between police and peasants near Ferrara in Northern Italy. The trouble started, police said, when squatters moved in on several large estates and the owners asked that they be removed.

Marmora

Work of Bible Soc. Reviewed

Marmora, (Special) — Marmora Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society was re-organized on Monday evening at meeting in the Town Hall presided over by Rev. J. M. Brownlie. Following the introductory remarks, the chairman introduced Rev. Egerton Young, Field Secretary of the Society, who gave a talk on the work of the society.

He mentioned that 42 languages other than English were spoken in Ontario, that of 1,090 different translations of the bible by Bible Societies the British and Foreign Bible Society had been responsible for 778; that India was a land in which 179 languages and 544 dialects were spoken.

Mr. Young later showed a technicolor sound film on "The Heart of India" which conveyed ideas of its class distinctions, its population; and life in its cities and rural communities.

The business part of the meeting followed in which the election of officers of the branch was conducted by Rev. J. M. Brownlie, assisted by Reverends G. D. Young, G. H. Bache and A.J. Macpherson

The new executive is as follows:

President, W. J.Cottrell; vice presidents Reverends J. M. Brownlie; G. D. Young, G. H. Bache and A. J. Macpherson, secretary, Mrs. Wesley Cuddy, treasurer Ritchie Wells.

A meeting of the executive will be called in the near future to arrange for a collection for the work of the Society.

Washington, Nov. 25 — (AP) — Two men were killed and four injured when a United States Air Force plane Wednesday night collided while landing with one parked on the nearby Andrews Air Force field.

FIRST WOMAN TO COLLECT BOUNTY

Wiarton, Nov. 25 — (CP) — Mrs. Olive Friest, a Bruce county farm woman, became the first woman in Keppel township to collect a bounty for shooting sheep-killing dogs. She was paid $20 for shooting two dogs she found killing her sheep. Township Clerk Fred Carder said sheep losses in October were the heaviest in some years in this district 20 miles northwest of Owen Sound.

GIFT OF SIGHT AFTER 3 YEARS

St. Catharines, Nov. 25 — (CP) —A birthday gift of sight after three years of blindness is the hope of Mrs. Charles Cain of nearby St. David's.

Mrs. Cain is in hospital recovering from an operation for the removal of cataracts on the eyes. Her doctor is hopeful that sight will be restored before Mrs. Cain's birthday, which she will celebrate in a few months.

Flyers and Reds Again Rack Up Decisive Wins

St. Louis Flyers and Providence Reds, respective leaders in the western and eastern divisions of the American Hockey League Wednesday night again racked up decisive victories.

The Flyers now hold a seven-point advantage over the Buffalo Bisons and Pittsburgh Hornets who are tied for second position honors. The Flyers shut out the Bisons 7-0 Wednesday night with Steve Black getting three goals and one assist.

Providence Reds overpowered Indianapolis Capitals, 7-1 to increase their lead to 10 points over the idle Hershey Bears.

Pittsburgh Hornets whipped Springfield Indians 5-2 while Cleveland Barons and Philadelphia Rockets played to a 1-1 tie.

Billy McComb, Lloyd Doran, Olson and Mariucci shared the Flyers' scoring with Black.

Jack McGill, veteran centre recently obtained from Buffalo, paced the strong Providence attack with a pair of markers and an assist.

The lone Indianapolis counter was scored by Fred Glover. Jackie Hamilton, Harvey Fraser, Ray LaPlante, Art Michaluk, and Pete Kapusta also tallied for the victors.

Dan Sprout's goal 18 seconds before the end of the game gave Cleveland the tieing marker while the Rockets were short - handed. Mike Narduzzi got the Rocket tally.

Ray Ceresino, stocky rookie wing, helped the Hornets break a three-game losing streak by notching two goals. Bill Benson, Syd Smith and Fleming Mackell shared the balance of the scoring. Springfield snipers were Rene Trudell and Kaiser.

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Substantiating the statement of a well-known hockey enthusiast of this city that "give the public the right kind of sport, and you'll run out of tickets" is the fact that the games played thus far in the Belleville District Hockey League have drawn approximately three times as many fans to Memorial Arena as did the same number played in the 1947 edition of the loop.

Definite proof of the success of a seven-team league is seen in the box-office returns since the loop started three games ago. The calibre of hockey as demonstrated in Tuesday night's games is far above that dished up to the faithful by the unwieldy twelve-team two-section setup of last season. And John Hockey Public is reacting the way expected. The attendance at the opening three games is more than three times that of the same number a year ago. It augurs well for the league; is appreciated by the league executive and management, also that of the Arena Commission and best of all by the players themselves. It is gratifying to see the fans turn out in such numbers and it is a safe prediction that when the playoffs roll around the rafter seats will be sold at a premium.

Marked improvement was noted in all teams on Tuesday night. The boys with practices under their collective belts are rounding into form and by the time the schedule nears its close all squads will be travelling at top speed. The Flyers from Trenton proved the surprise package on Tuesday night despite the fact they were nudged out of victory by the speedy Belleville Rockets. Squadron Leader Bob Thompson's charges scarcely resemble the squad that bowed to Trenton in the inaugural games. They were fast, speedy and up to their old tricks. The power was evident in their showing against Rockets, who by the same token displayed much better form than they did on their initial appearance.

Napanee Legion also showed the benefit of practices. The Gerow-led crew flashed a form that took the Trenton Hockey Club by more or less surprise and it was only the last minute rally on the part of Schmidt-Watson et al that pulled the victory chestnuts out of the fire from a fighting desperate Napanee crew. It must be said that Jim MacDonald's gang did not flash the form that swept them to victory over the Flyers in that first tussle. But they ripped back into style after Napanee scored two quick goals in that third period and went on to win in the dying moments of the game. A break or two and Legionnaires would have tacked a Trenton scalp to their belts.

It is therefore presumed that Northern Electric and Cobourg have improved commensurately with their brothers of the other squads. CNR has been practicing faithfully and are all ready for their tilt against Rockets next Tuesday. And just in passing, that should be a honey of a battle. There has been many predictions as to the outcome and interest is steadily mounting. It would not surprise this observer in the least to see a capacity house greet the Rockets-Diesels game come Tuesday. Rockets are hot right now but they'll be up against a strong team that has power in all departments. It should be a trial of speed and ability against a stonewall defence. Diesels have about the best "backfield" in the loop and it should be interesting to see what the flying "Wasps of McNaught" can do against it.

Tonight the Trenton Hockey Club (wish that guy MacDonald would select a name for the team) clashes with Northern Electric crew led by Don Barrett. And that too, should be a honey of a joust. Both are fast squads that favor the open-style of play with the Barrett-MacDonald-Semark line being one of the most effective in the league. Messrs Watson-Schmidt et al should have a busy evening and the fans should enjoy one of the top hockey spectacles of the season to date. If Trenton wins they'll lead the loop with three victories. Rockets have won two out of two starts. The first game sees Trenton Flyers and Cobourg both winless thus far, clash, and the loser will take over the cellar position in the league standing. The standing, by the way will be published in Saturday's paper as will the leading ten scorers of the loop.

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association is holding its annual in the King Eddy Hotel, Toronto, on Saturday starting at 10 a.m., the early hour being because some of the boys want to take in the East-West football classic in the afternoon. To any of "youse guys" who intend taking in the game, the kick-off takes place at 1.45 p.m. instead of 2.30 p.m. as formerly announced. Bobby Strachan of the Belleville midgets will represent this city while this observer will sit in on the OMHA proceedings. Sam Curry, Tweed newsman, will be on deck and has been nominated for an executive spot. Sam has done a lot of groundwork for the hockey-minded youngsters of this district and deserves the honor of a spot among the mighty.

The Army, Navy Air Force Veterans darts club still lead the Belleville Service Darts League, sitting pretty on top of the heap with 54 points. In second spot are their "arch-enemies" the Hasty Pees with 44 points while the 9th Anti-Tank Regt. is breathing down the "sod-pounders'" necks with a pointage of 43. CNR Stores are next with 38 points with Follwell's Supply following with 32 points. CNR Veterans bring up the rear with one point less.

Games played this week saw the lowly CNR Veterans pull a surprise by defeating the Hasty Pees 6-5. Follwell's Supply uncorked another upset by turning back the CNR Veterans 6-5 while the league-leading ANAF's set back the Anti Tankers by an 8-3 score to increase their lead.

Northwestern Wildcats unanimously have been named to represent the big nine in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day. The selection was made in a telegraphic poll of the league's nine faculty representatives. Undefeated Michigan was the big nine's champion for the second straight year, but the Wolverines were ineligible for a return trip to Pasadena. A conference restriction bans any team from making more than one Rose Bowl appearance in three years. Thus, Northwestern, beaten only by Michigan in six league starts, received the bid to face the Pacific Coast Conference representative in the battle of roses.

Montreal Talent Well Sprinkled In Hockey Team

London, Nov. 25. (CP)—There's a strong tang of Montreal talent about Earls Court Rangers, who have rejoined Britain's National Hockey League after a lapse of ten years.

When Kenny Campbell of Montreal, a centre with Shawinigan Falls last season, was appointed player-coach for Rangers this Summer, he set about recruiting players with an eye on youth. For all except two it was the first Atlantic hockey hop for the Canucks, most of whom are around 20 years old. They're getting used to English fogs, but food is a sore point.

But there are compensations. Earls Court, like the other seven league teams, have swarms of ardent fans and matches are played to a capacity udience of 9,000 regularly.

Earls Court's "Fan Club" now numbers 3,000 and the expanding membership has been temporarily halted because fans are crowded out other would-be spectators.

Here is Rangers' line-up:

Netminder is Johnny Bourada, Ottawa, spare goalie for Ottawa Senators last season and regular keeper for Montagnards Juniors. One defence is Willie Mosdell, Montreal, a Northern Electric Commercial League player. He is a younger brother of Kenny Mosdell of Montreal Canadiens.

Two From Montreal.

Also on defence are Harold Meyer and Joe Farley, both from Montreal. Meyer played for Victoriaville last season and Farley for Montreal Royal Juniors.

Centremen Albert Hodkinson, Montreal, played for Sydney Millionaires in the Cape Breton League before coming to England and was second in the league scoring table with 57 points. Another centre is Stanley Dequoy, Montreal, formerly with North Sydney Victorias, and centreman Ken Booth, Montreal, played for Montreal Royals Juniors.

Alfred Harvey, Montreal, who played for Northern Electric, takes left wing with Walter Sullivan of St. Timothee, Que., a former Toronto Staffords player, and Henry Hayes, Montreal. Hayes, who was playing-coach to Sydney Millionaires last season, is an old hand in English hockey having played with Earls Court Royals (now Rangers) and Streatham before the war.

Right-wing berths are all held by Montrealers—Byard Rothwell, Harold Young and Kenny Campbell. Rothwell played in England during the war while serving with the Canadian Army and is recently from the McGill University team. Young played for Verdun.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 25 — (AP) — Johnny Sain, who recently bought a home in Newport, Ark., reports that folks down there treat him just the same way they did when he pitched for that town's entry in the North East Arkansas League . . . Baseball manufacturers have completed their tests on the "uniform" baseball which all minor leagues will use next summer and report the figures for different makes show only negligible differences . . . .

Two Sides of It

In a recent football game between the Maryland and West Virginia freshman teams, Ken Bartges, West Virginia quarterback, got off a punt from behind his goal which rolled to the Maryland two . . . Coach Len (Feets) Barnum, who estimated that the ball actually travelled 106 yards, figured it was a right good punt for a freshman, but not as long as one Len himself made in his pro days . . . Playing for the Giants against the Redskins, in the mud on the Redskin one yard line. But it didn't go into the record books because the Giants were offside.

Hen's Teeth and $1,000 Bills Plentiful Compared to Tickets For Grey-Cup Game Saturday

Toronto, Nov. 25 — (CP)—You and you want two tickets for Saturday's Grey Cup game between Calgary Stampeders and Ottawa Rough Riders?

Tush, tush, friend. You'll just get high blood pressure that way.

You've a much better chance of finding a $1,000 bill lying on the street in the middle of Toronto's financial district.

Just forget about it, friend. It'll be a lot easier — both on you and the ticket agencies, football officials and the sportswriters you're thinking of phoning. Because they say they haven't any either.

Toronto police said Wednesday a few sharpies around town probably will offer you a $2 seat for something like $5. But the police also said that these sharpies may have made a lot of those tickets themselves.

You can try, of course. They tried in Ottawa Wednesday. Ottawa got 4,000 of the 20,000 seats in Varsity Stadium and at least 500 people were waiting when the tickets came in.

But they'd all been sold days ago, and it took police squad cars to handle the crowd.

There's not much point in trying Toronto either. Toronto got some 9,000 tickets but the agencies had orders for 10,000 to last Saturday.

It doesn't look as though you'll be able to count on a scalper at the last minute. Scalping football tickets is a reprehensible practice and Mayor Hiram McCallum Wednesday night instructed Toronto police to see there was none of it for the game.

Some persons might have used the bogus tickets to get in to last Saturday's intercollegiate final. Varsity Stadium officials said they ejected 20 persons from the game who hadn't stubs. But next Saturday there isn't a hope of getting in with a fake ticket, they said.

But cheer up, friend.

Toronto Leafs Play to Third Straight Tie

(By The Canadian Press)

Boston's bouncing Bruins kicked Detroit Red Wings from the National Hockey League leadership Wednesday night. They poured in three goals in seven minutes of the second period to beat Detroit 5-3 and go into a narrow two-point lead ahead of the Wings and Montreal Canadiens.

Canadiens edged into the second-place tie by drawing 3-3 with Toronto Maple Leafs —the third consecutive draw for the floundering Stanley Cup holders and their fifth in eight games.

But the Boston victory put centre Milt Schmidt on the casualty list. Trainer Win Green said Schmidt might have broken a rib when he bounced into the boards after being dumped bw Red Wing Farty Pavelich in the first period.

Leafs and Canadiens go at it again in Montreal tonight when the New York Rangers visit Chicago Black Hawks.

The shuffle left Toronto in fourth place with 11 points, five behind the second place tie. New York and Chicago trail.

Grant Warwick of Boston kept ahead in the League's scoring race with a last period goal after Detroit fired two quick ones past Frank Brimsek in the first two minutes. He got an assist in the second period.

Ken Smith shoved Boston ahead on a screened shot while the Red Wings were a man short. Then Pete Babando, Ed Sandford and Fernie Flaman scored as the Bruins caught fire in the second period.

But Polle squeezed a Detroit goal into Bruins second-period scoring rash with Pavelich and Bill Quackenbush scoring in the short-lived third-period rally.

The Leafs started out looking like the team that won the Stanley Cup two years running. Big Harry Watson piled in two goals 36 seconds apart as Montreal's Eddie Dorohoy sat out a penalty.

Less than two minutes later Wild Bill Ezinicki went into the box for elbowing and Billy Reay got one of the goals back. Elmer Lach got the other one back early in the next period.

Toronto went ahead again when Gus Mortson's shot from outside the blue line. Hal Laycoe got the tie by firing through a tangled mass of bodies and sticks from just inside the blue line. Turk Broda couldn't see the shot coming.

Chances are your local ticket agency hasn't many orders for the 1949 Grey Cup final. If you hurry, you might just make it.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Grant Warwick, sparkling little forward on Boston's "Torrid" line increased his lead in the National Hockey League. scoring race Wednesday night when he picked up a goal and an assist for a total of 18 points. He is three points ahead of Ted Kennedy, Toronto centre, who garnered an assist, and Eddie Sandford, centre on the same Boston line picked up a goal and an assist to pull into a second place tie with Kennedy. Joe Carveth, Montreal wingman holds third place with 14 points.

Ottawa Protests Use of Calgary Official in Game

Ottawa, Nov. 25. (CP)—The fires were still raging along Ottawa's football row today, all the way from a burning desire for more tickets to a heated protest against the use of a Calgary official in the important Grey Cup Classic Saturday.

With only a matter of hours before the Ottawa Rough Riders leave the Capital to embark on their most ambitious match of the season, club officials are placating hundreds of scorching gridiron fans with the hope that a few more tickets may be made available today.

The fans roared their anger Wednesday when they were told a scheduled general sale of tickets was cancelled due to the fact that all of the 4,000 tickets obtained for the Canadian Rugby Union had been sold beforehand.

With the protests in his ears, Manager Jimmy McCaffrey was hot on the telephone wires, Wednesday night begging Percy Robinson, C.R.U. Secretary, to put in more chairs at Varsity Stadium and send the tickets to Ottawa.

He was also hot protesting the appointment of Les Ferguson of Calgary as "judge-of-play" in Saturday's fiery match between Western Champion Calgary Stampeders and Eastern Champion Rough Riders.

With all due respect to Mr. E. K. Phillips, president of the C.R.U. now in Toronto, "it is unfair to have a Calgary official —and one who has travelled east with the Stampeders—as one of the officials in the Canadian final.

"We wouldn't expect to have an Ottawa official and by the same token, this is no place for a Calgary official."

McCaffrey says Phillips assured him he would take the matter up at a C.R.U. meeting today, or tomorrow, and try to make a change.

As to the tickets even Club President Eddie Emerson is displeased with the way the C.R.U. are handling the distribution of tickets. He quipped: "They are back in the stone age so far as handling this game is concerned."

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By STEWART NEBBS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton, Nov. 25 (CP)—Reforms and restrictions provide a limitless field for crusades, often aimed, apparently, at the least offensive groups.

The sports world is no exception and a recent report from Calgary that archery was in for a "cleaning-up" proved somewhat of a shock to sporting circles.

Al Cleland writing in the Edmonton Journal, says that in the world of sport, "we would never have picked the archers as being ripe for attention from the zealous ones who show more desire for changes than a healthy chameleon."

S.P.C.A. Objects

The S.P.A.C. in Calgary is considering legal steps to prohibit big-game hunting with bow and arrow...Too inhumane is the verdict...of a nimrod can't hunt with firearms, he shouldn't hunt at all.

Al says he followed up the story and got in touch with Bob Copeman, president of the Edmonton Archers Club, who has emulated an Indian on more than one big-game trail.

An Archer's Opinion

Copeman treated the Calgary blast as follows:

1. Records that go back many years indicate that game conservationists in the United States aren't against archery vs. big game...in fact, they favor it.

2. Again, the record proves that an animal hit with a broadhead arrow suffers far less than does one smashed by a high-powdered rifle...The barbless arrow, if placed in a vital spot, almost invariably kills instantly, cleanly.

3. If the arrow hits a non-vital area, it's a clean wound and records insist that the animal usually makes a full recovery... being barbless, the arrow always works its way out in short order ...a slug, on the other hand, can and usually does create fearful wreckage of bone and tissue.

So, asks Al, which is the more humane?

TOOGOOD MOST POPULAR

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP)— Ted Toogood, 24-year-old 160 pound halfback, yesterday was voted the most popular played on the University of Toronto Blues, 1948 Intercollegiate football champions.

Toogood won a student vote conducted by the University Daily newspaper, the Varsity, and that the trophy that goes with it. A graduate in physical education, he now attends Ontario College of Education and plans to teach school upon graduating next year.

He was married in mid-season to pretty dark-haired Joan Davidson.

Make no mistake about it. The amount of tricks you held is not revealed by the number of bids that come from you. It is from the number of raises you make.

It is said that a player should not rebid the same values. Do not take this to mean that a hand must not bid again if it has no more values. Times are when it must or should bid again.

You can bid the same hand three or more times without promise of any more tricks. Hold the main idea. It is that an additional trick is shown only by an increase in the last partnership number.

Your basis as an opener is five tricks. Partner is assumed to hold two. Thereafter, each increase by either shows one more trick. See how they run in this pair:

SOUTH
♠A K J 10 4 3
♥A 10
♦J 4 3
♣Q 5

♥K 9 8
♦A K 9
♣J 10 8 7 3

The bidding goes like this:

South	North
1 S (1)	2 C (2)
2 S (3)	2 NT (4)
3 S (5)	4 S (6)

1. (1S) Five tricks as opener.
2. (2C) One raise in number shows three tricks; one plus assumed two.
3. (3) No raise in number. Still only five tricks.
4. (2NT) No raise in number. Still only three tricks.
5. (3S) One raise in number. This shows a sixth trick.
6. (4S) One raise in number. This shows a fourth trick.

Notice the second round two spade bid by south did not show any more tricks. It was not a raise. Notice the second round two no-trump bid by north did not show any more tricks. It was not a raise.

Notice that the number of raises not only show how many tricks are in each hand. They also reach the exact contract for that many.

Precise counters stress what loose counters guess.

Hollywood, Nov. 25 —(AP)— This may be Thanksgiving in the United States, but it's just another day in a columnist's life here.

This is 'turkey' day and we're going to celebrate it. In show biz terms, a 'turkey' is an 'egg,' a 'brody', a 'flop.' Hollywood has tasted its share of this fowl in 1948 and its only right that proper honor should be paid.

Here then are the Hollywood 'turkeys' of 1948:

"Winter Meeting," Bette Davis' talk marathon.

Lana Turner's romance with Tyrone Power.

Miscasting of Jimmy Stewart as the sophisticated professor in "Rope."

The announcement by Vancouver's Yvonne DeCarlo that she'd like to portray the intensely dramatic "Medea."

"Arch of Triumph" which even Ingrid Berman and Charles Boyer couldn't save.

The printed report that Jack LaRue was sought to play opposite Ingrid Bergman in her British film.

Miscasting of twice-married Mickey Rooney as an adolescent in "Summer Holiday."

A big studio's announcement of full production ahead, followed in a few weeks by a shutdown.

"If Winter Comes," a clitche-ridden view of life in Britain.

Rumors "The Robe" would finally be made.

George Rafts claims he would retire.

The abortive revolt against the "New Look."

My prediction that Gregory Pack and Rosalind Russell would win the Academy Awards for 1947.

Saco's Roll High Score In Major "B"

The Saco team in the Major B (Tuesday) League, Recreation Alleys rolled the high aggregate in the weekly bowlfest of the loop on Tuesday piling up a core of 3387 to defeat the "Just Us" team four points to nothing. Just Us rolled 3080 points.

"Oour Gang proved too good for the Army, Navy Air Force Veterans squad defeating them 4-0 while Blacks Meats took the measure of the Ontario Intelligencer Inkspots 3-1.

Joe Legault 823, Art Whalen high single with 313.

Mrs. E. Moore won the Saturday "Open Session" bowling prize with a triple of 642 while M. Peoples copped the mens prize with 763.

The scores (Tuesday):

Saco 4	3387
Just Us 0	3080
Our Gang 4	2893
ANAF's 0	2095

Moira Shearer Biggest Movie Find of 1948

London, Nov. 25. (CP)—A million-dollar pair of legs could have danced their way to a fortune—but their petite owner has turned it down.

She's red-headed Moira Shearer, Britain's biggest movie find of 1948.

Thousands here and in North America have seen her play the lead in the ballet film "The Red Shoes" and few needed much convincing that all the electric little creature needed was more camera experience to become one of the biggest stars in the trade.

But Moira doesn't want the glamor, the big bank account or the chrome plated cars. She just wants to be a ballerina.

At 22, she says she has dedicated her life to ballet—a demanding existence with little or no time for romance and sometimes little worldly reward for hard effort.

The tiny danseuse had her spotlighted hour at the London Premiere of "The Red Shoes" when she stood, slender and smiling, acknowledging cheer after cheer from across the footlights. But there's hardly any of that excitement for her now.

She's turned down every offer British movie moguls have made—for a job with Sadler's Wells Covent Garden ballet which pays only a fraction of her potential income. And every minute of her day is taken up with dancing.

She's up every day at 7.30 a.m. and by 10 is hard at practice. Being a featured performer makes no difference. All the Sadler's Wells girls—beginners and stars—go back to school every day, usually morning and afternoon. Then there's the tough nightly performance.

Moira explains her philosophy this way:

"Thousands of people have at some time to choose whether they would prefer to earn a lot of money doing something they do not like or get less money for doing the one and only thing they have ever really wanted to do.

"That's why I chose ballet."

Hollywood — (AP) — The Christmas season has had its official Hollywood opening.

Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope Wednesday night clipped a ribbon with huge scissors and thus set off the two-hour annual Santa Claus parade.

Floats carrying Hollywood celebrities paraded down Hollywood and Sunset boulevards before cheering thousands.

Children who sat along the curbs cheered lustily when the movie cowboys — Roy Rogers, Gene Autry, Bill (Hopalong Cassidy) Boyd and their famous horses — pranced by.

Biggest cheer came with the last float — Santa Claus on a giant sled with six prancing reindeer.

Los Angeles —(AP)— This city will have travelling candy canes during the holiday season.

"Peppermint-striped" streetcars and a bus will go into operation Monday in conjunction with the lighting of a 95-foot Christmas tree.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER

Martinez, Calif., Nov. 25 —(AP) — Kenneth Long, 26-year-old air force sergeant whose "truth serum" statement was introduced at his trial, was acquitted Wednesday night of the murder of his 22-year-old wife, Barbara. A statement taken from Long when he was under the influence of the "truth serum" named another man as his wife's slayer.

STRAIGHTENED OUT

The Yellow River of China, after being straightened out, is again flowing in its old course and emptying into the Gulf of Chihli.

AT THE CAPITOL — Walter Huston, Mickey Rooney and Selena Royle in a scene from "Summer Holiday," opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre for its first Belleville showing. The new picture is a Technicolor musical version of Eugene O'Neill's nostalgic play, "Ah, Wilderness." On the same program, "Crossed Trails," with Johnny Mack Brown.

I'm not suppose to take any apples without asking ferst, and ma had let me have 2 alreddy today, the ferst one easy and the 2nd one after a short argument, so I knew there was not mutch chance for another one, but anyways I was wondering about it. and I was watching ma sewing on her sewing machine, and I said, Hay ma, there's still a lot of apples down there.

And that's where they're going to stay, ma said. Didn't I ixplicitly and ixpressly tell you not to ask for another apple today? she said, and I said, Well G, ma, I mean gosh, I'm not asking for one.

I suppose you're not even hinting, ma said, and I said, No mam. I'm just sort of mentioning the subject.

Very well, consider it mentioned, ma said, and I said, Anyways, ma. I didn't take one without asking.

And she said Well I hope not for land sake. Sutch an idea should never even of occured to you in your wildest thawts, she said.

G, it didn't, ma, I said. But anyways, ma, will you save one for me for tomorrow? I said, and ma said, Oh, dont worry(there'll be plenty left.

But I mean a certain particuler one, ma, I said, and ma said, Now dont be so fussy, you may have an apple tomorrow, and let that suffice.

Weil, I hope it wont be spoilt by tomorrow, that's all, I said, and ma said, Now what are you

I'm talking about the certain particuler apple I'm thinking about. I said. I'm talking about the one with the 2 bites out of it alreddy. I meen the 2 bites I took out of it without taking the

FIRST BOTTLE CONVINCED HIM SYNTONA IS GREAT MEDICINE

"Cleared Up Stomach Gas and Indigestion From Which I Formerly Could Get No Relief," Says This Man. Appetite is Improved, Free of Headache and Dizziness.

"For a number of years I suffered with stomach disorders and could get nothing to help me, but the very first bottle of Syntona convinced me it is a great medicine," said Mr. Fred R. Kelly, 565 Duke St., Preston, Ont., in a recent report.

"My chief trouble was with gas and indigestion after my meals. The gas seemed to form in a pocket in my stomach and would not dislodge, making me feel distressed for hours after eating. I would feel bloated and short of breath. Many days my appetite was so poor I didn't feel like eating. I was subject to frequent headaches and dizzy feelings.

"In one short week Syntona has done me more good than anything I ever used before. It cleared up the gas and indigestion so that the bloated, distressed feeling is gone and my appetite is greatly improved. I haven't had any sign of headache or dizziness in the time that I've been taking this medicine and I notice that my sleep at night is more sound and restful."

If you are troubled with stomcribed by Mr. Kelly and if as a result you feel tired, headachy, nervous and rundown, why not give Syntona a chance to help you, too. Made from the pure liquid extracts of 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots. Syntona is pleasant to take; acts quickly, effectively.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN

Windsor Spitfires Move to Front In Junior Race

(By The Canadian Press)

When the smoke cleared Wednesday night, Windsor Spitfires were perched atop the Junior Ontario Hockey Association race two points ahead of St. Catharines Teepees and three games in hand.

It is the first time this season Windsor has taken the lead and they did it by a decisive 8-2 count over the fifth place Guelph Biltmores.

In another junior game last night, Barrie Flyers downed the high flying St. Catharines squad 4-2. In two senior tilts, Hamilton Tigers took over second spot by defeating Toronto Marlboros 4-2 and Owen Sound Mercurys dropped the league-leading Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 5-2.

Windsor picked up their 11th win in 13 starts as they downed Guelph.

Bert Giesbrecht led Windsor marksmen with three goals, while Francis O'Grady, Doug McKay, Bruce Giesbrecht, Larry Wilson each garnered singletons. Frank Bathgate and Don Bellringer scored one apiece for Guelph.

Spitfires Command Play

Biltmores swept into a 2-0 lead early in the first period on counters by Bathgate and Bellringer, but from then on Spitfires commanded play by a wide margin and goaler Dave O'Meara turned in shutout hockey.

Windsor evened the count before the end of the period on goals by O'Grady and McKay. Two more followed in the middle chapter when the Giesbrecht brothers tallied.

McKay and Eddie Bolan featured a four goal third period with a slugging duel. Both were handed major penalties, but Bolan received a minor as well.

PREVENT RUSSIANS' ATTEMPT TO ARREST AUSTRIAN

Vienna, Nov. 25 — (AP) — A large crowd of Viennese Wednesday night prevented two Russian soldiers from arresting an Austrian, police said. The soldiers tried to force the Austrian into their jeep but the crowd pulled him free, enabling him to escape into the international zone.

Billy Fox Did Not Suffer Brain Concussion

(By The Canadian Press)

Billy Fox, light heavyweight boxer, Wednesday was discharged from hospital in Buffalo, N.Y., after X-rays showed he had not suffered a brain concussion in a slugging 10-round bout he dropped Tuesday night.

The 22-year-old boxer, who has knocked out 59 of his 64 ring opponents, collapsed after losing a split decision to heavyweight Ted Lowry of New Bedford, Mass.

Fox, whose knockout streak twice earned him title bouts with former light heavyweight champion Gus Lesnevich, took a lot of punishment from Lowry but at no time did he appear in serious trouble. Fox was not floored in the fight.

He slumped into a coma in his dressing room. He regained consciousness en route to the hospital.

Ben Chapman, who rose twice to fame in the big league, came back to the minors Wednesday—with a team of his own. Directors of the Class B Southeastern League awarded the ousted manager of Philadelphia Phillies the franchise for the Gadsden Club. Chapman said he will manage the team himself, taking an occasional turn to the mound.

Heavyweight champion Joe Louis, weighing a plump 223 pounds, waltzed through a four-round exhibition at Kansas City Wednesday night with Curt Kennedy, Wichita, Kas., light-heavyweight, in efforts to land on the tall heavyweight.

Kennedy, whose weight was announced as 181, looked more like an undersized middleweight as he flailed the air in fruitless weight king.

Louis, who didn't bother to sit down to rest between rounds, parted Kennedy's hair with a couple of right crosses in the third round to the delight of the crowd. Then he held his fire and allowed Kennedy to pummel his midsection with a flurry of harmless blows.

William C. Lias, President of the Wheeling, W. Va., Downs race track and night club owner, Wednesday was sentenced to five years in a Federal penitentiary and fined $10,000 on an income tax evasion charge.

Lias had pleaded guilty to one count of an indictment charking that he evaded a federal income tax payment of $117,000. Four other counts were dismissed at the time. The five counts charged evasion of payments totalling $903,984.64 between 1942 and 1946.

Hack Wilson, former Chicago Cub home run king, will have a "proper funeral" Philip K. Wrigley, President of Chicago Cubs said Wednesday.

Wilson's body lay unclaimed for about 24 hours in the Baltimore City Hospital morgue. The former slugger died Tuesday of a lung condition.

Miss Ollie Watson Wednesday claimed an unofficial world's five-pin bowling record when she rolled up a three-game score of 1,110, made up from games of 391, 324 and 395, at Trail, B.C.

She chalked up this mark during a practice session. The old record was 1,102 according to 1942 bowling records. The British Columbia mark was, 1,076.

Newsy Notes from Shannonville

Shannonville (Special)—Friends of Mr. Ernest Waddingham will be interested to know Mr. Waddingham is a patient in Kingston General Hospital following a very serious operation. Six blood transfusions have been required and his friends who so very kindly donated same were: Mr. Roy Stapley, Mr. Freddie Neelin, Mr. Jack McFarlane, Mr. Robert McFarlane, Mr. William McAuley and Mr. Arthur Waddingham. It is sincerely hoped Mr. Waddingham will soon be fully recovered in health. He is a brother of Mrs. Robert McFarlane of this district.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Elliott spent last Tuesday in Kingston visiting relatives.

Mr. John Kent spent several days in Bancroft this past week.

The Anglican choir held their practice last week at the home of Rev. and Mrs. E. Caldwell.

A number from the vicinity are planning to attend the Santa Claus Parade which is being held in Belleville. This is the first year a similar parade has been staged and the local children are delighted at the prospects of witnessing such a large parade. The parade is being financed by the Belleville business men.

Mrs. Pearl Neelin of Toronto, spent last week with her cousin, Mrs. Robert McFarlane and Mr. McFarlane, also the Waddingham family.

Dr. D. McVicker has been taking advantage of the hunting season this past week.

Congratulations to Mrs. Russell Westcott of the local Post Office. Mrs. Westcott was the lucky prize winner of a lovely quilt in a draw at the Anglican Women's Guild bazaar last Wednesday.

The local school children are having a holiday this Friday in honor of the birth of a son to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. This holiday has been proclaimed by the Honorable Dana Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Fraser were dinner guests Sunday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Badgley of Melrose.

Mrs. Robert McFarlane spent last Tuesday in Kingston visiting her brother, Mr. Ernest Waddingham.

Many will be pleased to hear Mr. Harry Taylor is much improved following his long illness in Belleville General Hospital.

A number of local ladies attended the monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church at the home of Mrs. Damon Hinchey. Mrs. Archie Greatrix was elected president for the coming year. Mrs. Frank Doxtator is the retiring president. The December meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. William Slavin. Rev. A. W. Lougheed presided at this annual meeting.

It is pleasing to hear Mr. Arthur Knight, who resides at the Section House and is at the present time a patient in Belleville General Hospital, is now improving. Mr. Knight was injured two weeks ago at Dummy Corners, when two jiggers containing railroad men collided. Local men also injured at the time were Mr. Brennan and Mr. Waterberry of Marysville, who are also patients in hospital. Seven passengers of the two jiggers were injured, all being railroad men.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Whiteman and two sons were visitors to Kingston on Saturday where they visited Mr. Whiteman's parents, and also attended the annual Santa Claus Parade.

Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Vivian were recent visitors to Toronto, while there they attended the Winter Fair.

Mr. Charles Doolittle and daughter, Adrienne, of Belleville, were guests during the past week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McFarlane.

Mr. E. Sexsmith is a patient in Belleville General Hospital at the present time. It is hoped he will soon be able to return home again.

Messrs Will McFarlane, G. Marion, Clare Smith and Wilbert McFarlane were visitors in Watertown, this past weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Blatherwick were visitors last Wednesday of Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Lougheed.

Mrs. Rose of Belleville is staying with Mr. and Mrs. William Slavin and family at the present time.

At the United Church Sunday evening service the choir rendered a voluntary "Carry Thy Burden to Jesus". Rev. Lougheed's text was taken from the 8th Chapter of Romans, and was the second in a series of sermons based on the subject Friendship, Love and Marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Whiteman and two sons are leaving the community in the near future to take up residence at the Trenton air station where Mr. Whiteman is stationed. They will be greatly missed by their friends as Mr. Whiteman has been the Superintendent of the United Church Sunday School for the past year and Mrs. Whiteman is a member of the church choir.

The baseball team of Melrose held a very successful dance in the Shannonville Orange Hall on Friday evening.

Mrs. Balcanquel, of Corbyville, was a recent guest of her sister, Mrs. Stanley MacDonald and Mr. MacDonald.

A number from the vicinity attended the anniversary services in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, on Sunday last.

Mr. Arthur Casmey has returned to Newark, New Jersey, U.S.A after visiting his aunt, Mrs. Margaret Smith and also enjoying the hunting season with several Canadian friends.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Lougheed were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis, of Melrose.

Mrs. Charles Keirl visited Mrs Buskard recently in Belleville General Hospital. Friends of Mrs Buskard will be pleased to know she felt well enough to accompany Mrs. Keirl to the home of Mrs. Winters in Belleville where they were guests for dinner. Mrs. Buskard's many friends hope she will soon be able to return home.

The Sunday School executive of the United Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mastin on Monday evening to plan for the Christmas entertainment.

Communion Observed

Communion was observed at Holy Trinity Anglican Church last Sunday. This was the first Sunday in Advent and the rector Rev. E. Caldwell based his sermon on the subject "The Second Coming of Christ." The choir rendered a special voluntary while the congregation were partaking of communion. There was a good congregation in attendance.

The community was sorry to hear of the passing on Saturday of Mrs. Sero at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. Howard. She has resided with Mrs. Howard for some time and has been quite active until she was confined to bed some two weeks ago. The funeral was held Tuesday from the home of her son, Mr. Nick Sero, to Christ Church on the Reserve. Sympathy is extended to her daughters, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. James Maracle and son Mr. Nick Sero, all of Shannonville. She leaves to mourn her loss several other daughters. Her husband predeceased her twenty-one years ago.

Miss Betty Fay Kingsley, and friend, of Picton, were Sunday guests of her aunt and uncle, Mr and Mrs. Stanley MacDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Whiteman attended the Toronto Winter Fair last week.

Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald, Miss Jean Fitzgerald of London, England, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Geo Fitzgerald and son Earl, and Mrs. Cecil Reid of Belleville, motored to Toronto on Tuesday. While there they will attend the Winter Fair and will also visit Mrs. Sid Fizgerald's son, Mr. Jack Fitzgerald and Mrs. Fitzgerald and her brother, Mr. Jack Reid and Mrs. Reid of Weston.

Rev. A. W. Lougheed, accompanied by Rev. Mr. Hillis of Belleville, attended the meeting of Presbytery in Madoc on Tuesday. They joined Rev. A. L. Shorten at Foxboro and accompanied him from there.

THE VENABLES

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

All a dream and a memory now; all gone. Days were weeks; weeks months. Summer was Autumn; Autumn, Winter. No messages, no letters, no meetings. Alan had stopped work at the coaching school long ago; Flo did not know what he was doing now. Her family had stopped asking about him; only Aunt Harriet now and then tortured her with arch surmises and questions.

Walking helped — walking fast and blindly, and sometimes talking half aloud to herself.

"Christmas decorations already — well, it's December; that's all right. Blue writing paper. I think I'll walk over to the Emporium and see their Christmas things. What a sky! Foggy. It must be funny to have snow at Christmas instead of fog . . Oh, if that man were Alan — perhaps he's at home now waiting for me. Perhaps there's a letter waiting. Perhaps he's been away — no, he's not."

Her head grew tired of thinking about him; the thoughts went on and on. Well, walk then. Walk faster.

Christmas came and went, and there was no word. In the beginning of their friendship he had made her many presents; she had thought Christmas might be a time for a happy surprise and a gift; Christmas might bring him back again.

As it was, a soft, warm foggy day went by without unexpected pleasantries of any kind. The family and Aunt Lizzie went to Lily's for an uncomfortable rich dinner at two o'clock, the girls and Georgie openly disgusted because Flo had decided that under the circumstances it would be an extravagance for the Venables to have a turkey of their own. Between the stiffness of the atmosphere at Lily's, the heavy food, the enforced quiet before and after it, they all felt stupid and fretful when they returned home at four.

At four o'clock on Christmas afternoon Ellis Street looked dingy. There was a smell of beer about. The day's festivities had not commenced here; slipshod women in wrappers were running about between the drug and delicatessen stores the dark curtained windows of neighborhood flats were closed.

Flo was conscious of beginning to be a little frightened of life. It could be very hard and joyless. Poverty was a definite thing, humiliating and limiting, and those fortunate persons who were not poor did not care about the others much, took it for granted that they should be worried and shabby and uncomfortable and live in dark, odorous places and be thankful for small favors.

Resentment burned within her. Resentment that Alan could make so much of their friendship, enjoy it so, exploit it to the utmost while he felt in the mood, while he was amused, and drop it so quickly when he no longer cared to cultivate it.

Lily had been very subdued in manner on Christmas Day, pitifully and obviously anxious that everyone should be happy; Arnold must please not hurt Mama's feelings; Mama must not make any statement about money or the Ellis Street house that would offend Arnold.

Flo had secretly studied her brother-in-law in the light of her new suspicions. His kindly concern for her mother's comfort, his recommendation of a special sherry, his labored pleasantries at the table had all impressed her unfavorably. He knew, he must know, that her grandmother and aunt had been deprived of a Christmas dinner by his hospitality — that guarded hospitality that had so tactfully excluded them.

He knew that nobody was having a good time. And he knew, she felt convinced, that he had defrauded this grateful, gentle, awed little widow and her hungry brood of what might have been a comfortable livelihood.

It had not occurred to her to warn her mother against any references to their casual talk a few weeks earlier, about Major Burns' will. It would have seemed to her superfluous to warn even the girls against anything so obviously unfortunate.

But she had reckoned without Willie's inherent dependence upon the male sex, her innocent curiosity, her complete inability to discriminate in any matter — conversational, financial or merely social.

It was Willie, therefore, who had blasted a dull after - dinner half-hour with a bright, suddenly recollected:

"Arnold, who owns those Shotwell Street houses now?"

Arnold had taken his big cigar from his full, soft red lips, had looked at her smilingly.

"What houses?"

"Those houses that we lived in one of," Willie had answered simply, but already aware, as Flo had been miserably aware, of a sudden change in the atmospheric pressure.

"They were left to a minor, with your humble servant as executor" Arnold had said calmly. "Why, who suggested anything else?"

Willie, as always, having involved Flo in a troublesome matter had deserted her without compunction.

"Well, Flo — Flo said — the other night — " she had commenced uncomfortably.

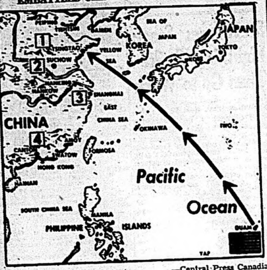
MAYOR STOREY MAY RECEIVE ACCLAMATION

EMBATTLED CHINA—FROM LAND AND SEA



—Central Press Canadian

This map shows how U. S. marine reinforcements from Guam, lower right, are being moved to Tsingtao (1), U. S. evacuation centre, according to a Washington announcement. The city is a U. S. naval task force base, where 3,000 marines are stationed. Safe conduct for evacuating persons is considered imperative as the desperate battle for Suchow between Chinese Reds and Chinese Nationalists goes into its final phase. Suchow (2) is the hot spot of China. Both British and U. S. ships lie off Shanghai. (3) Government leaders in China were reported ready to move the capital to Canton (4) if Suchow falls. The government later announced a smashing victory around Suchow. The 400,000 residents of Suchow were reported to be celebrating with fireworks and parades.

COMMUNIST ARMY A STEP CLOSER TO YANGTZE RIVER

New Development in the Battle for Suchow Seen in Regrouping

Nanking, Nov. 26 (AP)—Communist forces shifted a step closer to the Yangtze River today in the fighting around Suhsien and Lingpi.

—Reds deployed on the eastern flank of Suchow, 180 miles northwest of Nanking, suddenly pulled southward. They regrouped east of the Pukow-Tientsin railroad 40 miles north of Pengpu.

The new development in the battle for Suchow, gateway to the capital, came as national forces in the Peiping Tientsin area got ready for a major battle for that area of North China.

Government dispatches from Suchow said a decisive battle was expected shortly. Control of the northern Yangtze region hinged on developments.

On the political front, rotund Dr. Sun Ro, legislative Yuan president since 1932 and son of the founder of the Chinese Republic, was approved as Premier today by the law-making body.

The legislative Yuan acted under a constitutional requirement that it must uphold the president's nomination. President Chiang Kai-Shek had nominated Sun to replace Wong Wen-Hao, who resigned.

Sun prepared to select a new cabinet.

The new premier's political powers largely were inherited from his late father, Dr. Sun Yat-Sen. He is a bitter enemy of Russia and has the close support of rightist members of the Yuan and such Kuomintang leaders as Secretary-General Wu Te-Chen and Chen Li-Fu.

FURTHER REMAND GIVEN

Cobourg, Nov. 26 — (CP) — Albert Warren, former police sergeant of Port Hope was given a further remand to Dec. 10 on bail when he appeared in police court today charged with theft of 30 gallons of gasoline from a local taxi firm.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 26 — (CP) — Synopsis: A surge of warm air from the Mississippi Valley is bringing unseasonably mild weather to Southern Ontario. This air is becoming increasingly moist and consequently showers will occur today in the Lower Lakes regions. Meanwhile rain will continue in Central Ontario and snow in the northern sections. On Saturday cooler air now over the Central States will edge slowly eastward and maximum temperatures for the Lower Lakes will range between 40 and 45. Showers in these regions will end Saturday morning and prospects are for occa-

EARL HOPKINS, 27, FACES CHARGE OF MURDER ATTEMPT

Brother in Toronto Hospital With Shotgun Pellets in Body, Chest to Knees

Uxbridge, Ont., Nov. 26. (CP) —Earl Hopkins, 27, was charged today with the attempted murder of his brother as a result of a farmhouse shooting last night which police say began over a woman.

Martin Hopkins, Earl's brother is in Toronto hospital, riddled wtih shot gun pellets from his chest to his knees. Hospital officials who earlier described his condition as "grave" said shortly before noon he had improved.

Police said the brothers attended an impromptu party last night at the farmhouse of George Matthews near Uxbridge, 20 miles northwest of Oshawa. Guests at the party told police Earl was the only man at the party who did not have a woman companion.

An argument started over one of the women and Earl left the house and drove off in a truck. He returned with a 16-guage shotgun and fired through the window at his brother who was seated on a couch with one of the women, police said.

Earl's mother told police he had come home last night and seized his shotgun. She had tried to prevent him from leaving the house again but he hurried out "in a rage".

TOJO AND SIX OTHERS LIKELY TO HANG SOON

Buddhist Priest Journeys to Prison

Tokyo, Nov. 26. (Reuters) — Execution of Wartime Premier Hideki Tojo and six other major Japanese war criminals which was expected tonight, now is unlikely to take place before next week, informed sources at the Sugamo prison said today.

Some of the prisoners had not been notified of the decision of Gen. MacArthur, Supreme Allied commander in the Pacific confirming the death sentences, these sources said. Nor had they been given the customary 24 hours' notice of the execution.

Unofficial indications earlier today that the hangings would take place between midnight and dawn (Tokyo Time) were based partly on the fact that the Buddhist priest who will administer the last rites to Tojo was called to the prison this morning.

The Japanese sentenced to die with Tojo were:

Kenji Doihara, commander of the Japanese seventh army at Singapore in 1944-45, and a leading figure in the Japanese aggression in Manchuria and North China.

Koki Hirota, wartime foreign minister.

Seishiro Itagaki, 1945 commander in Singapore.

Heitaro Kimura, 1944 commander of the Japanese army in Burma.

Iwane Matsui, commander of the Japanese army in China at the time of the rape of Nanking in 1937.

Akira Muto, chief of staff to General Yamashita, commander-in-chief in the Philippines in 1945 and commander during the Malayan campaign. Yamashita has already been executed for war crimes.

Attempted to Hold Up Montreal Bank With Toy Gun

Montreal, Nov. 26 (CP)—Alertness by employees of an east-end branch of the Montreal City and District Savings Bank in pressing the bank's alarm system and the action of a 26-year-old bystander Thursday brought about the capture of a man who attempted to hold up the bank with a toy gun.

A well-dressed man identified by police as Jean Crepeau, 46, was arrested as the alleged robber. Police said he entered the bank shortly before closing time and passed a cheque to teller Madeleine Beaudry. Then he whipped out a wooden imitation of a small automatic, and demanded $1,000.

As the alarm was sounded, he dashed toward the front of the bank and attempted to escape. A customer, Benoit Norman, stopped the bandit and grappled with him just outside the door.

Prince Will Undergo Rigorous Training For Life of Responsibility and Service

London, Nov. 26. (CP)—From now on, throughout babyhood, childhood and from adolescence to manhood, the young Prince of Edinburgh will inevitably be a public favorite.

But there will be no pampering or spoiling. Like his parents and grandparents, the Prince will have to undergo rigorous training for a life of responsibility and service. His education will be comprehensive, with special emphasis on character and deportment, and eventually he will probably follow his father and grandfather into the royal navy.

For the present, however, his life will be as carefree as possible. His first Christmas will be spent in the pleasant, homely atmosphere of Sandringham where the Royal Family are able to live a more normal life than anywhere else.

After Christmas Princess Elizabeth will take the baby to Windlesham Moor, her Surrey home. This pleasant rambling house is almost a retreat.

His nursery, overlooking the things dear to the toddler—bricks, teddy bears, golliwogs, top rabbits and he will enjoy unning along the terrace, which extends the length of the house and can be reached from the games room.

Like his mother before him the infant Prince will soon be setting nursery fashions for children all over the world. Designers of baby clothes and cameramen are eagerly awaiting his first public appearance, for his clothes will set the trend for 1949 nursery styles.

On returning to London he will have a bright, up-to-date nursery at Clarence House, the large cream-colored regency building, now being fitted up as a permanent London residence for the Princess and the Duke.

His closest companion, apart from his mother, will be his "Nannie", Miss Helen Lightbody of Edinburgh, from whom he will learn his first words and his first steps. From the age of six on he will have a governess—not yet appointed—and when he is 10 years old a tutor. In due time he will probably go to Eton.

Aviatrix Offered Night Club Job

Seattle, Nov. 26 (AP) — An Alaska night club and radio station owner said Thursday he had offered a job to Mrs. Richard Morrow-Tait to help her finance repairs on her wrecked round-the world plane.

The British aviatrix and ex-model crash landed along the highway between Anchorage and Fairbanks last Sunday. She said she would have to go to work to finance plane repairs and resumption of her flight.

Keith Capper of Anchorage, who read of her accident while in Seattle said he had wired Mrs. Morrow-Tait an offer of a job at his night club or radio station.

He said he wired her "as one pilot to another; I've cracked up in that country myself. I know what it's like."

KING MAY HAVE TO LEAD QUIET LIFE FOR YEARS

Blood Supply to Foot Is Causing Anxiety

London, Nov. 26. (AP)—The King may have to lead a quiet life for the rest of his days, the British Medical Publication, Lancet, says today.

Commenting on the disclosure that the King is suffering from an obstruction to the arterial circulation in the legs and that the defective blood supply to the right foot causes anxiety, Lancet says:

"Its seriousness is all too evident, and is the more impressive because, in a life of service, the King has so seldom allowed himself to be deflected from any public task whether great or small.

"Yet there is good hope that, provided the acute phase yields to rest and treatment, it will be followed by a return of health and strength: though possibly, like so many of his subjects at the same age (52), the King will have to purchase continuing health at the cost of some of his more strenuous activities."

The King met the Privy Council today in the Royal apartments at Buckingham Palace.

Only Woman Reeve In Manitoba Never Campaigned

Winnipeg, Nov. 26 — (CP)—A woman who didn't campaign for office and who never asked for a vote is the only woman serving as reeve in Manitoba.

Mrs. M. E. Allen has been reeve of Eriksdale [illegible] thinks women aren't active enough in municipal and political life. Feminine reeves should not be the novelty they are in Canada — there are only six in the Dominion.

Mrs. Allen is attending the annual convention of the Union of Manitoba Municipalities in Winnipeg. She said in an interview yesterday her four councillors — all men — don't resent serving with her.

Conservatives Retain Seat

Glasgow, Nov. 26 (CP)— The Conservative Party retained its seat in Glasgow's Hillhead division in Thursday's by-election, results showed today.

The Conservatives slightly increased their lead over that attained in the 1945 general election.

Conservative T. Galbraith defeated his Labor opponent T. MacNair 16,060 to 7,419. Only two candidates ran.

Today's margin was 8,641 compared with 6,363 in the 1945 election.

32 Are Nominated For Aldermen With 7 to be Elected

Brief Speeches Heard At Sparsely-Attended Meeting

There was nothing unusual about the nominations for municipal elections held at the City Hall between 11 a.m. and 12 noon, today. The number nominated for the various offices was on a par with that of the past few years—and little public interest was apparent.

Four were nominated for the position of mayor with all indications pointing to an acclamation for Mayor D. L. Storey. Others nominated were F. Follwell, B. Lattimer and W. C. Mikel.

Thirty-two names were presented to City Clerk Wilfred Holmes for the position of aldermen with seven to be elected.

Board of Education seats attracted six residents with five to be elected.

Five were nominated for the position of Public Utilities Commissioner with one to be elected.

City Clerk Holmes declared that nominations were closed sharp on the stroke of noon and ex-Mayor Glencoe Thompson was named chairman of the brief speech-meeting held following the nominations.

Stands by Record

Mayor D. L. Storey was brief in his address. He thanked his nominating committee, the staff of the city hall and the council for their co-operation last year. The record of work done in that period, he said would be hard to beat by any future council.

W. C. Mikel in lighter vein said the mayor had "nothing to say and said it." When one finds a petition signed by thousands asking one to run for office it is hard [illegible] said, but would postpone it until a later date. He urged that all get out and vote and suggested that council make better use of the space facilities of the city hall. "Why not spend money on the fine building you've got instead of $150,000 on a new one."

"We've had good and bad councils," he said, "and we all make mistakes. Let's give them encouragement and suggestions. They are only human like the rest of us and we can help them do our business properly."

May Seek Commissionership

Ex-Mayor Frank Follwell reviewed his term of office in civic government as alderman and mayor. He strongly indicated he would not stand for the office of chief magistrate as he thought "the public utilities needed some attention".

During his tenure of office he had sat on the Commission and there had always been agreement and co-operation. His platform, he said would be co-operation, courtesy and service. Co-operation with the city council was paramount and also with every department in the city.

PRISONER KILLED AS NINE SAW WAY OUT OF JAIL

Inmates Trapped in Jail Yard Before Being Able to Escape

Chicago, Nov. 26. (AP)—One prisoner was killed and eight others surrendered after the nine criminals sawed their way out of the Cook County jail Thursday night and were trapped in the jail yard.

Two guards thwarted the daring attempt of the nine prisoners to climb over the 22-foot wall after escaping from their first-floor cells.

The nine, waiting transfer to State prisoners, fled from the jail shortly after 7 p.m. after they and about 1,000 other prisoners had been sent to their cells.

Warden Frank G. Sain said they sawed through four-foot metal panels that are part of the cell walls. They reached a gallery and then broke an unbarred window and fled to the yard.

Sheriff Elmer Walsh today suspended three guards at the jail for "failure to count heads throughout the day, which would have ascertained that three men were missing." He said three prisoners were "bush completing the job" of sawing through steel walls.

He said Nicholas Ferri, 24, a guard stationed in the yard, spotted the nine men immediately. When they ignored his command to halt he fired one shot over their heads. The shot attracted the attention of William Riley, 41, a second guard in the yard.

The Warden said one of the prisoners had started to climb to the top of the wall and when Riley approached he dropped to the ground and nine prisoners, one of them was carrying a rope fashioned from two torn bed sheets, advanced toward the guards.

Washington Primping up for Special Date With President Truman Jan. 20

By GEORGE RONALD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Nov. 26 (CP)—There's a lilting trace of carnival spirit in the Washington air — the big beautiful city is primping up for a special date with President Truman.

It's been eight years since the capital's last bang-up inaugural and the planners say the sky's the limit for the long awaited event Jan. 20.

Mardi Gras Atmosphere

There'll be 40,000 grandstand seats at prices ranging from $2 to $10 a five hour parade marshalled by the Army Chief of Staff, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, and movie, opera, and radio stars, "name" fireworks, flags, banners, "name" bands, a couple of inaugural dances and —maybe—a four-day holiday for Washington's teeming army of federal government workers.

Since federal employees are traditionally dismissed to see the President take his oath of office, the four day break would start on the 20th.

Austerity for FDR's Last

Because of the war, the late President Franklin D. Roosvelt's fourth-term inaugural four years ago was without nothing but a simple, swearing-in ceremony. The last full dress inaugural was after his third election in 1940.

The actual swearing in takes place at the capitol on a high stand supported by four pillars. The structure is especially erected for each occasion and stored during the intervals. Most of the festivity is scheduled for inaugural day itself.

Military Display

Army and navy cadets from West Point and Annapolis will march in the five hour parade and a crack navy flying squadron will zoom overhead. The airmen are the elite Blue Angel squadron, five Jacksonville (Fla.) pilots who train exhibition flying instructors.

The committee has one special headache—housing. The planners are working closely with Washing hotels and tourist homes, asking 10 rooms here, one room there, and hoping things will work out.

But some accommodation is going to be strictly emergency stuff. Major railroads intend to haul coaches into the switching yards and set up "sleeping car cities." Hundreds of visitors, whether they they stay a day or a week, are doomed to upper berths.

MINISTER OF LABOR WILL BE HEARD OVER CJBQ

The surprising initiative of veterans in their efforts to re-establish themselves in civilian life after years of service with armed forces will be topic of discussion by the Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor, in a radio address to be heard over Station CJBQ on Saturday evening.

The address by Mr. Mitchell will be heard on "The People Ask" program, which is heard regularly over his station. The program will be heard from six to six-fifteen Saturday evening.

TWO JUNIOR FARMERS TO ATTEND CONGRESS

Douglas Harry, Trenton, and Murray Head, Picton, have been selected as representative Junior Farmers for Hastings and Prince Edward Counties respectively to attend the National 4-H Club Congress to be held in Chicago, Illinois.

The two young agriculturists will join a party of 25 fellow future farmers, eight girls and seventeen boys, comprising the Ontario delegation which will travel to Chicago. They will leave Saturday and return on the following Saturday. One of the events on the itinerary will be a day as guests of the International Harvester Company. Each delegate will wear a Maple Leaf badge which will aid them in becoming acquainted with their American friends.

MEN'S CLUB HEARS TALK ON TELEVISION

The first fall meeting of the members of the Men's Club in connection with St. Thomas' Church was held in the Parish House Thursday evening and was largely attended. The President, Norman Garbutt, presided and the guest speaker was a member of the club, R. H. Tanner, engineer in the radio section of the Northern Electric Company, who gave an informative address on television. Mr. Tanner was introduced by the rector, the Ven. Archdeacon Arthur Smith and the appreciation of the members was expressed by Dr. John Clarke.

An excellent supper was served by one of the groups of the Parochial Guild.

LIBRARY ASSOC. TRUSTEES MEET HERE

A dinner meeting will be held this evening in the hotel, at which Mr. Arnold Edinborogh will be the guest speaker.

The business meeting will be held in the Rotarian dining room of the Hotel Quinte.

Schmidt, St. Louis Suspended By Loop Executive

President Eddie Schreider of the Belleville and District Hockey League announced today that Referee Speedy St. Louis and defenceman Lou Schmidt of the Trenton Hockey Club, have been indefinitely suspended pending a thorough investigation into the fights which occurred during the Trenton-Northern Electric hockey game in Memorial Arena last night.

President Schreider has called a special meeting of his executive which will be held over the weekend to probe the circumstances surrounding the incident.

Navy League Fund Reaches Half-Way Mark

Officials of the Belleville Division of the Navy League wree optimistic today over the success of the current campaign for funds.

With the campaign well under way slightly over one-half of the quota of $4,500 has been donated by residents of the city and district, Treasurer H. N. Becker announced. The amount received up to last night is $2,270.

Officials stated they were deeply appreciative of the fine response to the appeal thus far, and are confident that the public will contribute the remainder of the quota by the time the campaign ends.

WANTS HOUSE MOVED

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP)—A court order requiring the moving of Thomas Derrick's house two inches is sought by William Owen in an action which began in County Court Thursday. Owen claims that Derrick's house has trespassed two inches over his property line.

New Unemployment Insurance Commission Offices Opened Officially by Mayor Storey

"Belleville is proud of the work done by Mr. Reed and his group, and is assured of the ability of the office and staff to cope with the needs of the growing city," commented Mayor D. L. Storey as he officially opened the new offices of the Belleville Branch of the National Employment Service - Unemployment Insurance Commission Thursday evening. Members of the City Council who accompanied the Mayor to the meeting spoke briefly, citing their appreciation of the co-operation extended by the commission and expressing best wishes for continued success.

The well-attended ceremony was opened with the National Anthem, followed by the invocation given by the Rev. J. G. Hornsby. Mr. H. H. Reed, Belleville manager, officiated as chairman for the meeting and noted that consistent staff teamwork was the main factor in the efficiency and success of the commission.

The new offices, located in the renovated Chamber of Commerce Building, 161 Front Street, have the latest in ultra-modern appointments. Occupying spacious quarters on both the ground and second floors, the offices are strikingly clean and fresh in appearance. Comfort and healthy conditions are assured through adequate ventilation and lighting.

Shown Through Offices

Visitors, representing the majority of the businesses of the city, were shown through the offices by Mr. Reed and his staff. Systems and records were explained and demonstrated to those interested.

In the absence of Mr. B. G. Sullivan, Regional Superintendent, who was scheduled to address the meeting, but who was detained due to illness in his family, Mr. J. Temple was called upon by the chairman to outline some of the work being done by the commission.

In his remarks, Mr. Temple expressed surprise that a city the size of Belleville did not as yet have a local advisory committee. This unit, he explained, was selected by the commission to act in an advisory capacity as representatives of the various fields of employment in the community and adjoining areas. As representatives committee members would be persons the manager could discuss his problems with concerning their field of work. This organization would serve the labor-employer situation by allowing for discussion on mutual problems, out of which useful ideas frequently arise.

Service Rendered Youth

Mr. Temple dealt at length with the services being rendered the youth of today. In doing so, he noted them as "the future leaders of the world." An outline was given of the system in action in Montreal and Toronto at present which accounts for a complete record of a student's progress during his school years which is referred to by the Employment Service when aiding the student in setting out in the world of commerce. This system has met with much success since its inception a few years ago, and statistics were quoted the meeting which illustrated the improvements that have been made in placing the youth in proper employment.

In conclusion, Mr. Temple expressed the hope that organizations similar to those now in operation in Toronto and Montreal find a place in the other communities to deal with the employment problems of the youth of today—the customers of tomorrow.

With the reorganization of the female division of the Employment Service, a department neglected for the past two years, Mr. Reed called upon Mrs. G. Scott, president of the Hospital Auxiliary, to speak briefly upon the benefits of this department. Mrs. Scott expressed satisfaction at seeing the reorganization of the department under the guidance of Miss Belair, noting that girls and women will undoubtedly find it easier to air their problems with one of their own sex.

Figures Quoted

During the proceedings, Mr. Reed quoted figures pertaining to the work of the local office as illustration of the volumes of work being done by the Belleville staff. In his report it was shown that 397 persons were placed on farms in the area; 4,044 applications for employment had been received, and 4,156 referrals to employment had been made. From this number 2,354 persons had succeeded in finding gainful employment. On a basis of 5,327 benefit checks issued during the period of January 1, 1948 to October 31, 1948, a sum of $53,270 was paid out. In the handling of 2,564-re-establishment cases for veterans it was reported that $141,805.03 had been paid out and it was stated that the majority of these credits were spent with Belleville merchants.

Another function of the office was given in the placing of paroles from the penitentiary, of which there were seven, and other penal institutions of which there were 17. Mr. Reed reported that out of the 24 such persons only one had violated his parole necessitating his return to prison. A further service was rendered in the matter of placing handicapped persons, such as the blind, amputees, deaf, and others through local or outside employers in jobs suiting their personal abilities.

Napanee Couple Given Surprise Party by Family

Napanee—Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Nugent of Napanee were tendered a surprise dinner party Saturday in honor of their golden wedding anniversary. It was held at the home of their eldest son, Claude, and his wife. The twenty present consisted of their children and families, namely Claude Nugent, Mrs. C. Spafford(Marion), Mrs. R. A. Baker (Emma), of Hamilton and Earl Nugent. Their other son, Courtland of Virginiatown, Northern Ontario, was unable to be present.

The table was centred with a very attractively decorated, three-tier wedding cake. Following the dinner which was served by their granddaughter, Ruth Nugent and her girl friend, Jeanne Tucker, an address was given by Mrs. Baker. A presentation of a purse was then given by the family to which Mr. Nugent made a fitting reply.

The balance of the evening was spent with cards and music.

Pension Plans Theme of Talk To Cost Accountants

Members of the Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of Ontario held their regular monthly dinner meeting at the Bar-B-Q. Guest speaker for the evening was J. M. Thompson, C. A., Controller of the Canadian Westinghouse Company of Hamilton.

In his address on "Industrial Pension Plans" Mr. Thompson spoke of the history, the present status and the probable future trends of industrial pension plans. He explained and illustrated several types of plans detailing future and past service benefits, funding and governmental approval. He also presented a clear picture of government annuities, social security and old age pensions with their effect on industrial pensions.

Six members of the Kingston Chapter attended the meeting while several other guests from industrial organizations in the city were also present. Carl Casey, chairman of the local chapter, presided, while the guest speaker was thanked by Gordon Ireland. Les Lennox acted as sergeant-at-arms.

CARNIVAL ROBBED

Big Spring, Tex., Nov. 26 — (AP) — The winter quarters of a carnival show was reported robbed near here Thursday night of an estimated $20.0000 in cash by five heavily-armed men.

Police said two safes were blasted after six carnival employees were trussed up.

OBITUARY

JOHN VINCENT CORBETT
(Murray Township)

Trenton, Nov. 26 (Special) — The funeral of John Vincent Corbett who died at his home in the 3rd concession of Murray township, Northumberland County, on Friday last, after an illness of two years' duration, was held from his late residence on Monday of this week to St. Alphonsus Church at Wooler where Requiem Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father J. C. Maloney of Campbellford, assisted by the Rev. Father F. L. Rishea of Wooler. Interment took place at St. Alphonsus Cemetery. The bearers were Leonard Miron, James Miron, Joseph Miron, Harold Corbett, Frank Rose and Harry Rose, all nephews of the deceased.

The late Mr. Corbett was born in Murray township 70 years ago and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Corbett. All his life was passed in the district where he was born and during his active years he was engaged in farming and fruit growing. He was a member of the Holy Name Society in connection with St. Alphonsus Church, Wooler.

He never married. Surviving him are two sisters, Mrs. John Rose and Mrs. William Miron, both of Murray township; one brother, Matthew Corbett, Trenton district.

MRS. E. MARGARET BURROWS

Mrs. Eve Margaret Burrows, wife of Mr. Frederick W. Burrows, died at her home, 134 Bridge Street east, Thursday evening, after an illness of four months' duration.

The late Mrs. Burrows, who was in her 68th. year, was born in Toronto and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Elkin, Jr. The greater part of her life was passed in Toronto and for the past three years she made her home in this city. During her residence here Mrs. Burrows made many friends and to them her death has brought sincere regret. She was a member of Bridge St. United Church.

For some years it has been the custom of Mr. and Mrs. Burrows to spend the winter in Florida at Lakeland and being an ardent lawn bowler she was a member of the bowling club there. When at home in this city during the summer months she enjoyed playing on the greens of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club.

Surviving her are her husband, Mr. Frederick W. Burrows and one son, Mr. Freeman Burrows.

Resting at the Pinkston Funeral Home, Church Street, at Victoria Avenue; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

He was a member of Trinity Anglican Church, Frankford, and fraternally he was a member of Franck Lodge No. 127 A.F. & A.M.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Marie Elizabeth McCormick; three nephews, Gerald Snider, Belleville; Ross Snider, Germany; Donald Snider, Detroit, Mich.; one niece, Mrs. Reginald (Ruby) Skinner, Foxboro.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Curfew Imposed In Hyderabad

Hyderabad, Nov. 26 (Reuters) — Curfew was imposed in part of Hyderabad Thursday night following outbreaks of rioting arising out of what was described as "a private quarrel."

Ten persons were injured and some shops looted before order was restored.

The curfew which lasted from 9 p. m. until 5 a. m. will continue tonight as a precautionary measure.

SUSPECT ARSONISTS STARTED HOTEL FIRE SAY LOCAL POLICE

Campbellford, Ont., Nov. 26 — (CP) Police said they suspect arsonists started the $5,000 blaze which today destroyed the unoccupied Queen's Hotel, century-old landmark of Hastings village, 10 miles west of here.

Hamilton Man Sentenced At Napanee

Found guilty on several charges of forgery and also a jail break, Douglas Thompson, 24, of Hamilton, was sentenced to eight months definite and six months indeterminate on three forgery charges and six months definite for attempted forgery, all to run concurrently. He was also given three months definite and three months' indeterminate for escaping from custody, the sentence to run consecutively.

Thompson escaped custody Wednesday morning while waiting sentence on the forgery counts. He was captured a few hours later in the barn of Mark Miles, two miles north of Napanee.

Cheques totalling $900 were involved in the forgery charges against Thompson. The accused had forged the names of Kenneth Lipsey, a Napanee district farmer. He eluded police at Napanee after a bank manager became suspicious but was arrested in Hamilton.

U.S. Freighter Crewmen Eat Well Thanksgiving

Goderich, Nov. 26 — Thanksgiving dinner aboard the United States lake freighter, Standard Portland Cement, in dock here yesterday, was really something While the ship was being unloaded the 36 crewmen munched their way through this menu—wine and shrimp cocktail, turkey with dressing, squash and mashed potatoes, celery, olives, fruit salad, fruit cake, pumpkin and mincemeat pies, assorted nuts and candies, canned beer, coffee, tea and milk. In addition, each man got two cigars and a package of cigarets.

PARTIALLY SHUT DOWN

Oshawa, Nov. 26 (CP) — The General Motors plant here will be partially shut down in order to change some facilities for 1949 model cars, plant Manager J. B. Highfield said Thursday night. This temporary shutdown will affect some of the 4,500 employees for two or three weeks he added.

IN MEMORIAM

NEWELL—In loving memory of a dear daughter and sister Patricia Newell, who passed away Nov. 26, 1946.

Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break, but all in vain,
To have, to love, and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days,
When we were all together.

Ever remembered by mom, dad, sister Carmel and brothers John, Bill, and Don. N26

Stevedores Stage Lightning Strike Then Go to Work

Southampton, Nov. 26 — (Reuters) Stevedores here staged a lightning strike today, halting the unloading of mail bags from the 45,000-ton Cunard liner Aquitania and the 19,118-ton Arundel Castle but later they decided to return to work.

The men announced, however, they will still refuse to work overtime, night shifts, or on Sundays until their claims for special dates for unloading mail had been met.

Today's strike stopped the unloading of 14,205 bags of mail including 12,000 parcels froh the Aquitania, which arrived from Canada early this morning.

Unloading of passengers' luggage was not affected by the strike.

The strikers rejected an appeal by an official of the Transport and General Workers' Union to carry on normal work until an arbitration court had reached a decision on their wage claims.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 26 — (CP) — Western oils ballooned ahead in heavy trading on Toronto exchange today. Golds and industrials moved into firmer ground in select action and base metals fluctuated in spotty trading.

The western oil group stampeded in the first hour, climbing to the best levels in 11 years, but sagged slightly as the session progressed. Action was strong and the bulk of trading spread over the group. Seven issues climbed to new highs with Home Oil, Calgary and Edmonton, Anglo-Canadian and Okalta showing the best advances.

Industrials opened quietly and edged ahead as the session progressed. Consolidated Paper was ahead ⅝ at 19⅝ following announcement of an extra 75-cent dividend. Refining oils were also strong reflecting the western oil advance.

Smelters rose ½ at 126½ in a mixed base metals list. Pend Oreille and Falconbridge were down. Eureka was at a new low at 90 cents and International Nickel eased a fraction. Noranda rose a point.

Eldona highlighted the golds with some very heavy trading on a six-cent decline. Magnet, Malartic, Campbell and Cochenour brightened.

Weekly Livestock Review

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP)—Trade on the livestock market Monday opened slow and became progressively duller during the week. The cattle run of 5,678 head was one of the lightest this year but the quality was plain to medium with insufficient numbers of top grade beef to interest buyers.

Top for weighty steers was $34.50 for one choice lot. Light steers sold for slaughter at $16-$19 with a few good quality at $21. Heifers were $16-$18 with a few up to 20.50. Fed yearlings of medium to good quality sold at 19-$24 and a few choice quality reached $30. Butcher cows were $13-$17 with canners and cutters mostly $9-$12.50. Light bulls of plain quality sold at $14.50-$18 and good bulls reached $21. Stockers were fairly active at $15.50-$18.50 and good feeders and stock calves sold at $20-$22. Ordinary quality milkers and springers sold at $140-$175 each.

Some 2,470 head of calves were offered. Export demand for good to choice vealers sent prices higher with $29-$30 taking the bulk with a few selling at $31. Plain to medium calves were lower at $16-$24. Grass calves sold for slaughter at $14-$15.50.

Hogs totalled 2,534 head. Prices were unchanged. Grade A were $30.75 and grade B1 were $30.35. Sows were $25 dressed.

A comparatively light run of sheep and lambs totalled 2,494 head. Good ewe and wether lambs closed 25 cents higher at $23.75 with bucks at the usual $1 discount. Cull lambs were $14-$15. Sheep were $5-$10 for locals. Light western ewes were $10.25.

Construction Contractor Convicted Under Industrial Standards Act

Rae Jones, former construction contractor of this city, was fined $25 with additional costs of $97.98 and court costs of $9.50, when he was found guilty in Magistrate's court of a charge laid under the Industrial Standards Act of paying a carpenter at a lower rate than specified for the Belleville zone.

The accused was arraigned on two charges for similar offenses, the Crown charging that Kenneth Peltey, Wallbridge Road, and Gordon Irwin, Station Street, had been paid at a lower rate than $1.25 per hour. Both had been hired as carpenters, it was charged. The first charge was dismissed by Magistrate T. Y. Wills, while on the second he found the accused guilty as charged.

Test Cases

The two cases were the first of their nature heard in local court and were in the nature of a test case under the Industrial Standards Act. The first charge against Mr. Jones was dismissed by the magistrate when he ruled that there had been no evidence Mr. Peltey had been hired as a carpenter.

Mr. Peltey told the court that he had worked for Mr. Jones from June 14th to July 24th doing only carpenter work or work which a carpenter is usually called upon to do. During this time he had received but $1 per hour.

The court was told that when Mr. Peltey was first hired by Mr. Jones it had been in the capacity of a laborer for which he had received 75 cents per hour. On June 14th he had been given charge of a certain number of men to do certain work and for this had been paid $1 per hour.

Dismissed on Evidence

The magistrate dismissed the case on the grounds there was nothing in the evidence to prove Peltey had been hired as a carpenter.

In the second case, however, evidence was that Mr. Irwin had been hired as a carpenter at the rate of $1.15 per hour. He had worked from June 15th to July 15th, but owing to financial difficulties of the contractor, had not been paid for the last week which he worked. Mr. Irwin stated he was not a member of the carpenters' union but had been hired as a carpenter to handle a number of men.

"This is an entirely different case than the first charge," commented Magistrate Wills as he found the accused guilty. "I accordingly fine the accused $25 and court costs of $9.50, or in default one month in jail. The additional costs of $97.98 were ordered paid to the Labor Board.

Kinette Club Organized Here

Formation of a Kinette Club, members of which will be the wives of members of the Kinsmen Club, was seen in the city Wednesday evening when following a dinner meeting at the Hotel Quinte, the new club was organized.

President of the Kinette Club will be Mrs. Helen Wilbur, wife of Newton Wilbur, Past President of the Kinsmen Club with Mrs. Dave Hamilton as secretary.

Members of the Napanee and Kingston Kinette Clubs were in attendance at the organizational meeting, with officials of these two clubs presenting an outline of the activities of the clubs in their centres. It was pointed out that although members of a Kinettte Club are the wives of Kinsmen, and they assisted the men's club in their various projects, the club's organization was entirely separate. Separate officers were elected, and the club directed its own business and meetings.

It is expected that the new Kinette Club in the city will have from 25 to 30 members.

Kinsmen Club President Frank Lang, presided over the organizational meeting. Arthur Duby favored with two solos, while Phil Huddleston acted as accompanist.

P.A. System Guides Hunters Out of Woods

Blind River, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP) —Two lost hunters, Ray Musson and Alphonse Desjardins, were guided out of the wilds of Algoma bushland near here by means of a high-powered public address system six miles away.

Words of encouragement and directions for finding their way out of the bush were "broadcast" by the P. A. system from the top of a hill north of Blind River. The hunters, who picked up the messages "quite clearly," walked to safety 16 hours later.

A ground party, searching for the lost hunters, could find no trace of them. The area in which they disappeared is heavily-wooded.

From the hilltop Tom Nash owner of the public address system beamed messages to the pair, calling them by name and asking them to fire a shot if they were within range of his voice. The shot reply came and Nash directed the men to light a large fire.

When smoke appeared over the tree-tops he transmitted directions for finding their way to safety.

Council Accepts McCrory Tender For New Firehall

At a special meeting of council held on Thursday, the tender of S. R. McCrory, Stirling, was accepted for the construction of the new firehall on Moira Street. The tender was the lowest submitted, being slightly in excess of $56,000.

The new firehall to be built on Moira Street West, is the first of two new fire stations which are planned by the city, one to serve on each side of the river. The fire station for which the tenders were called will be built on the north side of Moira Street opposite the north end of Cedar Street. The creek running through Coleman Flats at this point will be diverted to provide a site for the building.

Committee Named

In committee meeting Thursday evening council named a committee of Aldermen Armstrong, Clarke, and Hyde with the city comptroller and the city engineer to deal with a communication from the engineering firm of Gore and Storrie, Toronto, with respect to private drain connections in Parkwood Heights.

Alderman Brown was granted leave of absence from the city council for a period of three months as result of his present illness.

The city comptroller was authorized to attend an executive meeting of the Assessors' Association to be held in Toronto Dec. 3.

Almost Smothered By Coal Gas Fumes

Toronto, Nov. 26—(CP)—Leaving her two children in her partly-built suburban North York home while she went to work to raise money for their Christmas presents, almost resulted in a mother losing both her children through coal-gas poisoning Thursday night.

Edward Dalziel, 13, and Robert, nine, are recovering today after being unconscious several hours while their parents were both working. The children were found by their parents.

Mrs. Dalziel said today she had started work some time ago to earn money to buy the children "decent Christmas presents."

Charwoman Left $13,000 Estate, $6,500 in Mattress

Brantford, Nov. 26 — (CP) — The $13,000 estate of a Brantford charwoman, Mrs. Rosina Birkett, who died last March, today was awarded by a court decision to Mrs. Birkett's half-sister, Mrs. Annie L. Chamberlin, 71, of Flint, Mich.

A total of $6,500 in bills and silver was found last spring sewn into a mattress unused for 17 years. Nearly 100 mildewed bundles and purses were found in the mattress.

BRITISH SCIENTIST RESIGNS AS MEMBER OF RUSSIAN ACADEMY

London, Nov. 26 (Reuters) — Sir Henry Dale, distinguished British scientist, has resigned his honorable membership in the Academy of Sciences of the U. S. S. R., it was learned today.

Sir Henry, president of the Royal Society from 1940 to 1945, was quoted in the Times today as saying that his resignation was in protest against the dismissal and subsequent "disappearance" of a Russian scientist and some of his co-workers.

U.S., Britain, France Plan to Publish New Facts About Reds, Spain

Washington, Nov. 26 — (AP) — The United States, Britain and France are planning to publish new facts about Spain and Russia's secret negotiations with Nazi Germany, it was disclosed today.

Details of the pre-war Hitler-Stalin deal to divide Poland will be bared for the first time in two separate 1,000-page volumes now under preparation.

Evidence of German, Italian and Russian intervention in the Spanish Civil War will feature a third volume dealing with Franco's relations with Hitler from 1936 to 1939.

Diplomatic officials told a reporter that the United States State Department, in co-operation with the British and French foreign offices, plans to start publishing these three documents early next year. They will be printed in English, French and German.

They will be but three of the 25 volumes now being prepared by historians of the three countries from German records captured by the United States army in the closing days of the war. The researchers had to burrow through 450 tons of documents to sift out the essential material.

Soviet Russia's relations with Germany will not be dealt with in separate volumes but will be included in two volumes telling of general Nazi foreign policy prior to the outbreak of war in September, 1939.

This may be due to a desire to avoid further disturbing their touchy relations with Russia. Moscow bitterly denounced the State Department early this year after it published part of the record of Soviet-German negotiations as revealed in the Nazi documents.

A government official working on the propect said, however, that the two new volumes being edited now will contain "twice as much detail" on this subject as the earlier volume, which ran 362 pages. This fact alone may provoke a new outburst from Moscow.

One point that stands out, this official said, is that Hitler and Nazi foreign office had no spies in Russia — unlike the situation elsewhere — and were forced to rely entirely upon their embassy in Moscow for information.

Three-Month Term For Tire Theft

James Nevery, age 19, of Moira Street, was sentenced to three months in the common jail when he pleaded guilty in magistrate's court this morning to a charge of "joyriding" and of theft of tires.

Jack Eggleton, Holloway, charged with the same offences, pleaded not guilty to the charge of "joyriding" and had his case laid over until next Thursday. He pleaded guilty to the theft of tires, sentence being deferred until after the hearing on the "joyriding" charge.

Charges against the two young men resulted from the theft of a car owned by Dennis Meagher of Read. Police charged that the two youths had taken the car from where it had been parked by the roadside near Read and had later taken from the vehicle two wheels with tires and tubes.

Provincial Constable Chas. Siple, giving evidence on the two charges against Nevery, stated the Meagher car had been abandoned after the tires had been taken. The constable said the tires had been sold to a Belleville man, while the two wheels had been found under a barn owned by Eggleton's father at Holloway.

Case Enlarged

Floyd Woods, 32, of Bayside, appeared on a theft charge involving the alleged theft of $250 worth of tools and $50 worth of clothing. At the request of the accused the case was enlarged for one week to permit the opportunity of securing counsel. Bail was set at $1,000.

The theft charge against Woods resulted from the disappearance of a tool box containing the tools and a suitcase from a truck parked outside a local hotel. Inspector Hayes of the city police, told the court that he was satisfied all the tools had been recovered.

Worker is Burned As Tank Explodes

Port Colborne, Nov. 26 (CP)—James Cavano, of 19 (York St.) Ajax, an employee of Mount Dennis Construction Company, was burned about the body, left arm and leg early today when the gasoline tank on a compressor he was filling by the aid of lantern light exploded.

Cavano was seen by Jack Hurst running along Oakwood Avenue, Humberstone, where the company is installing new watermains, his clothing aflame.

Hurst called Port Colborne police and constables Stanley Meskis and Louis Potyok responded and took Cavano to Welland county general hospital. His condition is reported good.

PLOTTER ARRESTED

Cairo, Nov. 26 (Reuters) —Police Thursday arrested a young man alleged to have plotted the assassination of Prime Minister Nokrashy Pasha of Egypt. The arrest was made at the Saad Zaghlul Club, headquarters of the Premier's Saadist Party.

Point Traverse

Albino Crow Shot by Hunter

Point Traverse, Nov. 26. —A rare species of wild life, a white or albino crow, was shot by Kenneth McConnel, lighthouse keeper at the False Duck Island, three miles off here.

It is believed to be the first of its kind found in this area of Prince Edward County.

94th Birthday

Point Traverse's grand old lady, Mrs. Phoebe Ellen Rorabeck, will celebrate her ninty-fourth birthday on Sunday, Nov. 28. A family gathering on Wednesday honored Mrs. Rorabeck, who is very active for her many years.

32 ARE NOMINATED

Courtesy, he went on, is the backbone of public relations and these should be conducted in a courteous manner. Referring to service, he said the Utilities belong to the people and they are the ones who should get service.

He had no knowledge of why the Commission had not made direct representation to the Hydro Commission for a fuller allotment of power. Cut-offs are dangerous from all points of view. He noted that water heaters on the flat rate basis are being cut off two and one-half hours a day, "we should pay for what we are getting and there should be an investigation into a reduction of rates," he said.

Ex-Alderman Clarence Clapp thanked his supporters and declined to stand for the nomination. Ex-Mayor Glencoe Thompson, another nominee, stated that he had not decided whether he would or would not run.

Hopes for Better Luck

Nominated for the position of alderman, Everett Liddle said that he tried last year and nearly made it. This year circumstances were different and if elected he would give 100 per cent of his ability to the city of Belleville.

Harold Seldon did not make a speech but reminded the audience that the Chamber of Commerce was sponsoring a meeting at the Collegiate next Thursday where all candidates may air their views and platforms. He reminded those present that the Chamber was absolutely neutral in municipal government matters and was merely providing means whereby people may listen to the various candidates.

Alderman Angus Duffy said he intended to stand again and while he did not know why people voted for him, nevertheless he would stand on his past record and "hoped the people would see fit to return him."

William Reynolds said he would take his aldermanic nomination under consideration, and that ended the speeches for the day.

Given 8 Months For Forgery

Napanee, Nov. 26 (CP)— Guilty of forgery and a jail break, Douglas Thompson, 24, of Hamilton, Thursday was sentenced to eight months definite and six months indefinite on each of three forgery charges and six months definite for attempted forgery.

The sentences will run concurrently. He also was given three months definite and three indefinite for escaping custody to run consecutively. Cheques totalling $900 were involved. Thompson made a brief break for freedom from the county jail Wednesday but was recaptured.

54 Below Zero At Snag, Yukon, Fall's Coldest

Edmonton, Nov. 27 (CP)— The Dominion public weather office here announced the coldest weather recorded this fall in North America was reported today from Snag, Y.T., where the mercury went to 54 below several hours after midnight.

Snag, a weather station and airbase some 1,600 miles northwest of Edmonton, last February recorded an all-time low record for North America. The official low was 81 below but the mercury actually dropped to 83 below on an improvised scale.

Rain is Preferred

There was a time when some persons were adverse to news of rain at almost any season for they felt there would naturally be enough to satisfy the needs of the land and all other needs. That was in a time when the people were not thinking much of water in its relation to the creaion of electric power. Now who but wants it to rain quite often to help fill the reservoirs of the systems from which his part of the Dominion draws her electrical energy.

For the fall of rain recently is having a result, the raisng of quotas of power available to municipalities all over he Province of Ontario which have had to go through lack-outs for some time. Until recently the stress was rged more and more of the great shortage of power due o the lessened rainfall and to the great industrial and uilding development which has been taking place in many arts of Canada.

But these recent rains have brought back two 2½ per ent increases to the quota. So who but wants it to rain ather than snow (at present at least) and to rain with a reat deal more frequency than nature has been accustomd to send the rain in the past two years.

Now nature cannot always act negatively by the dryng up of waters and the failure of moisture to fall as rain. nd so the people hope that nature's ways may be agreeble to furnishing the sources of the streams which feed to the hydro-electric systems in Ontario and Quebec, so at the partial darkness which has come upon Ontario of ghts may step by step disappear by the change it is hoped the elements which govern the fall of rain and the flow water. Then at least much of the handicaps of restricons may in due course disappear and by whatever other eps may be taken in the effort to give a greater flow of ater and as a result a greater flow of electric energy.

There have been proposals to generate more power as st as possible and there is the news that the Ontario ydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario is taking steps establishing diesel and steam plants to make unneces ry further cuts and to provide as much power as will reove any requirement of cut-offs in the winter of 1949-50.

The Spirit of the King

The link or relationship of Great Britain and the itish Commonwealth of Nations to the King has been monstrated twice within the past few days, first in the blic rejoicing with the Royal Family in the birth of a n to the Princess Elizabeth and now when the British ples are thinking of the King's health. His Majesty is ng about the duties of his high office as far as he can ry them on from his office in the Palace and this is a n of cheer to the people that this spirit of his is a good lication that rest will in due time bring the good results the restoration of the Monarch to his usual health. His jesty's devotion to his people has never shone in brighter ht than at this time. The course of his reign has brought this fact for never has a ruler been more beloved than g George for himself and for what he means to the itish Commonwealth and the world of nations.

From the Palace the news is cheering. It tells of His jesty carrying on the duties he can in the office in the ace while at the same time he is getting well-earned rest m those other duties, such as public functions. His deion to duty is everywhere recognized. This may make ifficult for him to take his necessary rest for his recov, but the wishes of his people are that the rest he is ing on the doctors' advice will and should bring about recovery to normal health. This is the prayer of every zen of the Motherland and the far-flung Dominions and many millions outside of the Commonwealth for Britain her rulers have long occupied a unique place in not the love and affections of people within the Empire of admiration from the people of nations outside of the nmonwealth of Nations.

Police Efficiency

In these present days of crime, it is not enough for ice merely to be alert and intelligent. If they are to ope at maximum efficiency, they must possess all the dern aids to the apprehension of criminals.

In Windsor on a visit, Attorney-General Leslie E. ckwell explains how the provincial police force not only been doubled in strength during the past five years, also has more than doubled the number of automobiles ts disposal. Of the 375 cars, 300 are radio-equipped.

This equipment has proved of great advantage in interception of criminals attempting to make their gety from the scene of their crimes. Protection of society inst law-breakers is a first responsibility of governnts, and Mr. Blackwell is to be complimented upon dernizing the provincial police force and its equipment. Vindsor Star.

STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

HEALING OF BODY AND SOUL

"Every one of my patients in the second half of his life — that is to say, over 35 — fell ill because he had lost that which the living religions of every age have given their followers; and none of them has really been healed who has not regained his religious outlook."

So speaks Carl Jung of Zurich, probably the greatest living psychiatrist. These are words we might expect from a churchman, but to have a medical authority who has a lifetime of successful healing of mental troubles to his credit should be a matter of great significance to us all. Many people are sick because of disease caused by germs. Others are suffering from accidents and from troubles which can only be relieved by surgery. But still others are sick, really sick, because their inner life is disturbed.

We used to think that these people imagined themselves sick. No one who knows anything about the situation believes that today. These people are sick, only their illness does not begin with infection or deterioration of some organ. It begins with a disordered inner life. Their sickness of soul produces real sickness of body, and no medicine will heal them. They must be healed by being made right on the inside of their lives, and only faith in God can do that.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

AIM

That which we get in this world is usually exactly what we aim to get. Every one who has ever achieved anything worth while has had an aim or objective toward which he has steadfastly worked his way.

Many years ago, while vacationing in Florida, I met Gene Tunney and we saw each other often and talked much during many weeks. I had never seen him in a boxing contest, but was very impressed with his character and viewpoint on life, so that I turned to him one day and said: "Gene, you will be the next World's Champion Heavyweight Boxer!" Without a moment's hesitation, he looked me in the eye and said: "Mr. Adams, that's exactly what I make, as we merely guess and flounder, without aim or purpose! We can none of us aim too high. The higher the better. We should keep Brownings line in mind: "Ah, but a man's reach should exceed his grasp, or what's a heaven for?" It's the look ahead that is always stimulating. And with each step our objective becomes more vivid.

It is better to aim for something that you want, even though you may not get it, than to aim at nothing and get what you don't want. There are compensations all along the way in our journey toward a definite destination, so that even though we never reach that destination, we are still ahead. We have not failed.

Preparation is everything. Without it few aims could ever to live a great deal — and die a little — in order to handle the great aim of our life. Otherwise what success would be ours would be merely casual and uninteresting.

In the breaking of a habit, William James, the eminent psychologist, said that no exceptions should be made; otherwise the habit would try to get its former hold. Likewise we must pursue our aim, never losing sight of it.

Mackenzie's Column: Former Owners Of Newspapers Take Over Plants

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

A serious problem has been created in the newspaper world of Western Germany by the decision of the allied military government that former owners may by 1952 regain property after being cleared by denazification courts.

The newspapers now are being run in their old plants by carefully screened publishers who have been licensed by the military authorities. Under the new property ruling, those who own the newspapers during the Hitler regime may, after denazification, take over their plants from the licensees and resume their own publication. Since there are no other plants available, the licensees will have to suspend their papers and the old publishers will be once more in the editorial chairs, unless the latter see fit to lease the plants.

This naturally raised the question of what ideological complexion the newspapers will have if the old guard take over. Can the leopard change its spots? The present-day German publishers think not. They maintain that the owners who operated under the Hitler regime are too much steeped in the totalitarian Nazi code to be able to shake it off and adapt themselves to post-war conditions.

Iron Hand

Hitler ruled the press with an iron hand through the vicious little devil, Joseph Goebbels, who was his propaganda minister. Goebbels' influence increased until towards the end of the war he was credited with being the Fuehrer's chief lieutenant.

I spent a good deal of time in Germany before the war. The press had no freedom but was the tool of the German government — which meant Hitler. Day after day the unspeakable Goebbels manipulated the newspapers of the entire country to suit the policy of the dictatorship. He gave the people what he wanted them to have, irrespective of truth.

The history of the war was written to suit Hitler's purposes, and was relayed to the country through the newspapers. The propaganda minister even used the press to further Hitler's scheme for destroying religion and creating in the public mind a Messiah complex regarding the Fuehrer himself. Young girls were urged to have babies out of wedlock to create soldiers for Germany. The awful anti-Jewish campaign was carried on unceasingly.

Accepted as Gospel

A great deal of this propaganda was accepted as gospel by the general public. Indeed, much of it undoubtedly was accepted as fact by many publishers of newspapers. That being so, are we to suppose that the views of a defeated and embittered people are going to have changed overnight? I think not. I have been in Germany since the war and the look in the eyes of many of the people says that they are beaten physically but not mentally. They are much the same folk as those who fought under Hitler.

So it seems obvious that the military authorities will have to move with extreme caution in allowing Hitlerian - regime publishers to take back their plants and perhaps resume publication of their own newspapers. The denazification courts will have to proceed with great circumspection to make sure that no section of the press reverts to Nazi methods.

A correct solution of this problem obviously is of the utmost importance.

Military Junta Rules With Iron Hand in Venezuela

Caracas, Nov. 26 (AP)— The military junta that has taken over the government Venezuela today suspended various constitutional guarantees, including individual security, freedom of speech and privacy of the home.

Other guarantees affected are freedom of movement, freedom to change residence, to leave and enter the country and hold public meetings.

The decree said the security of the state requires suspension of the guarantees. The action is expected to be temporary.

The Junta also promised to make plans for national elections.

Fourteen German War Criminals Are Executed

Munich, Nov. 26 (AP)—Fourteen German war criminals were hanged today at Landsberg prison.

The executions brought to 87 the number of men executed in groups of from nine to 15 on seven consecutive Fridays for the slaying of concentration camp prisoners and American prisoners-of-war.

An 11th-hour stay of execution was granted Richard Schulze, 50, assistant to S.S. Gen. Ernst Kaltenbrunner. Katlenbrunner was hanged after the original war-crimes trial at Nuernberg.

The original list of men scheduled to be hanged after conviction by American war crimes courts contained 139 names. The cases of 48 of the 52 remaining men are being reviewed.

A United States army announcement said Schulze, former chief of German crimila police agencies, was granted the stay "on further information" warranting renewed investigation.

He was charged with issuing an order in July, 1944, that all captured Allied fliers were to be killed and "if the populace did not do it, the police should." Wuerzberg police killed a captured British flier March 18, 1945, allegedly as a result of Schultze's order.

Those hanged today included guards from Buchenwald, Mauthausen and other notorious concentration camps, and Nazis active in Hitler's "kill-the-fliers" program.

Slavic Bloc Attacks European Recovery Plan

Paris, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Slav bloc bitterly attacked the European recovery plan today in the United Nations General Assembly.

Dr. Oscar Lange of Poland told the 58-member plenary session that the United States is carrying on an "economic cold war against the Eastern European countries."

He said the use of "economic power to influence the policies of another country is inadmissable."

American delegate, Willard L. Thorp, an assistant secretary of state, told the Assembly Poland's proposal on discrimination in international trade is an "attempt once again to discredt the E.R.P. and the assistance the United States is giving to that program."

The Polish proposal recommends that all members "eschew the use of economic discrimination designed to apply sanctions to other countries or to influence their domestic or foreign policy." It was offered first in the economic committee, but was not voted on. Poland then took it to the plenary session.

Vladimir Clementis, Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia, accused the United States of introducing discriminatory trade practices "in the political feld."

Military Conflict Seen if Changes Are Not Made

Edmonton, Nov. 26 (CP) — Premer Manning Thursday night said he foresaw a military conflict in a day not too far distant, unless the world's political, economic and financial ills were remedied.

He made the statement in closing the annual convention of the Alberta Social Credit League which earlier gave him a vote of confidence after ousting rebel members from its ranks.

Two diametrically opposed ideologies which are unreconcilable and impossible to isolate geographically are fighting in the political feld, he said. One is godless materialism in the form of socialism, communism and collectivism, and the other is christian democracy.

Mr. Manning said the Marshall plan for European recovery is artificially bolstering the economies of Canada and the United States because goods are being sent to Europe but the money return for their production remains on this side of the Atlantic.

He said to do this was simply extending into peacetime the effects of war-time economy with the difference being that Europe is saddled with a burden she never will be able to throw off.

Production in Canada and the United States is being "sabotaged at the expense of labor, by communist infiltration into unions and by excessive taxation."

One of the financial ills is that inflation prices are eating into the savings of the general public. When these savings are gone and the "artificial bolster" of the Marshall plan is ended, "You'll be right back in that tragic economic paradox you saw before—a surplus of goods but a lack of buying

THE OLD WOMEN BORROW TROUBLE

How right you are about borrowing trouble where the menopause is concerned, writes a young woman who has apparently not been pinkhamized. It may not be too late for some of you old women to evade the "crisis", if your mental age is not over fifty.

Yesterday, writes the woman, a woman who took me for younger than I am said "Go ahead and build your barn while you still can, because when you get to be our age" (she and her sisters) "you won't be able to do things like that." It so happens that I am putting up the siding on a new barn.

I asked her how old she thought I was, and she could hardly believe me when I told her I was 45. Her sister is 47 and she is 49. "Well," she said, "you're just one of the lucky ones—but any time now the crisis will come to you and then you'll see . . ." —she sang on and on, like an almanac. I kept right on with my carpentering and assured her I don't know about that and I don't worry about it either. My mother raised 8 daughters and two sons, and never have I heard her even mention any "crisis" or trouble of any sort from the change.

Today's women are so pampered (the young woman still speaking) and lazy that they are generally bored with their own existence. I'd like to put them all at work on something like our 10 acre piece — I believe they'd soon forget about their imaginary pains and their "nerves" and their "critical epoch" and all the rest of it.

(Signed) ———

Thank you, Ma'am. Your letter is like a breath of fresh night air in an upper berth.

From long experience, in my uncouth way, I can tell you that you may as well keep your healthy view of the "change of life" to yourself. The old women—many of them are old before they reach thirty-five—are almost as unanimous in their morbid notion of the evils attending the menopause as the elders in general are about the consequences of drafts, sudden changes of weather or temperature, wet feet, and the like.

I agree with your old woman friends that you are one of the lucky ones—the very few lucky ones—you and your seven sisters. You are lucky to have such a wise mother. Your mother's good sense accounts for your wholesome attitude, and even without the sound health teaching of your mother you girls might have learned something about physiology and hygiene from any of a thousand sources in your time. But what I'd like to know is how in Sam Hill your mom escaped. When she was a girl it was unethical for a physician to talk to the laity about health—so the nostrum vendors taught the public what they wanted their prospective customers to believe — and the credulous feminine population believed it, all right.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Colitis Diet

Have been on a diet for ten months, for colitis, but just seem to get steadily worse. Now have Ben Told I may have to have an operation. (Mrs. H. P.)

Answer—Why not consult a physician?

B Complex for Weak Heart

Send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for your booklet C V D but can find no statement about vitamin B complex as a heart tonic or how much to take. (Mrs. S. H. C.)

Answer—See page 39. It tells how much to take, with or without digitalis, if you take digitalis.

Migraine

Kindly let me know whether you have any literature on migraine. I have suffered . . . (M. L.)

Answer—No. For pamphlet Why Have Headache, which includes suggestions for migraine (periodic sick headaches), send ten cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Prospective Mother

Please send your pamphlet The Iodin Ration. I expect my first baby in February. Will it be all right for me to take iodine in my condition? (D. E. M.)

Answer—For the pamphlet send stamped self addressed envelope. Every expectant mother needs iodine—but not medicinal iodine, just the daily amount which nutrition authorities estimate is the minimum daily requirement for good nutrition. Inclose twenty-five cents with the stamped self addressed envelope if you would like the booklet Preparing for Maternity.

Blind of Two World Wars Stand On Their Own Feet

Winnipeg, Nov. 26 (CP)—Would you use a straight razor to shave in the dark on a jolting train? Could you walk to work blindfolded? Could you operate the usual motor-driven appliances in a home workshop to make household knick-nacks without benefit of eyesight?

Col. E. A. Baker of Toronto has been doing this for years. Other war veterans can perform equally difficult tasks. They are the blind of two world wars who, through sheer determination, courage and concentration, have stood on their own feet to rehabilitate themselves for a life in total darkness.

Many of the accomplishments of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind find a parallel in the last 30 years of Col. Baker's life. He has been managing director of the institute for 28 years. His sight snatched from him in the First World War, he has spent most of his life bringing hope into the lives of other blinded veterans.

Col. Baker's mission will be completed in 1950 when all Canadian war blind will have been trained for a new start in life. At a reunion here Thursday night of 14 blind veterans he related the result of the training for one veteran and the ingenuity it inspired in another.

A French-Canadian, having only grade seven education when he entered the Toronto training school, now is an institute field secretary for the blind in Quebec after graduating with honors from university. He closed the gap in his education in three years.

Another blind veteran, operating a canteen, solved the paper currency problem by devising a light which acted like a mine detector. When the light was played over a bill, dark spots sent buzzes through the mechanism which helped him determine numerical value of the bill.

PRISONERS WORK DAILY

Guelph, Nov. 26 (CP)—Groups of Guelph reformatory prisoners are employed daily at Ontario Agricultural and Veterinary Colleges, on Ontario government projects, it was announced Thursday. Largest of the groups is working at the poultry department at O.A.C., where experimental houses are being built.

Walter Thompson Relinquishes Post With T.C.A.

Montreal, Nov. 26 — Walter S. Thompson, director of public relations and advertising, Canadian National Railways and Trans-Canada Air Lines, is relinquishing his air line activities as of December 31, it was announced today, following a meeting of the T. C. A. Board of Directors. He will devote his full time and attention to the railway and its other ancillary services.

G. R. McGregor, president of T. C. A., on behalf of the board and himself, made "grateful acknowledgment of the valuable services rendered by Mr. Thompson to the air line since its inception in 1937. His outstanding knowledge and experience in the public relations and advertising fields have been of immeasurable advantage to the company". In eleven years T. C. A. has expanded from 122 miles to nearly 16,000 miles of scheduled routes across Canada, to United States centres, across the Atlantic to Great Britain, to Bermuda and to the Caribbean, and Mr. Thompson felt, in view of his other transportation responsibilities, that the time had arrived for the air line to establish a public relations department of its own.

Will Try to Form New Cabinet

Brussels, Nov. 26 — (AP) — Former Premier Paul-Henri Spaak agreed today to make another attempt to form a new Belgian government.

Spaak acceded to the request of Prince Regent Charles after the former finance minister, Gaston Eyskens, told the Regent he had been unable to form a cabinet in three days of trying.

If Spaak fails again to form a government, Belgium may be faced with a political crisis that might be solved only by general elections, following the dissolution of parliament.

SUSPEND DAY CUTS

London, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP)—Increase in hydro quotas has brought suspension of daily power cuts in this city, but rural hydro officials said the increase was not sufficient to eliminate evening blackouts in suburban Broughdale and Oxford Park. There is also a morning cut off in the areas.

Rules Reach Owner Not Obliged to Provide Life-Saving Devices

Welland, Nov. 26 — (CP)—Mr. Justice P. E. F. Smily said today there was nothing in Canadian law that obliges a persons who owns a beach to provide life-saving devices.

He dismissed an action for $10,250 brought by Mrs. Esther Rogers of Buffalo against Auburn Holman of Niagara Falls. The damages were claimed as a result of the death by drowning of the claimant's husband, Carlyle Rogers, at Elco Beach, Lake Erie, Aug. 10, 1946.

Allan L. Brooks, counsel for Mrs. Rogers, said the ruling would be appealed.

Security Council Stays in Paris For Christmas

Paris, Nov. 26 (AP)—The Security Council will remain in Paris during the Christmas holiday for any emergency meeting, United Nations officials said today.

The schedule calls for the council to hold regular meetings here until Dec. 16, though the current assembly hopes to wind up Dec. 11.

No council meetings are scheduled between Dec. 16 and Dec. 31, but the council probably will meet at least once in that period. By council rules it must meet once every two weeks.

Most of the chief delegates are planning to go to New York after Dec. 16 and leave alternates here.

Fernand Van Langehove of Belgium will be chairman of the council in December. United Nations officials said he and Faris El Khouri, Syria, both of whom will leave the council Dec. 31, did not believe it necessary to go to New York for a possible meeting at Lake Success before the new year.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada, who will be chairman in January, will leave soon for visits in Britain and Canada. He plans to be at Lake Success Jan. 2 and will call a council session there if necessary.

ABSOLVED OF BLAME

Port Arthur, Nov. 26 — (CP)—Shot accidentally through the neck on a hunting trip, Edmund Williams, 70, of Port Arthur, absolved the man who shot him before losing consciousness.

Williamson was brought to hospital here after being wounded in the bush near Port Arthur. A companion, Michael Duchak, 24, of Port Arthur, noticed something brown moving in the bush and fired. The object was Williamson's knapsack.

Although suffering from loss of blood, Williamson took a pencil and wrote several notes, one saying that Duchak was not at fault.

WILL HOLD S

Wellington, Nov. 26 — (Reuters) — New Zealand's special Royal-tour stamps, already being printed in four denominations, will be held and their "ultimate disposal" decided on later, Postmaster-general Fred Hacket said Thursday. The tour has been cancelled because of the King's illness.

FACE CHARGES IN TORONTO

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP) — Two men were arrested by Toronto police at Hastings Thursday and have been brought here to face fraud charges.

Detectives arrested Vernon Morrow, 21, on a charge involving $1,900 and Lloyd Baker, 24, on a warrant charging false pretences in a car deal.

WEDDINGS

HARRINGTON—LA RONE

Shannonville.— A very pretty wedding took place in Shannonville United Church, Wednesday afternoon, November 24, at 2 p.m., when Lois Irma Edith, daughter of Mrs. L. E. La Rone and the late Mr. J. La Rone, became the bride of Reginald Heber Harrington of Trenton, son of Mrs. H. Harrington and the late Mr. Harrington.

The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the church, Rev. A. W. Lougheed, before an altar banked with ferns and baskets of white, yellow and bronze 'mums. Mrs. Harry Sine, the church organist, presided at the piano. "Bells of St. Mary's", played previous to the ceremony, "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin was played while the bride and her attendants came up the aisle to the altar, and after the ceremony for the recessional, the "Wedding March".

Mrs. James Vesterfelt sang "Because" very pleasingly during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Thomas Farnsworth, of Belleville, the bride was charming in a floor length gown of eggshell satin, with lace insertion in the yoke, full sleeves coming to points over the wrists, buttoned down the back, with a train. Her fingertip veil was caught to a headdress of satin and white ostrich plumes. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses and white satin ribbon.

Attending the bride was her sister, Mrs. Walter Hagerman, of Deseronto, as matron of honor, and her niece, Lorna Hagerman, also of Deseronto, as the trainbearer.

The matron of honor wore a blue sheer floor length gown, with long sleeves, neckline of lace and sequins. Her headdress was of blue net with matching ostrich plumes. She carried a nosegay of assorted flowers.

Little Lorna Hagerman wore a floor length gown of yellow taffeta with a headdress of satin and 'mums. She carried a nosegay of assorted flowers.

Mr. Peter Harrington, of Trenton, brother of the groom, was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Walter Hagerman of Deseronto, and Mr. Jack Harrington, of Trenton, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony the bridal couple were escorted to a pony cart, in which they were driven around the town by their coachman, Mr. Clarence Whitman of Trenton, who was suitably attired for the role he played.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, who wearing dark gray crepe with black accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses, received the guests, assisted by the groom's mother wearing a powder blue gown with black accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

For a honeymoon in Toronto and Detroit, the bride chose a dark grey suit with burgundy accessories and a turquoise blue coat with silver fox fur. Mr. and Mrs. Harrington will take up residence at 35 Edna Ave., Toronto.

Out-of-town guests were present from Belleville, Plainfield, Deseronto, Trenton and Picton.

Serving at the wedding dinner were Mrs. Gordon Johnson, Mrs. Norman Boldrick of Plainfield and Mrs. Laurenson of Belleville, the latter two being cousins of the bride. Also assisting were Mrs. Kenneth Vivian, Mrs. Charles Keirl and Mrs. Kenneth Juby.

Before leaving on the train that evening the bride gave her wedding bouquet to her mother and mother-in-law.

The many Shannonville friends wish the young couple a long and happy married life.

WOODS—NOLAN

Roslin, —A pretty double-ring ceremony took place in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Roslin, on Saturday afternoon, November 20th., when, Beverly Margaret Effie Nolan, daughter of Mrs. Leon Nolan and the late Mr. Nolan, of Halloway, became the bride of Ralph McGhee Woods, also of Halloway.

The officiating clergyman was the Rev. F. C. Beazer, rector of the parish.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother, entered the church wearing a gown of fuchsia crepe with grey accessories and wearing a corsage of Ophelia roses and white baby 'mums.

Miss Lorraine Nolan was her sister's bridesmaid and she chose a gown of aquamarine blue with black accessories and wore a corsage of roses and 'mums.

Mr. John Roland Moore, of Foxboro, very ably assisted the groom.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold necklace and pendant.

BELLEVILLE SCOUTS L.A.

The November meeting of the 8th Belleville Scouts' Ladies' Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Sinfield, 90 Yeomans Street, Monday.

Mrs. Cooke, president, opened the meeting. It was decided to hold the Christmas party on December 20th. After the business period, Mrs. Button, past president, was in charge, and a very interesting quiz game was enjoyed by all.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sinfield with the help of Mrs. Lee and her committee.

Ladies' Auxiliary To B of RT Meets In Toronto

The Ladies' Auxiliary 13th Provincial Union Meeting for Ontario to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, was held recently in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto.

The following were representative from this district—Mrs. H. Quincey, Mrs. C. Coleman, Mrs. A. Berry, Mrs. F. Savage, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. L. Addy, Mrs. J. Ketcheson and Mrs. A. Gilroy.

Mrs. Mary Gorman, Worthy Grand President, Columbus, Ohio, and Vimy Ridge Lodge 594, acted as co-hostesses, giving all a very warm welcome, and all stayed for the banquet and drill dance.

After the toast to the King, and to the Grand Lodge, and to the Visitors, Mr. Curtis, who was chairman of the banquet and councillor for Vimy Ridge Lodge 594, suggested that the Grand President, Mrs. Gorman and the 3rd Vice President, Mrs. Cuseck give a few remarks. Goodwill greetings were brought by Acting Mr. Rawlison, and warm invitation to again visit the Union Meeting of the Auxiliaries which would be held next year in Windsor.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa (CP)— Herbs can work magic on the most ordinary foods.

Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, say that subtle seasoning not only improves many foods, but often lifts an economical and uninteresting dish into the special class.

Basil improves tomato dishes, soups or stews; dill goes well with fish, beans and pickled beets; marjoram may be used with beef, pork, meat loaves and and sandwich spreads.

Parsley gives a delicious flavor when chopped and sprinkled lightly over scrambled eggs, potatoes or chicken. Dried parsley may be added to stews, soups, sauces and stuffing.

Savory always goes into poultry dressing but improves the flavor when added to beef loaves hamburgers ,pork and beans.

Caraway in cake is an old favorite, but caraway seeds are delicious in cottage cheese, cabbage salad and rolls. Rosemary is ideal for roast meats and French fried potatoes.

Sage dressing in roast goose is traditional but sage in baked beans, on fish or in stews may also improve their flavors. Tarragon gives a rich tangy flavor to salad dressings, egg or chicken dishes. Thyme brings out the flavor of cheese dishes, clam chowder and fish dishes. It may also be used in tomatoes and cottage cheese.

Speaking of cottage cheese, the health and welfare department suggests it as an ideal substitute for meat. A source of animal protein, it also is rich in vitamin B. And if it has been made from whole milk, it also contains vitamin A.

Speaking of meat substitutes, Mock Duck always is a popular dinner dish with the family, and one that is easy on the pocketbook.

Ingredients: Two pounds round steak; four slices stale bread; 3 large carrots; five stalks celery; one onion; one half can peas; one strip bacon; salt to taste.

Soak bread in water. Put all vegetables except peas through chopper. Mix thoroughly with soaked bread which has been squeezed dry and seasoned with salt. Mix peas in gently. Lay steak flat and place dressing in the centre with bacon strip on top. Roll the meat around it and fasten with skewers. Roll in seasoned flour and sear quickly in hot frying pan. Add one half cup hot water. Cover and cook slowly two hours. Place on platter and serve with gravy made from the meat and vegetable juices.

Shepherd's Pie: Ingredients: One quarter cup tapioca; one cup hot gravy or stock; one teaspoon pepper; one eighth teaspoon paprika; 1 1-2 cups hot water; one onion chopped; one tablespoon parsley chopped one tablespoon catsup; two cups cooked meat cut in cubes; two cups mashed potatoes seasoned.

Add tapioca, pepper, salt and paprika to hot water and gravy and cook in double boiler 15 minutes. Add onion, catsup and meat. Mix and put in greased baking dish, spread mashed potatoes on top and bake in moderate oven.

Rubies have successfully been produced synthetically from purified ammonia-alum and chrome-alum.

Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School Dramatic Club's production of Sir James Barrie's four-act play, The Admirable Crichton, pleased a large audience on opening night. Dick Stackhouse, who plays an important role, is seen being set upon by an attractive makeup squad. Left to right are: Elspeth Wishart, Marnie Seldon, Jean Scott. (McCormick.)

MOIRA W.A.

The November meeting of the Moira W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Don McInroy with a large number of members, and visitors in attendance. The usual delicious pot-luck dinner was served at noon.

The President, Mrs. George Foster, opened the meeting. Quiet music was played by the pianist. Scripture was read alternately by Mesdames Farrell, Burgess and Kellar. Mrs. W. McInroy gave a reading and various items of business were attended to.

Mrs. Burgess gave a talk on her work in a western mission field.

Mrs. A. Emerson and Mrs. B. Foster sang a duet and Mrs. Ross Ketcheson gave a reading. Rev. Mr. Burgess gave a talk on the "Blue Cross". It was decided to hold an organization meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Emerson on the following Wednesday evening. A hymn and prayer by Mr. Burgess closed the meeting.

Educator Says "Beautiful But Dumb" Idea for Wives Behind the Times

By ADELAIDE KERR

New York, (AP)—You're way behind the times if you think men want wives who are beautiful but dumb, says Dr. Frances Scott.

Dr. Scott is president of the National Federation of Business and Professional women, an organization with 140,000 members. She is also associate professor of hygiene at a large woman's college. In both jobs she meets lots of girls and men.

"I see silly girls who still think they have to do the 'Oh, you big strong man' act," she says. "They don't get second dates.

"College surveys show a man doesn't want a beautiful but dumb wife. He may like such companionship for an evening. But he wants a life partner with a few brains and ability to use them. Partner and partnership are words frequently used by both men and women to express what they want in marriage today."

Dr. Scott—a physician of 30 years standing—sees this change as typical of times in which the world is juggling more problems than ever before and women have extended their rights and activities to outstrip what they did in the past.

"Another thing to consider is the greatly improved health of women," she says.

"In 1900 we had such a fixed idea that women couldn't do physical activity that mothers didn't want their daughters to take physical training Now women in industries and nurses and members of the Women's Army Corps, who worked at the front, have shown us that, given good health, today's women can stand as much physical strain as men of comparable strength."

Carpentry is Hobby

Dr. Scott is a smartly-coiffed, softly-tailored women with intelligent eyes and a friendly grin. Her creed is balanced. She helps keep it in her life by frequent sessions with her carpentry kit. (Her father gave her one when she was five.) In her Northampton, Mass., house she refinished floors, reset doors, changed locks and sawed and put up shelves.

Dr. Scott says she believes the time has come for women to stop talking about women's rights and work harder on their responsibilities, to vote, to hold office and to be at least as interested as men in civic and government affairs.

"We have won most of the legal and civic rights and now we should get out and show what we can do with them," she says.

"In the next few years it is extremely important that two things be done. First, we must see that more qualified women are elected to office and appointed on boards of policy.

Second, we must qualify more women for those jobs. I cannot see that our communities are well served by government that is about 99 per cent men.

"Men and women look at life differently. A man is a very impersonal sort of being in his business and community. He thinks in terms of money and material. Women think of the world in terms of people —of human relationships.

"What we need is balance created by the thinking of both women and men.

Women's Activities

STIRLING W.I.

Stirling.—Last Friday night the meeting of Stirling W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. H. Cork with a good attendance of members and visitors. Mrs. Cork conducted the opening exercises with community singing being led by Mrs. H. Rodgers, the Ode and The Lord's Prayer. Roll Call was responded by "Your Favorite Recipe".

The members brought gifts for the Christmas boxes for Bristol W.I., England It was decided to hold a card party in aid of food boxes for England, each member to sell eight tickets.

The program was in charge of Mrs. E. Nicolson, Mrs. H. Rodgers read a poem entitled "This is Canada", followed by a reading by Mrs. A. Lake, "I Was Born Ten Thousand Years Ago", also two contests. Mrs. Louis Rodgers gave a paper on "Home Management". Mrs. Nicolson gave a splendid topic on "Home Economics".

The meeting closed with "God Save the King". Dainty refreshments were served by the committee in charge, Mrs. Nicolson, Mrs. Lake, and Mrs. Nelson. A hearty vote of thanks was moved to the hostess and her committee, by Mrs. L. Rodgers.

ST. PAUL'S W.M.S.

The November Thankoffering meeting of St. Paul's W.M.S. was held on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. R. A. Patterson with a good attendance.

Mrs. E. G. Bailey opened the meeting with prayer and conducted the business.

A very complete and interesting report of the Sectional Rally held at Plainfield was given by Mrs. C. E. Macklin. Miss Della Caldwell was appointed to convene the nominating committee.

The program for the afternoon was prepared by Mrs. H. C. Martin and Mrs. Ralph Barker acted as leader. A Bible reading by Mrs. Harold Wells was followed with prayer by Mrs. R. A. Patterson. The chapter from the Study book on China was given in a very comprehensive manner by Mrs. A. Armstrong.

This chapter was the story of "The Rev. Helen Pen of Treluitsing". She was the first woman to be ordained by Church of Christ in West China. Before this Helen Pen had an interesting and distinguished career, as teacher and Y.W.C.A. secretary.

Mrs. Armstrong was assisted by Mrs. Yateman, Mrs. Barker, Mrs. Ayrhart and Mrs. O. Stapley. These ladies described the customs of Chinese women a number of years ago and the new outlook they have on life today. The women of the Old China of darkness, ignorance, superstition and defeatism are stepping into the background, while those of the New China, educated, emancipated, buoyant, are facing life in the confident faith of a Father's love and care.

Delicious refreshments were served and Mrs. Clifford Lansing made the vote of thanks.

WALLBRIDGE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The meeting of the Wallbridge Women's Institute was held last Wednesday at the home of Mrs. C. Rushnell with the president, Mrs. J. Sine in charge. A good attendance was reported.

After a brief business session, the details of the Blue Cross hospitalization plan were given and discussed, with the result that all dues were to be paid by the middle of December. Cards of thanks for flowers sent to the sick and to those who had been bereaved, were read by the secretary, Mrs. Harold Phillips.

The committee was to meet for the purpose of discussing the installation of electric lights in the school, and also for the purchasing of new supplies for the school's first-aid equipment. It was also decided to send yearly donations to the Hospital for Sick Children.

Mrs. L. J. Ketcheson and Mrs. C. Fair were requested to submit a yearly report of the Girls' club work; new pins for the new members were to be ordered by the secretary; donations were to be given for the purchase of new chairs for the hall; one dollar was to be paid, per member, instead of holding a social event.

Fine reports on the Institute convention held in Belleville were given by Mrs. F. Jeffery, and Mrs. A. Walt, followed by the reading of a poem entitled "Is there a Santa Claus?" by Mrs. F. Tucker.

Mrs. L. J. Ketcheson took her topic, "What Christmas means to us", stressing the thought that the children should learn about Jesus as well as about Santa Claus.

Votes of thanks were tendered the hostess, after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and her conveners, Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Jeffery.

BLACKOUTS ERASED

Stratford, Nov. 26 — (CP) — Blackouts were erased from the Stratford power picture today in view of an increased quota received Thursday.

Previously there had been an hour's cut in the morning and half hour in the afternoon. The city was 2,238 below its new quota Thursday.

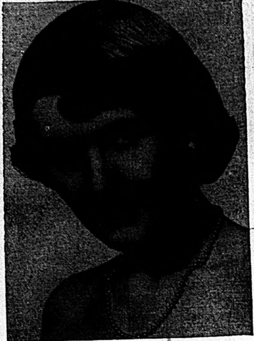
A Quaint Hairdo is the Style



A pretty adaption of the style for closely-cropped hair, is this coiffure, designed by a famous New York hair stylist.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Pretty young things, attending high school or college, are going quaint. Perhaps you have noticed the Alice-in-Wonderland haid arrangement. There is a centre parting and bangs cut straight across. The hair flows over the shoulders, ends turned under, not a sign of a ribbon holds bangs and tresses in place.

The close crop has been winning more and more addicts. Women who have been wearing the uppity arrangement sigh with relief to be rid of the bother of forming rolls and anchoring them down so they stay put. With the three-inch clip they feel younger because they look younger. All too often, they found, the topknot style made them appear too heavy and oh, so formal! These casual hairdos are a job. No trouble. No bother. And permanents are not necessary if the hair has the slightest tendency to assume an undulation.

The "bustle back" is flourishing. Shoulder length hair is parted on the side, drawn smoothly back, held with tuck combs. The ends of the strands are in soft curls that cluster closely together at the nape line. If the hair is heavy, tuck combs may not hold and a rubber band can be used to keep the hair in chignon form. During the merry evening a single fresh flower can snuggle among the ringlets.

Short hair depends so much on clever trimming that one can't be too fussy in the search for a good hair stylist. It is easy enough to find an operator who will give one a first-class shampoo and wave set, but cutting requires skill that the ordinary operator in a beauty shop may not have because of lack of training along this particular line.

Don't forget that the chic hairdo is the making of a women. Many men say they notice a woman's hair first of all. They like coiffures that are smart, sassy and neat. Blowsiness they detest.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHOULD THIS COUPLE MARRY SECRETLY?

How much right has a family to try to dictate to a son or daughter about marriage?

A young man of 23, who has about made up his mind to be married without his parent's knowledge because of their opposition to his plans, writes me this letter.

"The girl with whom I am in love is also 23, has been married and recently divorced. I have known her for over seven years, and she has been a friend of my family. She has a four-year old child whom I also love.

"My family does not approve of this girl because she was married and did not stick to it, but my family knows as well as I do that the reason was because her husband drank. After this girl and I had been going together over a year, we had an argument over family disagreements and we did not see each other for almost six months. Then she telephoned and wanted to see me again. Now we are seeing each other secretly, and we want to get married, but our families are not on speaking terms. We love each other very much, and do not think we should wait any longer, so we have decided to be married in another state and tell our parents afterward."

To answer the question about how far it is fair for a family to go in opposing a marriage, I think that wise parents will try to discriminate between their own personal prejudices and the actual facts of the case.

If the facts of this particular case are exactly as this young man has stated them, then it looks like a clear case of unreasonable prejudice on his family's part. I assume from what he says about the two families not being on speaking terms, that the reason for this is because the girl's family approves of this contemplated marriage while his does not.

I do not think this chap's family has a right to pass rigid judgment on the girl for terminating her unhappy marriage. They have no way of knowing what she has to put up with, and whether or not she made a wise decision in leaving her husband. Since this girl was a family friend for a number of years, they should know whether she is a girl of character who did the best she could under the circumstances that finally forced her into divorce, or an irresponsible person who gives up at the first sign of trouble. If they have always found her to be the first they should not object now when their son wants to marry her. If they have reason to believe the second is true of her, then they can fairly point this out to their son. But, having done so, they should give him freedom to make his own decision.

So far as the young man himself is concerned, it would seem that he has had ample time to judge what kind of a girl she is and presumably he believes her to be a worthwhile person. I assume also that he knows how he is going to support a wife without having to depend on a family obviously unwilling to lend a helping hand.

Under all these circumstances, I feel that these two would be justified in going ahead with their plans for marriage without advance notification.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Rule for Waiting for the Preferred Hand

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is there any rule that should be followed as to who is the first to offer to shake hands in an introduction? I am always confused about this.
V.M.B.

Yes, there is a rule. The one who is being presented ... the one whose name is generally mentioned last in the introduction ... should wait for the other person to offer to shake hands. That is, the man being presented to a woman should wait for her to offer her hand. The young girl being presented to an older woman should wait for the older woman to offer her hand. The young man being presented to an older man should wait for the older man to offer to shake hands But if, in any case, the one being introduced should extend his or her hand, the other should immediately accept this cordial gesture.

Initial of Last Name Should Be Larger When in Centre

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

For a birthday present last week I received a beautiful silver compact engraved with my three initials. I am both disappointed and perplexed by the marking. I am quite sure that it is not correct, that the engraver made a mistake that my friend didn't see because the gift was probably ordered and sent without his seeing the completed marking. The initial of my last name is in the centre, the initial of my first name above, the initial of my middle name below. But, all the letters are exactly the same size, so that it appears that my middle name is my last name. Isn't this incorrectly marked? If so, is there anything I could do about it now?
Alma H.

Yes, this marking is incorrect. It is the rule naturally, that when all the initials are of the same size, they should be in the sequence: first name, middle name, last name. When one initial is larger than the other two, this is understood to be the initial of the last name. If you feel that it is import to you to have it changed and that there would be no possibility of hurting the feelings of the giver, you may explain it to your friend and the chances are that the present engraving can be removed and the new marking design engraved over the same place. Or if the initials are in a diagonal line, perhaps the center initial could be removed, and a new, enlarged initial engraved there.

When Bride's Parents are Separated, But Not Divorced

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are separated but not divorced, and because of our two children, we have tried to maintain as pleasant a relationship as possible. Now our daughter is to married, a formal church wedding with a reception following, here in our house. My husband is paying all expenses of the wedding, will of course give our daughter in marriage, and will come to the reception here. I am at a loss to know how to word the formal wedding invitations. Must they be in my name only, or would it be within the realm of propriety to word them in both our names? He is being so generous and cooperative that I don't wan't to do anything begrudging or otherwise unattractive.
Perplexed Mother

When a bride's parents are separated but not divorced and they wish to issue their daughter's invitations in the traditional "Mr. and Mrs." form, it is entirely correct for them to do so. And with your fine and dignified inclinations toward letting your husband share in the honors of the wedding, I advise you to use the "Mr. and Mrs." form, disregarding, for this occasion, the fact of the separation.

Write "The" Before "Honorable"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a man has the title of "Honorable," should "The" always be written before it in addressing a letter to him? Or is it just "Honorable" enough? Or should "Mr." also be used with "Honorable"?
H.S.

"The" should be written before "Honorable." With "The Honorable," no other title (as Mr.) is used. The correct form is:

The Honorable Arthur Brewster

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE

The monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in Sacred Heart School on Tuesday evening with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. C. Cook, presided. The meeting opened in the usual manner and following the roll call and reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, the correspondence was dealt with. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. C. Heath. Mrs. C. Crawford and Mrs. K. Donaldson reported for Social Welfare.

The president tendered a vote of thanks to Miss Mary Hughes, and Mrs. B. McTaggart for their efforts on the quilt and bedspread in aid of the bazaar. Mrs. M. J. Maloney reported ten visits made by herself and Mrs. J. Freeman to the sick and shut-ins in the past month. Mrs. K. McCoy and Miss Mary Brady volunteered for this duty for the coming month.

Mrs. W. Shannon gave a splendid paper on "citizenship".

The president asked Group 6 to furnish the lunch for the next meeting on Dec. 14.

Mrs. Cook thanked the members for their excellent work sent in for the fancy work booth at the bazaar and also for the sale of tickets. A discussion was then held regarding a dance to be held jointly with the Holy Name Society on Dec. 3 in aid of the Arena fund. It was decided to have euchre and dance and the members were requested to bring sandwiches.

Rev. Fr. Farrell then addressed the meeting thanking the ladies for their co-operation and assistance during the bazaar and voiced his appreciation of their hard work in connection with serving the meals. He congratulated Mrs. W. Shannon on her excellent paper and spoke on the fundamentals of the Catholic Women's League stating that the members should be proud to belong to such an organization which had the church at its back. He also spoke on the season of Christmas and asked the members to remember the Holy Souls during this month.

A few games were then played and refreshments were served by Group 5.

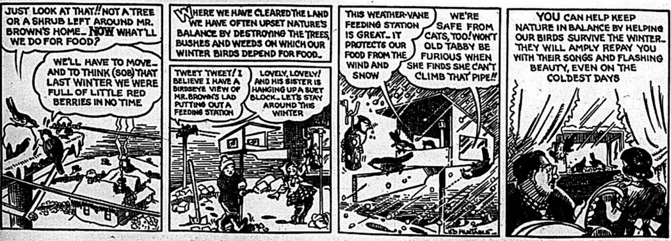
CARLING'S CONSERVATION CORNER



JUST LOOK AT THAT!! NOT A TREE OR A SHRUB LEFT AROUND MR. BROWN'S HOME— NOW WHAT'LL WE DO FOR FOOD?
WE'LL HAVE TO MOVE— AND TO THINK (SOB) THAT LAST WINTER WE WERE FULL OF LITTLE RED BERRIES IN NO TIME
WHERE WE HAVE CLEARED THE LAND WE HAVE OFTEN UPSET NATURE'S BALANCE BY DESTROYING THE TREES, BUSHES AND WEEDS ON WHICH OUR WINTER BIRDS DEPEND FOR FOOD.
TWEET TWEET! I BELIEVE I HAVE A BIRDSEYE VIEW OF MR. BROWN'S LAD PUTTING OUT A FEEDING STATION
LOVELY, LOVELY! AND HIS SISTER IS HANGING UP A SUET BLOCK— LET'S STAY AROUND THIS WINTER
THIS WEATHER-VANE FEEDING STATION IS GREAT— IT PROTECTS OUR FOOD FROM THE WIND AND SNOW
WE'RE SAFE FROM CATS, TOO! WON'T OLD TABBY BE FURIOUS WHEN SHE FINDS SHE CAN'T CLIMB THAT PIPE!!
YOU CAN HELP KEEP NATURE IN BALANCE BY HELPING OUR BIRDS SURVIVE THE WINTER— THEY WILL AMPLY REPAY YOU WITH THEIR SONGS AND FLASHING BEAUTY, EVEN ON THE COLDEST DAYS

Stan Lewis' Era AsOttawa'sMayor Draws to Close

Ottawa, Nov. 26. (CP) — The [illegible] era of Stan Lewis, this [illegible]'s globe-trotting mayor, is drawing to a close.

Come Dec. 6, Ottawa voters will go to the polls and elect a new mayor. For the first time in a dozen years, Stan Lewis will not be a candidate for re-election. Stricken by a heart ailment last Summer, he announced his withdrawal from politics.

Nominations close this Wednesday and three mayoralty candidates likely will place themselves before the electors.

[illegible] controllers in the civic government now going out of office, they are: Grenville Goodwin, 50, an uptown optometrist; Dr. G. M. Geldert, 63, physician, partner in an Ottawa radio station and at present acting mayor, and E. A. Bourque, 59, coal, wood and ice dealer.

STEPS DOWN—Mayor of Ottawa since 1936, popular Stanley Lewis, 60-year-old globe-trotting chief magistrate of Canada's capital, has announced he will not seek re-election. Affectionately termed a "gadbout" by his friends, he has represented Ottawa in London, Eng., Washington, Moscow and South American capitals. A heart ailment caused his retirement. (CP Photo)

In addition to a new mayor, [illegible] voters will give office to four [illegible]rollers and 22 aldermen. Including office-holders up for re-election, the latest count shows eight possible candidates for Board of Control and 61 who make a bid for aldermanic seats. All, includng the mayor, are elected for two-year terms.

This will be the first time since 1936 that Stan Lewis' name has not been on the ballot paper.

In count of years, Lewis now is 60, but being a leap-year baby with a birthday once every four years, he likes to declare himself only 15 years of age. His birthdays every four years have been a big event in the capital's civic life.

Lewis is known as the mayor without a city hall. This centre of civic government in Ottawa burned down years ago and never has been rebuilt. The mayor's favorite hangout has been a one-arm [illegible]aurant on Uptown Sparks St., [illegible]re he presided over midmorning coffee with a circle of newspaper and business men.

PACKED IN EGG CASE

Hensall, Nov. 26 (CP)—Mrs. Ray Holmes lost her spectacles recently while working in a local produce plant. She searched high and low, but no glasses. Thursday an Exeter man brought the glasses to the plant—they were packed snugly in a case of eggs, and undamaged.

RESIDENTS UNHAPPY

London, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP) — Residents of suburban Manor Park and Highland Park aren't too happy about their unscheduled hydro dimout on streets. Rural hydro officials said Thursday that young marksmen with sling shots are breaking so many street lights that the job of re[illegible]cing them has been halted [illegible]il the culprits are stopped.

Austere Voyage For Passengers Of Ocean Liner

Southampton, England, Nov. 26 (AP)—By the Queen Elizabeth's usual standards it will be an austere voyage when the world's largest ocean liner sails for New York next Sunday—11 days behind shcedule.

But there will be no complaining from the passengers.

About 1,500 passengers have been stranded aboard the Elizabeth here since last Friday, awaiting the outcome of the American east coast dock workers' strike.

When it was announced Thursday in New York that the strike had been settled, subject to a vote by the dock workers, the Cunard White Star Lines announced the Elizabeth would sail Sunday. Her sister ship, the Queen Mary, will follow Wednesday.

News of the sailing touched off mass rejoicing aboard the ship.

But high spending characteristic of the Queen's routine crossings will be out for most passengers, many of whom have gone broke during their unexpected lay-over in Southampton.

The bulk of the 1,500 passengers now aboard, and probably of the 600 stranded passengers who will be picked up at Cherbourg on the New York run, now cannot afford the more expensive shipboard pastimes.

Even tipping will be a problem. Hard-up travelers say they simpy have not got the cash and several already have paid tips by cheque.

Some first-class and cabin passengers say they have only $8 or $10 left. Tourist-class voyagers are even worse off.

Brighteners

Elizabeth, N.J.—The 122 prisoners in the Union County jail didn't have turkey Thursday.

Prices, running to 95 cents a pound, forced the jail to drop its Thanksgiving custom of serving turkey to prisoners, Warden Arthur S. Bell said.

So they had meat loaf instead—but there was plenty of gravy, Bell added.

Seattle—Beautiful organ music, played expertly, issued from the Plymouth Congregational Church, greeting the United States Thanksgiving Day at 3:30 a.m. Thursday.

George H. Becton, church caretaker, heard the music and went to investigate. He knew that both doors of the church and the organ itself had been locked.

He found a man sitting at the organ—somewhat tipsy but none the less the master of the organ.

The man broke and ran. Police were unable to find a trace of him.

Both Becton and his wife conceded that the intruder was a good musician.

"It sounded," said Mrs. Becton, "as if the angels were playing."

Pittsburgh—An eight-month-old baby girl landed in court Thursday with a baby-sitter's bill of $40 due on her.

Police who rounded up the baby's mother quoted her as saying:

"I had to leave Cleva with the baby-sitting firm because I didn't have enough money to pay what I owed them."

The baby-sitters told the magistrate they had been minding Cleva since Nov. 16 at 35 cents an hour. They said they were ready to yell "enough" and would somebody else watch Cleva awhile?

She is now at a maternity home. Juvenile authorities are investigating.

Tokyo — Konoshin Furuhashi, Japanese swimming star, will sell pickles on the Ginza—the Broadway of Tokyo—to help finance the Nippon University swimming team.

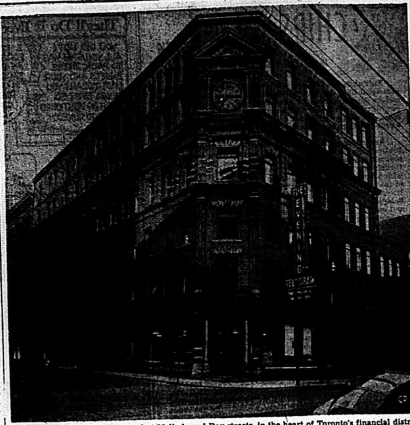
An old grad will provide the pickles. A fruit stand has offered sales space.

Furuhashi unofficially has broken all world swimming records from 300 to 1500 metres. He can't qualify for the record books because Japan is an occupied country.

Prince Xavier Of Bourbon-Parma Visiting in Quebec

Quebec, Nov. 26 (CP). — Le Soleil reported today in a newspage story that Prince Xavier of Bourbon-Parma, pretender to the throne of France, and seven members of his family are in Quebec on a short visit before going on to Philadelphia to settle.

The newspaper said the prince, held during the war at Dachau, the German concentration camp, is accompanied by his aged mother, the Duchess of Bourbon-Parma; his sister, Princess Isabell, and his five children. Prince Hugues and Prince Sixte and



TELEGRAM BUILDING—Located at Melinda and Bay streets, in the heart of Toronto's financial district, is the Toronto Telegram building. Far from a modern structure, it houses the various departments which daily turn out one of the largest newspapers in the country. Trustees of the estate of John Ross Robertson, founder, have accepted George McCullagh's tender of $3,610,000 for purchase of the paper, valued at more than $2,500,000 by an Ontario court in 1944. Proceeds of the sale together with the rest of the estate will go for maintenance of the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto. The sale of the paper ranks among the largest in Canadian newspaper history. (CP Photo)

$571,000,000 Paid Canada For Exports to Europe, China

By C. R. BLACKBURN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 26 (CP)— Canadian exports to Europe and China have been financed to the extent of $571,000,000 by the United States under purchase authorizations of the economic co-operation administration (the Marshall Plan) from its beginning last April until Nov. 23.

Officials making these figures public would offer no estimate of the extent to which Canada's dollar position has been improved as a result of the aid plan.

The bulk of the commodities involved are those which ordinarily would have been sent aboard in any event, under some form of re-payment, such as food for the United Kingdom, largest single recipient of the authorizations for Canadian purchases.

The United Kingdom is the recipient of about $350,000,000 of the total with wheat the predominating item, along with flour bacon, cheese, lumber and sawmill products, aluminum, wood pulp and newsprint, and a number of base metals.

Virtually all the exports financed by the E.C.A. are normal Canadian exports. The value of the operation to Canada is that those handled through ECA bring American dollars which this country needs to maintain her economic balance.

France is the next highest recipient to the United Kingdom, followed by The Netherlands, Denmark, Italy, Norway, Austria Ireland, Bizone Germany, Belgium, Greece, China, the French zone in Germany, French North Africa and the French overseas territories.

The figures for Canadian authorizations do not include the cost for ocean freight charges.

SEX EDUCATION IN B.C. SCHOOLS

Victoria, Nov. 25 (CP)— British Columbia schools will have courses in sex education beginning next September, education minister W. T. Straigh said Wednesday. Present plans are to start teaching grade seven of the elementary schools, with pictures of life growth and reproduction of plants. High schools grades will see films "carefully worded according to the age of the children who are to see them," he said.

MAY COST INSURANCE FIRMS LARGE AMOUNTS

London, Nov. 26 (AP). — The king's illness which caused cancellation of the Royal visit to Australia and New Zealand next year may cost insurance firms from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000. The policies were held by catering firms, amusement companies, flag makers and others who stood to benefit from the Royal visit to Australia and New Zealand, but had to invest heavily in advance.

Death Toll Passes 100 Mark In U.S. Holiday

Washington, Nov. 26 — (AP) — The death toll from violent accidents over the United States Thanksgiving holiday passed the 100 mark, a survey showed today.

The total of 105 fatalities from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Thursday (local time) compared with a violent death toll of 128 for Thanksgiving Day last year. On the same holiday in 1946 there were 83 deaths from violent accidents.

About two-thirds of the fatalities on the holiday resulted from accidents on the highway. The survey showed that 80 persons lost their lives in traffic mishaps. The other 25 died in accidents from miscellaneous causes, including drowning, plane crashes and falls.

Ivanhoe

Ivanhoe — In her address to the members of the Christian Education Committee of the Belleville Presbytery in Madoc on Tuesday, Mrs. H. B. Herrington of Newburgh, said, "It would help link the home and the Sunday School if teachers would visit the homes of the scholars regularly, and read the Bible, and pray with the parents. Every teacher should be a member of the church and a Christian," said Mrs. Herrington. "How can a teacher ask children to do what they do not do themselves?" she asked. "Why not have young men as teachers of primary children?" was another question asked. Have we ever considered the value of a preparatory service before baptism services?" she concluded.

A gang of hydro employees are busy setting poles for the installation of hydro east of the highway on the sixth concession.

The many friends of Mr. Wm. Prest are sorry to learn that he is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Ivanhoe circuit was represented at the meeting of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church held in Madoc on Tuesday, by Messrs. Ernest Sarles, Arthur Wood, H. R. Burke and Rev. J. F. Everson

Assault on Official, Fights Feature Rousing Hockey Games in District Loop Twin Bill

Rousing hockey, fist fights, an assault on an official by a player and a general melee that called for police intervention featured the double header at the Memorial Arena last night when Trenton RCAF Flyers notched their first victory at the expense of the Cobourg Ghosts by a 6-1 score and the speeding Trenton Hockey Club won its third straight victory when it turned back Northern Electric by a 4-2 count.

The second game between Northern Electric and Trenton was one of the best games of the season up till the point when the row broke out. Lou Schmidt, Trenton defenceman apparently irked at a penalty started throwing fists at Referee St. Louis — and the official retaliated. Players stepped between the two—but the matter did not end there. The fight broke out again outside a dressing room. A spectator battled with another player and police were called to halt the proceedings.

The crowd surged down from the upper seats on the ice and for a moment a Donnybrook threatened. Police arrived quickly on the scene and had no sooner quieted matters down than another fight broke out in the upper tiers of seats.

Schmidt received a match-misconduct penalty for his part in the affair.

Trenton Flyers 6, Cobourg 1

Flyers, defeated in their first two starts were not taking any chances and went on the offensive at the opening whistle. They swept in to the attack paced by Al. Middleton and Christie and put on a sustained offensive for the first few minutes. Cobourg's attacks lacked co-ordination and the passes were going astray inside the Flyer blue-line. With nine minutes gone Bullock paced a Flyer ganging foray and raced in on Flesch who kicked his close-in drive away. But Ault, coming in fast snared the rebound and drew first blood for the airmen.

Two minutes later Turner led another Flyer drive and flipped a forward to Lawlor who made no mistake from about seven feet out. Cobourg came back to the attack and ganged the Flyers inside their blueline but could not get their shots on the mark. Fisher drove in close to Keay's doorstep but his shot was a foot wide of the target.

Sherman drew a penalty in the opening minutes of the second period but the Ghosts could not capitalize on the manpower advantage. They swarmed around the Flyer nets, but their team work was off color. Bulger finally got a goal but it came through an unintentional assist by Middleton, Flyer defenceman. As the Cobourg forward neared the goal he let drive. The puck struck Middleton's arm and deflected onto the net. Previous to that however, O'Meara poked in another Flyer goal on McLeod's assist.

Flyers Got Softie

Flyers got a softie when Miller missed his shot but in so doing slithered the puck along the ice in the general direction of the net. As it slowly approached, Flesch tried a golf tee-off shot and missed. The puck rolled slowly into the net for the Flyer goal. Christie took Sargent's pass for the other score of the period which ended 5-1.

The third period saw both teams play the best hockey of the night with the desperate Ghosts trying to cut down the margin. Both goals had narrow escapes with the Ghosts having a margin in territorial play. Flyers scored their sixth goal with a minute to go from Ault's stick.

Ault, Middleton, Christie, Sherman, Brackenbury and Miller went well for the Flyers with Bulger, Bus Cane, Forbes standing out for Cobourg.

Trenton 4 Northern Electric 2

An inspired Trenton team playing the best hockey of the season clicked to perfection in the second game, and paced by the brilliant work of Bridgeman in the nets held off the luckless Northern Electric squad after 60 minutes of rousing hockey.

Trenton proved hockey opportunists in all three periods, their passing plays clicked and they were poison around the nets. On the other hand the Barrett-led crew could not find the Trenton nets except for two occasions. Their shooting was off and when they did sweep in close to the Trenton goal brilliant work by the custodian thwarted their efforts.

The game was productive of fast speedy hockey with some rugged checks handed out by both teams. Williamson drew a penalty in the first two minutes of play and while he was off Johnstone slashed home the puck from a ganging scramble in front of the Electric nets.

Greatrix got the gate but Electric held the penalty and a minute later Doug Bastedo was sent to the cooler. Electric put on the pressure and Prout had the puck grabbed off his stick at the goalmouth by Bridgeman.

Made No Mistake

Watson put the Trenton team two up two minutes after the second period got underway when he picked up Doug Bastedo's pass and made no mistake. Five minutes later Filion made the score three-nil when he banged home Watson's neat pass from close in. Electrics were driving hard at this point and the Barret-MacDonald-Semark line were continually turned back at the goalmouth. The other Electric attacking divisions fared no better and the period ended 2-0.

Electric fans rose in their seats ten second after the third period started when on the first play Peter Jones drove in hard to take Houles pass to beat Bridgeman cleanly. MacOustra, however got that one back five minutes later to give the Trentonians a three-goal lead. Penalties began to pile up and the play speeded as both teams opened up.

Fight Started

Semark got Electric's second goal when he counted on Barrett's pass after a three man attack. Then the fight started and play was suspended for several minutes. On the resumption, the Trenton team had an advantage until the end of the game.

Barrett, MacDonald and Semark flashed fine hockey as did Peter Jones, Wardhaugh and Reeves. In fact all the Electrics players tried desperately to pull the game out of the fire. Williamson rushed in good style and with Porky Yorke stood out on defence.

Bridgeman was the outstanding player for Trenton with Watson, Skelcher, the Bastedos, Johnstone and MacOustra doing some fine work up front. Schmidt spoiled an otherwise good effort by fighting.

The teams:

Northern Electric: Goal, Plumley; defence, Rutherford, Williamson; centre, Barrett; wings, McDonald, J. Semark; subs, Longhurst, Yorke, Soules, Reeves, Wardhaugh, Jones, Greatrix, Houle, James.

Trenton: Goal, Bridgeman; defence Schmidt, Parker; centre, D. Bastedo; wings, Watson, Johnstone; subs, B. Bastedo, Filion, Scott, Skelcher, Sheadel, Rankin, Twigg, Barr, McOustra.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

This observer, like any other hockey enthusiast likes the occasional fight during a torrid ice tilt, as long as there is no serious damage done—and everything ends all right. But counting the debit side of the melee at Memorial Arena last night, the scrap despite some colorful slugging was scarcely worth watching from a press-box seat.

Reckoning up the cost of the floor seat, we counted two bruised knees, a neck that resembled a corkscrew (no cracks, please); two pencils smashed; a pair of specs that look as though they had ended up on the losing end of an argument with a wringer; one necktie torn; a definite yen on the part of the repertorial eyes to look down both sides of the nose at once; one hat flattened; loss of enough hair to increase the baldpate acreage another square inch; dignity badly ruffled; and one ear drum partly ruined because a rabid femme fan insisted on yelling sweet nothings that sounded like "Kill the blankety-blank so-and-so" in it.

Usually fights that occur at a hockey match result from heated tempers which usually end in some fisticuffs and the participants cooling off in the sin-bin. But last night's episode was entirely uncalled for. Player Schmidt incensed at an official decision started to throw punches at Referee St. Louis. The official retaliated—and the fight was on. Later St. Louis accompanied the player to the dressing room and the fistic argument was resumed outside the door. A spectator, who had had a previous bout with John Barleycorn grabbed the official, and another player promptly entered the fight. That spectator should have known better—and is probably sorry now for he came out on the losing end of the scrap. And very much on the losing end.

When the official and player started for the dressing room and the ructions were renewed, the crowd surged down from the upper seats like water over a dam. They poured over the edge of the press box. They hit the press line like Golab hit the Alouettes. We lost yards on the first play—and after two or three elbow smashes to the neck, we conceded the first fall. One bleary-eyed bloke hooked a leg over the right shoulder, grabbed an ear, and hiccuped "Lemme at 'em". The request would have been granted—but on the other side the female hockey enthusiast, exuding an aroma of "Evening on Mud Lake" helped herself to a half-nelson and we were pinned on the spot. More piled up in the rear. Players attempted to rush the scene where the fisticuffs were happening. We bit off the end of a taped hockey stick, a flat half second before it plunged down the gullet, spat it out, and rescued the store molars in mid-air. We like a fight—but from now on we'll take the fisticuff menu from the comparative safety of the rafters. And brother we're not fooling.

There was a general free-for-all and the police intervened. Then some irate fans started another bout up in the top seats, and the law hopped merrily in that direction to cool off the combatants. Then somebody remembered that the affair started off with a hockey game—and play was resumed.

Schmidt received a match-misconduct penalty for his part in the brawl—and deserved it. It is understood that he is leaving for faraway hockey pastures to play with a higher bracket team. No player has any right to attack an official, no matter the cause. From our point of observation, the attack was uncalled for and unsportsmanlike. It is understood that the executive of the league is calling a special investigation of the affair.

The brawl marred what was one of the best hockey games of the season. Trenton, playing inspired hockey all night, vastly different to their last appearance here took advantage of every opportunity that came their way, and backed by the fine performance of Bridgeman in the nets, had an edge on the planter players. On the other hand the Electrics did not bask exactly in the smiles of Lady Luck, and this plus some erratic shooting at times and the outstanding performance of the Trenton defence and their hard-checking front lines was responsible for the first Electric defeat of the season.

Trenton Flyers came through with their first win of the season in the opening game turning back the hard-fighting Cobourg squad for their third defeat of the season. Flyers had more finish around the nets while the Golden Ghosts team-play was lacking in co-ordination although in the third period they were perhaps deserving of one or more extra goals. Their only counter came when Bulger's shot deflected off Al Middleton's arm and flicked into the net. They evened that one however when Miller, Flyer forward, slithered a slow puck along the ice and Flesch in the Cobourg nets whiffed on a golf shot. The rubber trickled slowly into the net.

Flyers were full value for their win and uncorked some neat passing as well as good individual efforts. Cobourg, at the present a football-mad town, whose Galloping Ghosts play the Montreal champions tomorrow in Cobourg for the Eastern Canada championship, have five signed players at present with the lakeshore pigskin crew. When they arrive back into the hockey fold, these Golden Ghosts may hand out some surprises.

Thanks to the generosity of the Imperial Tobacco Co. officials, hockey fans will benefit by a handsome new time and scoring clock. The clock arrived at Memorial Arena yesterday and will be installed immediately. It will be placed high above the outside of the upstairs office of Manager Walter Gerow. The clock has a six-foot face; second and minute hands, and along the bottom will be place slots for scoring goals up to twelve. The Finkle Electric has charge of installation work. The clock will be a welcome addition to the Arena and will meet with the approval of all concerned.

And now for the Toronto train, the OMHA annual convention and we hope—a glimpse at the Calgary-Ottawa Rough Riders battle.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

A sparkling four - goal effort by Jimmy Conacher of Chicago Thursday night boosted him into a fourth - place tie in the National League scoring race. The Black Hawk winger now has 14 points and is deadlocked with Montreal's Joe Carveth, who went scoreless Thursday night as did all other leading marksmen. Grant Warwick still shows the way with 18 points.

Leafs Break Montreal Jinx To Win First Road Game This Year in National Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Maple Leafs broke a jinx and Chicago's Jim Conacher set a season's record in the National Hockey League Thursday night.

Leafs blanked Montreal 2-0—their first win in the Montreal Forum since last December. Conacher scored four goals—an individual high for the year—as the Black Hawks tumbled New York Rangers into the cellar, 6-4.

It was the first victory on the road this year for the Leafs and they had to fight for it. There was so much fighting, in fact, that 10 major and 14 minor penalties were handed out.

Chicago's win moved the Hawks out of last place, one point ahead of Rangers who took over Chicago's lease on the basement.

Conacher got two of his goals on brilliant solo plays and Metro Prystai and Bill Mosienko each collared one. For the Rangers it was Edgar Laprade, Don Raleigh, Alex Kaleta and Eddie Slowinski.

Chicago dropped behind in the first period but came back with a rush as Conacher took passes, first from Gaye Stewart and then from Gus Bodnar, to score twice.

The Montreal game blew up twice in the second period and each time play was stopped as officials struggled to break up a mass of fights scattered all across the ice.

The first came when Toronto's Gus Mortson boarded Ken Mosdell and Maurice Richard went after Mortson. Both Mortson and Richard got majors.

The main bout came less than a minute later when there were only six men—and the two goalies—on the ice. All six collected majors.

Ken Reardon of Montreal and Joe Klukay started swinging. Within seconds Hal Laycoe and Garth Boesch, Reardon and Bill Barilko and Bill Reay and Klukay were rolling on the ice.

Turk Broda beat off repeated Montreal ganging attacks in the last period to earn his first shutout of the year. The Montreal ganging backfired for Toronto's second goal—with Bill Durnan pulled out for a sixth forward and less than 10 seconds left, Leaf Bill Ezinicki lifted the puck down the ice from behind his own blue line and the rubber coasted into the unguarded net.

Big Harry Watson had got the first one in the first minute of the final period.

THEY'RE A-HEADING THIS WAY—Calgary football fans, 200 strong, riding a special CPR train to attend Saturday's East-West final in Toronto, pause long enough at Winnipeg to do a square dance to their own band's music. They'll arrive here this morning—with enough color to brighten up any blackout. (CPR)

Teams' Officials Meet to Iron Out Certain Matters

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP)— The big football game isn't until tomorrow afternoon but that gives the front offices time for their little game in the morning in a downtown hotel room.

Officials of Calgary Stampeders and Ottawa Rough Riders kick off then before Canadian Rugby Union officials in a pre-game talkfest designed to make sure official air is clear before the East-West classic.

Executives of both clubs have things on their chests.

The players arrive today, Stampeders coming from their training camp at nearby Oakville and the Rough Riders coming from the Capital.

Manager Jim McCaffrey of Ottawa said he would raise again the question of a Calgary official working the game. Kent Phillips, president of the C.R.U. Thursday threw out Ottawa objections to the use of Les Ferguson of Calgary as judge of play.

Calgary is expected to raise the question of the number of players permitted to dress for the game. C.R.U. rules say 24. The Stamps want 30.

Coach Les Lear of Stampeders told reporters this week there were two other things he wants settled at the meeting. He wanted to make sure more than one ball was available in case the field was muddy. And he wanted Ottawa substitutes to stay on the bench, not on the sidelines during the game.

Ticket Scramble Continues

Although weather officials said an accurate forecast was impossible this far ahead of the game, indications are it will be dry—but cloudy.

The ticket scramble still continued today, although "No Football Tickets" signs have decorated agencies all week long. One desperate individual advertised in morning papers that he would buy three tickets—and throw in three rail seats for Saturday night's National Hockey League game as a bonus.

Toronto bettors are quoting 8-5 on the Rough Riders. The price lengthened a bit in Ottawa where Defence Minister Brooke Claxton—an Easterner—offered 2-1.

Riders left Ottawa last night, with 60-year-old Mayor Stanley Lewis, making his first public appearance since his illness several months ago, seeing them off. Some 300 fans went with the team.

"Every citizen is sure you're going to bring back the Grey Cup when you come home Sunday," Mayor Lewis told the team.

"I feel we can win the game," replied Coach Wally Masters.

Stamps went through a two-hour signal drill Thursday at their Oakville Training Camp. Lear steered away from predictions.

Toronto, Nov. 26. (CP)—Out of the west came Calgary Stampeders to battle for the Grey Cup and out of the typewriters of Toronto sports writers came favorable impression of these western football monarchs.

The Toronto scribes took a good look at the Stamps, who are working out at nearby Oakville before tangling with Ottawa Rough Riders in the East-West final Saturday.

Here are a few gleanings:

Annis (Toronto Star) Stukus: "Calgary is a perfectly conditioned Club. . .they will be outweighed (but) . . . hope to make up for it in superior condition. They have a terrific record . . .that also shows good reserve power, something few western clubs have had when they came east."

Hal (Globe and Mail) Walker: "Calgary will probably be the best conditioned western team ever to show in the east. Keith Spaith. . . .and Woody Strode . . . . impressed immensely."

Ted (Telegram) Reeve: "They will be a battling, spirited outfit, well conditioned and well drilled and if it comes up dry they have a chance to be dangerous . . . .because of Spaith's pitching."

Old Lament

The old Toronto cry that Canada (and especially Toronto) hasn't a large enough sports stadium is heard again just before the Grey Cup final.

"The present unseemly demand for football tickets demonstrates clearly that Toronto should be equipped with a municipal stadium capable of seating 50,000 spectators", says Jim (Toronto Globe and Mail) Coleman.

He says the country's outstanding sports event is tossed into Toronto's lap each year and "we stage it as if we were living in the tall timber". His remedy is to add another grandstand to the Canadian National Exhibition sports grounds.

Lou Boudreau Most Valuable Player in Loop

By JACK HAND

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—Lou Boudreau was the most valuable player in the American League in 1948—naturally!

Most everybody agreed on that a month ago. Now it's official on the vote of the 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers Association.

The writers rated the athletes from one to 10 but Ed Burns of the Chicago Tribune, the retiring president, reports 22 of them named Boudreau first. The other two first place ballots went to Joe DiMaggio, the pillar of New York Yankees.

Boudreau made a good case for himself on the playing field.

1. He played the most shortstop of anybody in the league.
2. He led Cleveland to its first flag and series victory since 1920.
3. He hit .355, second only to Ted Williams, the champ.
4. He worked out the pick-off play that created such a stir in the series.

When the Indians los their final game of the regular season and had to travel to Boston for a play-off game he said, "we're just coming into Boston a little early for the series."

It was Boudreau's first-inning home run off Denny Galehouse in the play-off game that instilled confidence in the Tribe.

DiMaggio, most valuable in 1939, 1941 and 1947 was one of the most important reasons for the Yanks' third place finish. His hitting and outfield play, despite a leg injury, kept New York in the race until the day before the end. He batted in 156 runs, most in the league, on a .320 average.

On a point basis, with 14 for first, nine for second and on down to one for 10th, Boudreau received 324 to 213 for Joe DiMaggio.

Ted Williams, the batting king with an unofficial .369, was third with 171 but no first place votes. Next came Vern (Junior) Stephens, one of Williams' Boston Red So xteammates. Stephens polled 121 points to 101 for Cleveland's 20-game winner Bob Lemon, the only pitcher in the first five.

Joe Gordon, Boudreau's partner in Cleveland's fine double play combination, tied for sixth with the Yanks' Tommy Henrich. Each had 63 points.

Gene Bearden, a pitching hero in Cleveland's series success, was eighth with 52. Then came Hal Newhouser of Detroit, most valuable in 1944 and 1945. He had 48 points to 39 for 10th place Eddie Joost, the shortstop sparkplug of Philadelphia A's.

Hornets Second In West Section American Loop

(By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets Thursday night edged Hershey Bears 2-1 to take over sole possession of second place in the Western Section of the American Hockey League, five points behind the leading St. Louis Flyers.

New Haven Ramblers, after spotting Washington two goals, found their scoring punch to whip the Lions 5-2.

Three times in the first period penalties paid off for both the Hornets and the Bears. The second and third sessions were scoreless.

The Hornets got their start when Pete Backor tallied while Buck Jones was in the penalty box. They followed it up with a goal by Harry Psutka while the Bears' Arnold Kullman was serving time.

Hershey used the same strategy when Sid Smith went to the penalty box to serve the minor part of a penalty for Fleming Mackell who was banished from the game. Herb Cain got the lone marker.

Fred Brown found the range twice for New Haven while Jerry Claude, Sherm White and Jean Paul Denis shared the balance of the scoring.

Opponents could have taken two club tricks right off the bat. Without seeing opponent cards, a diamond and a trump may also lose. Thus, definitely it did not belong in a slam.

But the opening lead from west happened to be the heart deuce.

This spread an encouraging picture before the declarer. He was able to see where certain plays might help him to produce 12 tricks.

If hearts were as suspected, the opening lead would enable him to take three tricks in that suit. If this turns out to be so, one of his south clubs could be sluffed on the third dummy heart.

This meant that his contract was free from worry. If only one club was lost, he could afford to lose a trump and a diamond. He might even find a way of saving one of these.

Fortified thus, he could boldly lead out his ace and king of trumps. The west trump queen falls. Then he could even afford to lose two clubs and a red card in diamonds or hearts.

If his heart reckoning fails, he may lose a heart and two clubs. But this is not dangerous. He can then sluff the diamond loser on the third dummy heart. The game would still be safe.

When the trump and heart operations prove successful, it opens up another possibility. He was influenced to take two finesses in diamonds through west. It could be done without danger.

Some of these plays may look like hunches. But they sprout from what is known of opponent doings and mathematical chances. Winnings come in bunches from knowledge tagged as hunches.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 26. (AP)—Perhaps you are one of those people who thinks today's songs aren't what they used to be. Then Frank Sinatra agrees with you.

"Nearly all of the songs I hear these days are the lousiest pile of trash I have ever listened to," says Frankie.

He should know. He has to sing four or five of them every week on the hit parade. But he hints that it's not easy work.

"The songs we get are terrible. They're written by a bunch of hill billies who know nothing about music. They put in bars of music where there shouldn't be any—like Red Ingle's version of 'Temptation'. Then they expect a singer to sing it!"

The record ban has something to do with the poor quality of popular tunes, Frank added.

"The good song writers just aren't releasing their tunes, because they can't make money from songs without the aid of records. You can't blame them, because that is their livelihood.

"But that leaves the song-writing business to the amateurs. And the chances of finding a good song from an amateur are one in a million."

The lack of melodies goes deeper than the record ban, asserted Frank.

"In the last two of three years, there haven't been the songs that we heard during the war—songs like "So Nice to Come Home to', 'Old Black Magic', 'As Time Goes By'. Don't ask me why".

The lack of good sentimental songs has caused a change in Frankie's singing style. Seldom does he indulge in the musical slurs—sliding from one note to another—that used to evoke deafening shrieks from his bobby-socked listeners. "The new songs aren't suited to that kind of treatment," he explained.

Briefs From Britain

By The Canadian Press

Shepean Stow, England (CP)—J. Day, 80, blacksmith, works 11½ hours daily.

Luton, Bedfordshire, England—(CP)—For spring flowers, 200,000 plants have been set in Luton parks.

Edlesborough, Buckinghamshire, England (CP)—Parish records dated 1882, giving the cost of beer at 2d. a pint and houses £250 each, will be preserved.

Canterbury, England (CP)—Cabbages are being ploughed back by Kent farmers because, they say, it is unprofitable to pick them.

Liverpool, England (CP) —The Liverpool liner Staffordshire, a troopship throughout and since the war, has been demobilized and handed back to her owners.

Bridlington, England (CP) — A mine detector, costing £58. 10s, ($236), will be used for locating water mains and service pipes in Bridlington.

Leighton Buzzard, England — (CP)—Leighton Buzzard Road Safety Committee, after searching three months, could not find a child with enough road safety sense to deserve a merit award.

Rochester, Essex, England (CP) —Rochester diocese will spend nearly £120,000 ($480,000) yearly for 10 years on church buildings, pensions for clergy, education, and parsonage houses.

Dennington, Suffolk, England—(CP)—The "ghost" clock of Dennigton parish church—it had neither face nor hands, but ticked and struck the hours—has been replaced.

Northolt, Middlesex, England—(CP)—A ground-control landing system here enables aircraft to spend less time circling the airport waiting to land in adverse conditions. Planes are brought in on a radar beam.

Wingate, Durham, England — (CP)— Courting couples are blamed for broken street lights here and prosecutions are threatened. W. Stoker, council clerk, says: "Young lovers like to walk in the dark. If there is a light it has to be removed somehow or other."

London (CP)—A recent stamp sale included £130 ($520) paid for a block of four 4d. stamps issued in the Bahamas in 1861; £135 for a 10d. stamp issued in Canada, 1855; £160 for a 4d. stamp issued in Ceylon between 1857 and 1859, and £110 for a shilling Ceylon stamp on the same period.

Folkestone, England (CP) — The vicar of Folkestone, Rev. Ian White-Thompson, has banned raffles at his church bazaars because "a raffle is a form of gambling; it encourages people to give as little as possible in the hope of getting as much as possible. The Christian is not merely concerned with raising money, but how it is raised."

Croydon, England (CP)— Vice-Admiral Sir John Edgell was speaking at the annual dinner of the Croydon branch of the Royal Naval Old Comrades' Association when he turned over his notes and stopped. Then he said: "I'm afraid I shall have to end my speech here. By mistake I have brought with me the shopping list my wife gave me this morning."

English Student Debaters Winners

Toronto, Nov. 26 —(CP)— Two English university students, on a whirlwind debating tour, arrived here Thursday night and promptly defeated a University of Toronto debating team on the subject: "Resolved that the British Empire is decadent."

The Britons' Anthony Cox of Bristol University, and Reginald Galer of Birmingham University, took the negative. Their North American trip is sponsored by the Institute of International Education.

CHARGE MOTHER HELD SON'S HANDS OVER GAS FLAME

New York, Nov. 26 — (AP) — A 38-year-old mother was booked early today on a felonious assault charge, accusing her of holding her eight-year-old son's hands over a gas stove flame to punish him.

Police said the woman, Mrs. Geraldine Vetter, told them she suspected the boy, Philip, of taking some cigarets and small change from her purse.

The boy was taken to hospital where he was reported suffering from deep hand burns.

Early Resumption Normal Shipping Seen in States

San Francisco, Nov. 26 —(AP)—Terms for settling waterfront strikes on east and west coasts of the United States today cleared the decks for early resumption of normal American shipping.

Negotiators in the 86-day C.I.O. longshoremen's strike on the Pacific coast announced settlement terms last night. Earlier in the day negotiators agreed on peace in the 17-day strike of A.F.L. longshoremen on the Atlantic coast.

Both tentative agreements must be ratified by union memberships before some 515 strikebound ships put to sea.

On the Pacific coast four other unions are involved in the strike, but the longshoremen's terms are considered the key to peace. The four other unions scheduled meetings with management today.

Final settlement would return 92,000 to maritime jobs and many thousands more to work in other industries halted or curtailed by the strike.

It would release some $30,000,000 of Marshall-Plan cargo in eastern docks and restore business running into the millions of dollars.

The Pacific tie-up, second longest in history, has cost, by estimate of the Pacific American shipowners, about $344,000,000 in trade at the rate of $4,000,000 a day.

The negotiators agreement boosts the western longshore basic wage by 15 cents to $1.82 an hour, which was the amount the union was asking when it struck Sept. 2.

The A.F.L. union officers tentatively agreed on a 13-cent raise retroactive to Aug. 21 to bring the eastern daytime base scale to $1.88 an hour.

The 65,000 A.F.L. union members vote Saturday on the terms. Waterfront observers predicted union ratification of the Pacific agreement but believed that if no hitches developed it would be about a week before dock work resumes on the 265 idle ships.

Veteran Finds $5 Painting Worth At Least $1,000

Newark, N. J., Nov. 26 (AP) — The portrait of a young girl in a red velvet dress and a Flemish lace collar hangs in Bernie Martin's small furnished room.

Bernie, a 21-year-old war veteran from Houston, Tex., first saw the painting in a Newark second - hand store. He paid $5 for it out of the allowance he gets while studying at the Newark Academy of Arts.

Martin showed the portrait to his school directors, who said it was more than just the aged, grimy painting of a young girl with the artists's name obliterated. They suggested Martin take the portrait to New York City's Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Metropolitan officials said he "might have something," and suggested he try for further identification at the Boston Museum of Arts. Martin hitch-hiked to Boston with the young lady.

He was told there that the portrait is a product of the French School of Painting, dating back to the early 1800s — and it "appears to be worth at least $1,000."

Martin said Thursday: "I haven't made up my mind whether I want to sell it. That much money would be a big help. But money isn't everything."

Churchill Says Book is Worthy Of Its Author

London, Nov. 26 (AP)—Winston Churchill's No. 1 wartime military aide says the book, "Crusade in Europe," is "worthy of its great author"—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In a review published today in the Daily Telegraph, Gen. Lord Ismay says the book has "a particular lesson for us all at the present time since it shows how strong, proud and independent peoples can be harmoniously united in the fight for freedom with irresistible effect."

Lord Ismay was Chief of Staff to the Minister of Defence, a post which Churchill held as well as the Prime Ministry.

Previous reviews in some sections of the British press complained that Eisenhower's book was "a blow at British-American friendship and understanding." One such review said it accorded "chilly praise" to Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, British army leader, in contrast to an "extravagance of bouquets" handed to some American generals.

Lord Ismay says there are passages in the book "which may well be the subject of argument."

There may be criticism, for example, Lord Ismay writes, "that too much prominence is given to American forces and too little to the British."

"We must remember, however, that Eisenhower's story does not start in earnest until 1942, by which time we had already been fighting for over two years and were stretched to the limit in theatres of war which are outside the scope of his book.

Lord Ismay says "no one who really knows the man (Eisenhower) could entertain for a single moment the idea that he had any intention of belittling the British effort."

WINTER PRICES OF CELERY

Toronto, Nov. 26 — (CP) — A collective system of setting winter prices on celery sold from cold storage has been approved by Ontario celery growers, it was announced today by the Provincial Farm Products Marketing Board.

The system, still to be approved by the Ontario government, provides for a negotiating committee to set prices and terms of contract for the entire winter sale of cold storage celery.

AT THE CAPITOL — It's a sparkling new romantic team in a sparkling new M G M Technicolor musical—"Summer Holiday," Metro's musical adaptation of Eugene O'Neill's nostalgic play of small-town life, "Ah, Wilderness!" Mickey Rooney and Gloria De Haven are the picture's young sweethearts, with the big cast also featuring Walter Huston, Frank Morgan, Butch Jenkins and Marilyn Maxwell, is now showing at the Capitol Theatre today and Saturday with Johnny Mack Brown in "Crossed Trails." Continuous show Saturday from 1.00.

AT THE BELLE — Lovely Linda Darnell plays the title role in "Forever Amber," Technicolor romantic spectacle, starring Cornel Wilde and a distinguished cast, closing tonight on the Belle Theatre screen.

Rankine of Galt Placed Fourth In Marathon

(By The Canadian Press)

Robert Rankine of Galt, Thursday placed fourth in the Berwick, Pa., marathon finishing the nine-mile course in 49 minutes and 51 seconds. Browning Ross of Villanova, Pa., the winner, was timed at 48:28.

The Galt team of Rankine, Ab Morton and Arthur Wilson carried off the team title. Morton finished eighth in the field of 32 and Wilson 17th.

Wealthy Canadian sportsmen should become interested in bobsledding so that courses may be built at winter resorts, President Nelson C. Hart of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada suggested Thursday at London, Ont. Commenting on the world's bobsled championship to be held at Lake Placid, N. J. Feb. 2-6, he said that while the A. A. I. is recognized as a member of the International Bobsled Federation it could not assume any financial obligations for training and equipment of Canadian entrants. However, it would look after registration and other details.

The Ontario Lacrosse Association Thursday night at Toronto took steps to prevent individual players from Ontario going to United States points to play in a winter league. Last year the O. L. A. permitted entire teams to play across the border, but now Rochester and Geneva, N. Y. teams have made overtures to individuals and the Association is said to frown on the practice. Any player, referee or coach going to New York circuit will be suspended.

Billy Johnson, clever left fielder with Brantford junior Flyers in the Ontario Baseball Association last summer, has been signed to a professional contract by Omaha of the Western (Class A) League, it was learned at Brantford Thursday. Omaha is a member of the St. Louis Cardinal farm system in the National League.

The biggest radio network ever to carry a Canadian football game will broadcast the Grey Cup clash between Calgary Stampeders and Ottawa Rough Riders at Toronto Saturday. The broadcast will be carried by the Dominion network of the CBC beginning at 1:30 p. m. EST.

Preston Vets Hockey Club marked its return to senior B O. H. A. hockey, by clipping St. Catharines Masons by 5-4, here Thursday night. Leading by a 3-goal margin at the end of two periods, the visitors nicked the three tieing counters only to have Cunningham of Preston get the extra marker with less than three minutes remaining in the game.

William A. Fry announced Thursday at Toronto that three Toronto officials will handle Saturday's Eastern Canada intermediate championship game between Montreal Rockland Dynamiters and Cobourg Galloping Ghosts at Cobourg. Referee will be Harry McBrien, umpire Jack Brunton and head linesman Arthur Hiltz.

At Dallas, Billy Conn kayoed Jackie Lyons of Oklahoma City at 1:25 of the ninth round of their 10-round main event bout Thursday night to keep a perfect record on his comeback tour. The Pittsburgh, Pa., battler has won by knockouts his only two starts on the trail he hopes will lead to another heavyweight title match with champion Joe Louis.

Johnny Longden, far out in front for the second consecutive year as top winner among jockeys riding in the United States, ran his 1948 victory string up to an even 300 Thursday. The 38-year-old Longden rode a dead heat in the eighth race aboard Cargo Ship at the Tanforan track in San Bruno, Calif. Fire Away, ridden by James Nichols, was the other horse in the tie.

Conn Smythe, president of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs says he will "go for television if the television people pay me the equivalent of a capacity house each time they televise." His comment was prompted by reports from the United States of the decline of attendance at sports events because of people who take in the games by television.

At San Bruno, Calif., Shannon II, the great Australian seven-year-old, came from far back Thursday to win the $25,000 added San Francisco Handicap by a head. Stepfather led the field as the horses galloped into the stretch, with On Thrust, running as an entry with Shannon II, just a shade behind. The Australian horse nipped Stepfather a couple of strides from the wire.

Race Tightens In Major "A" Bowling League

With only four points separating the leading four teams, the race in the Major "A" League at the Bowl-O-Drome is getting closer than your next breath.

Last night the York Trading defeated Belleville Golf 5-2. Golf by virtue of the loss are now only a point ahead of York Trading. Northern Electric which took seven points from C.N.R. are in third position with 45 points while Central Cigar which turned back the Lawn Bowlers 5-2 are in fourth slot with 44 tallies.

In the remaining game Callaghan's Ice defeated Electronics by a score of 7-0, and went into fifth place in the standing.

High scores were rolled by D. Tobe, 751; Joe Legault, 745; J. Lanthier, 730; H. Martin, 725 and J. Semark, 716.

PASSES COMFORTABLE NIGHT

Athens, Nov. 26 (AP) —Premier Themistokles Sophoulis, stricken with two heart attacks in two days, passed a comfortable night, but his doctors said today it would take 36 hours before it could be determined whether he will recover.

The doctors said if the 87-year-old Greek Liberal does not have another attack in the next 36 hours his chances for recovery are good.

CHARGED WITH THEFT

Trenton, Nov. 26 (CP)— Three youths were charged with car theft Thursday after being halted by a policeman. The three: John Clark, 19, of Kingston, Douglas P. Wise, 19, of Hamilton and Edmund C. Clark, 22, of Kingston, were held for Port Hope police.

200 Calgary Fans Make Presence Felt in Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP)— The football-mad west thundered into Toronto's Union Station today. The clamor drowned out the trains.

With a ki-yi-yipee, 200 fans who will egg on Calgary Stampeders in tomorrow's Dominion football final against Ottawa Rough Riders piled off their 17-car special. At the drop of a 10-gallon hat they pulled off a square dance in the station's cavernous rotunda.

Staid Toronto hadn't seen anything like it in years.

All the fans, who had come 2,000 miles just to see Stamps play, were dressed in full cowboy regalia, chaps, clanking spurs and all.

The cowgirls were partial to snow-white 10-gallon headpieces and red silk skirts. All the fans wore kerchiefs with "Stampeders" emblazoned on them and Calgary's red and white colors.

One visitor of the west carried a lasso with which he roped goggle-eyed Toronto girls.

An accordion ground out music as the Calgarians sang their city's anthem "Calgary—Where The Sun Shines All The Day."

A reporter asked one westerner timidly: "I suppose it's ridiculous to ask who's going to win tomorrow."

There was a cowboy yell and a hand like a side of western steer crashing down on the reporter's back. "It certainly is, son, it certainly is."

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Jimmy Conacher Chicago winger who scored four goals —two on spectacular solo efforts —as the Black Hawks whipped New York 6-4.

Turk Broda, veteran Toronto netminder who chalked up his first shutout of the season as Leafs blanked Montreal 2-0.

Harry Watson, Toronto, whose goal —his third in two nights — gave Leafs a lead they never lost.

Kansas City Blanks Millers By 3-0 Count

(By The Associated Press)

A couple of familiar performers in the United States Hockey League starred Thursday night in the loop's four games.

Linn Bend scored three of St. Paul's six goals as the Saints were winning from Omaha 6-2 and centre Frank Ashworth also got three for Tulsa Oilers as they won from Dallas 10-4.

In the other games Kansas City blanked Minneapolis Millers 3-0 and Fort Worth whipped Houston 5-3.

St. Paul's victory over Omaha marked the fifth straight time the Saints have defeated the Knights. Bend scored his first goal shortly before the end of the first period and drove in the other two in the second period.

Goalie Jack McGill matched Bend's fine performance, holding the Knights scoreless until midway through the final period. McGill had a string of 110 scoreless minutes before the Knights tallied.

Ashworth had a lot of help at Tulsa. Jud McAtee and Nick Knott each scored a pair of goals.

Goalie Al Rollins in the cage for the Pla-Mors, was credited with 27 stops as he turned in his first professional shutout.

Goalie Harry McQueston kept the Pla-Mors at bay until the final three minutes of the second period when Ray Powell shoved in the first Kansas City score.

Fort Worth let Houston Huskies get off to a 1-0 lead but bounced back for four goals before permitting the Huskies to tally again.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 26 — (AP) — Great Spirit, one of the four-year-olds in the Calumet racing string at Hialeah, has a radio on a shelf right outside his stall and his handlers claim he's a real radio fan . . . But did you ever see a horse parlor without some means of getting the results? . . . What we want to know is: Can he read the entries? . . . Ya Ya Tittle of the Baltimore Colts threw 115 forward passes and completed 68 of them between his first and second interceptions this season . . .

Brown Study

Probably the hottest football argument in the country has been ranging for two seasons in the home of Earl Brown, Auburn football coach . . . Earl, a Notre Dame graduate, naturally claims his Alma Mammy is tops(since he can't claim Auburn is). Mrs. Brown, the former Dorothy Bernard, is a graduate of Michigan, where her brother Chuck was All-America centre in 1938 . . . Somebody had better beat one of those teams so the Browns can decide which pennant to fly over their house.

End of the Line

Willie Molter is threatening Hirsch Jacobs' winning record for horse trainers. In 1936, Jacobs saddled 117 winners . . . Two Cincinnati Reds rookies, Charlie Kress and Lloyd Merriman, stole 74 bases between them last season . . . That's about as often as the parent Reds got on base.

GOES TO ARBITRATION

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP)— The price dispute between milk distributors and producers, still deadlocked, will probably "go to arbitration next week," Premier Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture said Thursday.

The Premier said producers had conferred with him Thursday and said they had been unable to reach an agreement. He added that he hoped a settlement could be reached "without increasing the price to the consumer."

Self-Government For Newfoundland Urged in Motion

London, Nov. 26 (CP)—An all-party motion asking the government restore self-government to Newfoundland was submitted in the House of Commons three days after a petition was presented on behalf of the Newfoundland Responsible Government League.

The motion was submitted by Sir Alan Herbert, Independent member for Oxford University, L. D. Gamans, Conservative member for Hornsey, D. R. Grenfell, Labor member for Gower, R. Hopkins Morris, Liberal member for Carmathen, and others.

The petition urges the government "to introduce without delay a bill to repeal the Newfoundland Act of 1933 and restore self-government to Newfoundland so that the people of the island through their own elected legislature and government, may determine their future—whether by way of Confederation with Canada or other."

In presenting the league petition at the Bar of the House of Commons last Tuesday, Sir Alan said it was signed by 50,000 Newfoundlanders.

Greek Pirates Beaten by Turks

Izmir, Turkey, Nov. 26. (Reuters)— Greek Pirates and the crew of the Turkish motor schooner Toros fought a half-hour "naval battle" in the narrows separating the Island of Samos and the West Turkish coast of South Izmir it was learned today.

The skipper of the Toros said he was intercepted after dark by guerrillas in a schooner and ordered his crew to return their fire.

The guerrillas, he added, tried to drive the Toros towards the Samos coast but by superior speed the Toros was able to escape the guerrilla schooner.

Sees New Principle Of 'External Relationship'

London, Nov. 26 (CP)—The Manchester Guardian says today in its lead editorial that Prime Minister Atlee's statement in the House of Commons Thursday on Eire's position after the constitutional break with the Crown "marks a change which looks at first sight hardly less important than that which is embodied in the statute of Westminster."

"Broadly it admits the principle of 'external association' in relation to the Commonwealth," the newspaper says. "This doctrine has been knocking at the door intermittently for 30 years or so; it was the relationship put forward by Irish delegates to the peace conference in 1921 and then rejected by the British government.

"Now Britain has come around to accept the doctrine at last and it is understood the other Commonwealth countries concur."

The Guardian adds that almost everyone is sorry Eire is leaving the Commonwealth, "but many of us cannot find it in our hearts to quarrel with Mr. Costello (Prime Minister John A. Costello of Eire) for wishing it to be so."

CHARGE RADIO STOLEN

Toronto, Nov. 26 — (CP) — Incensed at being ordered out of a west-central Toronto hotel for fighting, William Gray, 32, re-entered the premises and stole a radio from the tap room, police charged today.

WILL OFFER NO ALIB

Toronto, Nov. 26 — (CP) Coach Wally Masters of Ott Rough Riders today prom there "will be no alibis" if club is beaten by Calgary Sta eders in Saturday's Domi football final.

"We'll drive, and drive ha he said as the Ottawa club ar ed here by train. "The in top physical conditio best this year — and there'll no alibis if we lose."

Rough Riders are 8-to-5 fav ites to take the Grey Cup.

New Types of Grain Sought by Research

Saskatoon (CP)—Experiments now being conducted at the University of Saskatchewan may result in new forms of wheat and barley.

Radioactive phosphorous is being fed young plants by Professor T. J. Arnason of the biology department and Professor J. W. T. Spinks of the chemistry department.

Different wheat sizes, increased resistance to rust, fungus, smut or insect pests, or a change in maturing period and protein content may arise from the experiments. Radio-activity might also produce unwelcome changes.

Up to a certain amount, the phosphorous had no visibly harmful effect. In too strong doses, the young plants died.

It has been known for some time X-rays will cause hereditary changes or mutations. Radioactive substances give off similar rays. Changes in wheat or barley would result if changes first were caused in the germ cells of the plant.

Dr. Spinks has also been conducting experiments at the agriculture department of the University. Chickens are fed radioactive mash and a study is made of the use their bodies make of certain materials in the food by tracing the radioactive particles.

Riel Battle Site Is Disappearing

Regina (CP)—Remains of trenches used by General Middleton's forces in quelling the northwestern Rebellion of 1885 are said in danger of disappearing.

The trenches were used in the battle of Batoche which ended the rebellion started by Louis Riel, who was convicted of treason and hanged here.

Walter Tucker, provincial Liberal leader, said in a recent letter to the Historic Sites and Monuments Board at Ottawa that the farmer whose land contains the trench remains was prevented from plowing them up as a possible crop land this fall only by dry weather.

The trenches are located at one corner of the farm 50 miles down the South Saskatchewan River and northeast of Saskatoon. Mr. Tucker urged that the trench area—about one acre—be purchased.

Racoons Are Sober Ontario Man Finds

Kingston, Ont. (CP)—Racoons are teetotallers, says a settler at nearby Deadman's Bay.

When two racoons dropped into his cottage one evening, he gave them sardines. They ate the fish, some bread and peanuts.

The settler offered the racoons a saucer of milk. The milk quickly vanished.

"One for the road," said the settler, hospitably, filling the saucer with beer. Two noses sniffed briefly and the little animals strode back into the forest.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Ideas Can Control A-Bombs

By ROY L. SMITH

There is not a serious scientist on earth who does not wait with a certain terror in his soul, to see what humanity is going to do with the atomic bomb.

A famous physicist who had had much to do with the fabrication of the first atomic bomb, sat slumped down behind his desk in his laboratory in conversation with a preacher. It was quite apparent from his comment that he was in the grip of a great terror. Suddenly he leaned forward, his hands clutched together, and half cried out: "My God, doctor, what have we let loose upon the world?"

With that he launched out on a vivid description of the awful capacities of the atomic bomb for destruction, and finally said: "You preachers have the answer. You will have to let loose into this world ideas that are big enough and powerful enough to control this thing, for nothing less than an idea will do it."

The Power of an Idea

No one has yet been able to estimate the power of an idea. We have watched some work, and we have stood termbling at the sight of the transformations some of them have worked.

We have watched, for instance, while communism has taken whole nations captive without firing a shot. We have seen an idea upset a dynasty and overthrow an economic system that had stood for a thousand years. We have seen the balance of power shift under the impact of an idea, and we have watched while civilization took a turn in an entirely new direction.

Communism and Consecration

The amazing success of communism in taking half the world captive during the last twenty-five years can be explained in only one way. Communists have consecrated themselves to communism.

If it could have happened that Christians had consecrated themselves to the principles of Jesus of Nazareth, as Communists have consecrated themselves to the principles of Karl Marx, who can estimate what the world might have come to be?

Principles in Parables

At one point in his ministry, as though he had grown discouraged over trying to make himself plain through heavy speech, Jesus turn to telling parables. In a series of short, simple, little tales he set forth a series of principles by which he proposed to start a new way of life among man.

> The Sunday School lesson for November 28: "Parables in the Bible," Isaiah 5:1-7; Matthew 13:31-33, 44-46; Luke 10:25-37; 15:3-32.

In an effort to prepare the way for peace he told the story of the Good Samaritan with its graphic lesson in neighborliness. In his story of the lost sheep he described the persistent love of God for man. In the story of the yeast in the dough he undertook to show how explosive and transforming an idea might be.

Just Suppose For Instance

Just suppose, for instanc,e that all the Christians of the world had taken seriously, twenty-five years ago, Jesus' doctrine of the second mile and the other cheek. And suppose that having taken those ideas seriously they had consecrated themselves to living in that fashion with the same determination and selflessness that actuates the communists.

Or, again, just suppose that the Christians of the world had taken seriously ten years ago Jesus' doctrine of mercy for the merciful. What would have happened to this world?

Or, once again, just suppose that all Christians everywhere should accept Jesus' propostion that the meek shall inherit the earth, and should suddenly set out by all the powers at their command to be meek. What effect would it have on this generation?

We Have The Ideas

The trouble with this old world is not with its head. We know how to live better than we are living. The trouble is with our hearts. We have never learned to surrender all our lives to a great ideal.

Communism is going to take this world unless Christians are willing to be more loyal to Jesus Christ than Communists are to Karl Marx.

THE VENABLES

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

Flo had come to the rescue boldly. "Something told me old Major Burns had left them to you, but I merely quoted it," she had answered with what composure she could muster. "I didn't mean for Mama to quote it!" And she had laughed reassuringly at her mother. Perhaps her bravado had impressed Arnold; perhaps not; she had not looked at him to ascertain.

"You're a great business woman, Flo," he had contented himself with saying amusedly. 'Ladies in business — ah, well. It's a very ordinary procedure," he had continued, with a glance for his brother-in-law and another for Lily, who had looked frightened, "but if it doesn't meet with Miss Florence Venable's approval, why we will have to do something about it, won't we, Flo?"

To this Flo had made no reply except a rather sickly smile. But she had mentally registered one more mark against the score that she would settle with Lily's husband some day.

Early in the new year Flo went to see Aunt Lizzie and, finding her alone, had a long talk with her. Aunt Lizzie's big house seemed darker and more odorous than ever, and Aunt Lizzie's self, with the looped oily strings of silver-gray hair framing the sallow spotted face, had a dark, almost funeral effect.

But she was glad to see Flo; she and Daisy lived very quietly, she said, and she did not see much of Lily or anyone else these days.

Flo surprised her by frankly taking her in to her complete confidence. She said that she knew that much of Aunt Lizzie's business had been transferred to Arnold's hands, and that she, Flo, had reason to believe that Arnold was not trustworthy.

Aunt Lizzie, looking blue and cold as she sat erect beside her smoky coal fire in her pleated and boned silk dress with the ruching around the neck, was at first somewhat affronted. She had favored Lily's marriage with this rich and important man after all, and she was unprepared to suspect him of anything condemnatory, much less actually dishonest.

More than that, in the course of her long life, few persons had talked honestly to Lizzie. She had always been rich, and consequently considered and respected; most persons said to her what they believed she wanted to hear.

They flattered her, they agreed with her opinions, and they kept the conversation in the safe and conventional grooves in which Lizzie liked it. To talk of the flower show, of the illness of a friend, or of long-ago days, was acceptable; to talk of the minister always welcome. But disturbing talk about business was very distressing to her.

"And what was your idea in telling me all this, flo? About Arnold cheating me?"

"Oh, I didn't mean that, Aunt Lizzie! Nothing as bad as that, exactly. But you've been so generous to us, and I was so mad," Flo confessed honestly, "that I just couldn't bear to have him get away with it—"

"You mean when I die, Florence?" her aunt asked as the girl floundered and stopped.

"No!" Flo said loudly, shocked.

"You didn't? Well, my will, Florence," Aunt Lizzie said satily, yet complacently, "was signed a long, long time before Arnold Belcher ever touched a paper of mine. He has no more idea what's in it than you have. I'm not leaving much, but I could no more leave whatever poor little trinkets I do have away from my poor brother-in-law's widow than I could fly to the moon."

"Well, I hope you live longer than any of us!" Flo said heartily, touched and reassured almost into hysteria. It was not the thought of money and what money would mean to Mama. It was satisfaction in knowing that Arnold had not insidiously triumphed again.

"I won't do that," her aunt assured her without expression. "Did your Mama know you were coming to talk to me today?" She asked with a keen look.

"Oh, good gracious, no!

"You know you can get into awful trouble talking about folks that way, Flo."

Flo's face burned; she hung her head.

"Well, I suppose you can."

"Arnold Belcher would have a good right to feel real mad about it," Aunt Lizzie mused aloud, but mildly, and Flo suspected that she was thinking hard, thinking perhaps in just what ways Arnold could cheat her if he so desired. "You've got to remember that he's Lily's husband," she said.

And almost immediately she was talking about Dr. Gossiter. He had preached on Sunday, it seemed, upon regarding all men as our brothers. Aunt Lizzie had never heard anything so fine.

"He's a very remarkable man," she said, "and he puts things so beautifully! He said that the minute you regard a man as your brother, why you just can't say any evil or think any evil about him. 'Why, he's my brother, how can I distrust him, the child of our common Father? Don't fear me, brother, I am your friend.' He put it so beautifully. Mrs. Winston walked home with me and asked me if I didn't think he had put it beautifully. We must never fear each other, Flo, because we are all brothers."

"And sisters," said Flo, with a respectful and impressed air.

"Well, yes, and sisters too," her aunt conceded after a moment's hesitation. "Good-bye, dear," she added, as Flo rose to go. "Oh, wait a minute! There was something I found the other day I thought a girl would like. I'll never wear it again.

She went away to get it herself, and it was as if the shadowy, silent house swallowed her into silence and shadows, for there was no sound at all among the heavy portiers and up the heavily carpeted stairs and in the quiet, empty upper bedrooms. Flo waited without any particular expectation. Aunt Lizzie's presents were apt to be dull affairs.

This one proved to be a large sealskin muff lined with pale green satin and fastened on a long black silk cord. Flo accepted it enthusiastically and carried it home under her arm to push into the gorged top shelf of a packed closet with a great many other used and outdated things.

"Why'n't you sell it?" demanded Georgie at dinner, his mouth full of macaroni.

"Oh, I couldn't. Aunt Lizzie'd be sure to walk past some old secondhand store on McAllister St., and see it!" Flo smiled mysteriously at her own thoughts. Aunt Lizzie might snub her and quote the Reverend Dr. Gossiter. But she would keep a pretty sharp eye on Arnold from now on, just the same!

If Aunt Lizzie had been really undisturbed, as she had tried so hard to appear, she never would have given Flo the muff. No; she was warned, and Flo was quite confident of the result. What Aunt Lizzie had — presuming Aunt Lizzie to die — Mama would inherit and as Aunt Lizzie had a very handsome house full of treasures, and could pay several servants, the Venables' money troubles might someday be solved once and for all.

"Mama, how old is Aunt Lizzie?"

"Oh, she must be — let me see. Ma, how old would Lizzie Carter be?"

"Well, Monroe was considerable older'n she was," Flo's grandmother began cautiously.

"She ain't more'n sixty-one or two," she decided.

It wasn't nearly old enough for an aunt from whom one had no expectations, Flo reflected, busily playing solitaire through the long quiet evening. Still . . .

"I don't believe she's interested in getting married," Willie said sadly to her mother after she had gone to bed. "I did think she liked Alan Wellington, but we don't see him any more."

"She don't know beans," said old Mrs. Hawkes firmly; "if she did she'd 'a' held him. It's all very well to keep children, but Flo don't know what she'd ought to know."

"She's just as well off without it," Willie decided, with offended dignity. "She's young."

"They don't stay young!" Flo's grandmother muttered discontentedly.

In July Flo acquired a dark blue dotted Swiss gown that cost almost six dollars at the Emporium, a blue straw hat with cornflowers on it, a linen coat of Lily's the choice of everyone's nightgowns, pique skirts, packed them in Aunt Ida's telescope basket, and was off for a two weeks' holiday to Carmel by-the-sea with Rose and Lin Richards.

The three girls slept on three narrow iron coats placed on a screened porch that faced the northwest. They lived, laughed, cooked, talked in the cottage's one remaining apartment, a long room, celled low, with little square windows all along its southern and western sides.

Along the wide arc of the beach the seas came creaming in in wide overlapping semicircles; at either end of the half-mile stretch rocky headlands ran far out into the ocean, breaking into countless crevices and pools.

All about the cottage pines crouched; the air was eternally sweet with them and with the salty, tonic breath of the sea. The dipping lanes by which the girls walked to the one short block of shops were carpeted in faded needles.

Nights were cool, but there was an open fireplace, and in the yard a great woodpile. Flo and Rose finished their morning cleaning and straightening by bringing great armfuls of wood, and in the evening they need have their fire only a few minutes before the low brown room was warm.

Flo was the best cook if not the neatest. Lin marveled at her skill, the careless inborn ease with which she combined whatever was left, whatever looked hopelessly scrappy in the little icebox, into something delicious and novel.

After the little establishment was in order every morning, they went to market. All sorts of artistic little business experiments were flourishing along the village street.

Rose, Flo and Lin would wander along contentedly, exchanging amiable greetings with other holiday groups — the school teachers who had rented the Watson cottage, a college professor and his wife who were staying in Miss Fielding's place.

Then back, flushed and warm, to put away their purchases and get ready the day's hearty meal. Salad always, a green vegetable always, rice or macaroni or potatoes always, a fruit for dessert. And sometimes they had chops or bacon or cold beef creamed or codfish cakes to add body to the feast.

Afterward they took books and rested, lying on their beds, listening to the rush and tumble of the sea, watching the fog creep up against their rustic nettings, reading, and perhaps interrupting their reading to talk again.

"Lin, will you ever marry?" Flo asked the question out of a dreamy, contented silence. She and Lin were alone with the fire; Rose had been tired with a long afternoon's scramble on the rocks and a moonlight supper and had gone to bed.

"I don't think so," Lin answered placidly after a moment.

"Oh, but why not?"

"Well, as you approach thirty you begin to ask yourself why not," Lin answered. "In my case the reason seems to be fairly self-evident. I don't want to. I naturally take to being — myself. It gives me the creeps to think of a man around."

"But to have him madly in love with you," the younger girl said, musing, looking into the fire.

She stopped, and there was a silence.

"That wouldn't make up," Lin said firmly, gently, after a while.

"My dream," Lin said, "is of pleasant rooms full of sunshine and chintzes and girls coming to me for advice, and Spring and Autumn being what they always are and holidays with you and Rose. And when you marry I'll be just as excited as if it were myself. I'll be aunt and godmother and everything, but — I'll go back at night to my snug little quarters, and my cat—

Nature Provides Answer to Howe Says P-C Leader

Claims Power Situation Is "Incorrectly Described"

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP)—George Drew says that nature has provided an answer to Trade Minister Howe's "dishonest" allegation that low water conditions have nothing to do with Ontario's shortage of electricity.

Mr. Drew, former Ontario Premier, said in a broadcast over two Ontario stations Friday night that more power became available to Southern Ontario after heavy rains fell throughout the Ottawa Valley in the last few days.

The national leader of the Progressive Conservative party charged that the Ontario power situation was "incorrectly descriged" by Mr. Howe in a London, Ont., speech attributing "the whole blame for the present power shortage...to me personally."

"If there was any doubt in your mind that the amount of water available determines the amount of power which can be supplied, that doubt must have been removed by what has happened in the past few days," said Mr. Drew.

His speech was broadcast at 7 p.m. over station CFRA at Ottawa and at 10 p.m. over CFRB in Toronto. It is scheduled to be carried over 31 other privately-owned radio stations in the province during the next six days at three-hour intervals.

The staggered pattern of broadcasts, Mr. Drew said, was due to CBC regulations which denied him use of either a CBC or private network to reply to Mr. Howe.

Reviews Situation

Reviewing the power situation since he became premier of Ontario, Aug. 1943, Mr. Drew recalled that Mitchell Hepburn, former Liberal Premier, said before the war that Ontario had a surplus and "is simply not interested in the production of more power."

He denied stopping construction of the Des Joachims plant on the Ottawa River in 1943. Wartime scarcity of men and materials delayed construction, which was not authorized before he took office.

Detailing difficulties in proceedings with the 480,000 horsepower project, he said the Ontario Commission in April of this year had to buy from the United States 22,300 tons of steel unobtainable in Canada at a cost of $4,658,000 in U.S. funds.

On this the Dominion government "imposed an import duty ...of $1,097,400. Nor did they stop there. They also imposed a sales tax. Thus the people of Ontario were compelled to pay an additional $1,500,000 in taxes because of the inability of Mr. Howe's Department to supply the necessary steel in this country under his priorities even at this late date. A second purchase has just been arranged for similar requirements which will call for the payment of another million

Several Receive Acclamations On Nomination Day

Picton—Several contests in Prince Edward County was indicated yesterday at nominations, though those nominated have until tonight to qualify. Several councils received acclamations. Reeve J. K. Taylor of Hillier, Warden of Prince Edward County, retired and will be succeeded by Norman Foster. In Picton, Mayor Lance Nethery retired and not until tonight will it be definitely known who candidates will be. Reeve Elmer Vader of Athol township is being opposed by Clinton Greene. There were 32 persons nominated there with an exclamation likely for councillors.

In Ameliasburg township, Reeve Norris Whitney and Deputy Reeve Thomas Walker seemed assured of acclamations, along with Melvin Pulver, William Nightingale and Harmon Montgomery as councillors.

Sophiasburgh township gave acclamation to Reeve J. K. Welsh, and to councillors Harold Robinson, Blake Richards, Ernest Edwards and Roy Covert.

Hallowell township will have a contest for reeve and councillors. Reeve Dwight O. Reynolds is opposed for the reeveship by Deputy Reeve Lee Allison. Those who qualified for the three council seats after nomination were Harry Slavin, Jr., William Dunning, Clifford Wilkes, William Armstrong, Clarence Hicks. Other councillors nominated were James Dick, Don Heffernan, Arthur Hyatt, Clifford Wilson.

A contest looms in North Marysburgh where an ex-warden, Alva E. Bowerman, qualified for the reeveship, against Reeve Calvin Hughes. Those nominated for councillors are Harry C. Hicks, George Anderson, Arthur Holland, Fred Carter, Burton Pringle, Herb Bowerman, Ernest Roth, Calvin Storms, Willet Carson, George Anderson, George Andrea.

South Marysburgh township gave an acclamation to Reeve D. Thompson and councillors Stewart York, Carson Scott, Vernon Bongard, Maurice Clapp.

Hillier township council, by acclamation, consists of Reeve N Foster, Councillors Earl Burris, Kenneth Wood, Ray Ferguson.

All nomination meetings were reported well attended and without special controversy.

Escapes Police At Union Station, Flees Barefoot

Toronto, Nov. 27 — (CP) — Hugh McIntosh, sentenced to eight years for forgery, escaped today from police custody at Union Station and fled barefoot while being taken to Kingston Penitentiary.

Police said McIntosh, who was sentenced last Nov. 17 on 15 charges of forgery, three of false pretences and two of uttering false documents, bolted after police removed his shoes to put on leg irons. Police said it was customary to remove handcuffs from prisoners before they boarded trains.

105-YEAR-OLD MUSKET EXPLODES, CAUSING DEATH

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 27 (AP) —Gerald Pemstein, 15, died Friday night of injuries suffered in the explosion of a 105-year-old musket. His brother, Richard, 19, was cut about the left arm.

Soon be Time for Winter-Merrymaking For 10,000 Inhabitants Magdalen Is.

By WILLIAM STEWART

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sap Aux Meules, Que., Nov. 27 (CP)—Winter winds will soon howl across the Magdalen Islands but they won't drown out the lively fiddles and the thump of the "madelinots" dancing feet.

The 10,000 people inhabiting the cluster of islands, out in the St. Lawrence Gulf, have put about $700,000 in their pockets from a season's fishing and it will soon be time for winter merrymaking.

Practically everywhere through the 40-mile string of low islands, families will pack into sleighs and travel from one little wooden home to another, and from island to island across the ice, for the slack-season round of visits and good times.

The end of fishing this year for young islanders means earnings in their pockets and that makes it marrying time. Wedding festivities will fit in perfectly with the winter order of life in the Magdalens.

By next March they'll be ready to settle down to the work of trimming gear for a new season of mackerel, herring, cod, smelt and lobster fishing.

Life is changing gradually in the Magdalens under the press of the modern age and its gadgetry. But the sandy islands with their French, English and Portuguese descendants are still far enough out in the gulf to be undisturbed in their habit of winter fun.

When winter comes, the islanders' links with the mainland are confined to a wireless station, twice-weekly airplane flights to the mainland via Prince Edward Island and their radios.

Late in the year their co-operative's five ships end their trips to the mainland and island schooners that bring coal from Cape Breton, lumber from Summerside, P. E. I. and other wares from Canadian maritime ports stop operations.

The islanders earn their year's livelihood with their fishing and seal-hunting but during the winter season, though it's a time of celebration, some of the fishermen and employees of the islands' four fish freezing plants are eligible for unemployment insurance benefits and get them.

Four freezing plants, a co-operative, a credit union and new schools are improvements that have been carried out in recent years.

TEN THOUSAND REDS ENCIRCLED PAPER REPORTS

Battle for Suchow Spreads Southward

Nanking, Nov. 27 — (AP) — The battle for the approaches to the Chinese capital of Nanking spread today over a 100-mile radius south of Suchow.

Ten thousand red troops were reported encircled at Changpaling, only 40 miles north of Nanking, one newspaper said.

Fighting in the immediate vicinity of Suchow was almost ended with the main forces of both the reds and the Nationalists moving southward in a series of scraps.

A government field general said the communists have lost 230,000 men in the 19-day battle. Government losses were reported at 95,000 men. However, these figures customarily are distorted by the Chinese.

This same phase of the war seemed to be shaping in North China where Gen. Fu Tso-Yi's headquarters in Peiping said he was preparing to meet 280,000 reds in Hopei province with Tientsin and Peiping as the prizes.

Fu's headquarters intimated that if the reds did not attack his men, 4,000 of whom are reported to have deserted to the communists three days ago, they would seek them out and engage them in battle. Fu has seemed confident of whipping them in the Peiping-Tientsin corridor, where scattered fire fights have been reported.

Tom Lambert, Associated Press correspondent, said he saw a few communist dead or captives in villages where the reds had been repulsed.

Field commanders believed the communists still had 450,000 troops in the area and next would slash southward, trying to cut communications between Suchow and Nanking.

The railway town of Suhsien, 5000 miles south of Suchow, was still admitted to be in communist hands, and the line was cut at other points farther south.

The government has four new United States-equipped divisions at Tsingtao, anchorage for the United States Western Pacific fleet.

Nomination Day In N.S. By-election Set for December 13

Kentville, N. S., Nov. 27 (CP) — Nomination day for the Dec. 13 Digby-Annapolis-Kings by-election has been set for Monday at nearby Annapolis Royal.

All three major political parties have named candidates for the seat made vacant by the resignation of the Rt. Hon. J. L. Ilsley, former justice and finance minister.

J. D. McKenzie, mayor of Middleton, is the Liberal standard bearer, George Nowlan, Wolfville barrister, is the Progressive Conservative choice and Lloyd Shaw of Halifax, C.C.F. provincial secretary, is C.C.F. nominee.

Only One Power Cut-Off From 5.05 to 6.05 P. M. Until Further Notice

Commencing on Monday and continuing until further notice there will be only one hydro cut-off in Belleville, it was announced today by Mr. O. H. Scott, manager of the local public utilities.

The cut-off will be from 5.05 to 6.05 in the evening, thereby eliminating the morning cut-off and the evening blackout between 7.15 and 7.45.

Increased power quotas from the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, made possible as result of the heavy rainfall during the past ten days, was given as the reason for the more favorable hydro quotas. The rain has served to partially fill up the water storage basins thereby making it possible for more water to be turned through the turbines.

Voluntary conservation on the part of power users was also stated to have been partly responsible in assisting the local utilities to eliminate two power cut-offs during the day. As in the past there will be no power cut-offs on Saturday or Sunday.

Despite the bettering of the hydro picture, local consumers are urged, however, not to relax in their efforts to avoid unnecessary use of electricity. It was pointed out that shorter winter days are ahead and when Jack Frost arrives in earnest it is possible that the flow of water at the hydro's big power developments may be reduced.

SOME ONTARIO CITIES DROPPING POWER CUT-OFFS

Power-Saving Still Necessary to Beat Province's Electrical Shortage

Toronto, Nov. 27 — (CP) — Increases in power quotas are enabling Ontario municipalities to operate more comfortably within their allotments but hydro officials emphasize power-saving still is necessary to beat the province's electricity shortage.

Aided this week by the general quota boosts totalling five per cent over each community's allotment, London, Stratford and Guelph eliminated power cutoffs and fell back on savings by households and industries to keep hydro use within their limits.

Toronto, suburban London communities and Sarnia dropped evening blackouts for the present and Toronto, keeping afternoon cutoffs, dispensed temporarily with a morning power break.

St. Catharines industries, which operated during the last two weekends as a conservation measure, are resuming a normal work week, a step made possible by the quota increases which followed a rise in water levels at generating plants.

Make Immediate Start

Meanwhile, it was announced Friday that an immediate start is to be made on the changeover of Southern Ontario's island of 25-cycle electric power to 60-cycle current. Sarnia and the Toronto suburb of Scarborough will be the first areas tackled and the changeover in those districts is expected to be complete by next September.

Conversion will start in the summer of 1950 in London and certain sections of Hamilton. The entire $20,000,000 project may require 15 years, hydro spokesmen said.

With the exception of a tiny pocket near Hamilton, all Southern Ontario west of Scarboro township and south of Barrie is served with 25-cycle power.

Other developments:

Hydro chairman Robert Saunders visited Detroit to negotiate with private power supplies for the import next year of extra 60-cycle power.

Mr. Saunders also announced that a $45,000,000 loan will be floated to provide capital for construction of new generating equipment.

Small Boys Find $6,500 in Bonds On Trash Dump

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 27 (AP)—Two small boys with a penchant for dragging home junk from a thrash dump turned up $6,500 in savings bonds today.

But first they carefully asked the mother of one, Mrs. Roy L. Martin, if they could bring the rusty-topped glass jar in the house.

"When I saw it was bonds—heaps of them—I nearly fainted," said Mrs. Martin.

The boys, Timmie Martin, seven, and George Schroeder, 11, found the jar by a creek and amid piles of rubble dumped in the area despite a "no dumping" sign.

The bonds, apparently stolen, were made out to an Atlanta couple. Detectives said as soon as the couple could be located, the bonds would be returned.

SUB MENACE MAJOR PROBLEM CANADA DEFENCE

Will Build 'Next Year New Sub-Hunting Escort Vessel

Ottawa, Nov. 27 — (CP) — The submarine menace, one of the major problems of Canadian defence, has received striking and belated emphasis in two recent developments that have drawn attention to something the navy, and presumably the government, have known for a long time.

It is the inadequacy of Canada's navy, as it now stands, to cope with modern undersea craft that are capable of greater speeds below water than the R.C.N.'s wartime sub-hunters could make on top and which can stay down for weeks.

The developments:

1. Disclosure that Canada will start building next year a new sub-hunting escort vessel, with a lot of U. S. equipment, that is expected to be an answer.

2. Disclosure in anti-sub exercises off Halifax that she neeeds it.

No Surprise at Result

There was no surprise at navy head-quarters at the result of a two-day mock battle of four R.C.N. surface ships against eight modern U. S. subs which, an announcement said, "demonstrated technical advantage" over them and scored a victory roughly in the ratio of two to one. News reports on the recent visit of a Canadian squadron to Pearl Harbor indicated the same thing.

The incidents merely stress a situation that has been occupying the attention of naval planners since the war and which is underlined by reports that Russia has at least 250 or 300 subs, some of the latest type, and is building more.

Here are some factors in it:

Those same eight subs warred against a 100-ship U. S. fleet off Newfoundland earlier and, in the opinion of the admiral in charge, would have "sunk or seriously defeated our task forces" in actual combat. The sub chief of the U.S. Navy says, however, it has perfected devices which should be capable of matching the snorkel-breathing subs.

The R.C.N. which otherwise has nothing to say about its countermeasures, says "we now are using the best anti-sub equipment available, apart from experimental types, and as better equipment becomes available, we'll have it."

Vishinsky Calls Investigators 'Amateur Sherlock Holmeses'

Paris, Nov. 27. (AP)—Russian delegate Andrei Vishinsky today derisively called United Nations investigators in the Balkans 'amateur Sherlock Holmeses".

Vishinsky also repeated before the General Assembly his charges that the U.N. Special Committee on the Balkans based its report on "Garbage".

Waving his arms and at times pounding the table, the Russian shouted the report was based on "distortion, falsification and bad faith".

Sarcastically, he said the investigators "dabbled in detective work." They wanted to "get evidence at any cost proving Greece's three northern neighbors" aided the rebels.

POTATO EXPORTS CUT, GOVT. WILL SUPPORT PRICES

P.E.I., New Brunswick Guaranteed Price

Ottawa, Nov. 27 (CP) — A prices support program for potatoes has been introduced in Canada to coincide with restrictions on exports to the United States, the Minister of Trade and Agriculture announced Friday night.

The prices support policy will guarantee growers in designated portions of Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick a minimum price of $1.15 per 100 pounds on a farm basis.

Shipment of table potatoes to the United States will be stopped Dec. 1. Export of seed potatoes will be continued, but on a permit basis, only to certified seed buyers in the U.S. and only between certain dates in the case of many states.

The machinery selected by the government to control potato exports to the United States was to require permits for the export of any potatoes to any destination. In the case of all countries, except the United States, the permits will be granted "freely and without delay" for either seed or table potatoes.

The action was taken in response to U.S. complaints that the volume of Canadian shipments was disrupting their prices support program.

The U. S. government was contemplating restrictive measures Trade Minister Howe said, but suggested that the two governments talk the problem over first.

He explained that after Dec. 1 the government will refuse to grant permits for the shipment of table potatoes to any U.S. destination. In the case of seven states—Oregon, California, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Washington, Minnesota and Colorado—export permits for seed potatoes will be granted freely.

There are 20 states to which Canada does not normally ship seed potatoes. Applications to export to these destinations will be considered, however.

Three Men Will Be Arraigned On Murder Court

Quebec, Nov. 27. (CP)—Three men from St. Gerard de Majella, near Quebec, will be arraigned today on a charge of murder in the mysterious death of Gerard Beaumont whose body was found in the St. Charles River, June 22, 1947.

The three men were identified by police as Roger Lizotte, Auguste Vallieres, and Maurice Legare, of the same locality.

A verdict of accidental death by drowning was returned by a coroner's court jury more than a year ago in the death of Beaumont but police said they continued their investigation.

The body of the man was exhumed Thursday in the presence of police officers and Dr. Rosario Fontaine, medico-legal expert, who will make a report on his observations.

Elizabeth's Son Can Call Two Palaces, Three Castles, 3 Mansions His Home

London, Nov. 27 (Reuters) — Princess Elizabeth's son can call two palaces, three castles and three mansions his "home." He will spend some time in each every year.

The two palaces—Buckingham Palace in London and Holyrood in Edinburgh—are the national state residences of his grandfather, the King.

Windsor Castle is another national state residence, while Balmoral Castle on Deeside, Scotland, is the King's private property.

The third castle, Glamis, is the highland seat of the family of his grandmother, the Queen.

One mansion— Sandringham in Norfolk—like Balmoral, is the King's private home.

The other two mansions are the homes of the child's parents. The first is Clarence House, St. James' their official London residence, which will be ready complete with a nursery floor, at the beginning of the year. The other is Windlesham Moor, their leased weekend home, with a 50-acre estate in Surrey, 25 miles from London.

All but the latter home, whose main attraction is a nine-hold golf course, have a story.

From childhood, the young prince will hear the legends surrounding Holyrood House where Mary, Queen of Scots, lived for the greater part of her reign.

He will play hide-and-seek with the "ghosts" in Glamis Castle, like his grandmother and mother before him.

His birthplace, Buckingham Palace, has been the focal point of the United Kingdom in times of rejoicing for more than a century. Described as the ugliest palace in Europe, it has never been very popular with the Royal Family.

Second home to which the new Prince will be introduced is the 11,000-acre Sandringham estate where Princess Elizabeth will take him to spend a traditional Christmas with the rest of the Royal Family.

His first Easter will probably be spent at Windsor Castle where the court also goes in residence for the Ascot races in the summer. There, he will play in the famous corridor used by Royal Princes and Princesses for hundred years.

Sometime during next summer and fall he will visit his three homes in Scotland.

Hope Compromise Settlement Berlin Deadlock Dwindles

Mediator Plans to Make Final Calls on Russ, West Delegates

Paris, Nov. 27 (AP)—Hope for a compromise settlement of the Berlin deadlock dwindled today.

Argentine delegate Juan Bramuglia, president of the United Nations Security Council, prepared to make what may be his final round of calls on Russian and western delegates. He planned to see Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky, Dr. Philip C. Jessup of the United States, Britain's Sir Alexander Cadogan and France's Alexander Parodi.

Bramuglia was to present to them a rough draft of the currency accord which he and representatives of the five other security council "neutral" members worked on in a meeting which lasted until the early hours this morning.

The new compromise formula is based on the Russian and western-power answers to five questions put to them by Bramuglia. The answers were made public Friday night.

Bramuglia is understood to be working on a draft plan which would create an expert commission including representatives of the neutrals as well as of Russia and the western powers to try to settle the currency problem.

U. S. Accepts Idea

Williard L. Thorp, assistant United States Secretary of State, said his country accepts the idea that the Soviet mark should be used in all of Berlin.

He told a special press conference that the United States has in no way withdrawn from the agreement to accept the Moscow directive of Aug. 30.

One American source said, however, the Berlin political situation is deteriorating fast. This source contended it is "very urgent" that a Berlin solution be reached over increasing difficulties.

The Russians stood firm on the princples laid down in the tentative agreement reached in Moscow last August.

Western officials so far have reserved public comment on Russia's reply to Bramuglia's questions. But they have said privately that the situation remains unchanged.

They pointed out Russia's answers leave the four powers more or less where they were when the four military commanders in Berlin began their fruitless effort to translate the principles of the Moscow agreement into practice.

ALUMINUM TAPE CUT BY ALUMINUM SCISSORS

Sunderland, Northumberland, England, Nov. 27 — (Reuters) — An aluminum tape was cut with aluminum scissors to open the world's first aluminum-alloy bridge at South Docks here Friday. Transport Minister Barnes opened the bridge, which weighs less than a railway freight engine and which cost about £85,000 ($340,000) to build.

African Chief With White Wife Has Troubles

Serowe, Bechuanaland, South Africa, Nov. 27 (AP)— The chief of the Bamangwato tribesmen has been told by neighbor chieftains that his people still want him as their ruler— but not with his white wife at his side.

Seretse Krama, the 27-year-old chief who was to take over the reins of his tribe next year, had left the issue up to the people. His bride, Ruth Williams, 24, is waiting in London to hear the result.

The chief's uncle, Chief Tshekedi, now is ruling over his 100,000 people as regent. Seretse went to London earlier this year to study law before taking over his duties as Chief. There he met Miss Williams, fell in love with her and married her.

Never before had a Bamangwato tribesman married a white woman. The problem was a big one, and three old chiefs from outside the tribe were called in to argue with the young ruler.

Seretse replied that he loved his people and wants to be their chief—but with his wife beside him.

The British district commissioner, who sat in on the meeting, then addressed Seretse:

"You have heard your fathers speaking to you. Do not disagree with them."

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov 27 (CP)— Synopsis: The rain area which covered Southern Ontario Friday night is moving eastward across Quebec. Skies are mainly clear over Southern Ontario and it should be ideal football weather this afternoon. Tonight will be chilly and temperatures will range between 25 and 30. Present indications are for a clear crisp Sunday with afternoon temperatures reaching the low 40s.

G. T. Bothwell Named President Restaurant Assoc.

Mr. G. T. Bothwell, manager of the Guild restaurant here, was named president of the Belleville branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association at their annual meeting held at Tobe's County Gardens. Mr. Bothwell succeeds George DeVuyst who had acted for the past five years.

Vice president is Tom Karis with Jack Dickens as secretary treasurer. Directors are Bruce Lattimer, Doug Randall, Bill Fortes and Nick Chaggares.

Members of the city council with city solicitor R. A. Pringle, Harold Seldon of the Chamber of Commerce; Glen Thompson of the Board of Health; George Stokes, M.P. and Elmer Sandercock, M. P. P., and county clerk Erle Denyes attended the meeting.

Guest speaker was George F. Heckman, Montreal, president of the Quebec branch of the Association. He spoke on the necessity of sanitation and of the co-operation which his organization was getting in Montreal from the city and fro mthe board of health. Mrs. F. G. Montgomery, executive secretary also attended the meeting.

George DeVuyst introduced the guest speaker and welcomed the guests. He told members of the local branch that it was in the interest of the organization that officials be changed from year to year.

Local Grocers Visit Plant At Peterborough

Members of the Belleville Independent Grocers and their wives motored to Peterborough by chartered bus Wednesday as guests of the Quaker Oats Co. Mr. Ken Cadd, Sales Manager, acted as host to the visitors on behalf of the company.

Upon arrival in Peterborough the party was shown through the Quaker Oats plant and the different operations and workings were explained to the visitors. The cleanliness and efficiency of the plant and its staff was the most striking feature that impressed itself upon the minds of the Belleville group. After the tour, the parties re-united in the plant cafeteria and a sample product was presented each person.

A banquet was held in the Empress Hotel, at which Mr. Cadd and his wife were hosts. Assisted by a fellow sales-manager, Mr. Geo. Nichols, Mr. Cadd led the group in a lively community singsong. Further entertainment was provided by Mr. Andy Rutter travelling salesman.

Following the banquet three films were shown by the host whose offer of further interesting films was reluctantly refused due to the lateness of the hour and distance the party had to travel to get home. The appreciation of the Belleville group was expressed to the host organization by one of the visiting members.

The return trip was made enjoyable by efforts on the part of members of the party and singing was enjoyed by all.

Inquest Jury Renders Verdict In Baby's Death

Failure of the father to bring his vehicle to a stop before entering onto the highway was given as the cause of a motor accident which on the evening of November 4th, resulted in the death of Shirley Ann Thompson, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Thompson of Madoc.

This was stated in the coroner's jury verdict at the adjourned inquest looking into the death of the child which was held before Coroner Dr. G. S. Cronk Friday evening at the county court buildings. Assistant Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson acted for the Crown. Ten witnesses were called.

Following is the verdict: "Shirley Ann Thompson came to her death at Ross' Corners, approximately four miles north of Belleville on the night of November 4th, as the result of collision between two cars, the car in which she was riding being driven by her father Patrick Thompson and the other by Mr. Nicholson of Port Elgin. We find the accident was caused by the father not being familiar with the road on which he was travelling and that he failed to stop at the stop sign."

The year-old baby was instantly killed as result of the accident while the mother suffered serious injury.

TWO OF SURVEY PARTY KILLED AS HUT BURNS DOWN

London, Nov. 27 — (AP) —The Colonial Office Friday night announced that two members of its Antarctic survey party in the Falkland Islands were killed when a hut burned down Nov. 8. The men were Lieut. Oliver Burd, a meteorologist, and Michael C. Green, a general assistant.

Problems Libraries Encounter In Relationship With Public Discussed by Prof. Edinborogh

The Trustees' Section of the Ontario Library Association, in conjunction with the Board of Education, held a two-day Institute meeting in the Hotel Quinte on Friday and Saturday of this week. The first of its kind in Belleville's history, the meeting was held for all eastern Ontario Library boards and drew many well-known and prominent persons in literary and cultural circles to this city. Miss B. Rierdon officiated as chairman for the meeting of the Belleville Board.

Guest speaker for the dinner meeting held in the Hotel Quinte Friday evening was Professor A. Edinborogh, lecturer in English at Queen's University, Kingston. The speaker was introduced to the assembly of 75 persons by Miss Rierdon. Mayor D. L. Storey extended official welcome to the visitors and expressed best wishes for the success of the meetings.

A graduate of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge University, in honor English, Mr. Edinborogh has held the rank of Captain in the British Army. During his career he has lectured at the University of Lausanne, Switzerland and with the British Consul. The latter organization being government aided for the advancement of culture throughout the world.

Outlines Scope

In his remarks, Mr. Edinborogh dealt with the problems libraries encounter in their relationship with the public. He outlined the scope of the library as a unit which supplies millions with the necessary 'know-how' serving the requisites of everyone. The prime purpose of the library was given as the encouraging of the public to read books and, through extended reading subscription, contribute to the mental and cultural aspects of city life.

Dealing first the problem of supplying books to the public, the speaker made reference in systems in operation in England. The Regional System was dealt with at length, and the method was described whereby areas of the country were divided and subdivided to provide a general supply of literature to populated areas both large and small. The Regional System was described as being a unified movement under the direction of a main-headquarters and guaranteeing a subscriber the opportunity of obtaining any book on file throughout the system of libraries. This system has been started in Canada and the speaker urged its furtherance to allow all divisions of people the same opportunity with regards to reading. The problem of providing the correct type of book for the various periods of mental advance was also discussed by Mr. Edinborogh.

Discusses Other Side

Discusing the other side of the problem, the speaker outlined suggestions whereby libraries could encourage active reading by the public. Among the suggestions discussed was an advisor capable of suggesting and creating an interest in informative, creative reading by teenagers; the co-operation with the press for the promotion of reading, and many other useful ideas.

In conclusion the speaker stressed the values of reading to the public in dispelling prejudices and creating a better understanding of the fellow man and foreign neighbor. Mr. Edinborough noted the increase of Canadian culture through the works of its authors and poets.

"Canada's present authors and culturists are the basis of a strong Canada," he concluded.

The appreciation of the meeting for an informative and enlightening address was conveyed by Mr. J. E. Bateman and further expressed by Miss Rierdon.

Mr. H. J. Clarke, treasurer, Library Board, was introduced to the meeting as the sole survivor of the founders of the Corby Public Library Constitution, and gave a brief and revealing address on the library. He traced the progress of the library from the Mechanic's Institute of 1876 to the early '90' when the library moved to Front and Victoria Street. Lack of funds at that time was forcing the directors to consider the acceptance of a Carnegie Library, popular at the time, but the late Senator H. Corby offered them sufficient funds for their requirements. In 1908, the library as it is today, was opened by Mayor McFee, and since that time has grown and expanded under various librarians and directing boards.

Mr. Angus Mowat, a former Belleville librarian and present director of Public Library Service for the Ontario Library Association, spoke briefly on his days in Belleville, and expressed the satisfaction in noting the large number of delegates present.

A general vote of thanks to the Belleville committee was extended by Mr. C. S. Evans, chairman of the Library Board of Chatham and vice-president of the Ontario Library Association.

Following the dinner meeting, the delegates adjourned to the Rotary Room for a business meeting and discussion. Saturday morning will conclude the meetings with a full session for business and discussion.

Eggs Somewhat Easier on Market

The price of eggs was again a bit easier on the local produce market with mediums being quoted at 50 cents and firsts at 55 cents the dozen. Pullets sold at from 45 to 48 cents the dozen.

There was a fairly large offering of fowl with mature birds being quoted at 45 cents per lb. Young chicken sold at 50 cents with capons bringing 55 cents per lb. Ducks were priced at 60 to 65c per lb.

On the outside market there was a large offering of vegetables and apples. Best grade Spys and Delicious apples saw an increase in price to $4 per bushel with Sweets fetching $3.50 per hamper. Pewaukees sold at 50 cents the basket and McIntosh at 65 cents.

Potatoes held steady at $1.75 per bag with peck lots bringing 40 cents. Onions sold at 40 cents per basket and at $2 and $3 per hamper. Parsnips were 35 cents the basket and carrots 30 cents.

Beef and pork by the quarter was offered, the former bringing 30 and 40 cents per lb. for front and hinds, respectively, and pork 35 and 40 cents.

Honey seemed to be plentiful with 4 lb. pails selling at 90 cents. Containers holding up to 40 pound were available. Eight pound pails were $1.75.

Whitefish sold at 40 cents per lb. and mudcats at 35 cents or three pounds for $1.

Young pigs were plentiful at prices ranging from $11 to $14 according to size. Two loads of stovewood were offered at $15 per cord.

Letter to the Editor

Funds from Sale Of Seals Finance County Program

Editor,
The Ontario Intelligencer.

Hastings County's 1948 Christmas Seal Sale has now been under way for a week and as chairman of the drive for funds to a program to prevent tuberculosis, I should like to ask the co-operation of my fellow citizens in that campaign.

I want to assure them that money collected is all used for the prevention of tuberculosis and that it is used to finance a local program. The extent of this program in Hastings County depends on how much money its citizens contribute.

Tuberculosis is the chief cause of death of Canadians between the age of 15 and 45. Anyone who looks about his own group of friends, at the responsibilities of this age group, at what they do for the family and the community, will realize the social and economic importance of preventing a disease which plays so much havoc in this group.

The Christmas Seal Sale is the one appeal for funds which Hastings County Tuberculosis Association Committee makes, and deserves enthusiastic public support.

Yours very truly,
D. L. STOREY,
Mayor.

DIES OF RARE DISEASE

Seffner, Fla., Nov. 27 — (AP)—Donald Younglove, who pleaded with his father to put him to sleep so he'd never wake again, died today. He died of a rare, painful, disease — dermatom-yositis — which causes complete atrophy of the muscles. Donald knew for a long time he was going to die.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. Raymond Belnap, Rossmore, wishes to thank his many friends for the gifts, flowers and the many acts of kindness shown him during his recent illness. Also grateful thanks to Dr. Scott and attending nurses. N27

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Winstanley and Lynne of 20 Reid Street, Belleville, wish to express to their many friends, relatives and neighbors their heartfelt thanks and appreciation for acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral tributes extended to them in their recent sad bereavement; especially thanking the doctors and nurses at the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto. Murray L. Short New Manager Credit Exchange

The Central Ontario Credit Exchange has announced the appointment of Mr. Murray L. Short as manager of its Belleville office. Formerly connected with the Peterborough Branch of the Credit Exchange, as assistant manager, Mr. Short resided in Peterborough for some time though a native of Oshawa.

Mr. Short received his elementary education in Maxwell's School, just outside of Oshawa, and later attended the Oshawa Collegiate and Vocational Institute. A veteran of World War II, he spent four years with the Royal Canadian Signal Corps as wireless operator.

Returning from Army service, Mr. Short enrolled in the Oshawa Business College taking a course in General Business Administration. Upon the completion of his course he joined the staff of the Oshawa Clinic in the Accounting Department.

A little more than a year later he became connected with the Ontario Credit Exchange, under the direction of Mr. J. Errol Wilson, owner and general manager. Mr. Short was a member of the Peterborough branch until his appointment to the Belleville office.

HYDRO NOTICE

ONE POWER CUT ONLY
5.05 p.m. to 6.05 p.m.

COMMENCING MONDAY, NOV. 29

Due to the improved water situation which has enabled the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario to increase its allotment to the Belleville system and due also to the voluntary conservation of electricity by power users, it is now possible to announce that

Until Further Notice

THERE WILL BE ONLY ONE POWER INTERRUPTION DAILY, MONDAY THROUGH FRIDAY, AT 5.05 P.M.

(SATURDAYS AND SUNDAYS NO INTERRUPTION)

Power users are urged, however, not to relax in their efforts to avoid all unnecessary use of electricity.

The shorter Winter days are still before us and when freeze-ups come the flow of water may be reduced.

Farmers Discover Ship-Like Object on Mount Ararat

By EDWIN B. GREEWALD

Istanbul (AP)—The petrified remains of an object which peasants insist resembles a ship has been found high up Mt. Ararat, biblical landing place of Noah's Ark.

Apparently hidden for centuries, it came to light last summer when unusually warm weather melted away an ancient mantle of snow and ice.

While various persons from time to time have reported seeing objects resembling a "house" or a "ship" on the mountain, Turks who have seen this new find profess it to be the only object which actually could be taken as the remains of a ship.

Shukru Asena, a farmer who owns large acreage in that far off eastern frontier district, told about the discovery in an unheralded visit to the Associated Press Bureau here. This is his story.

Early in September a Kurdish farmer named Reshit was about two-thirds of the way up the 16,000-foot peak and came upon an object he never had seen before, although he had been up the mountain many times. He moved around it and then climbed higher to examine it.

There, Reshit said, was the prow of a ship protruding into a canyon down which tons of melting ice and snow had been gushing for more than two months. The prow was almost completely revealed, but the rest of the object was still covered.

The contour of the earth, Reshit said, indicated the invisible part of the object was shaped like a ship. The prow, he added, was about the size of a house.

Blackened With Age

Reshit climbed down to it and with his dagger tried to break off a piece of the prow. It would not break. It was blackened with age. Reshit insisted it was not a simple rock formation.

He spread the word among little villages at the base of the mountain and peasants began climbing up its northern slope to see the weird thing he had found. Each who came back said it was a ship.

There is no folklore there about the ark, Shukru Bey said, and persons who saw Reshit's find came away in great surprise. There are no cameras out in that wild, isolated country where Turkey, Russia and Iran meet, hence no one came away with a picture.

According to the Bible, the ship in which Noah and the chosen few escaped the great flood was triple decked, had a length of 439 1-2 feet, was 73 feet wide and 43 feet in height.

An expedition from the United States last summer was reported coming to see if it could find remains of the ark preserved in the ice atop Mt. Ararat, but no one in that eastern area has reported any foreign visitors.

In Annapolis, Md., Frederick Avery, model ship maker for the Naval Academy Museum who was to have been a member of the American expedition said the trip had been called off for the time being.

I have talked to various oldtimers here in Istanbul, Turkish as well as foreigners, long versed in the lore of the Ark. Several have climbed Mt. Ararat and said they had seen nothing whatsoever that could be taken as the remains of a ship. The story of Shukru Bey left them cold and sceptical.

Canadian Diplomat Hails Holland's Post-War Effort

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Paris (CP)—Pierre Dupuy, Canada's self-styled "Stone Age" diplomat adopted Holland an enthusiastic build-up.

The Netherlands, he says, is striding 50 years ahead of other countries in post-war reconstruction.

The dapper, bouncy Canadian ambassador at The Hage talks of "extradordinary" Dutch progress in rebuilding the bread boulevards of Amsterdam, the slickness of business and commerce.

"It's really remarkable," he said in an interview. "Things are almost back to pre-war. There are as many cars on the streets as in Paris or New York.

Canadia-Dutch relations are another of his enthusiasms. The short-dark-moustached man, who has been Canada's contact with a dozen European countries, says Netherlanders have a special admiration for the Dominion. When Canada's flag was hoisted at Juliana's coronation, the crowd cheered (it seemed to Dupuy) for fully 10 minutes.

Last May 5, at ceremonies marking the anniversary of German capitulation to Canadian forces in Holland, 18,000 persons attended. Dupuy still received letters from many of the 4,000 Dutch girls who married Canadian soldiers.

An exchange of students and teachers is under way to capitalize on the Dutch sentiment. Meanwhile, lecturers, exhibitions and films on Canada are provided by a Canadian-Netherlands society with 10,000 memberships.

Emigration Record

"Another thing I'm proud of is Holland's emigration record. We gave medical examinations to nearly 10,000 people this year and only three per cent were found unfit to go to Canada."

Before the year ends, almost 10,000 Dutch—largely skilled farmers and their families — will have made the trip across the Atlantic. Next year the target figure is 20,000.

The Montreal—born Dupuy is reticent about his age—"somewhere in the early 50s"—but admits in the same breath that he "dates from the Stone Age" as a diplomat. Next month he starts his 20th year in the foreign service. One of the busiest times was during the Second World War. He was Canada's representative for Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Norway, Belgium, Greece and Holland—"seven noisy children on my knees."

After Holland was liberated May 6, 1945, Dupuy was the first diplomat to arrive. He took over a five-bedroom house in The Hague, formerly occupied by a German general. He still lives there with his Montreal-born wife, Teresa, and their novelist daughter Jacqueline. A son, Michel, is studying at Oxford.

"Following in his father's unfortunate footsteps as a diplomat, I'm afraid," says Dupuy Sr.

But Dupuy Sr., didn't really train for diplomacy. He was studying law in Paris, on leave from the University of Montreal, when the call came to the foreign service. Today after 20 years, he likes to say that he is still on leave, and won't go back. He is too happy in The Hague.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY WINIFRED E. WILSON

GREAT HORNED OWL

Fancy finding an occupied nest in sub-zero weather! This is quite possible, if Great Horned Owls have taken a liking to your district. As cotton tails, squirrels, and rats form their chief diet, there is no need for them to migrate on account of a food problem. They just choose a spot where there are several large, old trees, surrounded by a good hunting ground of bushes with plenty of small animals. Their wonderfully soft, fluffy plumage not only ensures silent flight, and makes them appear much larger than they actually are, but acts as a particularly warm winter coat for themselves and a covering for the eggs which are being incubated.

Frequently a deserted Hawk's or Crow's nest is appropriated, though sometimes they use cavities in trees, always adding twigs and feathers as furnishings. Balsam trees are favored, and the home is often 40 feet up. The Owlets may be born before the end of March, but are unable to fly for about three months, and are fed by the parents most of the summer. The baby voices, sounding more like Swallows' than Owls', may first attract your attention, or perhaps you will notice pellets at the foot of their tree. These are the indigestible remains of meals, and have been ejected from their mouths. Examine some of these pellets, and you will discover bones and fur — possibly feathers, because sometimes birds are eaten.

The Great Horned is the only species the poultry farmer need fear, but the cure is a wire en- osure for his chickens. Unless large, as is the case with a bbit, the prey is swallowed hole; otherwise it is first torn to eces by the long, sharp, curved ons. No wonder the deep-toned oting, "Who, who-who-who—, ioo, whoo", strikes terror to the art. Excellent hearing and keen esight add to the danger. Set in ther disks, its immovable eyes k straight ahead; but this does prevent the bird from seeing rything. Its big, round head be twisted around.

he Snowy Owl is the only r species with which this turnal predator might be con- d. Their size is similar. The at Horned is 22 inches, and ough some are quite dark, rs are nearly entirely white. all have white chins and, of rse, the ear tufts of feathers kn wn as horns. They are invet- e winter wanderers, often ding several months far from r nesting grounds.

ld Hastings otel Destroyed

ampbellford, Nov. 26 (CP) — old Queen's Hotel, a land- k in the nearby village of Ha tings was destroyed by fire early today. The two-storey brick building was a blazing inferno when the fire was discovered by a neighbor Patrick Dodds who turned in the alarm.

Nearly 100 years ago the land was deeded by the Crown to James Crooks who built the hotel which from 1851 to 1878 was operated by John Driscol and later taken over by Thomas Lynch. In 1946, the hotel was sold to Grant Anderson, a Campbellford dairyman who intended converting it into a cold storage building.

The building was vacant at the time of the outbreak.

MORE THAN 30 YEARS IN JAILS, GETS ANOTHER TWO YEARS

London, Ont., Nov. 26 — (CP) —William Montgomery, 61, whose police record showed that he had been sentenced to more than 30 years in jails during his lifetime, today was sentenced to another two years. He pleaded guilty last week to passing two worthless cheques in Hamilton.

British Settlers Think N. Z. Hosts Lacking in Humor

Auckland, N.Z. Nov. (CP)—British immigrants agree that New Zealanders are friendly and helpful, but one criticism they nearly all make is that they find the people too solemn.

"You would think they had all Britain's troubles on their shoulders instead of living in one of the most fortunate countries in the world," declared one surprised immigrant. "I hardly ever see people laughing or smiling in the streets. What has become of the Cockney wit and board North Country humor of their ancestors?"

Other immigrants, as well as visitors from Europe and America, complain of the lack of gaiety in New Zealand life and the complete closing down of all forms of entertainment on Sunday.

The complaints have now been formally investigated by J. Laird lecturer in philosophy at Auckland University, who finds that New Zealanders do possess a sense of humor but that they lack a sense of fun. New Zealand has developed a laconic type of humor of its own that may not be immediately apparent to the visitor.

Laird thinks New Zealanders have not yet learned to laugh at themselves as people of older nations have. They have a certain inferiority complex which makes them take criticism hard. It makes them strive to emphasize things at which they excel.

Agreeing that New eZalanders are not naturally gay, Laird, compared a party at a New Zealander's home and one given by a Irish or Scottish immigrant. In the latter case there would not be much to drink but the party would be hilarious.

The New Zealand function might begin with dancing, but nothing as riotous as a Scottish or Irish reel. Then the beer would be brought in. That would be the main part of the evening and the guests would seriously settle down to drink it.

Laird think New Zealand's seriousness is partly due to the strong pioneering spirit which still prevails. New Zealanders always want to be up and doing something. They spend their leisure time in some active pursuit instead of seeking entertainment.

Another factor, he considers, is the strong puritan strain which exists. Only about 10 per cent of the present population goes to church but a large proportion retains the moral code of its predecessor. This is reflected in the retention of the Puritan Sunday.

Oil Out of Coal Is New Industry In South Africa

By FRANK SMITH

Johannesburg (CP)—A $60,000,000 industry to extract oil from coal is to be established in South Africa.

The Union has great reserves of cheap, low-grade coal, no good for burning in furnaces or grates, but suitable for conversion into liquid fuel.

The Liquid Fuel Advisory Board has recommended to the government that the first licence for the production of oil from coal should be issued.

The minister of defence, F. C. Erasmus, said: "The production will be a valuable contribution towards meeting the essential requirements of our country in this particular direction."

"It could further serve as a basis for an extensive chemical industry, and in this way serve to reduce our dependence on overseas sources for the supply of many chemicals which also may be required in time of war."

Dr. B. F. J. Schonland, President of the South African Council for Scientific and Industrial Research, told a meeting here that South African provided a large field for industrial and scientific research.

Important Reserves

He stressed the importance of the reserves of cheap low-grade coal, and said that not only could liquid fuels be produced, "but we could perhaps produce economically from our cheap coal a large variety of hydro-carbons, and thus build up a great chemical industry."

Dr. Schonland added: "Our coal can be won at one-fourth the cost of coal in the United States and a still smaller fraction of its cost in Europe. I believe that we could be the first country in the world to base such a chemical industry on coal."

The proposed conversion plant will require capital of between $48,000,000 and $60,000,000, and may be established at Verceniging in the Transvaal.

Beginning of the production will depend greatly on how quickly equipment can be obtained. The Union is suffering from a shortage of steel and building materials.

At the start the industry will not manufacture more than a quarter of the Union's gasoline requirements. In the event of South Africa's supplies being cut off, this production would be a valuable contribution towards augmenting the essential requirements of the country.

November's Mild Record

Who can tell what the weather will be like some time ahead? While the weatherman with his scientific apparatus and collection of data can go a few days ahead, he cannot go far. It is true that some observers of animal, bird, insect and plant claim that they can fortell to a degree by the habits of birds and growth of plants what the general aspect of a winter may be. How far they can substantiate their claims still remains to be shown.

November has been the warmest in 43 years, weather experts say. They have had the advantage of the unusual weather and their role is comparatively easy for they rely on facts.

In November 1948 it is fortunate that it has been mild because there is a power shortage, the result of diminished rainfall for two years past and of the heavy demand for power and light. Had a weather prophet had his way he would probably have forgotten to suggest the need of rain and yet rain did fall and ease considerably the situation because it was rain and not snow.

For a little present month history, it is stated that the highest temperature reached so far this month is 73 and the lowest 29 degrees, just three degrees below the frost line. Average-for-the-month temperature was eight degrees higher than it was last year.

The forces of nature have the quality of surprising human beings as they have done effectively this month, usually given over to clouds and cold.

How Russians Vote

Speaking of the unanimity with which the people in Russia vote as shown by a discussion of recent municipal elections in that country, the Ottawa Journal tells of the proud boast of the U.S.S.R., official Russian information bulletin, that 99.99 per cent of all registered voters went to the polls and only one in a thousand failed. "Of each 9,999 who voted 9,936 marked their votes for the candidates of the Communists and non-party people." That was in Moscow. In Leningrad it was "almost as good, but being beyond the shadow of the Kremlin a few more voters ventured to dissent. There the vote was 99.93 per cent of registration and 99.17 per cent of all votes cast went to the Communist and non-party candidates."

Comments the Journal "The explanation is found, of course, in the fact that Russia does not have free elections as we know them. An anti-Communist or an anti-Stalin candidate is unthinkable and there is no real test of public opinion."

Of course no such unanimity could be found in a country where there is freedom of thought and even the issues would not be the same issues in Russia as in a country where the vote is free and unrestricted.

Heated Roadways

Michigan is trying something new, it is installing two stretches of radiant heating under highways to meet the problems of winter travel. Only two 500-feet stretches have been built as tests.

The cost it is estimated will be $13,200 for a mile. As the heating installation will last as long as the pavement does, a mile of road would cost $13,200, the cost per year being about $524 to $660, says Owen Sound Sun-Times.

Snow removal is one of the burdens of highways and streets in the northern parts. The plows which are needed, their upkeep, the purchase of snow-blowers and the staff are expensive and the traffic-accident cost form one of the mammoth bills which stagger a nation.

Interest in many a North American city will be directed towards Michigan to see the results. The season is already at hand when there is risk of costly and very dangerous skidding on the icy roads.

Cost and efficiency of the heated roadways would be the two factors to be considered and proven.

Antiques

With homes being more and more streamlined, those who live in them still feel the charm of another day, of furniture that didn't have all the corners knocked off so people could skid around them more effectively in their mad dash for the doorbell or the telephone.

The gracious beauty of many old pieces is reason enough for their being bought, and yet it isn't just their beauty that sells them. It's the feeling they give of continuing, of lasting, in a day of rocket-ships that now you see, you don't. — Windsor Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bateman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyde and Mrs. Countryman of this city, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bateman, in Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan MacKenzie of Madoc were visitors in town today.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lee and Mrs. George Geraldi of Tweed were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Orr in this city.

His Majesty King George, who has been seriously ill for some weeks, is said to be slowly recovering. However, anxiety persists over his slow rallying. The Duke of York states that his father is somewhat better today. Pleurisy, is said to be the cause of the King's illness.

30 YEARS AGO

NOV. 27TH., 1918.

Mr. Daniel Wickett of Foxboro, who is 80 years of age, has done his "bit" this past summer. During the harvest he pitched over 100 loads of hay and dug over 85 bags of potatoes. This is surely an accomplishment for a man of his years.

The depot battalion, which is stationed here, is becoming pretty well demoblized. Every day ten or fiteen men come before the Medical Board and receive their discharge.

Four carloads of machinery for the Belleville Rubber Company have arrived and will be installed immediately.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Cronk have returned home after a motor car trip to Toronto.

Mr. Mackenzie Robertson of this city is in Ottawa this week. He is one of fifty dairy experts called by the Minister of Agriculture to consult with regards to dairy problems.

40 YEARS AGO

Mr. C. E. Cameron of Toronto is visiting friends in the city.

Mrs. Blake Hall left today to join her husband in Montreal.

Mr. Joseph Brenton, who resides near Belleville, has gone to Guelph to claim a horse, buggy, harness and rug which have been missing for many weeks. The outfit was located by the High County Constable at Guelph.

Dr. Billa Way of Chicago, Ill., recently visited his brother, Mr. George Way, at Tweed. This is the first time in 26 years that the brothers have met. Dr. Way is now engaged by the United States Government in investigating tuberculosis and other diseases affecting cattle, sheep and swine. For years he had charge of the stables of Barnum and Bailey's Big Show and with them travelled in every country in Europe and he has talked with nearly all the crowned heads and royal personages in Europe.

The dredge, which has been at work in the western channel in the harbor for some time, has stopped operations for the season.

The Rev. J. Anderson, of Plainfield and the Rev. A. Doxsee of Albert College, will be the preachers at the services in Bridge Street Methodist Church tomorrow.

Mr. N. Lowe of Deseronto spent yesterday here with friends.

Mr. George J. Sherry, barrister of Norwood, and formerly of Belleville, is spending a few days in town.

The Rev. C. E. McIntyre, pastor of Bridge Street Methodist Church, will preach anniversary sermons in the Plainfield Methodist Church tomorrow.

Mr. William Johnson, Inspector of Weights and Measures, is in Deseronto today.

STRENGTH for The Day

Dr. Earl L. Douglass

FROTH AND BUBBLE

Someone wrote John Galsworthy once asking him to state his creed. He quoted a verse written by Adam Lindsay Gordon which runs as follows:

"Life is mostly froth and bubble,
Two things stand like stone,
Kindness in another's trouble,
Courage in your own."

Anyone who fancies high theological doctrine would hesitate to call this an adequate creed, but that it is sound and robust advice, a formula for daily living sure to produce poise and stable character, no one can deny. In the midst of a life which often appears like froth and bubble, kindness and courage do stand like the eternal granite hills. They are correlatives. A man who is kind to others will endure his own troubles without grumblings; and conversely, a man who makes the best of his own troubles will have a deep understanding of the agony others experience when fortune serves them a sorry lot of circumstances.

So let us remember that in an unstable world,

"Two things stand like stone,
Kindness in another's trouble,
Courage in your own.'

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

KEEP ADVENTURING

No matter what sort of life any of us may live, we should never let the spirit of adventure creep out. While life itself may be termed the Great Adventure, it is made up of endless adventures, wound about interests as endless.

Every job that we handle is an adventure. Every friend is one. Every hobby, no matter what, is also one. Every time that we have an idea, and start putting it to action, we are on our way to some new adventure, the result of or imagination. The fact remains, however, that the more we adventure and explore, the more fascinating and thrilling life becomes.

We owe more to our adventures than we can ever repay. The Wright brothers merely went upon an adventure when they conceived the idea that a machine could be built that would fly in the air, and it was the spirit of adventure that first aroused Henry Ford and which led him into constructing his first buggy without a horse.

I once went through the old that Henry Ford reconstructed in his famous Greenfield Village, and was conducted around by the last living aid of Edison's, Dr. Francis Jehl. He showed me scores of inventions that Edison had started, leaving many others to carry on and improve, but Edison was always an adventurer — and always getting great fun and satisfaction from it.

Every time we read a book we adventure with the author. I have had many an adventure trying to discover the source for many a story that has become a famous book. And any collector of rare books can understand me when I say that there are few adventures quite so satisfying to a book lover as those that he experiences in the second-hand book shops.

How happy we all should be who have been born and raised in a free country — where adventuring is a habit early acquired, because no limit has ever been placed upon ambition in a free country. Like Ulysses — even in old age — we can still adventure.

Mackenzie's Column:

Truman, Marshall Still Struggling With Aid to China

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

(Associated Press News Analyst)

The question of whether the United States will be able to increase its aid to Chinese Nationalist government in the fight against communism remains on the knees of the gods.

President Truman and State Secretary Marshal still are struggling with the problem of what the United States properly can do in this emergency.

Congressman Charles A. Eaton of New Jersey, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, summed up the grim situation bluntly for reporters with the remark that he doesn't know how the United States can give any further help that would be immediately effective. He added:

"China is in an international chaos beyond the wisdom of any man to predict what will come of it."

The Chinese crisis is a bucket with a big hole in the bottom. You can keep pouring in resources without filling it.

Must be Recognized

That's a fact which must be recognized by both the United States and China. In this connection Harold K. Milks, AP correspondent in Nanking, reports that Chinese officials have become increasingly critical of Marshall. Generally they blame him for American failure to give China what they consider "adequate support." There has been a growing tendency among Chinese to shift the blame for their own government's military and economic failures to the shoulders of Washington.

The way the situation looks at this moment, the United States has no thought of halting the aid which it is giving china at present. The debate is whether she can afford the added enormous expenditure needed to meet the rebellion of the Moscow-encouraged Chinese communists.

Must Win

The United States and the other democracies recognize full well that either they must win the "cold war" against Russia or they will have to fight a "hot war" in due course for a certainty.

Should China fall to the communists, the Far East might well become the Armageddon of the fight between democracy and totalitarian bolshevism. However, the western allies are not without a formidable base in the Western Pacific.

That is Japan — long-time foe of Russia and capable of development as arsenal, fortress and source of man-power. The red plague hasn't struck across Nippon much thus far, thanks to American occupation, although the loss of China to the communists would pose a great threat against Japan militarily.

72 CHILDREN ON WAY TO RECOVERY

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP) — Some 72 children are edging towards recovery at the Hospital for Sick Children's poliomyelitis centre in nearby Weston. Of the total 42 were stricken this year, the rest are recovering from operations or paralyzation of other years.

Many of them are learning to walk all over again after having been pronounced incurable cripples.

Canadians Fussy About the Type Of Coin Jingled

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Nov. 27 (CP)—Canadians are fussy about the type of coinage they jingle in their pockets and the denomination of crinkly bills they stuff into their wallets.

Practically every one dislikes carrying around a large number of coppers. But the dislikes do not stop there. In the prairies, for instance, the people have a pet aversion to the $2 bill. In Montreal, Ottawa and some other eastern cities the 50-cent piece is eyed with disfavor.

On the other hand, Vancouver and Toronto residents like the 50-cent piece and frequently call on eastern banks for supplies.

The currency likes and dislikes are well known to C. E. Campbell, chief of the currency division of the Bank of Canada. The greying, friendly official works in a guarded ground floor office of the Bank of Canada's main building not far from Parliament Hill.

Moneybags

There he keeps track of the currency issued by the banks, passes on orders for different types of currency across the country and supervises the destruction of mutilated and torn bills. Another job is to deal with requests for the replacement of damaged currency.

"You know," he said in an interview, "hardly a day goes by but what some one writes in and asks for the replacement of currency that was placed in an oven to dry and then forgotten until someone came along and turned on the oven."

When silver dollars were first issued in Canada some of the silver mining areas of British Columbia insisted on using the new dollars in place of the customary paper ones.

"But that was kind of a fad," said Mr. Campbell. Now the main demand for the silver dollars comes from radio quiz shows and collectors.

By thumbing through a well-indexed book, Mr. Campbell can tell how many bills and coins of each denomination are in circulation. The $1 and the $10 bill head the list.

There are approximately 43,000,444 bills of the $1 denomination in circulation and about 41,000,000 of the $10 bills. The $5 bill ranks third with about 20,000,000. There are about 16,000,000 of the $20 bills and 2,228,000 of the $100 denomination.

N. Z. FARMERS CLIP PASTURES

St. Thomas, Nov. 27 (CP) — Western Ontario dairy farmers have a lot to learn from those of New Zealand, Douglas Hart of Woodstock told the Elgin County Holstein Breeders Friday. He said New Zealanders clipped their pastures in the spring to encourage growth during the late summer. They also fed dry hay from barnyard cribs when dairy cattle were on fresh pasture. These plans proved effective on his own farm, Mr. Hart said.

NEWER METHODS

The old method of engraving glass with a diamond is now seldom used.

The Packsack

of Gregory Clark!

The feet are the most underprivileged part of the human anatomy. In the morning, we haul them out of the nether depths of the bed clothes and, before they can even catch a glimpse of the sun in the window, we have pulled socks on them. A few moments later, they are in leather straight-jackets called shoes.

There they toil and smother all day, supporting us; carrying us; obeying more slavishly than our hands or even our brains, every little command. A hundred to two hundred pounds of us they bear, absorbing all the blows we deal them as we walk, run, jump.

Then when night falls, we unlace the straight-jackets, whip off the socks and before the feet have a chance to catch a full breath, down we shove them into the smothering depths of the bed.

When we take our bath, we deal with our feet last of all, with reluctance, and with grunts and groans for having to stoop so far. We are all ashamed of our feet. In summer, should someone produce a camera, we dig our feet into the sand or coyly draw them out of sight.

Our faces we coddle. Creams, lotions, powders, packs, colors by the hundred — for the face. The hands, the necks, legs, chests or busts, arms, fingernails — all, all are the subject of costly and artistic public discussion. But, with a prison pallor, nobbly, crooked-toed, calloused, worn and weary, our feet are the forgotten men of the human economy.

With snow and slush pending, with floors cold, this is no time to agitate for an open-air holliday for feet. But with Christmas only four weeks away, it might not be amiss to suggest, to those ladies knitting socks for gifts, that they make the feet of the socks bright golden yellow, red, sky blue. In socks, why does the pretty always begin at the ankles? The Christmas season might be a suitable occasion to pay a small compliment to the most neglected and really most

SITUATION GETTING NO BETTER FAST

A year ago I received your pamphlet It Is Stupid to Suffer from Piles (available to any reader who asks for it in writing omits clipping and provides self addressed stamped envelope). I studied it carefully and began to put into practice the general health suggestions you give in the pamphlet. But, although I have sought diligently for a physician who treats piles by the ambulant method you recommend my efforts so far have proved unavailing. This is discouraging because the condition is getting no better fast.

It is an attitude I have encountered every time I have inquired about the ambulant treatment. An attitude assumed by the physicians in reference to injection treatment, sometimes negative or indifferent, sometimes mocking denial of its effectiveness and sometimes ridicule of my gullibility. Our vilage doctor, lately returned from army service, asserts simpy "It can't be done", with all the emphasis and conviction of youth.

Formerly I tried to maintain my own lists of such physicians to whom I could direct readers who sought ambulant treatment. The war dislocated so many physicians that I had to give up that service.

So far as the ambulant, office, injection treatment of piles is concerned, any good physician who pretends to treat rectal troubles at all, should be competent to treat internal (blind bleeding) piles satisfactorily by this method. If the doctor thinks or, like the village doctor mentioned by the correspondent, asserts that "it can't be done", the doctor has something to learn about the progress of medicine and surgery since he finished studying, that's all.

It may have been easy for some doctors to utter long-eared snorts of denial of effectiveness or to ridicule the gullibility of some of their patients who confessed reading something about injection treatment in some newspaper health column, but doctors who persist in that attitude today are small minded self seeking merchants and not true representatives of American medicine.

Obscure village practitioner or famous clamp and cautery man in the best advertised clinic, the doctor who perpetrates the standard radical operation on the victim of internal piles is my notion of a wrong 'un.

The ambulant (ambulant treatment means the patient under treatment remains at his usual job or activity, keeps walking about, is not confined to bed or hospital), office, injection treatment of internal piles is practically painless, detains the patient only a few minutes once a week or so for an average of three times.

The results are at least equal to the results from radical surgery. The risks involved are insignificant compared with the risks attending the radical operation.

For the life of me I can't understand why an intelligent person should submit to the crude clamp and cautery torture when there are physicians everywhere who are skilled in the ambulant treatment of piles.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

The Right Way to Cook Eggs

Please tell us the right way to cook eggs so they will do you the most good. And will they make you fat? I am very thin and if you know of anything that will help me gain weight, please let me know. (Mrs. S. W.)

Answer—Cook eggs the way you like 'em. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet How to Gain Weight.

Sour Milk

Would like to know if yogourt and buttermilk are the same. (A. S. L.)

Answer—They are virtually the same, in general effect, if not in taste, in my opinion.

Numbers Wizard Solves Complicated Mathematical Problems in Seconds

By CARROLL ARIMOND

Chicago, Nov. 27 (AP).—"What a memory! Bet he never misses on his wedding anniversary."

That's the usual first reaction on seeing Olgo, the mathematical mental wizard, sort through his bag of tricks. But Olga is quick to debunk his own talents.

"Send me for a dozen eggs and a loaf of bread sometime," he says. "I may come back with an egg and a dozen loaves of bread."

Numbers are his forte. Jassinger Olgo has been living off them and his phenomenal faculty for remembering them for a quarter-century. A Czechoslovakian who calls London home, Olgo now is on a United States tour, including dining room engagements at Chicago's Edgewater Beach Hotel and New York's Pierre.

He calls for telephone numbers —no exchange names, please— from his audience. Then he performs various other feats of memory and before bowing off recites a dozen or so of the telephone numbers in the order they were called to him.

How does he do it?

"It's a gift I was born with," he says. "Maybe science will be able to figure it out when I am gone. I've sold my head to the University of Vienna."

Olgo, now a slight, bald man of 45, was one of six children of a Novemesto, Slovakia, farmer. When he was five and one half years old, he watched his father groping with a mathematical problem. Olgo, who had had no schooling, asked his father what he was doing with pencil and paper. His father tried to brush him off.

Knew The Number

"Why do you work so hard at it, papa?" the boy asked. "The number you are trying to find is 1,092."

The father smiled and calculated some more. The number was 1,092. He took the boy in hand and went into the house. "Mama," he said, "we have a crazy son. I am taking him to Vienna to a doctor."

In Vienna the elder Olgo found he had no demented child, but a prodigy. Except for four hours in his teens, Algo has been an entertainer ever since.

"They gave me a job in a bank at three times what older men were earning," he recalls. "I went to work at eight o'clock. I left at noon for lunch and never went back."

Olgo calls for any date over hundreds of years. In a second after it is called out, he snaps out "Friday" or whatever day of the week it might be.

He does that by a mathematical formula with the aid of his memory. He has memorized the day of the week on which Jan. 1 fell over hundreds of years. Given the year, his mind immediately flashes through the formula and comes up with the day of the week.

A chance acquaintance once asked him how long he could remember a set of figures.

WEDDINGS

WIGHT—TAYLOR

Picton, (Special.) — Bloomfield United Church was the scene of an interesting wedding at high noon on Tuesday, Nov. 23, when Rev. Melville Buttars united in marriage Joan Lauretta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Taylor, Bloomfield, and Ross Garfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wight, Wellington.

The bride chose a dress of sapphire blue crepe with rayon lace bodice and peplum which featured a sweetheart neckline. She wore grey accessories and a corsage of pink roses and maidenhair fern.

Miss Patsy St. Peters, Picton, was bridesmaid, wearing a two-piece dress of fuchsia colored moire, with corsage of red roses and fern.

Otto Bowerman, Wellington, was groomsman.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother wore black crepe with gold trim, and the groom's mother was in black and white silk jersey.

Yellow 'mums decorated the dining room, where the table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, with pink candles in silver holders, and pink and white streamers suspended to the corners of the table.

The bride's gift to the groom was a gold wrist watch, to the bridesmaid, a silver bracelet; the bridegroom gave his bride a gold necklace and bracelet with sapphire setting, and to the groomsman, a silver cigarette case.

For travelling to Toronto, the bride donned a navy gabardine suit with gray accessories and rose shortie coat. On their return they will reside in Wellington.

Argyll Chapter Holds Bridge, Tea At Armouries

In the newly decorated Officers' Mess of the Belleville Armouries the Argyll Chapter of the I.O.D.E. held their annual bridge and tea on Thursday. Guests were received by Mrs. J. M. Cousins and Mrs. H. R. Frink.

The tea table was beautifully decorated by Mrs. W. C. Morgan and Mrs. E. O. Keeler, with silver candlesticks holding tall pink tapers, flanking a silver bowl of mauve chrysanthemums. Pouring tea were Mesdames F. H. Wills, T. Y. Wills, E. A. Geen and W. N. Ponton.

The first prize in bridge, a silver bowl, donated by Mr. Ron Keel, was won by Mrs. Clyve Ryan. Second prize was won by Mrs. Jack Spafford, and the consolation prize was awarded Mrs. H. S. Robbins.

Mrs. Bruce Joyce convened the tea and Mrs. N. Wilbur was bridge convener. In charge of the home-cooking table were Mrs. R. Keel and Mrs. J. Porritt; of the candy table, Mrs. Fred Lazier and Mrs. Henry Hall. Mrs. F. M. Sprague was treasurer for the afternoon.

Roslin

Roslin—During the Sunday afternoon service in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Roslin, Linda Jean, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Wilson was baptized.

The Roslin school observed Thursday as a holiday in honor of the new Prince's birth, and also to allow the children to attend the Santa Claus Parade in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Chisholm enjoyed a motor trip to Ottawa on Sunday.

During the Sunday afternoon service in the United Church the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Davidson was christened.

A number from here attended the Santa Claus Parade in Belleville on Thursday.

Presentation to Newlyweds

On Wednesday evening, members of the Roslin Community met in the Parish Hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stirk (nee Elinor Farley), who were married recently. During the early part of the evening, dancing was enjoyed, music being furnished by the Plainfield Orchestra. Later Rev. Mr. Beazer called the gathering to order, and invited Mr. and Mrs. Stirk to take chairs at the front of the hall.

Mr. Harold Hart read an address signed on behalf of the community and the young couple were presented with a purse.

Sam and Elinor very graciously responded, thanking their many friends for the gift and inviting all to visit them in their new home.

A solo "I'll Walk Beside You", was sung by Rev. F. C. Beazer.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

Five Children Are Baptized

West Huntingdon—The service in the United Church, West Huntingdon, on Sunday morning was very impressive and well attended, when five children were baptized by the Rev. Harold Burgess, who gave a fine address on baptism, explaining, "Why We Believe in the Baptism of Infants".

The following children were baptized: Bernard and Barbara Ashley, children of Mr. and Mrs. Ashley; David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Cooke, and Margaret, daughter of Mrs. Floyd Sheffield.

Special music, in keeping with the occasion, was rendered by the choir, and Miss Jean Sheffield who favored with a solo.

Miscellaneous Shower

A miscellaneous shower, in honor of Joyce Wallace, a recent bride, was held on Tuesday evening, the Rev. W. H. Walker performing the duties of chairman.

An enjoyable community sing-song was led by Mr. Reg. Haggerty, followed by a duet by Ruth and Gerald Clancy; solos by Mrs. Milton Shaw, John Haggerty and Mrs. William Grant, and a reading by Mrs. John Insey.

Several addresses were read including one by Mrs. Harold Thompson on behalf of St. Andrew's congregation, with the presentation of the gift of a table cloth by Mrs. Milton Shaw, and one by Mrs. John McInroy, on behalf of the Community when a large array of beautiful gifts was also presented to Joyce, for which she graciously thanked the givers.

Other addresses were given by Elmer Post, Vincent Farrell, Barton Haggerty, and Mrs. Chester Sills. Refreshments were served and a social evening enjoyed by all.

Mrs. J. F. Lane of Wellington, spent Tuesday with Miss Sarah Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ross of Corbyville, attended the service in the United Church, on Sunday morning and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Cooke and supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cooke.

Mrs. Frank Stapley, of Stirling, Mrs. Joe Philips of Belleville, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carr.

Sarah and Arthur Wilson were Sunday evening guests of Mr. William Preston, of Havelock, and later attended the Faith Mission Church where Mr. Wilson was the guest speaker for the evening service.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Sharpe and daughter of Mount Pleasant, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stapley and Donna of Madoc Junction, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Cooke.

Messrs. Morley Haggerty and Philip Carr attended a meeting of the Cheese Producers' Association held in Toronto on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Irvine, Miss Bessie Hollinger, Mrs. W. J. Fitchett and Mr. H. R. Burke, attended the Youth Rally held at Holloway Street United Church, in Belleville, on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ashley were Tuesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Chambers at Oak Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Purdy and Audrey of Latta, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cooke.

Messrs. H. R. Burke, Philip Carr and Arthur Wilson attended the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church, held in Trinity Church, Madoc, on Tuesday.

Special meetings are held this week in the Standard Church, Ivanhoe, and starting on Friday a three day convention will be held.

Mrs. M. Johnston of Belleville, spent a few days recently with Mrs. Sandy McCurdy.

Mrs. D. Utman of Stirling, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Mac Sarles.

FURTHER REMAND GIVEN

Cobourg, Nov. 27 — (CP) — Albert Warren, former police sergeant of Port Hope was given a further remand to Dec. 10 on bail when he appeared in police court today charged with theft of 30 gallons of gasoline from a local taxi firm.

Women's Activities

GIRL GUIDE ACTIVITIES

On Wednesday, Nov. 24, Company 7, held their enrollment ceremony in Christ Church Parish Hall. Captain A. Stewart welcomed to the meeting parents and friends of the Guides, Commissioner Mrs. J. Watson, Divisional Trainer, Mrs. Settle; Brown Owl, Mrs. Samuels of Pack 2; Brown Owl, Mrs. Leech, of Pack 4, and their Brownies. In their Flying Up Ceremony the Brownies said goodbye to Brownies Barbara Keel, Sally Ann Young, Barbara Laughlin and Shirley Stoneburg, who "flew" up to Guides. The girls were then enrolled in the Company by Commissioner Watson. Other girls enrolled were Gail Adams, Dorren Breach, Marilyn Gariepy and Shirley Askey. Joe-Anne Murray was presented with her Second Class badge. At the close of the ceremony Mrs. Watson spoke to the Guides on their promise as Guides. Members of the color party were Elinor and Shirley Terry, Mavis Alexander, Gladys Craig and Nora Simes. A short campfire was held and the meeting closed with the singing of Taps.

In place of their regular meeting on Nov. 10, a bridge and euchre party was sponsored by the company. It was largely attended and prizes were won by Mrs. Heard, Mrs. Y. Bushell, Mrs. B. Laughlin and Mrs. J. W. MacKay for euchre and Mrs. D. Rowe and Mrs. Saunders for bridge. The Guides would like to thank those who donated prizes, Mr. Ronald Keel, Mr. Dan Stewart and Mrs. J. Watson, and all others who helped the Guides make this bridge and euchre a success. The draw on the basket of groceries was won by Miss Elinor Newman.

The Guides also held a rummage sale on Nov. 6.

TWO G. I.'s RUN AMOK

Sappord, Japan, Nov. 26 (AP)—Two American soldiers ran amok in this Northern Japanese city Thursday night, killing two Japanese and injuring five in two hours. Four were in critical condition.

Military police and criminal investigation agents started a widespread search for the unidentified men.

Favored Fur Fashion

By ALICE ALDEN

Beautifully marked, supple furs, light in color and brilliantly styled, have had a big autumn and look forward to a successful spring with a good resort and travel season in between. There's a world of beauty, charm and wearability packed into this fur coatee, designed by Dein-Bacher of the Waldorf. Fashioned of champagne colored Indian broadtail exquisitely marked, it has an overlapping monk's drape, small standing collar and gathered cuff.

THE SANTA CLAUS PARADE AT BELLEVILLE attracted 10,000 spectators, who lined the main street four deep. There were 14 floats and three bands in parade. (McCormick)

COLLEGIATE NEWS

ASSEMBLY

When we start singing Christmas carols in the devotional exercises during assembly, it is a sure sign that our Christmas exams, like enormous doses of castor oil, are ready to be crammed down our throats.

The assembly was presented by G 12 B. George Locke resplendant in his semi-annual haircut, played a piano solo followed by Eleanor Carter on the same instrument. Then the curtains were drawn and the band played the Missouri Waltz; the curtains were opened but the stage was empty. Then it was filled with boys, black faced boys from down south. To prove that the confusion in "Old Shanty Town" had not been his fault, Milan played a piano solo for us, and last but by no means least, Don Dolan rendered his version of "Mammy".

What happened to all the G 12 B girls? They must be bashful souls.

GIRLS' SPORTS

The House-League basketball teams saw their first bit of action this week. On Friday afternoon Katherine Mill's team clashed with Betty Gibson's team. It was a good game with close guarding and ending with a score of 5-0 in favor of Katherine's team. All the players played a good game.

Wednesday at noon, Donna's Sills' team fought a close but winning game against the team of Marie Marinoff. This game was closely contested with free shots deciding the winner. It ended with Donna's team on top with a score of 8-6. Donna Sills, Marie Marinoff and Janette Ashbury played an outstanding game. On Monday afternoon Thelma Ruttan's team meets Betty Gibson's.

A list has been posted on the bulletin board for all girls who wish to enroll in the Officers' Training Corps for cadets.

Miss Markinson has organized a group of six girls to learn the fundamentals of tumbling. After Christmas a tumbling club will be formed and these girls will act as leaders. It is hoped that the girls will be interested and help make this club a success. The girls training to be leaders are, Barbara Rae, Barbara Dix, Barbara Willmott, Francis Thompson, Doris Kerr and Kathleen Clarke.

The Volleyball Jamboree is now a thing of the past. Congratulations to our Junior team who won the championship and to our Senior team who gave such a fine display of volleyball. We congratulate also the Napanee Senior team who won the Senior championship, and our thanks to Miss McCammon of O.S.D., who did such a good job of organizing the jamboree.

"To play sports, be a good sport."

BOYS' SPORTS

Basketball-Seniors Beat Juniors 48-21

Last Wednesday the first basketball game to open the '48-'49 season was played. Both teams played a good game but the Juniors seemed to be lacking the extra punch. The score at half time was 20-7 in favor of the Seniors who added still further to their lead.

The high scorers for the Senior team were Galbraith and Summers with ten points apiece while Faukner led the junior with eight points.

Seniors — Buchanan, Burke, Cameron, Galbraith, Ketcheson, Lepore, MacMillian, Pappas, Rose, Summers, Thompson.

Juniors— Batchelor, Dolan, Dowsett, Ewald, Faulkner, Lazenby, Locke, McCley, Morris, Muirhead, Scrymegaur, Strachan.

CUFF NOTES

Well, Thursday was a great day in the lives of all the little Collegiate kiddies. Finally, after weeks of tingling anticipation, they were able to see dear old Santa. Hundreds of eager students with sparkling eyes lined the streets, jumping up and down in their excitement as they waited to catch a glimpse of beloved Saint Nick. For the oldesters in Grades 12 and 13 who are just a trifle doubtful about there really being a Santa Claus (shame on them) there were other things such as well, er clowns to amuse them. We even noticed several of the girls after the parade wearing the newest in skin preparations—grease paint, very becoming too, we must admit especially worn with a blush as a foundation.

Lil and Pearl won't be seen in public until the new eyebrows and eyelashes (super, duper, extra special long variety) we have ordered, come through. And we didn't get any commission for testing the gas works in the chemistry lab. either.

This week we wish to leave you with a special reminder. The good word for today is "Only 16 more cramming days till the Christmas exams, or, Gee I knew I should have started earlier."

—LIL AND PEARL

Buying Both Accessories

A heavy-bristled bath brush should be part of everyone's personal equipment

By HELEN FOLLETT

What woman can resist fragrant bath accessories? You know the answer. They are no longer in the luxury class; the girls have to have them. Take bath salts, for instance. You may have them in your favorite flower or bouquet scent, in colors to match your bath room, in crystals, in effervescing powders, all in the most fascinating containers. With these at hand, you'll never skip a day. The daily scrubbing is the first law of beautifying. You can tell the scrubbers at a glance. Their complexions have freshness and good coloring.

Soap, of course, should be the best you can buy. You have a wide selection there. If your skin feels sensitive or irritated after your bath, change soaps. There are delightful bath oils to be had that are soothing. In cold weather and with thin hosiery, one's legs are likely to be chapped. Friction them well with an oil. You will find these items carrying the same sweet odor as your bath salts. They make you smell sweet all day long.

BEAUTY

How the hostess should look

Hostess — Fatigue Clouds the Occasion

Many women recall those wonderful days before household help almost disappeared from the face of the earth. Having some friends in for dinner didn't worry them any. A visit to the kitchen, a consultation with the maid, a few minutes at the telephone gabbing with the grocery clerk and the butcher, and that was all. When the guests arrived, hostesses were as fresh as so many daisies, ready to enjoy a meal that had caused them no labor or inconvenience.

Now it is not that simple. The mistress of the home, who may never have read a cook book in her life, is on the job. We observe that she is not doing as much entertaining as she did in the past. But there are times when she must, no geting around it. If she is smart, she will learn to prepare food expertly. Cooking, somebody has said, is one of the seven arts. Certainly many women find delight in preparing and serving an appetizing meal. They also learn how to go about the matter with little confusion and no fuss.

Have you ever been the guest of the flustered woman who looked as if she had boiled her complexion along with the dinner? Or course! And you did not feel comfortable.

It is surprising how differently women go about this task of producing food. One will prepare a feast fit for royalty, a grand culinary display that will make your mouth water at the sight of it, and there she is, as cool and collected as if she had been sewing on a button.

Another one will fuss with a meager meal, get all hot and bothered, look as if she were about to run a temperature. It is all in the method.

If you are new at the commissary job, take your time and work out a system. Get through the messy tasks early in the day. Prepare vegetables in advance. Wash the lettuce and cut the butter square; put them in the refrigerator.

Get out the silver and dishes. Avoid last minute tasks; they are what take the starch out of you and the curl out of your hair.

It is no fun for the guest unless the hostess appears to be having a good time, too. Flavor departs from food when the one who cooks it looks as if she had given her life's blood to prepare it. When she is tired she cannot be her sparkling self.

Her fatigue clouds the occasion. Daddy feels that something is wrong, doesn't carry on as usual. The party is likely to be a grand old flop.

Nice Nutria

By ALICE ALDEN

Nutria, that lush fur, rich with lovely brown highlights, is always in demand, no matter how much the promotional drums may beat for other furs. No wonder, when it is so soft and velvety, and so supple that furriers delight in working it into important coats. B. Weinstein comes through with a true beauty, a border coat of nutria with a tiny rolled collar. Deft handling by the designer gives this extremely full coat a

GOOD MANNERS

Every Giver Should Receive a Thank-You Note

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

The girls in our office would like to have you answer a question for us. It concerns the sending of a joint present, particularly a wedding present. Some of the girls maintain that when four or five of us send a girl a gift, she should write a thank-you note to each one, but that when all of us in the office (about eighteen) contribute toward one gift, it is not necessary for the girl to write individual notes, only one note to be sent to the girl in charge of the office. Just where is the "number-line" drawn...that is, when is a girl expected to thank givers individually and when by one note covering all contributions?

Helen L. M.

Every contributor to a joint gift should receive an individual note of thanks. It is not the number of givers that makes the difference in the thank-you procedure. It is the sense of appreciation of the receiver-of-the-gift. A girl with a proper, well-developed sense of appreciation would have the gracious inclination to write a thank-you note to each one who had been so kind and generous as to contribute toward a gift for her. It doesn't make sense that if four people contribute toward a gift, each is thanked individually, but if 18 people contribute, a "blanket" thank-you note is to be considered ample thanks. The point is that every contribution toward a gift is really an individual gift, and should be thanked for individually thank-you notes doesn't deserve the generous thought and planning and gifts...but she will deserve the criticism she will undoubtedly receive.

Girl's Parents Should Have Honor of Announcing her Engagement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son has just become engaged, and his fiancee would like to have a big party to announce the engagement. We know the girl very well, she has been a guest at our house quite often, we are very fond of her, and we are pleased about the engagement. Because of circumstances in her home, it is not possible for her family to give the engagement announcement party she would like to have, and our son has suggested that we give this announcement party in our home, my husband proposing the toast to make the announcement. I can't think this would be the right thing to do. Would it be proper, Mrs. Beeckman?

Mother

No. It is definitely not proper for you and your husband to give any party that would be called or in any way considered the "engagement announcement" party. The announcing of the engagement is the honor and responsibility of the girl's parents, and neither the girl, your son, nor you should even contemplate taking this honor from them. No engagement-announcement party is necessary...the girl's parents may make the announcement in the simplest possible way, by sending the announcement to the newspaper or by whatever means they prefer. Then after they have made the announcement, it would be entirely proper for you and your husband to give a party to celebrate the engagement. (It's that important difference between announcing th engagement and celebrating the engagement.)

She Can Have Large Formal Church Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am 25 years old, have never been married, and in about four months I am going to marry a man 30 years old, who has been a widower for three years. I would so much like to have a large, formal church wedding, and, so would my fiance. But under these circumstances would this be proper?

She

Yes ..the fact that this is a second marriage for the groom does not mean you can't have just the formal type of wedding you wish to have. That is, since this is your first marriage, you may wear the traditional white wedding dress, bridal veil, and plan all details of your wedding consistent with this formality of your costume.

Two Yale Doctors Report On Study of Natural Birth

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

New Haven, Conn. (AP)—Most women could have their babies with little or no anesthetic, and still not have unbearable pain, a study here finds.

The secret lies in a training program in which banishing fear is a major point. Fears causes tension, and tension "is the chief cause of pain in normal labor."

The report is made by Dr. Frederick W. Goodrich and Dr. Herbert Thoms of Yale University medical school in the American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynacology.

Their work is a clinical study of the ideas and methods of natural childbirth, recommended mainly by a British physician, Dr. Grantly Dick Read. The Yale study started in January 1946 and reports on 156 deliveries.

Slightly more than half of these 156 women did not need any anesthetic help, they said. Another 25 per cent wanted or needed only a single dose of some drug during childbirth. Others needed more and about 17 per cent needed the usual amount of anesthesia.

When asked if they wanted their next babies delivered the same way, nearly 85 per cent of the women said "yes", with no qualifications, the doctors said. This included ten women who had taken the usual amount of drugs. Only nine patients said "no", and all were women who had taken the usual amount of anesthesia.

At the start, the women had the usual ideas about childbirth. Most women, the obstetricians said, are afraid of labor. They have erroneous ideas about childbirth, and often believe "that all labors are a painful and terrifying ordeal."

Fear Causes Tension

This fear, they explained, causes anxiety and tension. The tension and fear can affect certain muscles in the back of the uterus. These muscles must expand or dilate, but the tension makes them tend to contract. This contraction, coming when other muscles in the uterus are contracting as they should, causes pain.

All this pain, except at the very latest stage of the expansion, largely can be avoided by education to eliminate fear, the report declares.

"In most women, such fear can be reduced so that pain and discomfort can be eliminated to a degree that a woman is willing and able to accept.

When they came to the clinic, the women are given the usual care, but they also attend lectures on childbirth. They are told all the facts of childbirth, which is described as a completely natural process. The word "pain" is not used. Nurses and other attendants in the obstetric clinic and ward also are educated in these same "positive" attitudes.

The women are also taught exercises in breathing and position to help in relaxation, and to improve muscles that will be involved. In the eighth month, they attend a lecture explaining what happens in each stage of childbirth.

They are never told that labor will be painless, or that they won't receive an anesthetic. Anesthsia is always given to those who want it or those whom the doctor decides need it. If the educational methods succeed, the women come to the hospital appearing "calm, confident and quite ready to undergo an experience which to them seems to be a natural one."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Jealous Girl is a Poor Risk.

No matter how deeply a person may be in love, he or she had better think a long time before marrying a man or woman who has the very dangerous fault of jealousy. It seems to me particularly hazardous under the circumstances described in a letter from a young man of 19, who is in love with a 24-year-old divorcee.

My own opinion is that a young man of 19, without experience of marriage, would be doing a very risky thing anyway in marrying a young woman five years older than himself with one bad marriage behind her. I think the gap in their ages, plus the great difference in their experience, already adds up to two strikes against the likelihood that their marriage would be a success.

But when he tells me that this girl is a very jealous persons, I would be inclined to say that this is the third strike that should throw the marriage out of consideration permanently.

"This girl is so jealous that she does not want me to associate with girls in any way," he writes, "but on my job I have to work with about twenty-five girls. We do not go out with any other couples, do not go to dances or parties or anything of the sort because of her jealousy. Many people have told me to give her up but my love for her is too deep. She is building her life around me, saying she needs no friends as long as she has me.

"What are the chances of a happy life with this girl? Will our love for each other carry us thru', or would her unfounded jealousy only lead us to ruin? Her first marriage ended in divorce because of a man who was unfaithful from the start and worthless all around. Would that now cause her feelings of distrust and jealousy?

It is possible, of course, that this girl's feelings of distrust are due to having been betrayed by a man she loved and trusted, so that now she is afraid to trust any man. But it seems to me there is also a possibility that her jealousy may have been responsible for alienating her husband.

Even supposing that her marital unhappiness was the couse of this jealousy, the fact that she carries things to such an extreme that she does not even want to go out socially in a normal manner indicates that her viewpoint has become distorted to such an extent that, without a radical change, she would almost certainly wreck a second marriage sooner or later.

Quite obviously this girl needs expert professional help to straighten her out. If this chap has sufficient influence to persuade her to consult a good phychiatrist, the picture might change and become more hopeful. But as things stand now, I think his chances of happy married life with her are very slim.

Fashion Flashes

THE RICH WHISPER of beautiful silk taffeta adds to the evening symphony Bright, cyclamen-pink taffeta fashions a handsome evening frock draped to the back with three small bows and balanced by a forward-jutting, deep neckline.

UP FROM THE COUNTRY into town comes a procession of suede coats, jackets and suits. A good casual town or country coat is a three-quarter length belted model of honey colored antelope with a deep notched collar of nutria.

HANDS OUT to carry one of the handsome evening bags that are such a feature at smart events. A beauty is made with black Chantilly-type lace in skirt effect and caught with a black velvet handle. The lace is posed over an oblong pouchy bag of pale blue satin covered with fine black net.

makes a beautifully draped turban with close drapery swirled to a cone. There is a scroll border of multi-colored sequins.

IT'S NICE, that color twosome of brown and black with a touch of pink in the accessories. We like a snug-fitting dark brown wool suit, the short jacket banded with black braid, which also covers the buttons. With it an all-over shirred blouse of pale pink chiffon and a tiny pink feather cloche.

FEATHERS FLY HIGH just now, but here and there one notes a smartly turned-out woman wearing a small, flower trimmed hat, especially at such occasions as afternoon weddings. Usually these hats are enveloped in rose-tinted, fine silk flowers on net or tulle with tiny matching ribbon bows.

ELEGANT ENSEMBLES are winning favor. A handsome duo is made up of a full-length, fitted coat of black broadcloth lined with moire in orange yellow to match the slim frock of orange woolen.

HEAD-HUGGING HATS that softly frame either side of the face are seen here and there. A good example is a bicorne with trim curved softly down in back and front. It is done in soft shades of gold velours with a sweep of pheasant tails to harmonize.

A BIG INCREASE in the sale of Alaska sealskin coats is reported through the entire country. Youthful and smart is a 36-inch shortie of matara brown Alaska sealskin with a four-flare back, a high collar that curves, petal-like, at elhter side in front, and curved pocket detail.

JUST RETURNED to popularity is caracul, which is to receive a big promotion for next year. Fine black caracul makes a full length coat which has a gracefully inverted back pleat that descends from a pointed yoke. A pointed envelope collar can be worn up at the nape of the neck or drawn around the shoulders.

AN EASY TRICK for budget-minded gals is to invest in a nice velvet beret and then trim it with jet beads or sequin touches for date year.

A NICE ALTERNATIVE to the fur coat, and much dressier for important wear than a woolen coat is a full greatcoat of black velvet, or a trim reefer of same. A lovely greatcoat buttons to a high standing collar and swings wide in back. A handsome reefer fastens with three big black braid frogs.

HEIR TO BARONY

Wellington, N. Z. — (CP)) — Sydney M. Vernon, a local carpenter, has become heir presumptive to the English barony of Lyveden. When Vernon heard that Debrett and Burke's Peerage were searching for an heir, he sent proofs of his descent to England. The whereabouts of the present Lord Lyveden are unknown.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Nov. 27. — (CP) — This is the season when oysters are at their best and amateurs have that job of "oyster-shucking" cut out for them.

Experts at the fisheries department have a few directions for the person who would eat his oyster with a minimum of effort.

One method for getting at this delicious seafood is by opening through the side, wherever an opening may present itself, but preferably just opposite the muscle located about one-quarter to one-third of the length from the broad end. Cut the muscle on the flat upper shell.

A second method is to insert a short knife between the shells at the hinge and break the hinge by prying the two shells apart at this point. The upper shell can then be lifted up and the muscle taken out.

Oyster Soup: Open oysters and empty in a fine strainer placed over a bowl. When all the oysters are opened let them drain for a while longer and sprinkle with a few tablespoons of cold water. Strain the liquid from the oysters through cotton to remove sand and heat, then add oysters which have been washed. Cook until the edges curl and add milk which has been heated. Add piece of butter or thick cream, and salt and pepper. Serve hot. Paprika may be sprinkled on each plate as desired.

Inexpensive and plentiful this year, potatoes are an excellent tonic for an ailing budget.

Home economists of the consumer section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, claim as "unjust" the old criticism that potatoes are "fattening." Cooked in its jacket, the lowly potato provides food elements for which many homemakers pay dearly in other foods.

Potato Biscuit — Ingredients: two cups hot riced potatoes; two tablespoons grated cheese; one teaspoon chopped parsley; two eggs; one cup sifted all-purpose flour (or one cup and two tablespoons sifted pastry flour); two teaspoons baking powder; one teaspoon salt. To the potatoes add grated cheese, chopped parsley, and well-beaten eggs. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Blend thoroughly with first mixture. Shape into rounds like a biscuit and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit)) for 15 to 20 minutes. These biscuits are good served with jam or jelly and require no butter. Yield: 18 two-inch biscuits.

Sweet potatoes are a welcome dish at any dinner-table, particularly when a little care is taken in their preparation.

Marshmallow Sweet Potatoes—Ingredients: large sweet potatoes; three tablespoons sugar; marshmallows. Boil four or five potatoes in the skins until they are so peal them and mash with a for Put in a baking dish and po over them syrup made by meltin three tablespoons butter and thr tablespoons sugar. Bake in a m dium oven until syrup is w cooked into the potatoes. Cov the mixture with marshmallo and place in oven again un marshmallows are browned top. Serve with main course.

East is East and West is West, Today We'll Know Who's Best

Toronto, Nov. 27. (CP)—Calgary's unbeaten Stampeders and Ottawa's rugged Rough Riders collide today in a crash that will be heard all across the Dominion.

More than two tons of muscle will mix in the middle of Varsity Stadium for the Dominion Championship shortly after lunch when Viscount Alexander, the Governor-General, kicks downfield.

Outweighed by the Eastern Champions, Stampeders go into the game as underdogs.

But you can't convince hundreds of flapjack-frying Calgary fans who set this allegedly staid city on its ear Friday.

They'll settle for nothing less than Calgary First Grey Cup.

Both clubs arrived here Friday. Calgary came from the training camp they established 20 miles east of here at Oakville while Ottawa came in by special train from the capital.

Weather forecasts indicated a dry field—possibly with a few soggy spots—for the game. A light rain fell Friday and early today but the Varsity Stadium gridiron dries quickly and it is expected the footing will be good.

The possibility of a dry field boosted hopes of Calgary fans. Coach Les Lear's crew—unbeaten in 15 games this year—will be counting heavily on the passing of quarter-back Keith Spaith and a dry field would give better footing to his ace target, end Woody Strode.

Play West in Mud

Rough Riders have played some of their best games this year in the mud.

Punters who picked the Riders to win pointed out the Ottawa Club was heavier and more experienced than the youthful stamps.

But Coach Wally Masters would make no predictions Friday night.

He said only the Riders were "in as good physical and mental shape as they've been all year".

Toronto sportswriters this week heralded the Stampeders as one of the best-conditioned Western Clubs ever to come east for the Grey Cup classic.

Ottawa will answer Spaith's passing with the heaving of Bob Paffrath while through the line it could well be a duel between Ottawa's Tony Golab and Calgary's Paul Rowe.

But nearly 300 Calgarians who came east with the team nearly stole the show from the players. Cowboy-garbed, they stormed into Union Station early Friday and square-danced their way to their hotel.

Even more of it went on today.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 27. (AP)—Notre Dame's football team is aiming for its 27th consecutive game without a defeat and its 25th straight sell-out today . . . And if the Irish should draw capacity crowds for this afternoon's game against Washington and next week's against Southern California ,they would have a record total attendance of 589,088 this season.

Just a Culp Joint

In a recent football game between Paris, Texas, Junior College and North Texas Aggies, the Aggie safety man gathered in a punt and headed downfield . . . a few yards down, an Aggie blocker was detected clipping and the REF tossed his red flag to mark the infraction . . . Five yards further another Aggie clipped another Paris player and the same official dropped his cap to mark the spot . . . Another five yards and there was another clipping case—and this time the official dropped the towel he had been using to wipe the wet ball. . . . Dang good thing for the Ref's modesty, we'd say, that there wasn't a fourth infraction of the rules.

59 Goals Sniped In Six Games Of O.H.A. Race

(By The Canadian Press)

It's a question of who was off—or on—the beam last night—a total of 59 goals were sniped in six games of the Ontario Hockey Association.

A backdrop of netminders' nightmares was the 62 assists given out—a grand total of 121 points.

The only netminder to frustrate the goal-seekers was versatile Howie Harvey, who chalked up his third shutout of the season as Toronto Marlboros downed Stratford Indians 5-0 in their O.H.A. tilt. Hamilton Tigers strengthened their second-place hold in the senior race by defeating Owen Sound Mercurys 8-1.

In the junior loop, the third-place Barrie Flyers bested the cellar-dwelling Toronto Marlboros 12-3 while St. Catharines Teepees jumped into a first place tie by downing Oshawa Generals 7-5. Guelph Biltmores defeated Galt Rockets 5-4 and Stratford Kroehlers beat Windsor Spitfires 5-4 in other junior games.

Marlies led 1-0 at the end of the first period, and forged into a 5-0 margin in the second.

Johnny McCormick notched the first Toronto goal early in the first frame. Ray Hannigan garnered two second-period markers and Alex Davidson and Al Buchanan one apiece. The win puts Marlies in third place three points behind Kitchener, who have 20.

Hamilton grabbed four goals in the first period and four in the second against Owen Sound. Mercurys only marker came in the second when Jack Ingoldsby scored on a goal-mouth scramble.

Johnny Conick led Hamilton scorers with three goals. Carl Smelle with two, and Polly Miocinovich, Tom Smelle and Comfort with singletons were other Bengal snipers.

Take Two-Goal Lead

Barrie took a two-goal lead in the first period, made it 7-2 in the second and added five more in the third while Marlies added one. Flyers' Wags McArthur, playing his first junior game since promotion from juvenile ranks recently, scored two goals and assisted on three others. Fleet Sid McNabney equalled McArthur's point total with three counters and two assists.

Murray Grenke, Bob Hasard and Larry Regan tallied for Marlies.

Guelph spotted Galt four goals in the first two frames and then drove back with five counters for their win.

Pete Tkachuk with two, Boychoff and Hal Hopper with one apiece counted for Galt. Two goals apiece for Ron Plumb and Don Oberholtzer and a singleton for Don Mellringer accounted for Guelph's total.

After holding a slim 1-0 margin in the first stanza, St. Catharines went ahead 4-1 in the second and held out in a goal-wild third.

Suffers Spinal Injury

Jack McIntyre was reported suffering a spinal injury when he crashed into the Oshawa nets early in the first period. He returned late in the final frame after a checkup. Wayne Brown led St. Catharines scorers with two.

Stratford handed Windsor their third loss of the season, as they took a two goal lead in the first and a 3-2 margin in the second.

Pierre Cadieux led Stratford scorers with a three-goal display. Bibber O'Hear and Bob Houston each counted once for the winners. Bruce Giesbrecht scored two for Windsor while brother Bert and Wilson notched singletons.

Toronto Marlboros meet Stratford Indians and Hamilton clash with Owen Sound on tonight's senior card.

In the junior division, Barrie Flyers meet Toronto Marlboros, Startford plays Windsor, Guelph has a return match with Galt and St. Catharines meets Oshawa.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Those of you football fans who could not secure tickets for the Calgary-Ottawa pigskin classic in Toronto today, can see what should be an epic of the gridiron at Cobourg this afternoon. The Galloping Ghosts of that town, who won the Ontario intermediate title last week at London clash with the Montreal Rocklands, intermediate champions of Quebec in a sudden death game. The winners will be dubbed Eastern Canada champions. Ghosts have established an enviable record this year having defeated the best intermediate teams the province can produce. Rocklands are an unknown quantity, but being champions, naturally will not assume the role of pushovers. It should be a tidy tussle and if you hustle you can see the best part of the game. Kickoff at 1.45.

Meanwhile the Canadian football twain meets in Toronto this afternoon in what is mooted to be one of the most colorful gatherings of all pigskin time. The Calgary Stampeders are in town with all the range-riding glory of the west with cowboy hats, chaps, chuck-wagons and everything but a good sized hunk of prairie. 'Tis said, too, that they brought plenty of that green lettuce with which they will back their bucking football bronchos, and no doubt a plentiful supply of Bytown bucks will be on hand to accommodate the foothills fusiliers.

Along the hockey rialtos, the Rockets juniors and CNR Diesels are readying themselves for that important fray here on Tuesday night when the teams clash in their only meeting of the league schedule. Diesels are doing their roadwork as section hands and can be seen galloping along the tracks towing freight cars to get in condition. Rockets have been practising faithfully and Coach McNaught has been sending his charges through some strenuous activities. The game is heralded as the pick of the season and a sell-out crowd is expected to view the battle.

Cobourg and Napanee clash in the second tilt and as both squads are in the winless column, the game should be one for the book. Napanee extended the fast-travelling Trenton Hockey Club to the limit the other night and are rapidly rounding into form. On the other hand, Cobourg will probably ice three or four players who have yet to go into hockey action having been busy playing football with the champion Ghosts of that town. They will add considerable strength to a pluck team which has lost its first three starts but gives all it has got in an effort to snatch a win. There should be plenty of excitement when these teams meet.

• • •

The story of the life of Lewis "Hack" Wilson, former home-run record holder in the National League who died at the age of 48 on Tuesday is another saga of from "riches to comparative rags". At one time commanding a salary of $31,000, he worked as a laborer after a swift descent from the baseball heights, but made some headway and last summer was made manager of a park swimming pool in Baltimore.

• • •

Wilson was with the Chicago Cubs when he hit 56 home runs to lead both major leagues in that department. It was in 1930 that he attained his peak, and batted in a total of 190 runs that season to establish a record that still stands for both major circuits.

• • •

Hack started his baseball career at the age of 21 with Martinsburg of the Blue Ridge League. Staying there until 1923 he went with Portsmouth of the Virginia League. That year he broke into the majors with the New York Giants.

• • •

One story about Wilson is to the effect that when he went to the Giants the late John J. McGraw kept him on the bench for several weeks. In those days the Giants wore white uniforms while the bench-warmers wore grey. On the day McGraw put Wilson on the line-up there was no white uniform to fit the bottle-shaped Wilson.

• • •

"There's a white uniform around here some where that will fit you," McGraw told Wilson, "But don't disgrace it. A good ball player once wore it."

"Who?" asked Wilson

"Me," replied McGraw.

"Well," said Wilson, "another good ball player is going to wear it now."

And he went out there and doubled on his first trip to the plate.

Wilson's rise under McGraw with the Giants was spectacular, But his decline in 1931 was more swift than his rise. Drafted to the Chicago Cubs he played with that club from 1926 to 1931. In December of that year he was sent to the St. Louis Cardinals in a trade. Frequent clashes with Rogers Hornsby, Cub manager in 1931 and repeated benching for ineffective hitting played a part in his transfer to the Cards.

• • •

He gradually slipped down the baseball ladder until in 1935 he was purchased by the Portland Club from the Albany Senators. Only five feet six inches in height he carried 200 pounds when in training but often played ball when he tipped the scales at 240. He played in two worlds series, once with the Giants in 1924 when they lost out to the Washington Senators and with the Cubs in 1929 when that club was beaten by Philadelphia.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP)—The whistle blows and there's the kickoff. The game is on. Calgary Stampeders, western Canada's football kings, and Ottawa Rough Riders, the eastern Canada champions, clash for the Grey Cup and the Canadian title.

At the top of the stands in the press-box and scattered throughout packed Varsity Stadium, the experts—the sports writers — sit back, cross their fingers and hope that they predicted the right winner.

For those sports writers who were wrong, the torture comes Monday when the fans and their friends give them that "I told you so" look. But there are always some ready to bare their necks for the ax.

Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle operated his personal poll and came up with a 9-2 count for Ottawa. Lionel Concher, football's "big train" of yesteryear, who watchboth teams play this season, was on the Stampeders side of the fence in Andy's poll.

A lonely westerner on the Star sports staff chose the Stamps against his nine fellow opponents who picked Rough Riders.

Park's Method

Jack (London Free Press) Parks has his pet method for picking his winner that might give him the last laugh at a large proportion of the Ontario sportswriters.

"...we are calling Calgary to win the east-west final—mainly because we saw Fritz Hanson's picture in a Calgary uniform the other day," writes Jack.

He didn't amplify his selection method but in the picture the tricky backfielder looked as spry as he did 13 years ago when he helped Winnipeg Blue Bombers take the Grey Cup west for the first time.

L'il Arthur King Wins Decision Over Chester Rico

New York, Nov. 27 — (CP) — L'il Arthur King of Toronto, Canadian and British Empire lightweight champion, last night won a unanimous 10-round decision here over rugged Chester Rico of New York.

The flashy Canadian, weighing 136 1/4, was the aggressor all the way, alternating sharp left jabs to the head with jolting rights to the body.

King was unable to score a knockdown, but he so completely outclassed his opponent with his speed and a fine assortment of punches that Rico did not win a single round on the score - card of any official. Rico weighed 140 1/2.

Judges Harold Barnes and Frank Forbes scored it 10-0. Referee Ruby Goldstein had it 9 rounds for King and one even.

The Toronto lightweight made his New York debut a rousing success. A crowd of 2,247 paid $5,943 to see the fight. It was King's second fight in the United States. Two weeks ago he stopped Nat Harden in the second round at Philadelphia. He won the Canadian lightweight championship less than a year ago by beating Danny Webb, and annexed the British Empire crown last Oct. 1 by knocking out Billy Thompson in the seventh round at Manchester, England.

In the dressing room after last night's fight, L'il Arthur was quiet but obviously happy.

"I was anxious to win," he said, fearing he had not shown his best form. But his manager, Bennie Palermo, was pleased with his showing and said he fought a fine fight.

Ike Williams, world lightweight champion, who also is managed by Palermo, concurred. Williams heartily approved of King when he first saw him in the gym, Palermo said, and thinks he will be "a great fighter in another year."

Although King is eager to move up the lightweight ladder — he is rated 10th among lightweights internationally — manager Palermo insists on taking things easy. He said King will defend his Canadian and Empire titles soon. A return engagement with Thompson is being considered. He will also have a number of fights in Canadian and United States cities but Palermo says he is against lining up too many dates in advance.

Still Anybody's Season As National Hockey League Quarter Way Thru Schedule

(By The Canadian Press)

They'll be quarter of the way through the 1948-49 National Hockey League schedule at the end of tonight's three-games. But there still isn't much indication of who's going to take the marbles next March.

So far Boston Bruins, Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings have been bunched tightly ahead of the pack. But the trailing Toronto, New York and Chicago clubs can all present a lot of reasons for their cellar showings.

Boston plays at Montreal tonight with New York at Toronto and Chicago at Detroit. The Red Wings and Black Hawks rush back to Detroit for a Sunday game while Maple Leafs go down to Boston. If Bruins lose one of their weekend games and Detroit scores two wins over the ailing Hawks, first place in the league will be tied up come Monday morning.

Dit Clapper's Bruins now are a scant two points ahead with Montreal and Detroit tied for second place with 16 apiece. Three points back are the Leafs while Chicago has 11 and Rangers 10.

Work Out in Montreal

Bruins worked out in Montreal Friday but without their star centre Milt Schmidt or rearguard Jack Crawford. Both may miss tonight's game.

Schmidt received a rib injury in Detroit Wednesday night when he was put into the boards by Marty Pavelich as Bruins took the Red Wings 5-3. It has not been determined whether he suffered brokn ribs but the injury is reported to be troubling him.

Crawford was injured in Toronto a week ago when he was struck on the ankle by the puck. He has not been on skates since.

Rangers attribute their dismal showing this year to a host of injuries—the most serious a preseason automobile accident which involved six Rangers and still keeps star centre Buddy O'Connor off the ice.

Leafs had a flock of rookies to break into the machine that won two straight Stanley Cups. In an attempt to boost the flagging champions, Manager Con Smythe has equipped them with six defencemen.

McGill Defeats Queen's by 6-4 In Rough Game

Montreal, Nov. 27 — (CP) — Reg Sinclair and Phil Henry fired two goals apiece Friday night to lead McGill University Redmen to a 6-4 victory over Queen's University in a Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League game before 5,000 forum fans.

The win boosted the Redmen into a first place tie with University of Montreal Carabins. Each has won one game. McGill lost the league opener last weekend 4-3 to U. of M. Varsity has yet to play their first game.

Bill Parsons and Tommy Hale bagged the other McGill marker, while Don Murray, Harry Hamilton, Eddie Bolton and Gerry Mercier tallied for the Gaels.

The first period was closely fought with Queen's outshooting the Redmen. Red Sinclair drew first blood when he beat Norm Urie on a drive at the 19.26 mark on a plan with linemates Ray Sanderson and Tommy Hale.

Officials Ken Mullins and Red Storey kept a close check on the play, dishing out five penalties, three to McGill and two to Queens.

Queens started off with a rush in the second frame as their plays began to click. Jack Gilineau was called on to make several sensational saves in the McGill net, turning aside hot drives from the attacking Gaels.

Queen's tied it up at the 7.35 mark when Don Murray whipped one by Gilineau on a pass from Chuck Hews. A little more than a minute later, Harry Hamilton sent the tricolor into the lead on a scoring play with Ronny Kemp and Ken Potts.

Start Slashing Bee

A minor fracas developed around the Queen's net in the second period when goalie Norm Urie and Dave Hackett, McGill winger, started a slashing bee just outside the goal crease. Both were given two-minute interference penalties and Fred Hamilton was sent in to serve for Urie.

Hackett no sooner stepped back on the ice when he tangled with Eddie Bolton in a fist-swinging brawl that earned them both majors.

Hale and Parsons tallied for the Redmen and Bolton and Mercier for Queen's in the middle frame to give the Gaels a one-goal lead at the end of the second period.

Play see-sawed in the early stages of the final period until Phil Henry tied it up at the 9.49 minute mark. McGill had the best of the play during the remaining minutes, banging in two more goals by Henry and Sinclair.

Sinclair got the last goal with one second remaining after Urie had been pulled from the Queen's net in favor of a fourth forward as McGill was a man short with Atkinson in the penalty box. Sinclair took the puck through a maze of players and steered it into the empty net despite efforts of the Gaels to cover.

TRIED TO BREAK JAIL

Port Hope, Nov. 27 — (CP) — Two prisoners held here on charges of automobile theft, John Clarke, 19, of Kingston and Douglas Wise, 19, of Brantford, tried unsuccessfully Thursday night to escape from jail.

Chief Constable W. Graham said the pair had been locked in the "bull pen" on the upper floor. During the night, they ripped out some wash basin piping and used it to tear a hole in the wooden floor. They dropped into a cell below but were unable to open its window.

Badminton Team From India Ready To Play Series

(By The Canadian Press)

India's Thomas Cup badminton team arrived in Toronto Friday and one of their first moves was a trip to Toronto's Carlton Club —scene of their first round cup match against Canada's team Dec. 3-4. Team captain George Lewis wasn't over confident that his players would have an easy time beating the Canadians; "Our chances are 50-50."

Lewis confirmed that the team had cut short its stay in Montreal because the Canadian Badminton Association had refused them permission in an invitation match there this weekend.

"We had no other alternative" he said. "Since we are having the International match in Toronto, it would not have been fair to play. If we had lost it would have affected our game in Toronto."

Rocky Graziano, has been suspended indefinitely from boxing in California, Joe Genshlea, secretary of the State Boxing Commission said in Sacramento, Calif., Friday. Genshlea said the commission took action as the result of Graziano's "running out" on a fight Dec. 1 in Oakland with Fred Apostoli.

The commission also asked the National Boxing Commission to bar Graziano from fighting anywhere in the United States.

Chilean boxers are learning to keep their guard up as a result of what their team learned at the Olympic games in London.

In Chile, as in other Latin American countries, it has been the gentlemanly custom to shake hands at the start of the fight and sometimes at the start of each round. Those who came back from London reported the boxers there came out swinging at the first gong.

Solunar Tables:

Duck Shooting and the Solunar Periods

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

Down on the eastern shore of Maryland there is a duck shooting club that has a rather strange routine that has been developed over a period of years. On some mornings the members will arise well before dawn, grab a hurried breakfast, and hurry to the blinds so that the decoys will be set and all will be in readiness well before the legal shooting deadline. That, of course, is normal procedure at any ducking club.

On other mornings, however, they take their full night's sleep, arise for a leisurely breakfast, and take their time about getting out to the blinds. That most certainly is abnormal procedure. However there is a very definite reason for this leisurely style of behavior.

Stay Out of Gunshot

Chesapeake Bay shooting is, for the most part, at water ducks. The Greater Scaup or Blackhead or Broadbill—call him what you will—makes up the bulk of the shooting. These birds, as you know if you have ever shot them, spend a great deal of their time in huge "ricks" or "rafts" well offshore. I have seen them by the tens of thousands drifting about a mile or so offshore, with no thought of moving, while we sat and froze our extremities in the blind, waiting for birds to come to our decoys. There are two things which will put them in motion, however (barring, of course the passage of boats). Those things are storms or heavy weather and the arrival of a major Solunar Period.

The members of the ducking club have learned that these things are true. To be sure, they had to learn it the hard way, freezing themselves day after day while they waited in the blinds, but they know it now and they put this knowledge to good use. Thus, if the weather man promises fair weather and there is no major Solunar Period scheduled for daybreak, the wise ones stay in bed, have a pleasant breakfast, and plan their trips to the blinds so that they will be ready when the scheduled activity period arrives.

Cites Good Example

We were shooting one day in Chesapeake Bay when this very phenomenon was shown in a most conclusive manner. The day was warm and windless—a bluebird day if I ever saw one. We sat there hour after hour, watching the huge rafts of Broadbill sunning themselves about a mile offshore. At last my companions grew restive and one of them suggested a trip to the village store to break the monotony. I tried to reason with them, warning them that they would miss some shooting if they left the blind, but they went anyway, leaving me alone in the blind.

Shortly after their departure the major Solunar Period for that day arrived. At once the ducks offshore grew restive. Small bunches of five and ten broke away from the rafts and moved in shore to feed. The first thing I knew, my gun was too hot to handle. When my friends returned an hour or so later, they found a limit kill of Broadbill floating on the water to be picked up. Fortunately they returned while the birds were still moving and they, too, had some shooting.

Lack of Caution

One of the things that was brought home to me quite strongly that day was the lack of caution the ducks displayed when they came to our decoys. Usually a flock of Broadbill will circle once or twice before deciding to pitch in. That day there was no circling. They came barging right in, wings set and feet extended, evidently delighted to find company. This lack of caution is shown by all wild-life during the Solunar Periods but I have never seen a more complete reaction than the ducks showed that day.

Many Canadians Go Gunning For Rich Awards

Chicago, Nov. 27 — (CP) — A prize-hungry band of Canadians Friday invaded this mid-western American fair capital and went gunning for some of the richest awards in world agriculture.

Coming from five Canadian provinces by rail and car, they brought some of Canada's finest livestock, grains and hays for today's opening of the famed International Livestock Exposition and hay and grain show. The agricultural show carries with it $100,000 in prizes.

Many came to Chicago directly from the recent Royal Ontario Fair in Toronto, bringing with them prizeworthy exhibits which will rank beside some of the finest produce of United States agriculture.

Canada's big stake in the fair is in grains. Exhibitors kept an eye on samples submitted by S. J. Allsop of Red Deer, Alta., the 1947 Chicago wheat king who came here fresh from winning the world wheat championship at the Ontario Royal last week, and Mrs. Grace Kelsey, the dainty Erickson, B. C., farm housewife, who won the Chicago title in 1946.

American stockmen and grain growers have learned to respect the Canadians for they often walk off with top honors. Last year, for example, Canada won 11 championship and 30 first-place awards. Canadians have taken the wheat championship every year since 1929.

Draws 500,000 Entrants

The big show, which draw 500,000 entrants and visitors from all parts of the United States, takes place in the lofty Amphitheatre at the Chicago stockyards,, with a seating capacity of more than 7,000.

Canadian wheat entries included samples from S. E. Griffin and Son, Acton, Ont.; W. L. Ross, Cobden, Ont.; and Charles A. Binnister and Son, Ailsa Craig. Ont.

Oats varieties came from Bob Wanless, Brampton, Ont.; Roy Wingrove, Guelph; and Gordon McArthur, Stayner, Ont. Barley samples were entered by David Barr, of Renfrew, Ont.; G. G. Nichols, Blenheim, Ont., and M. E. Hooper and Son, St. Marys, Ont.

There were scattered Canadian entries in other grain and hay classes.

Dominion exhibitors also entered $1,000,000 worth of livestock, including potential prize winners among sheep, cattle and horses. The show for Short-horn cattle attracted entries from Beath Farms, Oshawa; Grant Campbell, Moffat, Ont., T. G. Hamilton, Innis Falls, Ont.; A. C. McDermott, Goodwood, Ont.

Thrill to Sound Of Toppling Pins

Edmonton, (CP) —The thrill of seeing the five-pins scatter for a strike isn't the only thrill in bowling, say members of one Edmonton league who have never seen a strike.

The big kick for them is in hearing the pins scatter. They are blind.

These bowlers, whose averages range from about 130 to 250, take over four Edmonton alleys every Saturday night. There are 25 of them, all accredited members of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, and they have regular competition with similar clubs in Vancouver, Calgary and Winnipeg.

Scores are telegraphed each week to the various clubs and prizes are awarded at the end of the season.

Aided by Railing

Four railings are specially constructed for use of the blind bowlers—their only "sight" and their method of aiming.

"We select any ordinary ball from the rack, then feel out the rail and take our bearings," said Norman Gale, chairman of the recreation centre of the Edmonton club for the blind. "After some practice we know where the centre of the alley is, relative to the railings."

The railing ends at the foul line, letting the bowlers know when to release the ball. Only assistance needed is that of "sighted" scorekeepers who tell what pins are knocked down and whether the ball went to the right or left of centre.

The club, which started in 1937, looks forward to the day when electrical apparatus will enable bowlers to know which pins have been knocked down.

SHOT FOUR BEARS

Anson, Me., Nov. 26 — (AP)— These are the "bear" facts about Asa Duley's marksmanship.

Duley went hunting. He saw a bear's head pop up from behind some brush. He fired. Cautiously, Duley waited. Then a head appeared again. Duley fired twice. The head disappeared. Soon a head showed again. Duley fired some more. For a fourth time he saw a head.

In all, Duley fired eight shots. Then he investigated. He found four bears — a 300-pound mother and three cubs.

The hunter is $60 richer. There is a $15 bounty on bears.

Veteran Holds Winning Ticket For New Motor Car

Bancroft—J. C. "Clarence" Adams, World War II veteran, Detlor, is today the proud owner of a new 1948 Chevrolet coach won at the Lion's Club well-attended party at the Bancroft Community Hall Friday night.

The winning ticket was drawn from a large barrel which revolved on a motor-driven axis during the evening's entertainment. The motor was shut off at midnight and P. A. Kellar, Reeve of Bancroft, R. T. Adams, Reeve of Dungannon and J. H. Davis, Reeve of Monteagle and Herschel, were appointed to draw the ticket. To leave everything to chance, Reeve Adams and Reeve Davis tossed a coin to decide who would draw the ticket. Reeve Adams won the toss and rolled up his sleeves and plunged his arm deep into the well-filled barrel while he was blindfolded.

When the winning ticket was drawn it was handed to Reeve Kellar who announced the winner. An interesting sidelight on the winner is that he had recently purchased a 1949 Ford Sedan, and now found himself with two new cars on his hands.

It is an ill wind that blows no one any good, however, Adams is in the taxi business in Detlor and will, no doubt, find his prize a useful addition to his business. The winning ticket was purchased at the Madoc Fair earlier in the fall.

Proceeds of the project will go to the Lion's Club sponsored skating rink in Bancroft.

BUCK FOUND DYING FROM .22 CALIBRE WOUND

Port Colborne, Nov. 27 (CP)— A large buck shot with a .22 calibre rifle was found dying on the shore of Lake Erie two miles east of here Friday. A game warden was called and dispatched the animal. The venison is being prepared for patients at Welland County's home for the aged.

CALLS HOME FROM VANCOUVER

Brantford, Nov. 27 (CP)—Harold Webber, 42-year-old Christmas card salesman who had been missing for a week, telephoned his wife from Vancouver Friday and told her he didn't know how he got there.

He said he would arrive home Tuesday and "explain everything when he got home," his wife said.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Chances you take in bridge play depend on what you can afford to lose. Or on the relative gain. Or on what little hope there may be by any other attempt that seems safer.

In a seemingly hopless contract, try something that may look improbable. In a contract that you cannot lose, try something that may produce extra tricks.

We have been talking about this deal:

NORTH
♠9 5
♥K 9 8
♦A K 9
♣J 10 8 7 3

WEST
♠Q 7
♥Q 7 5 2
♦Q 10 5
♣K 9 6 2

EAST
♠8 6 2
♥J 6 4 3
♦8 7 6 2
♣A 4

SOUTH
♠A K J 10 4 3
♥A 10
♦J 4 3
♣Q 5

South was the declarer in a contract of four spades. At first it looks as if he may lose a trump, a diamond, and two clubs. But he pulled in 12 tricks when opening lead from west was heart deuce.

To the first trick dummy played the eightspot and east put on the jack. South won this with heart ace. The deuce lead indicated a fourth best. It is assumed that west has the other unseen face.

So, south led back heart ten. When west did not cover, it held with dummy nine thrown on it. This meant the contract was safe even with a trump and a diamond loser.

Declarer cashed ace and king of trumps. When west queen fell, chances of losing two clubs and a diamond could be taken. Another trump round and south led diamond jack with intention to finesse.

West, however, covered with the queen and dummy king won. On heart king was sluffed a south club. A club from dummy was led and lost. Return of a club was ruffed in south.

A small south diamond was then led. When south did not play the ten, dummy successfully finessed the nine. Diamond ace and two south trumps took the last three tricks. Only a club was given away.

When will an experienced player gamble for extra tricks? Only when his contract is not jeopardized. Palookas in trances take ill-advised chances.

TheMovieColumn

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 27. (AP)—Ray Evans, and Jay Livingston continued to grind out hit songs. Their latest: "Buttons and Bows".

These boys probably are the only successful song writers with steady jobs. They are employed by Paramount to whip up incidental songs for pictures and also tunes to exploit film titles.

"Of course, our royalties on 'To Each His Own' were more than our salaries for two and a half years at Paramount; but the security is nice to have," remarked Ray—or was it Jay.

My confusion over their names still prevails. Each of them wears Robert Walker—style glasses, has thinning sandy hair, is 33 and attended the University of Pennsylvania. One is taller, but don't ask me which one.

"We've been pretty lucky", added Ray (or Jay). "Out of the five tunes of ours that have been plugged, three have been hits. Irving Berlin says if he hits one out of every five, he's lucky."

The team's golden threesome have been "To Each His Own", which clocked up twenty weeks on the Hit Parade; "Golden Earrings", which lasted nine; and "Buttons and Bows", which last week hit its fifth on the Parade and its third in the No. 1 spot. It is threatened only by "Slow Boat to China", written by Frank Loesser, whose office is below that of Livingston and Evans.

"B. and B.", like all Livingston-Evans tunes, was a product of necessity, not inspiration. A song was needed for a sequence in which Bob Hope serenaded Jane Russell in "The Paleface". The song was to be a switch on the western theme, with ski-nose yearning for the comforts of eastern living. The two song writers were ordered to grind it out.

Holing up in their cubicle, the boys went to work. Their first product was the latter part of the song. Then they came up with the idea of calling it "Buttons and Bows".

"It doesn't mean anything", they explain, 'but it's alliterative and it sounds like the idea we wanted to put over."

"Light up the Sky" Pokes Sly Fun At Some Better Known New Yorkers

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Nov. 27 (CP). — Broadway laughs at itself this week, in Moss Hart's "Light Up the Sky" at the Royale Theatre.

The stage is peopled with folk supposed to be in show business. And it's not too difficult to guess their real-life prototypes.

You can hear the audience whisper: "Sammy Levene, playing the financial wizard, is a take-off on Billy Rose. . . . I'll bet Audrey Christie, as his wife, is Eleanor Holm. . . . Do you think Virginia Field, as the temperamental leading lady, is supposed to be Gertrude Lawrence?"

But even for theatre-goers who aren't "hep" to the Broadway gossip, "Light Up the Sky" is good fun, with a change of pace that neatly switched the tempo from slapstick to serious drama in a couple of lines.

Welcome "Goodbye"

Assured of a long run, Madeleine Carroll's first play in North America was welcomed by critics and audiences alike. "Goodbye, My Fancy", a witty work concerning a Liberal Congresswoman who returns to her Alma Mater—and her first lover—for a visit, has loads of laughs and is acted with polish that hasn't been seen on Broadway for some time.

After a premiere in London, Ont., "Goodbye" opened its box office at the Morosco Theatre for sales several months in advance on the strength of unanimously good reviews.

The male leads, Conrad Nagel as president of the University and Sam Wanamaker as a magazine photographer, are capably played.

Pack of Trouble

A bunch of young hellions cause a pack of trouble in "The Young and Fair", a melodrama with a girls' school setting which opened this week at the Fulton. Author Richard Nash has dished up a weird Portmanteau plot that tackles such major problems as the power of wealth, intolerance, and the question of truth and ideals vs. chicanery and compromise.

The weakness of "The Young and Fair" is chiefly that it leaves unsolved most of the problems it tackles.

Curtain Call

"For Heaven's Sake, Mother!" billed as a comedy, bowed in at the Belasco and bowed out again four nights later. It turned out to be a soap-opera type of production involving an actress who finds she is becoming a mother and a grandmother simultaneously. A saving feature was the lively acting of Molly Pigon. Julue Berns wrote and staged the play.

Labor Council Asks Clemency For CSU Members

The following telegram was sent to Mr. Joseph Jean, Solicitor General of Canada following Friday night's meeting of the Belleville and District Trades and Labor Council which was addressed by Mr. Dewar Ferguson, National Board member of the Canadian Seamen's Union.

The Belleville and District Trades and Labor Council representing A.F. of L and CCL unions in this district respectively petition you to use your good office to grant remand of sentence to the members of the Canadian Seamen's union now in jail on charges arising out of their participation in the legal strike of the seamen to protect their union. We urge you to grant such remand so that these young men can spend Christmas with their families in the manner in which all good Canadian citizens should be able to enjoy the holiday season.

(Signed) Tom Rees, President Belleville and District Trades and Labor Council.

Mr. Ferguson pointed out that the more than sixty young sailors who were in jail, charged under the Canadian Seamen's Shipping Act because they had participated in a legal strike called by their union after all the legally required steps of conciliation had been carried through by the union, and after a government conducted vote had shown that over 90 per cent of the seamen wanted the Canadian Seamen's Union as their bargaining agent. Mr. Ferguson said the companies against which the CSU was striking, the Sarnia and Colonial Steamship Lines and the Canadian Steamships Lines, had violated the existing labor laws.

The Belleville Labor Council went on record in support of the CSU. Petitions asking for the release of the seamen were accepted by all the unions represented to be circulated among the local members and their friends and the delegates were instructed to request their local unions send wires to the Solicitor General asking remand of the sentences against the Canadian seamen so they could be home for Christmas.

Ted Follwell Will Not Seek Aldermanic Seat

After four years as a member of the city council, Alderman E. E. Follwell, local solicitor, is retiring temporarily from public life and will not seek re-election during the forthcoming municipal elections. Pressure of business was given as the reason for retirement.

"I have enjoyed serving the city as a member of council, despite the fact that I have not always been in agreement with the majority," stated Mr. Follwell in announcing his retirement. "However, I have always tried to work for what I considered were the best interests of the citizens."

Mr. Follwell went on to say that he would still retain his interest in municipal affairs and that he would be glad to be of assistance in any way possible. He hoped his retirement from public service would not be permanent.

In addition to Mr. Follwell's four years' service in council, he also acted as member of the Board of Education for a two-year term.

Little Benny's Note

Pop and ma went to the theater last night on account of ma buying the tickits a long while ago and keeping on reminding pop what date it was going to be, and this morning at breakfist I said, How was the play, ma? What was it about, pop?

Oh, about a fellow and a gerl [illegible] couldn't make out what each [illegible] was talking about, which naturelly led to a certain amount of confusion before the evening was over, pop said; and I said, Were they married?

Well, not quite, I mean not yet, pop said, and I said, Do you mean they didn't get married till the last act?

said, Do you know, William, I've been thinking about thta play. I even woke up last night thinking about it, she said.

I appricate your thawtfulness in not waking me up to help you think, pop said, and ma said, I'm convinced that Mark wasn't justified in giving up Edna for Justine just because Edna didn't have the courage to confess her mistake to

Well, it's too late now, pop said. The last act is over, and they'll be starting the same thing all over again tonight, he said, and ma said, That's just it. If they were people on the air, in a radio program, I could write to them, but I cant write to people on the stage, she said.

I fail to seize distinction, pop said, and ma said, Well obviously, people in a daytime radio show change their manners and morals, but people on the stage repeet the exact same mistakes night after change if they wanted to, so why should I bother to write?

Pop claiming he didn't know any reason?

Sanctuary Within Algonquin Park Gives Opportunity to Study Wild Life

Written for The Canadian Press
by PERCY GHENT

The wilderness area of Ontario's Algonquin Park is a wild life sanctuary within a sanctuary. In this vast, outdoor laboratory C. David Fowle has for years been working as director of wild life research for the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

The area of 30 square miles does not include any of the major fishing lakes, does not cross any important canoe route, and is closed to public travel. Hence, nature unmolested can be studied.

Well over 200 species of plants are growing in the region, 106 species of birds have so far been identified, and over 30 species of mammals have been studied, from the pigmy shrew weighing one-tenth of an ounce, to the lordly bull moose which sometimes reaches a weight of 1,400 pounds. Many species of frogs, toads, salamanders, snakes and turtles are also under scientific observation.

Why all this concentrated study in a remote stretch of forest and waterways?

Mr. Fowle, a graduate of the University of British Columbia, gives part of the answer in a few words:

"Taken as a whole," he says, "the forest is something more than an aggregation of trees. It is a living, dynamic association of plants in which dwells a variety and abundance of animals which is scarcely credited by the average citizen. It is the role of the animals in this complex environment which we hope ultimately, to establish."

Canadian forests, the wild life they nurture, their beauty and utility, and especially their protection and preservation, are all matters of keen, personal interest for Canadian citizens. It is with this fact in mind that Mr. Fowle and his fellow-researchers are working and studying in the wilderness.

Dwarf Hemlock

"Tsuga canadensis var. minuta" is the formidable scientific label pinned on a dwarf hemlock by Henry Teuscher, curator of the Montreal Botanical Garden, and now officially accepted.

This tree, but two feet high at maturity, and with the same diameter, has aroused keen interest among professional foresters and other men of the trees.

Says Mr. Teuscher, first to describe it:

"It was discovered in 1927 in an out-of-the-way part of the so-called Green Mountains. The old plant found there held some old cones on its tiny branchlets. . . . It is still there, having been seen by only one man who refuses to divulge its whereabouts. But the finder brought back several young seedlings which he gathered near the old plant. He has returned several times during the past year with more seedlings. They are all dwarf and show surprisingly little variation.

SEVEN OVERCOME

Syracuse, N.Y., Nov. 27 (AP)—Seven firemen were overcome by smoke while fighting a three-alarm fire that gutted a four-storey northside building early today. They were treated at an emergency aid station and returned to duty. The fire was controlled after a 2 1-2 hour fight.

C.S.U. Appeal Is Dismissed

Ottawa, Nov. 27 — (CP) — A Canadian Seamen's Union (T. L. C.) appeal to have its long-time dispute with four Great Lakes shipping companies authorized under the newly-instituted Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act has been dismissed.

Labor Minister Mitchell announced the Canada Labor Relations Board ruling Friday, dismissing the appeal on the grounds action prescribed by the now defunct Wartime Labor Relations Act has already been taken by the 10,000-man union.

The C. S. U. alleged to be communist-dominated, requested that the board's ruling on the collective bargaining dispute which started last spring be continued under the regulations of the new act which came into effect September 1.

Under the old Wartime Labor Relations Act the board last spring authorized the C. S. U. to begin court action against the companies, following reported failure by the companies to negotiate a new employment agreement with the union.

The companies, Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., Colonial Steamships Ltd., Sarnia Steamships Ltd., and Northwest Steamships, Ltd., have stated they decline negotiations with the union because it is led by communists.

A government spokesman said the current ruling by the Canada Labor Relations Board poses a new legal question as to whether the union now has any legal ground on which to institute court proceedings against the companies.

It was his belief the union must now attempt to renegotiate a collective agreement with the companies, and only if the companies again refuse to negotiate can the union appear before the Labor Board with a request for new authority to prosecute.

The board's dismissal of the request did not give the companies the right to negotiate new employment contracts with any other unions than the C. S. U., he said.

Percy Bengough, president of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, said in comment: "I am keenly disappointed. The C. S. U. seems to be always at the short end of the stick." He said future action by the C. S. U. "still has to be considered."

PUTS UP HOME AS BOND

Baltimore, Nov. 27 (AP)—Dean Alan Chesney of John Hopkins Medical School put up his home Friday to cover the bond of John Tuck, charged with cruelty to animals. The animals, 20 dogs and 60 cats, were being brought to the medical school for experimental purposes. Tuck was arrested on a complaint by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals.

Noel Cloutier Guilty of Murder, To Hang March 11

Montreal, Nov. 27 — (CP) — Noel Cloutier, 24-year-old convicted slayer of a Montreal policeman during an east-end bank holdup last Sept. 23, Friday was sentenced to be hanged in Montreal jail March 11.

The jury deliberated only 15 minutes before returning the guilty verdict.

Upon hearing the death sentence pronounced the dark, stocky good-looking bandit showed little emotion although his features had twitched perceptibly when the jury foreman had read the verdict.

Two police constables, Nelson Paquin and Paul Emile Duranleau, were slain during the bank robbery. Cloutier was tried specially for Paquin's murder.

Two other men, Douglas and Donald Perreault, unrelated, will also stand trial for murder. They evaded capture for nearly two weeks and travelled 2,000 miles across several provinces before being caught in Taber, Alta.

Evidence of the officer who arrested Cloutier in a lane where he attempted to escape showed that Cloutier had almost $2,000 tucked inside his shirt.

The same officer testified Cloutier had told him that if he had a gun he'd "fix" the officer as he had his "blond pal."

Donald Perreault, appearing as a crown witness earlier in the trial, told the court he drove Cloutier and Douglas Perreault by a car to a place three blocks from the bank.

He said he knew nothing of the planned holdup but thought what they were planning was a "payroll job" afoot. He drove away as soon as the shooting started.

During the four-day trial, held in French throughout, only those with credentials were allowed to enter the courtroom. The courtroom, however, was packed at all times and standees ranged the walls.

Pretended Policeman Takes Sound Beating And Then Gets Fined

Toronto, Nov. 27. (CP)—William Dougherty got fined $75 and costs and took a beating for pretending he was a policeman.

He got the fine in police court Friday on public mischief and impersonation charges. He got the beating from High School student Douglas McTaggart whom he tried to convince he was an officer.

Dougherty came upon McTaggart as the student was in a parked car with his girl friend and charged him with trespassing. McTaggart struck Dougherty several times and took away a top gun.

"I've humiliated my wife and lost my friends,' said Dougherty, who blamed it on liquor, in court. "Everything I ever build up I tear down again."

dollars to the Dominion government in taxes.

With Ontario residents showing good co-operation in reducing electrical consumption during the present shortage in the province, "nothing could be more contemptible than for anyone to mislead you and attempt to make political capital out of a situation which is the direct result of the lowest rainfalls on records in those areas which feed the streams which turn the turbines of our great hydro-electric plants."

Drew mentioned Eugene Forsey, his C.C.F. opponent in the Carleton Federal by-election Dec. 20, whose present statements about political interference with hydro "contrast strangely" wtih what he said a year after Mr. Drew was elected Premier of Ontario in 1943. "In a published statement, he said then that the hydro was not run by either politicians or bureaucrats, but was run by competent, technical staffs."

Ottawa — Failure to provide adequate hydro power in Ontario may handicap Canada's participation in the North Atlantic Security Pact,' Eugene Forsey, C.C.F. candidate in the federal by-election in Carleton, said Friday night.

"This power shortage is something which affects the whole country," he said in a speech prepared for delivery over a private radio station (CFRA).

"Ontario is our largest industrial province. Maximum production in Ontario is essental for prosperity even in normal times. It is even more essential in times of national emergency."

Mr. Forsey added: A serious power shortage here may gravely hinder not only preparations for our own defence but also for taking part in a general North Atlantic security plan."

He referred to George Drew, former Ontario Premier and now National Progressive Conservative leader. He said Mr. Drew was responsible for the hydro shortage because he had failed to take action to construct hydro facilities in 1943.

Both Mr. Drew and Mr. Forsey stand for election in Carleton money for progress

Through 1948 The Bank of Nova Scotia again helped demonstrate one of the meanings of freedom. Many thousands of individuals making their own independent decisions, enabled the Bank to keep at work profitably total assets which have increased from $714,444,000 to a new high of $749,615,000.

money in the Bank

To many, money in the Bank meant college educations for their children; to others it made possible a long planned for holiday or the beginning of a home. To every depositor it spelled security for tomorrow. During the year deposits increased by $39,446,000 to $680,129,000.

money to improve living

New schools, watermains, sidewalks, highways and improved social services, were among the constructive things the Bank helped to make possible through funds invested in government and municipal securities. Total investment in securities was $297,929,000.

money to create new services

Dollars entrusted to the Bank were the instruments by which thousands of businesses made more things and more jobs, and by which farmers increased their production of food. Loans by the Bank for an infinite variety of businesses, farming and personal activities increased by $35,500,000 to $293,400,000.

CHINCHILLAS
(NOT RABBIT)

● IMPORTANT FACTS No. 2—What factors give their value over that of other fur bearing animals?

ANSWER—At present there are approximately 35,000 dividual Chinchillas in the United States and Canada. Twel times this number of raw pelts were shipped out of Chile alo in one year before the animals became nearly extinct.

It is to be expected that when we have again produced enou animals to begin pelting, the yearly demand will be for at le two million pelts. This goal cannot be reached in less than to seven years.

● What gives Chinchilla fur its value over that of other fu

ANSWER—Could you see the finished product, no furth answer would be needed. Chinchilla is the finest fur world. In the furs of other animals, each root produces o The Chinchilla fur branches from the roots and a single will produce as many as 80 strands as fine as cobweb. Desp this downy quality, the wearing quality of Chinchilla fur classed on a par with that of Silver Fox.

You too can share in the raising of the world's finest of furs. Why not investigate its possibilities today?

THE STANE GAME

Curling, supposedly of Dutch origin, was played as early as 1607 in Scotland.

THE VENABLES

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"You know certain animals have instincts," Lin presently added with a little laugh. "They keep away from harmful things. I'm that way with men. They just — don't fit into my scheme. To be around them bores me. Men, noisy, messy men!"

"They're not noisy and messy," Flo protested, with a reluctant laugh.

"Oh, yes, they are, Flo!"

"You really are terrible!"

"I shall have a beautiful cat," Lin proceeded calmly. "Books. My beloved Shelly, Walter Pater, Austin Dobson and Ruskin. And by that time we'll have had our year in Europe, and I'll bring back — oh, Botticellis, and Sibyls from the Sistine Chapel, and bowls from Quimper, and linen scarves from Perugia."

"I somehow couldn't plan not to marry," Flo said, considering it.

"You shouldn't, Flo. You're all vitality. You'll make some man a wonderful wife! Rose, too. Rose thinks in terms of children and their schooling and measles and getting dinner. And I don't mean," Lin said, with a hint of laughter in her rich voice, "that Rose isn't wise. She is wise. She knows what she wants. And she'll get it."

"You mean that if a woman sort of — well, wants to marry, she usually gets a chance?"

"Well, I should certainly suppose so!" Lin answered with an astonished look.

"Why, there are old maids! Lots of 'em in our family!"

"If they haven't it's because they've let men know, perhaps without meaning to, that they are not wife material."

"Wife material?"

"Yes; I think you can see in women either that they are or are not. I've seen girls at school who went all flutters the minute a boy was around, even if he'd only come with a telegram. Their manner with each other changes; they are all mannerisms and coquetting. I should suppose men noticed that! . . .

"Years ago," Lin went on suddenly after a pause, "I used to imagine the sort of man I would like to marry. All the girls were getting married; that's why I used to think of it too, I suppose. He was to be a student — a bookish man — a college professor, perhaps. We lived in a tiny cottage under trees with beautiful little bay windows of leaded glass reflecting the fire. He was always busy with books, and I was always telling him that tea had been brought in. And we walked every day, long rambling walks over fields and through woods.— I think all this was in England, because gorse and bracken and moors came into it. Oxford, maybe.

"And we had one child, a little girl with a mane of hair and Alice-in-Wonderland slippers. Sylvia or Pamelia or Penelope. But what made it heaven," Lin added, laughing, as Flo turned amused eyes upon her, "was the love between us. The feeling that we were alone in our tiny cottage with our miracle of a little girl, and that nothing and nobody else in the world mattered."

"But you never found him?" Flo asked, impressed.

"He never existed, dear. He was a dream."

"I suppose men and women have lived like that and loved like that?"

"One gets glimpses of it. In Canton's stories and old letters and biographies. Plain living and high thinking. But, if you can't have the real thing, Flo, why take anything less?"

"You'd always hope it was going to be the real thing."

"But you might be carried away. Carried by the fact that a man wanted you, or just by the words 'marriage' and 'honeymoon' and 'love.'"

"I was horribly carried away," Flo confessed in a low voice. Lin spoke in quick understanding.

"You mean Alan Wellington?"

"How did you know?"

"Oh, you've given me a hundred hints. You never see him any more?"

"Not for — it's almost a year," Flo sighed.

"We had a grand time together, and I always was hoping he'd go on — go on and ask me to marry him and that we'd be engaged."

"You don't have much chance, Flo, living in that unfortunate house and handicapped with so much responsibility. It seems a shame. You'll have to work out of that, somehow, move to some other place where you can entertain a little, where you can be proud of your home."

"When I'm with you and Rose, I get simply fired with ambition Flo said. "I determine to make something of myself. But when I get home, the atmosphere simply seeps around me again and I slump with the rest."

"Suppose you could be anything you liked, Flo, what would you want to be?"

"I haven't thought. But anything that meant that I was busy."

"You wouldn't want to be a trained nurse, Flo?"

"I'd like to be a doctor."

"Women doctors have an awfully hard time."

"I know."

And then silence for a while, and then lazy, happy talk again, while the fire died to white ash, and the room was almost in darkness, and the wind still swept the roof with pine branches and brought the sea roaring up on the rocky beaches.

"Tomorrow's next to my last day, Lin."

"I know. Rose and I don't like to think about it. And we're wasting it on the Torrences."

"Oh, I'd forgotten the Torrences!"

"Well, she's been so neighborly, and she is such a nice woman alone here without her husband and with just that small child."

"How'll they get that small boy out to the point?"

"Her mother has a horse and surrey, you know. She lives in Pacific Grove. She's staying with them tonight."

"But we walk?"

"Oh yes, we walk, they won't bother us much. She's bringing stuffed eggs and chocolate cake and figs and everything. It'll just be at lunchtime we'll have to be together."

"Lin, I don't want to go back."

"Oh, and I don't want you to! But Flo, they'll be always delicious to remember — these days. And there'll be more."

"There'll never be more like these," Flo said sadly. "We'll be older; Rose'll be in love with someone, these — these have been like being a child again, only not a child, independent, and able to walk where we liked and eat what we liked!"

"But that's exactly it! Lin exclaimed triumphantly. "That's the way it is when there aren't any love affairs, any men in it! One's always like a child!"

And the conversation ended by returning to its starting point, and sending them both to bed laughing.

They laughed as they walked to the point on the following day, five of them breasting a smothering fog that wound itself in the purest white tissue about the pines and hid the swelling and heaving of the quiet sea.

Everything was a discovery this morning; the road, the fences, the fisheries that loomed up suddenly through the mist. Mrs. Torrence's grizzled, independent old mother, driving along and passing them, her grandchild beside her, had to shout at them to get out of the way.

The fifth walker was Professor Torrence, who had arrived unexpectedly the night before for two weeks of holiday. He was a squarely built man, tall and slightly stooped, with eyes that twinkled behind strong glasses.

The lunch boxes and heavy coats were in the carriage; the girls walked free. Rose and Flo were ahead, one on either side of the professor. Lin followed, deep in child education talk with Mrs. Torrence.

They followed a winding dirt road out to the Point, along a level spur of cliff that ran well out to sea and ended with the famous broken ground, boulders, sharp rocks, churning water, caves and pools and steep banks of Lobos.

It was a dangerous place at any time, and the wreathing mists of fog, and with the flying spume of the plunging and rushing water just below them and its deafening roar in their ears, it was frightening.

They explored it slowly, testing each tussock of wild sea grass each line of shelf-like path, with a cautious foot they advanced upon it.

"I don't like it!" shouted Philip Torrence.

"But that's what makes it so fascinating!" Flo screamed back, lurching against him, as the path narrowed.

"Here," he said, "let's get out of this! Let's get back to the lunch baskets!"

The only danger would be dizziness, and you don't have to get dizzy," Rose said, steadily threading the paths and the bushes rounding the great boulders that some desperate sea storm had tossed up carelessly ages ago.

Critical Battle For Central China Shifts from Suchow

250,000 Nationalist Troops Move to Nanking Approaches

By HAROLD K. MILKS

Nanking, Nov. 29 (AP)— The critical battle for central China appeared today to be shifting from Suchow to the approaches of this Chinese capital.

It was learned reliably that the estimated 250,000 Nationalist troops at Suchow, defence bastion for Nanking, have been ordered to withdraw southward to engage the main Chinese Communist forces.

The battle for Suchow has raged three weeks. Its abandonment would indicate that the government regards as more critical the developing struggle in the 211 miles between here and Suchow. Earlier, reports from the fronts indicated that the Communists have left secondary troops to engage Nationalists within the Suchow perimeter. The main Communist strength of nearly 500,000 troops was reported heading south toward Pengpu, 100 miles northwest of Nanking.

The Communists already hold Suhsien, 45 miles south of Suchow. An estimated 140,000 government troops—regarded as inferior to those at Suchow—oppose the Communists at Suhsien.

Farther southward, and mostly in the penpu area, are another 50,000 Nationalists.

Hold Superiority

(If the estimates of the opposing sides are about correct, the urgency of withdrawing Suchow's defenders to help government forces to the south appears clear. The Communists seem to hold more than a 2-to-1 numerical advantage over the government on the road to Nanking.)

The Red armies of Generals Chen Yi and Liu Po-Cheng have been edging steadily southward from the Suchow area.

Amid these developments, Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, wife of China's presidenta, sped toward the United States in an American navy plane to plead for immediate help.

In Peiping, Gen. Fu Tso-Yi's north China headquarters announced government withdrawal from Shankaikwan, seacoast town along the Great Wall and 165 miles northeast of Tientsin, and the nearby port of Chingwantao. Fu said two isolated points had lost their strategic value.

Fu's headquarters reported recapture of Paoti, Communist base 40 miles north of Tientsin and 50 miles southeast of Peiping.

Dr. Heidrich Flees From Czechoslovakia With Wife and Son

Prague, Nov. 29 (AP)— Dr. Arnost Heidrich, secretary-general of the Czechoslovak foreign ministry has fled the country with his wife and seven-year-old son.

The three left Czechoslovakia last week. Dr. Evzen Klinger, head of the foreign ministry's press section said today he did not know how or where Heidrich and his family han gone.

CITY FATHERS RELENT

Edmonton — (CP) — Edmonton motorists have won a concession from city fathers — free time in front of the city's parking meters after 1 p.m. each Wednesday. A by-law to that effect was passed recently.

DP KILLS FARMER, WOUNDS HIS WIFE, SHOOTS SELF

Police Establish No Motive And No Inquest Ordered by Coroner

Tillsonburg, Nov. 29 — (CP) — John Matulevicius killed Bruno Gudavitch, 48, wounded Gudavitch's 27-year-old wife with three bullets and then shot and killed himself a short time later when law officers closed in on him, police said.

Matulevictus, 27, known in this district as Joe Mitchell, was a Lithuanian displaced person. Investigation showed he came to Canada three months ago from Europe, bringing with him the German Luger pistol and the German-made bullets he used early Sunday in the shooting, for which police have established no motive.

Mitchell worked for Gudavitch during this fall's tobacco harvest. But when Gudavitch was unable to sell his crop, Mitchell received his notice. About a week ago, Mitchell returned to the Gudavitch home. An argument started Sunday and he was given an hour to leave the farmhouse in South Norwich township three miles from here.

Marcel Vandemaele, a neighbor, said Mitchell aroused him early Sunday morning with word of the shooting.

"He shook my foot to wake me and said, 'come over to Gudavitch's. Big trouble there.'

"When I got there with my truck, Mitchell was there in the doorway and led me inside. The woman was lying in the doorway between the bedroom and the living room. Mrs. Guidavitch raised her arm and moaned, 'help.' Mitchell tried to support her but she would have nothing to do with him. She said, 'Don't leave Bruno back there; poor Bruno will die.' I carried her to the truck.

Spoke in German

"On the way to Tillsonburg, I spoke to him (Mitchell) in German. He understood it better than English. He told me Bruno was shot and was dead, so I made up my mind that when we got to the hospital I'd walk right in and leave them in the truck while I called the police.

"But Mitchell followed right along.

"When we got the woman into a room, she said, 'he shot me and Bruno.' The nurse turned in surprise and pointed at Mitchell. I told her not to point or he would know what she meant.

"Mitchell waited about five minutes there and I knew we were in a tight spot. Then he saw the police car through the window. He started out the back door. Two policemen came in the door and, when he saw he was cornered, he turned back.

"I tried to get him to sit down but he walked past me about six feet with the police right behind him. He pulled his gun then and shot himself through the head."

There will be no inquest.

FOUR STOREY BUILDING GUTTED

Montreal, Nov. 29 (CP)— A stubborn and spectacular two-alarm fire Sunday night gutted a four-storey building in downtown Montreal causing damage estimated at $100,000.

No one was reported injured. Origin of the blaze was unknown but it was believed to have started near the furnace on the first floor and then to have shot upward to the top floor and the roof.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP) — Synopsis: Sunday night many localities in southwestern Ontario experienced light snowfalls. These regions were on the fringe of a vast area of rain and snow covering the Eastern United States. The weather remains cloudy over most of the province and occasional flurries contine in northwestern Ontario.

On Tuesday it will turn a little milder over Southern Ontario but in Northern Ontario it will

ESTIMATED COST POTATO SUPPORT 4 TO 5 MILLIONS

Pay $1.15 Every 100 Lbs. Left on Farms in April

Ottawa, Nov. 29 (CP)—The government expects to shell out between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 next year for Canadian potatoes that may be fed to cattle or dumped into fields.

A government source said Sunday night that this amount is expected to be paid out to Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick potato farmers under the government's price support program in 1949.

Although Canada's 1948 potato crop is estimated at more than 90,000,000 bushels, the source said no more than about 8,000,000 bushels in P.E.I. and N.B. will require price support.

Farmers will get paid at the rate of $1.15 for every 100 pounds still remaining on the farm after April 1. Government estimators will start a check then and payment is expected to be made the following month.

The source said the government set the supported price at $1.15 per 100 pounds after certain trade groups in the two Maritime Provinces urged a price-support figure of $1.90 for every 100 pounds, packed, graded and ready for loading at rail points.

The government decided on the lower price for potatoes on the farm since it saw no reason to prepare them for shipment when there was no expected market for the surplus.

There was also the expectancy a lower international demand for Canadian potatoes will ease the retail price across the country.

The government hoped to keep the rich United States potato market open "as much as possible" for Canadian seed potatoes. Table potatoes were not wanted, since the United States had a bumper crop of its own to support.

Mayor McCallum Bids Fans Goodbye At Union Station

Toronto, Nov. 29. (CP)—They saddled up the iron horse and rode back to the foothills Sunday night. They took the Grey Cup with them.

Calgary Stampeders and some 300 rootin'-tootin' ranch hands left on their Stampeders' Special. The train left on time—to the obvious surprise of railway officials who expected they'd have to round up a few stray dogies at the last minute.

Mayor Hiram McCallum and hundreds of Torontonians—a bit dazed by it all—jammed Union Station as the victorious Stampeders and their guitar-strumming supporters drifted to the train.

President Tom Brook of the Stampeders went on board, still hugging the Grey Cup to his chest. He hadn't let go of it for more than a minute since the team won it.

The Calgarians who had voices left were audibly lonesome for some place where deer and antelopes played. But even the onees who lost their voices at the games and the ensuing celebrations joined in when Don McKay a Calgary alderman and the team's unofficial cheer leader, called for a song for Ottawa.

They hollered "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" and followed it up with three cheers.

Theory Canadian May Have Dug Up $60,000 Treasure Hidden in Holland

London, Nov. 29. (CP)—The Daily Mirror today tells a story about a Canadian soldier who might have unearthed a £15.000 ($60,000) treasure cached in Holland.

The Mirror says one of its reporters spent the last ten days at Laren, which is between Amsterdam and Utrecht, digging in a garden and using as a guide a map marked by the late artist, Hans Van Meergeren, in an effort to find the money.

Van Meegeren is The Netherlands painter who made fortunes by producing canvases he claimed to be authentic works of Johannes Vermeer.

Mrs. Inez Randall of London, Van Meegeren's daughter, armed

After digging in the garden the reporter was told that a former gardener once discovered a box there. When it was found, the gardener recalled, the box was empty. A tube of lipstick and a box of Canadian bullets were beside it.

The reporter's theory.

"A Canadian soldier, ordered to bury faulty ammunition, finds this box and its £15,000 contents.

"He pockets the money. The lipstick, brought from Canada for a girl friend, drops from his pocket as he hastily reburies the ammunition."

After the German surrender in 1945, 1,000 Canadian soldiers were stationed at Laren, a small residential community, while await-

Draft of Proposed Pact Defence With Canada, US Reported Given by U.K.

London, Nov. 29 (AP)—A British government source said today the Western European alliance has presented to the United States its draft of a proposed defence agreement with the United States and Canada.

Discussion of the terms is expected to begin in Washington late this week, the informant said. Diplomatic officials said the document, as now drafted, was a "working paper" subject to revision in Washington talks.

Exact details of the document have not been disclosed. For the past month representatives of the Western European alliance countries of Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg have been working on a plan in secret meetings here.

Informants said the pact is expected to call for a pledge of mutual assistance without definite committal to go to war in case of attack on any member.

The Western European countries are expected to urge alliance with the United States and Canada for a 50-year-period. This may meet some opposition from the United States which has suggested in informal talks a period of 10 to 15 years with a review later on the question of extension.

Thousands Forced from Homes By Floods in Southern States

Chicago, Nov. 29 — (AP) — The elements hit the United States in various forms Sunday. Floods and high winds struck the south. Rain and snow plagued many areas.

At least five persons were killed in automobile accidents attributed to the weather. Another was missing.

Rain-swollen rivers left their banks in three southern states—Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee. Hundreds of persons were forced to flee their homes. Property and crop damage was estimated in hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Three died in Georgia and Alabama highway accidents, and another person was missing. Two were killed on a slippery highway in Pennsylvania.

Southern floodwaters originated in northern sections of Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee.

Many roads were inundated. Near Montgomery, Ala., 335 convicts were evacuated from a prison farm to the Kilby State Prison, nearby, when the Tallapoosa River rose. Homes were evacuated in scattered floods around Birmingham and Phoenix City, Ala., Atlanta, Columbus and Macon, Ga., and Knoxville, Tenn.

A number of Kansas and Oklahoma communities were without electric service Sunday as the result of a snow and wind storm in that area. Transportation and communications were disrupted. Heavy sleet broke power lines to 43 Oklahoma communities. Telephone and telegraph lines snapped under coats of ice. Some highways in south central Kansas were closed.

Blizzards and thunderstorms hit the Cascade mountains in Washington State. Communications were severed and blown down trees blocked highways. Many automobiles were caught in the heavy snowfall.

See New Drive To Get China's War Underwritten

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP) — Madame Chiang Kai-Shek's arrival here this week is expected to touch off a fresh drive to get the United States to underwrite China's war against its Communist foes.

Authoritative informants said today that as the Chinese president's wife she will be shown "every courtesy," but they made clear privately they have little sympathy with Madame Chiang's unofficial mission.

This attitude has been openly shown in the hands-off policy the United States State Department has tried to follow as far as possible in dealing with her trip. In announcing Saturday night that she would travel here in a United States naval transport plane the department emphasized that it was made available "at her request." There was no expression of welcome and no official word on arrangements which might be made to expedite her mission after the scheduled arrival Wednesday.

The fact is, Madame Chiang's trip dramatizes a dilemma in which State Secretary Marshall and President Truman find themselves in connection with the Chinese crisis.

On the one hand, responsible informants say, they wish to avoid any word or action which might embarrass the Chiang government in its struggle with the Communists. And they are hopeful some way may be found by which the United States can help to prevent a Communist conquest of all China.

On the other hand, Truman administration leaders appear to have lost all confidence in Chiang's ability to reorganize his military and political strength so as to halt the Communist tide and eventually reverse it.

DISTURBED ROBBING BEACH CONCESSIONS

St. Thomas, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Chief of Police Clair Hilliard of Port Stanley surprised two men as they were attempting to rob beach concessions at Port Stanley about 1.15 this morning.

The men ran out of one of the buildings at the chief approached, jumped into a black panel truck and drove hurriedly away. Three shots fired into the back of the truck by the chief failed to make them stop.

It was discovered that they had removed two small motors from freezer units and were looking for other loot when the chief, pa-

Four Are Killed, Seven Trapped In Plant Blasts

Hull, Yorkshire, England, Nov. 29 (CP)—Four persons were killed and 22 injured in three explosions which ripped the British Cocoa Mills plant apart. Seven persons were trapped in the building as it went up in flames.

Police, firemen and other rescue workers struggled to force their way into the blazing building to reach those trapped. Cries could be heard from those still in the plant.

Smoke from the fire rose more than 1,000 feet and windows more than half a mile away were shattered by the blasts.

T. F. Sloot, technical director of the plant, explaining that gasoline was used in large quantities at the mills, said the first explosion was caused by one of the tanks bursting.

Escaping gasoline flooded the plant, caught fire and other explosions followed, blowing out walls and shattering machinery.

An eye-witness said that one man who was killed was blown out on the street from the top of the building.

A roll call showed seven persons, including a girl, missing.

O.A.C. Student Judges 15th in Competition With 31 U.S. Teams

Guelph, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Ontario Agricultural College student judges ranked 15th in competition with 31 United States teams at the International Livestock Show in Chicago, it was learned here today.

W. R. Lawson of Georgetown, was high individual man on the Ontario team with 905 marks out of a possible 1,000. Other members of the O.A.C. team were: J. H. Couse, Streetsville; G. W. Jackson, Downsview; W. C. Shapton, Exeter; W. D. Black, Allanford; J. W. Stephen, Campbellford and E. A. Starr, Little Britain.

ESCAPES WITH BRUISES

Napanee, Nov. 29 — (CP) — FO. D. J. Gagnon of Place Laval, Que., an R.C.A.F. test pilot, escaped with minor cuts and bruises when his light airplane hit a power line while making a forced landing 15 miles north of here Friday night. The plane flipped over as it struck the line on the farm of John Burns, near Erinsville, Ont.

ONE KILLED, FOUR OTHERS INJURED IN 4-CAR CRASH

Accident Occurs Near Peterborough

Peterborough, Nov. 29. (CP)—Richard Mercer, 21, was killed and four others injured in a four-car collision south of Fraserville on Highway No. 28, Sunday night. Those in Civic hospital are Garnet Cox and Miss Ann Hughey. Mrs. Mercer was allowed to go and Miss Inez Spooner, Havelock, was treated for a leg wound.

Cox's car carrying the victim and his wife, Cox and Miss Hughey, was travelling north toward Peterborough. About half a mile south of Fraserville, the driver of the car, believed to be Cox, started to pass another northbound car on a grade. He met almost head-on with a southbound car driven by Roy Wrightley, R.R. 2, Havelock, who had as passengers, Wilfred Spooner, Inez Spooner, Miss C. Wilson and Dennis Spooner, all of Havelock. Both cars were ditched with the Mercer car, almost a total wreck.

In the meantime, another southbound car driven by Norman D. Foote, Toronto was also involved as it was following close behind Wrightley. The car which the Cox car attempted to pass was also in the tangle. It was driven by Douglas Stinson, Haliburton.

Mother and Six Children Burned In Flash Fire

Detroit, Nov. 29 (AP)—A mother and six children were burned to death Sunday night in a flash fire that swept through a crowded wooden dwelling.

Firemen found the bodies of Mrs. Elizabeth Jenkins and her six children in bed. The children were identified as Marlene, nine; Peggy, seven; Robert Lee, three; Matleen, two; Neenyora, two, months and Beverly Ann, 14 months.

Police said 10 persons were living in one second-floor room.

The father, Jessie Jenkins, 48, was in severe condition in hospital. Police said he jumped from a second-floor window. Another child, Constance, 13, was badly injured when she also leaped from the window to the pavement.

Constance told police that her parents and other children were asleep in the bedroom and that she was sitting in the kitchen.

"I was listening to the radio," Constance told police. "All of a sudden I noticed that the window shade was on fire. Then I noticed fire breaking out through the walls all around me. I screamed and jumped through the window."

Constance told police that her mother and father had been separated for eight months but had become reconciled just a week ago.

SCALPERS FINED

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP)— Two of three men charged with "scalping" tickets to the East-West final here Saturday —won by Calgary Stampeders 12-7—were fined $25 or 10 days when they appeared in court today.

The pair were Alge Armstead 24, of Calgary, who was selling $1 seats for $5 and Don Galbraith 32, of Toronto. Armstead was porter on the "Stampeder Special"— the train which brought Calgary fans to Toronto.

John Deyll, 19, of Toronto, was remanded a week for hearing.

His Majesty's General Health Has Improved

Latest Bulletin 'Regarded Definitely as Good One'

London, Nov. 29. (CP)—Doctors reported today there is improvement in the general health of the King.

A week ago His Majesty cancelled all public engagements because of an arterial ailment affecting his legs.

A bulletin issued by the five doctors attending the King said:

"As a result of relief from walking, standing, and fatigue, improvement in the general health of the King is apparent.

"This is an important factor in re-establishing arterial circulation to the feet, which is also being encouraged by appropriate medicinal and physical measures.

"In this condition restoration of circulation is a slow process extending over a period of months.

"Some improvement has already taken place and there is less cause for immediate anxiety regarding the right foot."

The doctors are Sir Maurice Cassidy, Brig. Sir Thomas Dunhill, Prof. James R. Learmouth, Sir Morton Smart and Sir John Weir.

Meanwhile, the Lord Chamberlain announced that an investiture at Buckingham Palace Jan. 25, has been postponed.

The doctors disclosed last Tuesday the King was ill and said unless he had rest and treatment his condition "might well involve serious risk to a limb."

Immediately a projected Royal tour to Australia and New Zealand due to begin in January, was cancelled.

Encouraging Sign

The Press Association court correspondent, who the palace says writes with official guidance reported: "The bulletin is regarded definitely as a good one."

"The fact that only a week after their first bulletin they (the doctors) can state definitely that some improvement has already taken place must be regarded as a good and encouraging sign.

"It is particularly the last phrase in the bulletin stating that there is less cause for immediate anxiety regarding the right foot which makes the general interpretation of the bulletin favorable."

The doctors, who stayed at Buckingham Palace two hours and 30 minutes today seeing the King and drafting the bulletin, have not given any specific name name to the illness from which the King is suffering. Nor have they mentioned the exact nature of the treatment they are administering.

Treatment And Rest

It was understood that treatment was continuing and that the King was expected to rest to the fullest extent possible. But he was able to carry on state business within the Palace.

The Queen, who remained at the Palace during the morning, was shown the bulletin immediately it had been prepared. Tonight the Queen will attend the Royal Command film performance at the Empire Theatre, Leicester Square, at which the King was also to have been present.

Princess Elizabeth, expected to get up within a day or so for the first time since the birth of her baby two weeks ago, heard the news in her bedroom at the Palace.

Princess Margaret was also at the palace.

Educate Britons to Facts of Empire, Plan Undertaken by Colonial Office

By H. L. JONES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 29 (CP)— The Colonial office shocked at the recently disclosed ignorance of Britons about their age-old Empire, has launched a campaign to teach them the facts.

What alarmed the Colonial office into hasty action was the findings of a recent government social survey which showed that 50 per cent of the people questioned could not name a single British colony.

Even more surprising were these survey findings:

Three percent of those questioned thought the United States was a British colony; about one third thought that the colonies paid taxes to Britain and 75 per cent could not describe the difference between a colony and a Dominion or Commonwealth country.

Most British newspapers, including the empire-minded London Daily Express, just printed these findings on inside pages and refrained from editorial comment. But the Yorkshire Post found it most alarming and embarrassing and commented:

"If these answers truly reflect the abysmal ignorance of even a small section of our people it is high time indeed that the Colonial office undertook an educational campaign."

K. W. Blackburne, director of information services for the Colonial office said:

"We feel this ignorance is extremely dangerous. We do need the empire most terribly badly. As long as people are ignorant we shall not get the goodwill of the Colonial people."

A booklet called "Britain and the Colonies," published for the Colonial office, will be sent to all schools and educational and youth organizations in Britain.

42 PERSONS DEAD IN MANY FIRES IN N. AMERICA

Heaviest Toll in Mexico City Where 27 Die in Store Explosion

New York, Nov. 29. (AP)—A rash of fires struck in widely scattered parts of North America Sunday. An estimated 42 persons perished.

The biggest toll was in Mexico City, where police estimated 27 persons died in a hardware store fire and explosion. The building collapsed amid rescue efforts.

In Detroit, Mrs. Elizabeth Jenkins, 42, and her six children perished when a flash fire swept through a crowded frame multiple dwelling.

Mrs. Florence Dinger, 32, a divorcee and three of her four children died at Madison, Wis., in a fire that raced through a crowded two-storey frame tenement.

Two children burned to death in a fire that destroyed their home in Hoopeston, Ill. A Brooklyn, N.Y., apartment house fire killed one person and injured seven. A mother rescued her two-year-old son in a fire at Searcy, Ark., but her eight months old daughter died.

A 75-foot yacht the Tennessee, was destroyed by fire and a series of explosions at Atlantic City. Six aboard were rescued.

Fire fighters were reported gaining an upper hand in efforts to quell a forest fire high on the slopes of 10,080-foot Mt. Baldy, east of Los Angeles.

Israel Asks UN Membership

By ED CURTIS

Paris, Nov. 29. (AP)— Israel formally applied today for membership in the United Nations.

Britain "will be in no circumstances make use of its privileged vote to bar the admission to the United Nations of any state which secures an unqualified majority of seven votes in the Security Council," Sir Alexander Cadogan told the No. 2 political committee. Britain is expected to abstain.

Benjamin V. Cohen, United States delegate, told the committee France, China, the United States and Britain agreed on the principle for not vetoing memberships. Russia, which has used 12 votes to block applications, has indicated support for Israel.

The Jewish State applied for a world voice exactly one year after the United Nations General Assembly voted to split Palestine between the Jews and Arabs.

The No. 1 political committee was debating a resolution calling for the withdrawal of all foreign troops from Palestine.

Corporal Allan Johnston, R. C. S., Camp Borden, escaped injury but his auto was considerably damaged early Saturday evening when as he was driving north on South Foster Ave., his vehicle was truck by the caboose of a C.P.R. freight and shoved a distance down the track.

The freight was being backed toward the east when the caboose struck the left side of the auto and shoved the car down the street. No one in the car was injured but damage to the car amounted to approximately $150 is was reported by police.

GOLFERS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF FINE WEATHER

The near-summer weather on Sunday gave a number of golf enthusiasts the old urge of the links.

Six of them therefore retrieved the golf-bags from winter quarters and hied themselves to the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club where they played eighteen holes under almost ideal conditions.

They were Messrs. R. Brettingham, C. Harvey, Jack Mitchell, Mike Aquafredda, B. Miller and Charlie Pidutti.

The course was reported to be in excellent condition and the local Byron Nelsons took full advantage of it.

Mayor D. L. Storey Given Acclamation For 1949 Term

With the three other candidates proposed for the office failing to qualify Mayor D. L. Storey Saturday night was given acclamation for the office of Chief Magistrate for 1949. At nomination meeting Friday it was generally anticipated that Mayor Storey would have no opposition for his second term of office.

But any interest in the municipal elections which may be lacking because of the absence of a contest for the mayoralty will be more than made up by the number of aspirants for aldermanic honors.

Seventeen civic minded men qualified as candidates in the aldermanic field, while the hydro commissionership will be decided between the present commissioner Morley P. Duff, and Ex-Mayor Frank Follwell. Six qualified for Board of Education with five to be elected.

Following are the seventeen candidates for alderman with seven to be elected: Harry Allen, Harold J. Armstrong, Clarence R. Clapp, H. J. Clarke, Arthur Cruji, Angus Duffy, William Harvey, Bruce Lattimer, J. H. Lazenby, Everett Liddle, Bryson Reid, A. C. Reynolds, T. D. Ruston, Joseph Shortt, F. A. "Duke" Smith and Donald Thomas.

Qualifying for Board of Education were: A. C. Campbell, George Wishart, E. A. Geen, John Fisher, Dr. R. W. Tennent and Enos David.

4 Municipalities Return Reeves By Acclamation

Four Hastings County municipalities returned reeves by acclamations at the nominations held over the weekend.

James Sprackett, veteran councillor of Tudor and Cashel was returned to the reeveship. Reeve Clarke Rollins, Wollaston is back again in office. In Huntingdon Township Arthur S. Hagerman succeeds Arthur Jones who headed the council for the past two years. Reeve George West, of Madoc Village and warden of the county announced his retirement from civic government and is succeeded by John Kincaid, who received an acclamation.

The Huntingdon Township Council received an acclamation. It includes Councillors Elmer Woods, Cecil Geen, Morley Haggerty and Mac Sarles.

Industrial Equipment With $95,500,000 to Be Supplied to Britain

London, Nov. 29 (CP)— Industrial and heavy equipment worth $95,500,000 will be supplied to British industry from United Kingdom and Canadian factories the government announced Sunday night.

The orders will be financed through the European Recovery Program. Without detailing the amount earmarked for Canadian orders, a government statement said that the deliveries are scheduled for the last quarter of 1948 and the first quarter of 1949.

They will include construction and mining equipment, turbines, generators, motors, office and textile machinery and will be distributed among 2,500 firms.

Give Aspirants For Office Chance To Express Views

Aspirants for aldermanic honors, Board of Education and for Hydro Commissionership, will be given an opportunity of expressing their views on municipal matters at a public meeting being held Thursday evening at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium.

The meeting, sponsored by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, is scheduled to get underway at about eight o'clock.

H. C. Seldon, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, told the Ontario Intelligencer today that the Chamber of Commerce although sponsoring the public meeting, was not setting forth any candidates, or slate of candidates, for election. The meeting was being sponsored to give aspirants to public office the opportunity of expressing their views on municipal matters, and also in an effort to get out the vote.

All candidates for public office will be treated fairly with respect to time allotted for each address. Prior to the meeting a set time limit for speeches will be set and a stop-watch will be used to keep speakers within their time limit.

A mimeographed copy of the names of all aspirants for office will be handed to the general public as they enter the auditorium. Beside each name will be a space which may be used by members of the audience to make notations with respect to each candidate.

MISS CLARA ADAMS
(Toronto—Belleville)

Miss Clara Adams died in the General Hospital, Toronto, on Sunday morning. For many years she made her home in Toronto and prior to moving to that city she and her late sisters conducted for a considerable time a fancy goods and wool wear shop in this city. During her residence here Miss Adams was a parishioner of Christ Church. Old friends in this city will regret to learn of her death. Surviving her is one brother, Mr. Edward Adams, Toronto.

Announcement of the funeral, which will take place from the Quinte Memorial Chapel, 210 Church Street, is made elsewhere in this edition.

LATE MRS. MARGARET E. McCAW
(Maynooth)

On Saturday morning the funeral of Mrs. Margaret Ellen (Munro) McCaw, wife of Mr William J. McCaw, Maynooth, was held from the residence of Mr. John McCaw, Bancroft, to St. John's Anglican Church in that village where service was conducted by the Rev. C .Wright, who also said the committal prayers at the graveside in the Bancroft Anglican Cemetery.

The bearers were Stewart Wood, William Broad, Robert Ellerbeck, John Follis, Arthur Severn and Archie Eddy.

MRS. AILEEN (FINCH) HOGG
(Campbellford)

Allan's Mills, Nov. 29 (Special) — Mrs. Aileen (Finch) Hogg, wife of Mr. Wesley Hogg, Campbellford, and formerly of Rylestone, 9th. concession of Rawdon township, died in the Belleville General Hospital late Saturday evening after a brief illness.

The late Mrs. Hogg was born twenty nine years ago at Rylestone, and was a daughter of Mrs. Mabel Finch and the late William Finch. The greatest part of her life was passed in the district where she was born and for the past four and a half years she made her home in Campbellford. She was a member of the Gospel Hall, Campbellford.

Surviving her are her husband; her mother; one sister, Miss Mildred Finch and one brother, Cecil Finch, both of Rylestone.

The funeral will be held from the Bennett Funeral Home, Campbellford, on Tuesday afternoon.

Wounded Youth Taken 350 Miles by Car To Hospital by Doctor

Little Current, Nov. 29. (CP) —Dr. John Henry Sunday night set out over north country roads for Toronto, taking a critically injured Indian youth 350 miles by auto for an emergency operation on a bullet wound in the head.

The youth, 15-year-old Lawrence Aguonie of Green Bush, was accidentally shot by a .22-calibre rifle in the hands of a friend, 12-year-old Godfrey Modess, of Little Current, police said.

A freeze-up a few days ago stopped the regular air service to this Northern Ontario community on Manitoulin Island.

Over 400 Members Of K. of C. Gather From District

Yesterday afternoon in the local club rooms of the Knights of Columbus over 400 members gathered, the largest in the history of the club. Joining with the local members were representatives from Brockville, Kingston, Perth, Smiths Falls, Gananoque, Trenton and Cobourg. The First Degree was exemplified by the Belleville Council and the Second Degree by Brockville with the Major Degree conferred by Past State Officer Bernard Costello and his staff from Kitchener. Fifty-five members were initiated into the Order during the afternoon and at the conclusion over 300 members adjourned to St. Michael's Academy where a bountiful banquet was provided by the wives of the Knights of Columbus. Here, in his capacity of chairman, Rt. Rev. Monsignor Nicholson, V. G. warmly welcomed the visiting priests of the district and everyone present. Excellent entertainment was provided by Mr. and Mrs. William Grant and family, with xylophone numbers and songs and Mr. Ed. Brown sang several solos, all of which were enthusiastically received. Grand Knight Frank Domenico as Senior Officer expressed appreciation on the day's activities.

CNR Conductor, James F. Charlton, Retired Saturday

James F. Charlton, a former resident of this city for many years and now living at Parham, north of Kingston, made his last run as a C.N.R. conductor on the second section of No. 18, which arrived in this city early Saturday morning. He was met at the station by members of his family, yard master Robert Johnston and his wife and other friends to wish him good luck during his years of retirement. His two brakemen, Charles Shannon and William Bannon, presented him with a beautiful gold penknife and chain.

Mr. Charlton joined the C.N.R. as a firemen in 1916 and in May of the next year changed to tail end becoming a brakeman. He was classed as a conductor in 1920 and has been running since that time. Mr. Charlton rode over both divisions, Toronto and Brockville, and was well known and highly respected among his fellow railway employees. The retired conductor is married and has two daughters, Mrs. James Bray of Parham and Mrs. Harry McMartin of Stewartville, her husband being employed by the Hydro Commission. It is the intention of Mr. Charlton to live retired at Parham.

Missing Turn, Car Topples Over River-bank

Missing the turn in the road as he drove east along Colborne Street, Arthur Fowler, 71, of Montrose Boulevard, Toronto, drove his car over an embankment and into the Moira River early Saturday evening. Mr. Fowler received only a shaking up and a bump on his head, while his car was damaged slightly about the front.

Mr. Fowler was driving into the city and missed the turn at the south end of Coleman Street. His car crossed the south end of Panter's Park and toppled over the bank into the river.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude McRae, Lonsdale, Ontario wish to extend their thanks to the friends and neighbors for the miscellaneous shower given them, and the many lovely gifts they received. They would also like to thank the W. A. of Lonsdale for the lovely gift presented them, at the social evening held at the home of Mrs. Elgin McAllister. N29

Warden Geo. West Retires From Municipal Life

Reeve Geo. West of Madoc Village and warden of the County of Hastings will retire from municipal life at the expiration of his term of office as head of the county government, it was announced today.

"Just getting a little bit tired, and I feel I should take a rest after years of service to my community," Warden West said this morning.

Warden West, well-known business man of the county, entered municipal government sixteen years ago as member of the Madoc Village Council. He retained that position for a period of four years, and then was given an acclamation as reeve of the village He has had eleven consecutive nominations as head of the village council and last year was given the highest honor the county can bestow.

During his tenure of office as a county councillor, Warden West was chairman of the Finance Committee for two years, and served on the Agricultural and Children's Aid Society Committees at other times.

He was a popular member of the County Council and as one of its veterans will be missed at the regular sessions.

Warden West will be succeeded as Reeve of Madoc Village by Mr. Jack Kincaid.

IN MEMORIAM

SILLS—In loving memory of our dear son Elton Sills who died Nov. 29th., 1940 from injuries received in a rugby game.

Sweet memories will linger forever,
Time cannot change them, it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever,
Our loving remembrance of you.

Sadly missed by mother, dad, Donna, LeRoy and grandparents. N29

CHISHOLM—In loving memory of my dear mother, Abbie Chisholm, who was laid to rest Nov. 29th., 1946.

The face I loved is now laid low,
Her loving face is still,
The hand so often clasped in mine,
Lies now in death's cold chill,
I often sit and think of you, mother dear,
When I am all alone.
For memory is the only thing,
That grief can call its own.

Sadly missed by daughter Lizzie, Simon and grandchildren. N29

HARROW—In loving memory of my dear grandfather, Alfred Harrow, who passed away Nov. 29th., 1938.

Time may heal the broken-hearted,
Years may make the wound less sore,
But it cannot fill the longing,
For the loved one gone before.
Who shall say the grief is lessened,
Though the smile may hide the tears,
Memories keep the wound still open,
Despite the passing of the years.

Sadly missed by Lila, Rose and great-granddaughter Doreen. N29

HOGLE—In fond and loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Bruce Hogle, who departed this life November 29th., 1945.

Oh! How we miss you, dear mother,
As you calmly lie asleep,
But we know that our dear Savior,
Will over you a vigil keep.
You were such a precious mother,
Always ever just the same,
That we'll never, oh, no never,
Ever breathe a sweeter name.
When He called you home, dear mother.
You had no time to say farewell,
But we know what was expected,
Of His Salvation we will tell.
Oft times for your family's pleasures,
To make them happy, gay and blithe,
You would give up all your treasures
Of your own joys you'd deprive.
You were pure as any flower
Sprinkled with the heavenly dew,
Patiently we await the hour
When we're gathered home with you.

Lovingly remembered by daughter Ila. N29

R. A. BARFORD

Ray Barford returns to the advertising agency field in the capacity of manager of the eastern operation of James Lovick & Company Ltd. For the past four years Mr. Barford was general manager of Thomson Dailies, a chain of eight Ontario newspapers. Prior to entering the newspaper business, he was for twenty years with J. J. Gibbons Limited, latterly as a director.

As a member of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, Mr. Barford headed up the bureau management committee, which was active in promoting the cause of newspapers both in Canada and in Great Britain. During the past two years he was chairman of the delegation which toured Great Britain on a trade mission.

Mr. Barford now becomes a member of the firm of James Lovick & Company Ltd. The agency has offices in Toronto, Montreal, Calgary and Vancouver.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 29. (CP)—Western Oils stretched their advance into the third successive day, rising to the highest figure on the Toronto Stock Exchange's index since 1937. Gold brightened in moderate action as a wide list of issues showed narrow advances. Industrials were quietly firmer and base metals sagged in dull trading.

The oils moved at a slower pace than in their recent upward surge. Key issues opened on a downward trend but quickly firmed and climbed to higher levels. Anglo-Canadian was ahead 15 cents.

Home Oil recovered an early fractional loss and Calmont, Calgary and Edmonton, Leduce West and Okalta also strengthened.

Senior issues climbed strongly in the firming gold list. Dome added 3-4 and McIntyre was up 1-2. Sheep Creek, Pickle Crow, Preston, Macassa, Lake Shore, Kirkland Lake, Giant Yellowknife and Central Patricia were among the better gainers.

Industrials moved quietly upwards as a handful of selected stocks showed small fractional advances. Utilities brightened and a few papers firmed.

Noranda, and Quemont dipped fractions in a weaker base metals groups. Eureka, Waite Amulet and Quebec Labrador were also leaders. Pend Oreille, and East Sullivan strengthened.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP)—The livestock market showed a little strength today as prices on good offerings jumped 50 cents-$1 by noon. Calves and hogs were steady and lambs gained 25 cents. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle 3,100; calves 700; hogs 600; sheep and lambs 700. Left from last week's trading were 300 head and the present supply includes 900 stockers.

U.S. Business Good As Whole Despite Signs of Weakness

New York, Nov. 29. (AP) — Business as a whole is still good despite signs of weakness in several important directions, an Associated Press survey of strategic regions in the United States showed today.

American business leaders studied anxiously such straws in the economic wind as these:

1. A decline in department store sales.

2.—Scattered shutdown or lay-offs by small companies.

3.—Easing agricultural prices.

4.—Some business expansion plans either cancelled or postponed.

5.—An uneasy inertia in textiles and other soft goods.

A check of the business pulse in six regional areas of the United States showed a mixed trend. Lay-offs, for example, were becoming more frequent in New England and the Middle Atlantic States—but employment was still swinging upward in the southwest. Prices were easing in the south, but still edging higher in the midwest.

Tweed

Kinsmen Hear Manager of Mine

Tweed—The regular meeting of the Tweed Kinsmen Club was held during the past week at Mr. Harold Bramley's Kanata Beach resort with Mr. William Dickie, manager of the Nichols Chemical Plant, at Sulphide, as guest speaker.

He discussed the processing, manufacture, and uses of sulphuric acid. He also told of the early history of the Sulphide plant which was established around the turn of the century when iron pyrites was mined and later, the plant was built. The mine was closed down in 1924 and the ore burned at Sulphide was shipped in from the Noranda mine in northern Quebec.

Leslie E. Adair, Britton, Wins Award for Highest Scoring Cheese at British Empire Show

Many times winner of the local cheese show, Leslie E. Adair, of Britton, in Western Ontario, was again top man at the British Empire Dairy Show which opened in Belleville this week in conjunction with the annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association.

Mr. Adair showed the highest scoring cheese of the show, an August cheese, which scored 98.35 points out of a possible 100. His prize winning cheese last year was scored at 98.6 points.

Western Ontario makers again were very successful in the show, taking many of the higher prizes and trophies. The local cheese show offered a total of $1,700 in prize money, the greatest of any cheese show in the Dominion this year.

For exhibiting the highest scoring cheese of the show, Mr. Adair won the grand championship prize of a silver tray offered by the T. Eaton Company Ltd.

T. S. Aichen of Belton, Ont., was top winner in the British Empire Special for factory cheese made during September and October, his prize winning cheese scoring 98.15 points. He won the Silver Challenge Trophy donated by the DeLaval Company. Other winners in this class were L. E. Adair, Britton, Calvin V. Smith of Atwood and J. M. Aichen, Glanworth, Ontario.

Won Other Prizes

In addition to the Eaton Trophy Mr. Adair won the prize for showing the best finished cheese, offered by the Montreal Provision Trade Association, and also the Walker Wallace trophy for the highest scoring September cheese.

The John H. Echlin Memorial Cup awarded to the maker from Central or Eastern Ontario showing the highest scoring cheese, was won by Horace Palmer of Foxboro, while the same maker won the F. A. Morgan Memorial Trophy for the highest aggregate score by a Central Ontario maker. The J. P. Griffin Challenge Shield was won by Instructor George Pollard whose group won the greatest amount of prize money in Central Ontario.

Three Grain Kings Hail from Canada, Expect Two More

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Chicago, Nov. 29 (CP)— The wheat, oats and soybean kingships already in the Canadian fold, exhibitors from the Dominion today were favored to add the rye and barley crowns at the 49th International Livestock Expositions.

The rye and barley kings will be picked this afternoon at the International Grain and Hay Show, held in conjunction with the Livestock Exposition.

Sydney John Allsop, ruddy-faced farmer from Red Deer, Alta. a rich farming community 90 miles north of Calgary, was named wheat king of North America Sunday. John T. Elink of Hairy Hill, Alta., topped all competitors to win the oats king title. William R. Beattie of Staples, Ont., took top soybean laurels.

Allsop's Third Title

Allsop, who twice before took the title—in 1934 and 1947— won with an entry of fat, plump Reward variety of hard red spring wheat which weighed 66.9 pounds to the bushel. He thus bettered his record last year, when he won the crown with a 66.5-pound sample.

Elink's winning oats sample was aptly of "Victory" variety. The triumph marked the 13th straight time the oats crown remained in the Dominion. Alex Stewart and Son of Ailsa Craig, Ont., entered the prize-winning sample last year. This year their entry did not reach the finals.

Beattie won with his Lincoln variety of yellow soybeans.

Canadians even invaded traditional American agricultural fields, and won. Harold Holdaway of Blenheim, Ont., took a divisional first in yellow corn, notably an American products. His camp of genuine pfister hybrid bested entries form 25 American competitors. Two other Blenheim farmers, Archie and D. H. Laird, took first and second places, respectively, in Flint corn.

The judging of livestock gets into full swing in most divisions today and Canadians hope to take some major prizes. Five provinces have entered $1,000,000 worth of prizeworthy animals in the livestock show.

Nominations

MARMORA

Marmora—Nomination meetings held by Marmora and Lake Township and Marmora Village councils on Friday, were of a quiet nature and in each case attended by a small gathering of electors at the meeting, presided over by clerk Thomas Bateman.

In the afternoon acclamation was accorded Marmora and Lake Township council, all last years members being returned as follows: Reeve, John A. Bell; Council, George Davidson, Irwin McCoy, John Wilkes, Charles Kelly; School Trustees, Joseph Hulsman, John McCann.

Reeve Bell has completed twelve years of service to the township in that capacity.

E. C. Prentice, clerk of the village presided at the meeting held in the townhall in the evening.

Nominations were received as follows: Reeve, Vincent M. Lynch; Council, Ritchie Wells, Fred S. Johnston, John Reynolds, Percy Gray and Arnold Walker.

For School Trustees (3), J. W Hickey, William Bishop, D. B Sanderson. For Hydro Commission, Geo. Forestell, Ralph E. Neal.

It is improbable that an election will be occasioned in the village. Nominees had until Saturday evening to qualify.

MADOC

Madoc—On Friday night nomination was held in Madoc village. George West, who has held the office of reeve for eleven years is retiring and John Kincaid of Madoc, has been elected reeve of Madoc village, by acclamation.

Councillors nominated were Ed Armstrong, Percy Derry, (J. W. Hulin), (J. McGowan), (Phillip Rivers), and Murray Smith. (Those in brackets are old councillors), (Kincaid being the 4th.).

Public School Trustees, Ken West, Lloyd Blue, Percy Holland, Will Hart and Chas. Johnson. (Three to be elected).

Hydro Commission, Tom Rupert (accl.).

Nominees had till Saturday night to qualify.

TWEED

Tweed—A large crowd of ratepayers of the Village of Tweed were present on Friday night at the Township Hall to nominate a new council for the coming year.

There were four nominated for the office of reeve, with ten nominated for councillors: four to be elected.

There were two nominations for the office of Public Utilities Commission, since the term of Albert J. Maynes expires at the end of two-year term.

Garrett D. C. Morton, village clerk, declared nominations closed at 8.30 p.m., and asked for a chairman to take charge of the meeting. Mr. T. N. Beatty was chosen and in his remarks he asked that the meeting be orderly and attentive.

The members of last year's council are as follows: Reeve S. A. McCarey; Councillors: T. C. Graham, Edmond Long, Ellard V. Clarke, and Ambrose Trudeau took their places on the platform.

Mr. W. S. Gordon, chairman of the Parks Board, gave a very fine report of the activities of the Board, during the past year. He also gave the financial report, which showed a nice balance on hand after the season's operations.

Five cottages have been erected at the Park and these cottages have been occupied at different times during the year by forty families from as far away as Ohio, Illinois and Pennsylvania. They all were delighted with the surroundings at the park and said they would be back another year.

High School Report

Mr. T. N. Beatty gave the report from the High School Board, in the absence of Mr. Felix Rashotte. He gave a very fine report from the school and he paid a special tribute to Mr. Langevin, and Mr. Jack Lemke, who live near the school. They discovered a fire in the school last Spring and if it hadn't been for their prompt action and also that of the fire department, the school would have been burned down.

Reeve McCarey in his report on the affairs of the village for the past year, said that "we, the people of Tweed, had much to be thankful for, no epidemics of any kind and no serious fires".

He explained the increase in assessments and the increase in taxes during the year and also gave a report from County Council. He thanked his proposer and seconder and said that if his name appeared on the ballot he would appreciate the support of the people of Tweed, on election day.

Councillor T. C. Graham, chairman Fire and Light Committee, thanked his sponsors and gave a fine report on his department. He told of the repairs that had to be taken care of at the fire hall which cost a lot more than had been estimated. He paid a fine tribute to the fire department when they fought a stubborn fire at the Tweed foundry and also the high school. He also mentioned a tribute paid to the fire department by an inspector who visited Tweed during the Summer.

Councillor Ambrose Trudeau, chairman of the Waterworks Commission, spoke of the difficulties they met with during the year making any new connections to the water system. Finished the year with a small surplus.

Councillor Edmond Long, chairman of the Street Com. told of the trouble his department had keeping the streets cleared of the snow that fell last Winter and keeping the streets clean during the Summer.

Councillor Ellard Clarke, chairman of Finance, told of the trouble his department had in keeping expenses within the estimates.

Candidates Heard

A few minutes were given at this time for each candidate to say a few words. Reeve S. A. McCarey was first called on to give an account of his stewardship, and in a few words he told of his associations for the past four years in trying as he saw fit to manage the affairs of the Village of Tweed. He finished by saying, that if his name should appear on the ballot paper, for the people of Tweed to use their franchise that has been given to them as they see fit.

T. C. Graham said it was a surprise to him to receive a nomination for reeve, but after two years in the Council and ten years on the school board, he would think it over.

E. W. Jones made it known that he would not be a candidate.

E. V. Clarke wanted a little time to think it over.

Councillors

Mr. A. J. Snare thanked his sponsors and said that he was a very heavy taxpayer and that he was keenly interested in the Village of Tweed. He complimented the old council on their success during the past year and solicited the support of the ratepayers if his name should appear on the ballot.

Resident Chooses Middle of River For Cold Bath

The old saying that it takes a good cold bath to sober a man must go double for a certain West Hill resident who Saturday night chose the middle of the Moira River for its sobering effect.

Pedestrians using the lower bridge across the river were startled when in the darkness they were able to see a man standing in the centre of the river, the water coming well up above his hips. The man had doffed his coat and stood in his shirt sleeves.

Police were called to the scene and fearing the man might drown, Constable William Foster waded out and brought the man to the bank.

Whether or not the man had been inebriated when he waded into the river police were unable to say but when brought back to the bank he was "dead" sober. The would-be water sprite was taken home where a neighbor put him to bed.

Better Car Care Urged by Police As Winter Nears

A car check-up at the present time may save trouble when with the approach of winter traffic conditions become more hazardous, motorists were advised today by Police Chief Walter Probert of the Belleville Police Department. The local police department is co-operating with the Ontario Department of Highways in urging better vehicle care as an important means of preventing winter traffic tie-ups and auto accidents.

"Safety inspection should result in correction where needed," it was advocated. "Brakes, lights battery, tire chains defroster and windshield wipers should be looked over not overlooked. There's a lot of truth in the old saying "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

During the winter months street clearance crews and highway snow removal teams will put forth their best efforts to keep roads open and reduce the danger of ice, but drivers must be ever-conscious of their individual responsibilities for accident-prevention, it was pointed out.

"With a good vehicle and good roads, drivers must realize that their own safety and the safety of others depends directly on how they behave behind the wheel," Chief Probert said.

"Drivers must avoid jack-rabbit getaways, lengthen distance between cars, start stopping sooner, apply brakes gradually, use tire chains when needed, always be on the alert for pedestrians and avoid parking where cars will impede snow removal crews," he added.

Marmora

Reeve V. Lynch, Village Council Given Acclamation

Marmora — Acclamation has been accorded Marmora village council and other municipal officers coming up for nomination on Friday. Reeve V. M. Lynch is entering his second year in that office. There is one change in the council, Arnold Walker replacing Major Percy Gray, who is now employed in Renfrew. Councillor Walker is not new to municipal affairs, having previously served as councillor on Bancroft village council.

The council will be: Reeve, V. M. Lynch; councillors, R. Wells, J. Reynolds, F. S. Johnston and A. Walker. Three school trustees returned to office are J. W. Hickey, W. Bishop and D. B. Sanderson.

G. Forestell returns to his duties as hydro commissioner.

In Marmora and Lake township the 1948 council was re-elected as follows: Reeve, John A. Bell councillors, I. McCoy, C. Kelly, G Davidson and J. Wilkes.

Reeve Bell has filled that position for the past twelve years.

Held on Charge Of Carrying Guns Illegally

Peterborough, Nov. 29 — (CP) —Albert N. Asseltine, of Toronto, is being held here on a charge of carrying guns illegally following a party at Lakefield, 10 miles north of here, Saturday night. Asseltine was arrested Sunday morning by provincial police after he had left the Lakefield home where it is alleged he lined a group of people against a wall and brandished a revolver. The host, William Corby, is still in hospital following an operation for a hand wound received in a scuffle with Asseltine.

According to police, Asseltine had been at the party when he grew angry over some dispute. Drawing a revolver from a shoulder holster he ordered the others present to line up against a wall in the living room.

While the scuffle was going on Mrs. Corby telephoned police at Peterborough and Lakefield but before police arrived Asseltine had left. The arrest was made near Fowler's Corners on No. 7 Highway. In the car was found what was described as "a small arsenal." The haul included a German submachine gun, with two loaded clips, a loaded ammunition belt; a revolver in shoulder holster and a single-barrel shotgun. There was plenty of ammunition for all the weapons, searchers said.

HAVE RESPECT FOR ELDERLY PEOPLE

This swift-moving, modern life holds many handicaps for elderly people. Crowded streets, stores, transportation! Here's a good opportunity to lend a friendly hand . . . by guiding an old lady or gentleman across a busy intersection . . . giving up our seat on the bus! The reward will be generous. A grateful smile . . . a happy lift from an unselfish act. You will be doing one of the "little things" that make for "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

Berlin Airlift

Another effort is being made to reach a solution of the problem of the Berlin crisis, this step being made by the "neutral" members of the Security Council. Berlin is seen as the key to all future peace efforts. Russia's attitude however does not indicate encouragement as to settlement for those who would like to see such a success because it would possibly lead the way to further understanding.

The outlook therefore is not bright that the Allied air program which is taking vast amounts and supplies of food into the German city will be able to cease its efforts as a result of settlement. On the other hand it has been shown that there is no likelihood of the Russians being able to force the dropping of the airlift, which the British and Americans have indicated they can maintain throughout the coming winter months. Facing November conditions which are never of the best for flying, the Allies have been able to carry on their work.

The Russian zone in Germany is feeling the pinch for the blockade the Russians launched affects the supplies feeding the Russian area of the city, among these being materials which would normally have come in from the western zones, such as iron and steel.

As a consequence "the Russian zone is far behind Western Germany in production and its population has been reduced to starvation levels," comments the New York Times. "Since Russia has been pre-empting the production of its zone for its own benefit, this development hits not only the Germans but Russia itself."

Russia has been losing from the standpoint of prestige in Germany and outside of Germany. That is one of the repercussions of the Russian attitude. The Allied Powers have dared to face the Russia effort in the blockade and this is reacting favorably upon those whom Russia would like to impress with her might. The Germans see this situation and they are not alone in this. The other nations are impressed with the demonstration of the Western Powers in the counter-blockade, carried on with so much strength and determination.

Russia of course as the centre of Communist effort must be rather disconcerted for this is the very opposite of what the Russians are seeking.

The airlift is having an effect upon the Communist effort there being signs of recession of its influence on the neighboring states about Russia. So the Allied program is making use of this present situation to reveal Russia before the rest of the nations. The result is seen in a turning of the tide.

Easing the Power Cut-Off

Electricity users naturally welcome the reduction in the cut-offs of electric power here and everywhere in the Province where they have been in force of late to conserve power. Some municipalities by keeping their consumption within the lowered quota permitted them weathered the situation without interference except in as far as it called for the co-operation of every user to keep down the consumption of electric energy. Others did not.

The morning change will be welcomed, because it affected a great number, those who were going to work and those who prepared the meals. The late afternoon hour cut-off remains alone of the three, the half-hour cut-off from seven fifteen p.m. to seven forty-five being eliminated. This cut-off had meant the changing of the starting of the moving picture shows and its removal means that the shows will revert to the customary hour of opening.

The afternoon cut-off is slightly modified, beginning at five minutes after five o'clock, an improvement on the five o'clock beginning of the cut-off and appreciated by the merchants and their customers and workers and proprietors of plants.

It is important to realize that the very considerable fall of rain for some days in the areas from which water flows into the rivers and lakes which feed the electric plants has been responsible for the easing of the cut-offs. It is pointed out that there however should still be the utmost care in saving power. The five per cent increases allowed in quotas should therefore be an inducement to all persons using electricity not to waste for the winter has yet to come and there are long weeks ahead when the amount of daylight is at the least during the year.

It is natural for people to hope that the weather may remain mild and that there may be enough rains to add materially to the supplies of water. Mild weather will allow water to flow into the reservoirs and lakes and rivers on which the amount of electricity depends.

GIVE THE CHECK TO DAD

The bill of fare is printed in the boldest sort of type.
The prices all are quoted down from caviar to tripe,
But a curious fact I've noticed when my loved ones dine with me
Is the price of what they order they insist they failed to see.

Now I trust them and believe them and to this I've grown resigned:
The most expensive dishes on the menu card they find.
Though the cost of them is printed just as plainly as can be,
They are always very sorry that the price they didn't see.

I love them all so dearly that their word I wouldn't doubt,
But I wonder, from the cheapest how they pick the costliest out?
How so artfully they manage,
when the check will come to me,
To choose the most expensive when the price they never see?

MODERN SPIRITUAL COMPLACENCY

A magazine has recently taken a poll inquiring into the religious views of what they consider a cross section of American society. They find that practically everybody believes in God, disbelieves in hell, and expects to go to heaven.

The over-all picture is that of spiritual complacency. There is almost a complete absence of a sense of guilt for any moral evil on the part of the American people. No doubt this condition arises from a number of causes. First of all, there has been very little religious education in the home in the past 50 years. The preachers have often toned down the Biblical message of final judgment and have preached that everyone who is good-natured and kindly will pass the pearly gates. Again, many ancient evils have been rechristened as smart modern customs. Most influential of all, we have passed through two world wars, and the moral and spiritual life of the world has been blasted to rubble just as many of the cities have been.

It is interesting to note that no generation has really got hold of itself spiritually until it has begun to beat its breast and to realize a profound sense of guilt.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

TRIUMPHANT FAITH

For five centuries the inspiring story of Joan of Arc has instilled hope and faith into the world. From the hills of France came this unlearned peasant girl — the Maid of Orleans — selected by God to lead the armies of France to triumph over her enemies.

Given her assignment, through heavenly visions, never did Joan question the divine origin of her mission. Leaving father, mother, brothers—all, she dedicated all that she was to France. Gathering a few loyal believers about her, she soon impregnated a great army with her high spirit. Nothing daunted her. France must be free!

And so, bareheaded, smiling, confident, armoured, with the sword of the Lord in her hand, "Boldly!," Joan cried to her men. "Strike! Strike! Strike Boldly!"

And now we have this thrilling story, told anew upon the screen, in Technicolor, starring Ingrid Bergman, and an exceptionally able staff of supporting actors. It is one of the most moving pictures I have ever seen. As it progresses it does something to you, and when it is all over, and Joan's martyrdom is stamped upon your consciousness, you experience an exultant note of personal spiritual triumph. Miss Bergman's superb acting, so sincerely performed, does it.

Joan of Arc, as a movie, is a technical triumph, beautifully and artistically photographed, and expertly directed. A great historic story is realistically portrayed. The little peasant girl, with the divine vision, her unfaltering faith, and her magnetic leadership of the armies of France. The storming of the fortress. Victory! Joan wounded. Later betrayed, imprisoned, tried, and condemned to die at the stake. Never, however, did that triumphant faith leave her—the immortal Joan!

This is one of those pictures that is more than mere entertainment. There's something else there. It creeps into your mind and heart as the picture moves to its climax. Then you rise from your seat, and take "that something" away with you.

Mackenzie's Column

Some Britons Think U.S. Still One of Colonies

Associated Press News Analyst
By DeWITT MACKENZIE

The British Colonial Office tells us that three per cent of Britons think the United States still is one of the colonies.

I never heard that one before, but am not surprised. Having lived in England many years I encountered some extraordinary motions about my native land and its people.

For one thing the average Briton has no idea of the vast expanse of the United States.

Many folk believ ethat savage Indians still rove the plains near Chicago. They also think (perhaps due to American motion picture westerns) that the "wild west" is full of two-gun men who shoot from the hip. Gangsterism is a predominant feature of American life, they believe.

Nasal Twang

Quite apart from these strange beliefs, Britons also find many oddities in American characteristics and habits. They want to know, for example, why Americans talk through their noses quite overlooking the fact the people in some parts of Britain also have a nasal twang. Our designation of a "lift" as an "elevator" passeth understanding.

The Other Way, Too!

Of course it is equally true that the United States has some strange ideas about Britain though my observation is that Americans know more about England than she does about the United States. Apropos of this, Lord Halifax made a neat quip in a recent speech before the English-speaking union in Britain. He said "the people in the United States are almost as pleased to see that Princess Elizabeth has had a son as we are" adding:

"That new feeling has come about because the American nation has, in the last few days, come to understand that George the Third is really dead."

Talk about one world! What hope, when even two old allies like Britain and the United States know each other!

It strikes this column that it's about time Americans inaugurated some more international educational courses so that we can get acquainted. Many of the misunderstandings among countries are due to ignorance or to false ideas about the other fellow.

John Bull, meet Uncle Sam.

World Wheat King Assured of Real Welcome Home

Edmonton, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Sydney John Allsop is assured of "some welcoming party" when he reaches his Red Deer home.

The 34-year-old farmer who Sunday won his second consecutive world wheat king title at the Chicago International Hay and Grain Show is en route home from Toronto where 10 days ago he won the world wheat championship at the Royal Winter Fair. It was his third wheat title at Chicago where he also won in 1934.

Over a 100-mile telephone line from the farm near Red Deer, south of Edmonton, where Mr. Allsop farms with his parents and younger brother, Albert, a woman — a poor connection made it impossible to identify her — said the family had heard the "good news and we are all very much thrilled." She added: "You can bet there will be some welcoming party."

The quiet, ruddy-faced farmer has been showing wheat since he was 16 years old, when he won the Royal Wheat Championship with an entry of turkey red variety in 1930.

MADAME CHIANG ON WAY TO U. S.

Guam, Nov. 29 — (AP) — Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, China's first lady, arrived here today on her mission to Washington.

She declined to see newspaper men. She is being flown to Washington in a United States navy transport plane but flight plans have been kept secret. The next stop, however, is expected to be Honolulu.

Nearly Score Of Persons Meet Violent Death

(By The Canadian Press)

The excitement of the Dominion Championship football final helped swell Eastern Canada's weekend toll of accidental deaths to 16.

An 87-year-old Calgary Stampeders' rooter, Walter Scott-Stone of Toronto, collarpsed and died while listening to a broadcast of the game. He did just a few minutes before the end of the game.

Also reported during the week end to the Canadian Press were six traffic fatalities; two killed in a southwestern Ontario shooting; an accidental shooting in Ottawa, two drownings, and three deaths from various other causes.

Three of the traffic deaths were in Quebec and four in Ontario. Two Montreal district men—Joseph Ross, 24, and Emilien Cordeau—were killed in an unexplained truck crash near Mackayville, across the St. Lawrence River from Montreal. In Montreal, 56-year-old James McMahon died in hospital after he was struck by a street car.

At Tillsonburg, police said John Vicius, 27, shot and killed his former employer, Bruno Gudavitch, 48. He shot Gudavitch's wife, Erma, 27, then killed himself with the gun.

Gerard Provist, 38, accidentally shot and killed himself while cleaning a rifle in Ottawa.

Truck Sideswiped . . . .

Alden MacVicar, 19, was killed near Exeter, when a truck sideswiped his automobile and overturned it. Another collision between a car and a truck, near North Bay, killed 52-year-old Duncan Moore of Mattawa. William Moroz, 51, of Sarnia, was hit by a car and killed near his home. Hit by a car Saturday, James Irons, 21, died Sunday in a Toronto hospital.

Ellis Holditch of Niagara Falls, Ont., was swept to his death in the racing Niagara River when he lost his footing and fell from a trestle. Near St. Armand, Que., George Brown, 82, was drowned when his rowboat capsized.

Joseph Fletcher, 23, of Binbrook, died in a Hamilton hospital. He had been sent there early last week after being kicked by a cow. In Montreal, a car fell off a jack in a garage and crushed Andre Boudreau, 24, to death.

Jan Cornelius Moogk, 3 1-2, was killed in an explosion in London, Ont. He pushed a broom, soaked with an inflammable liquid, into a furnace.

Textile Workers To Seek Increase In Wage Schedule

Montreal, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Key demand in the economic program of the Canadian district, United Textile Workers of America (A.F.L.) will be for a 20-cent general wage increase, it was decided here Saturday at closing session of the annual conference.

The conference drafted a program designed to bring textile wages up to equality with other major Canadian industries.

The program also calls for two weeks vacation with pay after one year and three weeks after 15 years payment for all legal holidays, overtime after 40 hours and double time on holidays, full seniority protection, employer-paid retirement pensions and accident and sickness insurance plan and the union shop.

A special resolution was passed on a dispute between the U.T.W. and the management of Penman's Ltd., involving 850 workers in Ontario plants of Paris, Brantford and Ayr.

The conference reported it had instructed union officers to warn the company that Jan. 3, 1949, was the deadline for a strike of the workers in the three plants if their demands are not met.

R. Kent Rowley was re-elected Canadian president by acclamation and Madeleine Parent was also re-elected secretary-treasurer.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letter should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. PARDON MY PESSIMISM.

Somewhere the other day, I can't remember just where, I read a brief paragraph that has imparted a bluish tinge to all my thoughts and brought on this lament. It was a statement that nearly three out of every four young men examined for the present draft are found unfit for military service. The rejection rate was much lower than at the time of World War II. Is the race degenerating? I hope the physical and mental standards required for the services have been raised since the last war, but I can't help thinking that the race is degenerating.

The manifestations of degeneration are so obvious on all sides that you can't ignore them.

The tremendous increase in drinking by children.

The gross, unfeminine habits of many women who smoke.

The rudeness and indelicacy of women who perform their toilet and apply their make-up in public.

The uninhibited way of movies the "comic" strips, the magazines and the newspapers parade and exploit sexual matters.

The constant portrayal of vicious crime on the radio.

The vicarious thrills of the youngster listening to the superhuman performances of his favorite radio hero.

The hysterical behavior of the "fan" watching a baseball or football game.

The unrestricted liberty of teen-age children with the family car or even their own.

The frightful increase in the divorce rate and the desertion or abandonment of children by their parents.

The readiness of so many young couples to put off raising a family until they have "had some fun" in the early years of marriage.

The willingness of many prospective parents to shift responsibility so far as possible to a hospital where they will be pushed around, as nonentities, and eventually given their baby, or at least a baby, to take home, and hand right over to the baby specialist.

The popular notion that it is all right for the children to be excused on one pretext or another from getting physical education in school.

The indifference to most people to the instruction offered by health and nutrition authorities everywhere concerning the serious deficiencies of the everyday refined diet of most Americans and the use of the protective foods to correct these nutritional deficiencies.

Why does a boy or girl take the first drink?

Why does any one drink?

The young person takes the first drink because he or she is coaxed, or persuaded, or dared to do so, and lacks the strength of character to decline with thanks.

The confirmed drinker indulges—well, his or her reasons, excuses or explanations are various—we'll consider them in a later article.

Whose fault that the boy or girl lacks the strength of character, the self-reliance or self-respect to say "No, thank you" in any circumstance?

Chiefly to blame for that are the child's parents. Contributing to the child's delinquency, deficiency, weakness or whatever you please to call it, are the child's uncles, aunts, big brothers or sisters, grandparents, the family physician, the pastor, school teacher, athletic coach, Scout leader—whoever has had a hand in or any influence on the training and development of the child. All of these sponsors have failed in their duty to the child, I contend, if they have not given the child the advantage of a solemn pledge of abstinence to help him or her over the formative years.

Such a pledge was a tremendous advantage when I was a kid, at any rate. From where I stand now it would seem too indispensable for the safety of the growing youngsters today — but then, as I said at the beginning, I take a dim view of the outlook for the children in these degenerate days.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

The Gray Woman

I'm one of the gray ladies you told about in a series of talks last year. I hit forty last summer, and I look eighty. I'm getting awfully tired of the hackneyed remark: "Why, how you have changed! Have you been ill?" (Mrs. F. A. H.)

Answer—The gray sickness. The gray women, I may have called 'em, not gray ladies. Do I call men gentlemen? Or salesmen sales gentlemen. Let's not be facetious about such things. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing for the pamphlet, Deficiency Anemia — The Gray Sickness. Meanwhile, are all of your 28 to 32 teeth working efficiently? Or you dentist's, if you have lost some of your own?

Prince de Bourbon Visits Mother In Quebec

Quebec, Nov. 29 — (CP) — A visit with his 86-year-old mother is the purpose of Prince Xavier De Bourbon's stay in Quebec he said in an interview published Saturday by Le Soleil.

The prince whose presense in told the newspaper interviewer he had not seen his mother, the Duchess of Bourbon-Parma, for 10 years until he arrived here with his wife and five children.

The Duchess of Bourbon-Parma whose 86th birthday anniversary occurred Saturday has been staying at a Quebec convent for several years. She is the mother of former Empress Zita of Austria who came to Quebec in 1942 but now is in the United States.

Prince Xavier who was interned during the war at Dachau for resistance activities in France said his plans were not to go to Philadelphia to live as first reported.

He said he expects to return to France shortly.

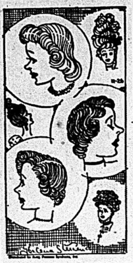
Cropped Hair-Do Requires Skillful Cutting



The charm of the short hair-do lies in its simplicity.

When the first bally-hoo for short hair was sounded, some dubious sisters recalled the early days of the bob. It seemed to them that that mode was not quite old enough to be new again. Now they realize that this is a vastly improved version of the style. Its perfection depends upon careful shearing, clever designing, tresses highly polished by the frequent use of the hair brush.

Its charm is in its simplicity, and simplicity is not as easy to attain as the word implies. Like the simple dress of fashion, it is dependent upon perfect lines. It does away with ringlets along the napeline, that always presented a problem when stringy strands wandered from the fold. The hair at the back is turned under or, if turned upward, it forms what a famous New York hair stylist has termed the 'petticoat ruffle'. It is merely a half curl swept upward in a soft fluff.

As a rule the length of the hair is not more than three and one half inches, front, sides and back, with the hair longer on the crown so there will be the flat-top effect. Sometimes the undergrowth receives a permanent wave to give it body.

While the high school and college girl may flaunt bangs, older women avoid them, believing still in the desirability of the graceful upswept effect in front.

Individuality of design is imparted by the parting that can be placed anywhere from the centre of the forehead to a spot several inches above the left ear. Some are short, some are long; some slant, some go backward and then down at the side. It is surprising how many arrangements are possible in this so-called "cabochon coiffure".

If you have pretty, dainty ears, you can display them; if you feel that they do not qualify you can cover them with little lambrequins of side locks. One interesting design shows ends turned under at the back, below a single wave line, the line continuing along the sides, forming flat ear muffs in the forms of one large single sculptured curl. In front the hair is rolled back, ends turned under. As usual, the crown is smooth and polished.

Beauticians claim that this new note has made women more conscious of hair health, since the growth must carry lustre. So the hair brush, discarded for many years of waves and ringlets, is put into action again. They say that the permanent wave business is not suffering from the short crop because some waving is necessary if nature has short-changed a woman on the natural curl.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Features For The Twenty-Fifth Wedding Anniversary

Dear Mrs. Beeckman: 1. Next month my husband and I are to celebrate our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. We had planned to celebrate this occasion with a big "at home" in our new house, but since it isn't finished we must postpone this and will have a housewarming later. For our anniversary party we will give a simple dinner party in a charming old house here that has been converted into a restaurant. There will be about twenty-five guests, relatives and intimate friends. Should there be place cards at such a dinner?

2. Is a wedding cake permissible?

3. If a toast is proposed, should my husband and I stand or remain seated? Am I right in thinking that it is not correct for us to drink this toast with the guests? And should someone respond to this toast?—N.M.

1. Yes, do have place cards. Planning to have them means that you can do your "home work" in making your seating-diagram, write the place cards, and then late in the afternoon of the party you (or someone who can carry out your seating plans) can go to the restaurant and place the cards. Much off your mind, this way. Also you may buy charmingly appropriate place cards for this special occasion, perhaps with a wedding-y design, or, perhaps even better, write the names in silver ink on plain white cards, and above the names the dates for the occasion . . . 1923-1948.

2. And please plan to have a bride's cake (not the dark wedding cake, but a bride's cake, which is a white cake covered with white frosting). Not only is this "permissible", but it adds a sparklingly festive and charming theme-song to a wedding anniversary party. Then you, the "bride", cut the first piece and share it with your "bridegroom", as the bride does at her wedding reception. Then, if you wish, you may cut the rest of the cake to be served to the guests, or you may have a waiter or other attendant do this. If possible, have the caterer get the tiny silver candies (dragees) and use them to outline the initials and dates on the cake.

3. Let's not say IF a toast is proposed to you and your husband, for if you think there is any possibility one won't be proposed, make pre-arrangements to have someone prepared to do this. (If the best man at your wedding is to be present at this celebration, ask him to propose a toast; if he isn't, ask some male relative.)

When the toast is proposed to you and your husband, all the guests rise, raise their glasses and drink the toast. You and your husband do not rise, and do not drink the toast. When the guests are seated, your husband rises, and replies with thanks for you and himself. After this important toast "to the bride and groom", there may be other toasts if the guests wish to make them.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

Fashion Flashes

CHALK UP a new success for velvet, that lovely fabric so popular once more, not only for dressy clothes but for everyday frocks as well. A smart all-day dress is a casual shirtwaist design with a tiny white pique collar, grosgrain ribbon collar, belt and buttons. Easy, three-quarter' sleeves are pique-edged.

A NICE COMPROMISE between a hat and no hat at all is achieved with a velvet covered band or bicycle clip with an ostrich tassel in downward sweep at one side. A tight veil gives a neat, snug look.

THREE CHEERS for the manufacturers who are working out new ideas in fit-all-size belts. A new model is in gold metal treated to look like fish scales and lined in black elasticized fabric that makes it properly adjustable.

NO END to the procession of stoles, an accessory that is worked for all it is worth, while it is popular. Black velvet lined with gold metal cloth with a narrow facing of the gold cloth, makes a stole guaranteed to do a nice job of smartening up a simple dinner dress.

A WINTER WONDER is the new wool sock, a regular sock, that is attached to a sole of special sponge rubber. The sock is nice for indoors, for sportswear, for wear inside winter wool or fur-lined boots. Best of all, it may be washed repeatedly without any harm to the sole, which makes it a very sockdolager of a sock!

STRIKING fur combinations mark the latest fur designs. A three-quarter length coat of black Alaska sealskin has a very dull flared back, and ordinarily would be just another nice sealskin coat. Instead it is most attractive, for it has a square yoke and high rising curved collar of beautiful marked leopard.

IT MUST BE that milliners are in league with the hairdressers, since it would seem that the majority of hats are designed solely for wear with a short, neat hair-do. The neat look is the smart look when it comes to the head and hat picture.

SOMETHING NEW to wear with the long evening skirt is the evening blouse of hand-knitted, very lightweight silk, wool or rayon yarn. Scooped out necklines, long or short sleeves, beautiful colors, some with geometrical designs in gold or silver for the yoke, make these blouses a standout group.

Beauty Routine for Your Hands

In cold weather, hands need frequent applications of a good hand cream to keep them smooth

By HELEN FOLLETT

HANDS up, sister! Are they handsome, or are they not? If not, why not? You have been neglectful. You have not used your lotion faithfully, or attended to other small duties that keep the feminine mitts in fine form and fettle.

The skin on the hands is subject to far more punishment than the cutaneous covering of the face. More attention should be given to them than to the complexion if they are to retain youthful appearance. Hands can grow old looking, the same as faces, long before their time.

Keeps Skin Soft

The natural lubricating substance that keeps the skin soft and smooth is removed because of frequent washing. There must be a substitute for this lack. Cold cream isn't quite the happy choice; a heavy massage emollient is better. Use it twice a week at bed time, giving your hands a brisk massage to force the cream into the flesh. And during cold weather, you should do this little task even if you use a lotion every day, especially during the winter season when the hands are likely to chap.

The lady of leisure with plenty of time to spend at the beauty shop for manicures and hand massage has no problems. It is the hard working housewife who has her hands in and out of cold or hot water many times a day who is troubled. To keep them looking nice requires diligent care.

Good Coloring

When creaming and massaging the hands, be sure to do circles over your finger nails. This treatment will produce good coloring, will make for the health and well being of your pink talons. Rub the cream well into the cuticle that surrounds the nails.

That is a good time to use the orange wood stick. Lift the cuticle gently. Never press down at the base of the nail; you may so injure the matrix that a deformed or ridged nail will result.

Don't fancy that when you have applied the glowing polish, you have done everything that is necessary. That's just the cream on the beauty cake.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Mother Competes With Her Daughter

A curious case of competition between a mother and her daughter for the father's affection is present in a letter written by a lonely wife who says:

"My problem is two-fold. My older daughter is her father's first love. He takes her out to shows, dinners and parties, and I am always left home alone. He says he won't go out with me on Sundays or otherwise, using our two-year-old baby as an excuse. We have no car and can not afford one.

"My second problem is that he does not want any more children, while I would like to have one more to grow up as a companion to the little one.

"I do my own housework without any help, as we owe money on the small house we own and cannot afford a maid. Many times I feel like taking the baby and leaving, and letting my husband live with this other daughter. I am very lonely and very blue at times. Could you suggest anything?"

I think the first thing this wife should do is to analyze herself and see if she can find any way in which she is failing as a congenial companion to her husband. Let her think back to their courtship and try to figure out what the things were about her that attracted the young man who wanted her for a wife. Any young man in love repeatedly tells the girl of his heart about the charms she has for him. He tells her how pretty she is, how much he likes the way she does her hair; he mentions her sunny disposition and happy ways, her gayety and good sportsmanship. In other words, she should try to remember what seemed to be the reason why her husband enjoyed being with her.

Once her memory has called up these qualities on which her husband complimented her when he was courting her, she can examine herself on whether or not she has let herself go on some of these points. Has that sunny disposition soured a little, so that she nags instead of being gay and pleasant? Has she slumped a bit in care of her appearance? Does she complain about all the work she has to do around the house and in the care of the children so that she never has anything really interesting to talk about? Does she pick on her husband instead of praising him, as no doubt she praised him while they were still young people in love?

All these are things about which she can do a lot, and none of them costs money, except, perhaps, improving her appearance, which she may feel would be helped by new clothes and beauty shop visits that she can't afford. But even though she has not the money for all the things she would like, there's nothing to prevent her from keeping herself clean, neat and as attractive as a pretty hair-do and a few good dime store cosmetics can make her.

But more important than anything else in making any man want his wife's company is for her to be invariably cheerful and feel that she is proud of him. What I gather from this wife's letter is that, now, she tries to make her husband feel that he ought to take her out; that it's a duty and an obligation. Such an approach is never going to get her anywhere. She must first make herself such a good sport and fine companion that he will want to take her out.

Let her try this program first and see how it works out. If she really goes wholeheartedly into it, it might very well be that her husband would be so pleased he'd agree to anything she wanted, even that baby.

Marmora. — A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Andrew's United Church Manse on Saturday November 20, when Jean Wannamaker, was united in marriage to Ronald McGarvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan McGarvey. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George D. Young, B.A., B.D. Mrs. Orville Pack of Malone, acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Pack was groomsman.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents. The couple left on a trip to Toronto and on their return will reside in Marmora.

Club Activities

ST. ANDREW'S GLEE CLUB

Marmora.—St. Andrew's Glee Club held their November meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wesley Grant. There was a good turnout of members and several visitors.

The business portion was conducted by Mrs. Thomson, who read the minutes of the previous meeting, with Mrs. Campion giving the financial report.

A letter from Mrs. Taft, a former member, now residing in Kingston, was read in part by Mrs. Thomson, in which she expressed thanks for birthday cards received recently from Marmora friends. Mrs. Prentice sang "In the Garden", with all joining in the chorus.

Rev. Mr. Young was the guest speaker and his subject dealt with the changes and development of Western Canada, where he had been stationed. He had a number of snapshots, which added much to the interest of his address.

Mrs. Alex. Fraser gave a delightful piano solo "Dance of the Dragon Fly", by Tschiakowsky, and a contest prepared by Mrs. F. R. Wells resulted in Mrs. Prentice and Mrs. Campion; Mrs. Thomson and Mrs. Potts and Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Grant having to draw for the prize which went to the first couple.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. W. Grant and Mrs. F. Grant. The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Connor.

All of Congregation Escape Uninjured As Fire Breaks Out

Kirkhill, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP)—Forty persons escaped uninjured when fire broke out Sunday in West United Church during the morning service. Kirkhill is 60 miles east of Ottawa.

Reverend J. Maxwell Allan, newly inducted Minister of the church, said there was "no panic whatsoever," in the congregation when the blaze was discovered.

The floor of the stone building was destroyed along with the pulpit and most of the woodwork at the front of the church.

The fire, which did $2,000 damage, was believed caused by an overheated furnace.

FANS FROM EAST AND WEST ATTEND RUGBY CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

Mary Campbell, left, had her loyalty divided at the Calgary Stampeders-Ottawa Roughriders game in Toronto on Saturday. She hails from Saskatoon but left Ottawa for the game. Vera Pack, right, was one of the lucky people who attended the game. She had to skip two days' work in Ottawa where as 250 Calgary supporters had to take a week off. (Central Press Canadian)

Canadian Opera To be Presented At Kingston

An original Canadian opera, written and composed entirely by members of Queen's University on a Canadian theme is to be presented at Kingston on Dec. 1, 2, 3 at the LaSalle Hotel.

The adaptation from Longfellow's poem has been done by two honor English students, Paul Roddick and Donald Warren. The libretto, though based on Longfellow, has been pruned so that it becomes dramatically possible. Music for this opera has been composed by Dr. Graham George who has twice won Canada wide awards for musical composition. He composed the music in Holland while on vacation there this summer. Dr. George's wife, a Dutch concert singer will sing the role of Evangeline. The opera will be sung entirely by Queen's Glee Club, and the music played by Queen's Symphony Orchestra.

Dr. George will conduct his own opera, and the director is Mr. Arnold Edinborough, who is President of the Queen's Faculty Players, and directed their entry for the Dominion Drama Festival last year. There are six different scenes in Evangeline, and expert designs have been created by Miss Martha Jamieson of Queen's Music Dept., who is fast building her reputation as a stage designer, as a result of her elaborate sets for Queen's Summer Theatre and Faculty Players.

This is probably the first all Canadian opera ... certainly the first all university opera. It should be a musical event of great importance, and many of the important musical figures of Canada will be there.

Tickets are available through the Queen's University Post Office.

40 D.P.'S ARE GUESTS

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 29—(CP)— Niagara Falls District Serbians Sunday formally opened their new $16,500 Community Hall and had as their guests 40 displaced persons now living in the Niagara Peninsula. The gathering was addressed by William Houck, Mayor of Niagara Falls and Liberal member of the Ontario Legislature for Niagara Falls who said: "Very shortly we are going to be one of the super countries of the world."

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Tweed. — The W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held their monthly meeting in the Church, Sunday School room on Tuesday afternoon, November 23.

The meeting opened with the President, Mrs. Hall in the chair.

After devotional exercises, the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted .The treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Jardine gave her report of money on hand.

The roll call was answered by those present.

The president then read Mrs. Jennie James' letter of resignation as president of the W.M.S. due to illness. This was accepted, with regret.

Mrs. M. W. Heslip gave a short account of the Council meeting in Toronto which she attended. It was decided to hold the annual meeting in December.

AIKENS' W.A.

The November meeting of Aikens' W.A. took the form of a community gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moon on Thursday night. Miss Palmer led a lively sing-song to get the evening off to a good start.

Mrs. S. Spafford took charge of the business meeting. The "Blue Cross Plan" was discussed and will be covered more thoroughly later.

Rev. Mr. Neelands was in charge of the election of officers for the W.A. in 1949. The new suggested slate of officers was read and approved and are as follows:

Past President, Mrs. S. Spafford; President, Mrs. B. Hollinger; 1st Vice President, Mrs. C. Smith; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. E. Hubble; Treasurer, Mrs. S. Marshall; Secretary, Mrs. M. Jeffrey; Pianist, Mrs. H. Hamilton; Flower Convener, Mrs. C. McMullen; Buying Committee, Mrs. B. Hollinger, Mrs. S. Marshall, Mrs. F. Moon; Committee for Homes, Mrs. W. Bailey, Mrs. F. Grills.

Mr. Neelands was the chairman for a short, but very enjoyable program which followed. Misses Marilyn and Maria Hollinger played a piano duet. Miss Joan Jeffrey sang, accompanying herself on the piano. Miss Barbara Hamilton played the piano and Miss Ruth Palmer sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. H. Hamilton. Mrs. S. Spafford moved a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Moon for opening their home to the group and Mrs. B. Hollinger led in two contests which were enjoyed by all. The ladies served delicious refreshments.

Coast Piers Busy As 18-Day Strike Comes to End

New York, Nov. 29 — (AP) — United States east coast piers today hummed with activity after a paralyzing 18-day strike of longshoremen.

New York's waterfront resounded to the familiar clatter of pier trucks and escalators Sunday as 2,200 men reported for work following settlement of the strike.

And a union chief said all 45,000 longshoremen and 20,000 clerks and handlers would be working today in ports from Maine to Virginia.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association (A. F. L.), also predicted "peace along the waterfront for a long time to come."

There also were new prospects of peace on the strike-bound Pacific coast.

C. I. O. longshoremen in the three major west coast ports have approved a proposed new contract following its endorsement Saturday by the Waterfront Employers Association. About 2,700 longshoremen voted Sunday in Los Angeles to end the 89-day maritime strike. Saturday 6,000 San Francisco Bay area longshoremen and more than 1,200 in Seattle took similar action.

The Atlantic coast longshoremen's strike, which had paralyzed shipping and slowed down many dependent industries, came to an end when the I. L. A. dockers voted 9 to 1 Saturday to accept a peace formula.

The men won several benefits, including a 13-cent increase in the day-shift straight - time pay to $1.88 an hour and an increase of 19½ cents in the night and weekend overtime rate to $2.82 an hour. The I. L. A.'s latest demand had been for increases of 25 and 37½ cents.

The east coast strike was estimated to have cost the port of New York and its shippers about $30,000,000 a day. It left more than 30,000 sacks of overseas mail piled up. Lay-offs in a number of industries resulted because they were unable to ship their products.

FANS FILL POCKETS

Toronto, Nov. 29 — (CP)—Estimates today were that the Calgary contingent took $100,000 from city slickers in Toronto on bets on Saturday's football final between Ottawa Rough Riders and Calgary Stampeders. Stamps won 12-7.

Though the amount that changed hands is hard to judge, Calgary fans on the Stampeder special were said to have raised $40,000 to bet at odds ranging from 8 to 5 to 2 to 1. At half time in the game, with Stamps leading 6-1, the books were laying off at even money and had plenty of takers.

A SPOT OF NEAT BLOCKING, WOT?—Above is an action shot of the Rockets-Trenton Flyers game played a week ago. Doug Bone who essayed a goalward rush runs into a neat bodycheck by Sherman, Flyer defenceman. Young Mr. Bone's upraised arm does not mean that he's about to bop the Flyer with a rabbit punch, nor is he waving to the girlfriend. The impact threw him off-balance as you'll note by the position of his skate. Incidentally Rockets won the tussle 4-2.

Team and Fans Due for Royal Welcome Home

Calgary, Nov. 29. (CP)—One of the wildest demonstrations in the history of this foothills city will greet Calgary's Grey Cup Champion Stampeders on their return Wednesday.

Acting Mayor P. N. R. Morrison proclaimed Wednesday as a civic holiday Saturday so that the whole city will have an opportunity of turning out to welcome home the victorious team.

Full details of the welcome celebrations still are under preparation but the team will be paraded through city streets and receive an official civic reception.

Wildly cheering fans poured out of downtown stores and business offices immediately following word of Stampeders' 12-7 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders, Saturday. Some of the most enthusiastic fans formed a long line and snake-danced down the main business street.

Majority of fans however, saved their "steam" for a real rootin' tootin' western welcome Wednesday.

Business almost came to a complete standstill in the city while the game was on as young and old sat with ears glued to radios.

Most ardent fan following the game from a hospital bed was Vivian Rowe, attractive wife of Stamps' fullback and team captain, Paul Rowe. Mrs. Rowe gave birth to a seven-pound son, Robert, a few hours before the game.

"Stampeders just had to win for Robert," Mrs. Rowe said with a happy smile.

The game pushed news of other events off the front pages of both Calgary newspapers.

Monday's edition of the Calgary Albertan devoted its entire front page to pictures of the game and antics of Calgary fans. Major portion of two inside pages was devoted to stories of the game.

The Calgary Herald devoted its entire front page Saturday to stories of the game.

Stamps' Fans Put on Great Show at Hotel

Toronto, Nov. 29 — (CP) — It might have looked like New Year's Eve and it certainly sounded like New Year's Eve. But it wasn't.

It was merely a horde of happy Calgarians celebrating the first Grey Cup the foothills city has ever won.

Hundreds of happy Westerners packed the main lobby of Toronto's largest hotel Saturday for a bit of a hoe-down.

They set up the goal posts in the lobby, packed it from wall to wall with cowboy-clothed singing, rollicking fans. It was so crowded that two guitar - strumming merry-makers used a table top for fear of strumming somebody's eye out.

One enterprising individual was busy sawing up the goal posts and selling souvenir slices at $1 each. But when the singing started he gave up money for music.

All around the mezzanine balcony, awed Easterners stood four deep, just watching.

The crowd sang everything but "Auld Lange Syne," concentrating, of course, on western songs.

Scores of persons besieged Stampeders' star lanky Negro end Woody Strode, for his autograph.

Several persons — obviously from Ottawa — were wearing black ribbons.

Ottawa Rough Riders left their el Saturday night.

The celebration was not confined to the hotel. All across the city and far into the morning, night-spots, bars and restaurants were punctuated with shouts of "Who won the football game?".

Players of both teams took time out to go on a coast-to-coast CBC broadcast two hours after the game from the Toronto Men's Press Club, where Mayor Hiram McCallum extended an official civic welcome. There was no let-up in the Calgary celebrations there.

Tom Brook, Stampeders' president, went on the air hugging the Grey Cup. He had carried it around ever since getting it right after the game from Percy Robinson, Canadian Rugby Union secretary.

Calgary players and supporters, togged out in their colorful cowboy outfits, took turns drinking from the venerable trophy. Some said it contained champagne, although maybe anything tasted like champagne to the victory-mad Calgarians.

Big Tony Golab was among the first of the Ottawans to congratulate the Calgary players.

SQUIDS AID NERVE RESEARCH

Adelaide, Australia — (CP) — Squids will play an important role in nerve function research at the University of Adelaide. Nerve fibres of this small type of octopus are so large that tiny charges in electrical potential during activity could be measured more accurately than in other animals. It is hoped that such measurements would help in tracing back the chemical nature of nerve activity.

DIABETES DANGER SIGNAL

Diabetes is more common in heavy persons than in people of normal weight.

Two defence stalwarts of the Belleville Rockets juniors are Tommy Schreider and Bill McKay who will be seen in action against the strong CNR Diesels here tomorrow night. Tommy, a husky defenceman, seems headed for a good season while Bill who guards the Rockets nets has shown fine form to date. This is his first year in a Rockets uniform.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 29 — (AP) — A short time ago, Norm Daniels, coach of the unbeaten Wesleyan University football team, explained his school couldn't accept a post-season bowl bid because that would mean cancelling the winter sports program. In a small college the athletes have to double up. As for the bigtimers, before the football players have had a chance to knock the mud off their cleats, here comes the basketball season in full swing . . . P. S.: The "winter" racing season opens at Tropical Park Wednesday. When is a fan or a sports writer supposed to get some rest?

The season's greatest example of wasted effort, in our opinion, was Saturday's national A.A.U. cross-country race at Detroit. Imagine running 6¼ miles to win by two inches. As Bob Black, Rhode Island State College junior, did in beating out Curt Stone of Philadelphia . . . The Braves' Earl Torgenson, who recently bought a house in Natick, Mass., is completing the rooms in an unfinished attic with the assistance of former Brave Hank Camelli. Frank Hiller, Yankee pitcher, is an auditor during the off-season and recently finished the task of checking the books of a big Newark, N.J., bank. He ought to do okay in contract negotiations.

Boston Bruins Win Two Games Over Weekend from Canadiens And Leafs to Increase Margin

(By The Canadian Press)

Boston Bruins smashed both Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs to sprint into a four-oint lead during the weekend s the National Hockey League assed the quarter mark.

The Bruins blanked Montreal 0 Saturday—the second straight me that Canadiens have been less on home ice—then ked Toronto 6-2 in Boston day.

e Maple Leafs fell apart in ton after giving Turk Broda second straight shutout Saty when they beat New York gers 3-0.

icago Black Hawks upset the Wings 5-3 in Detroit Saturight. But the Hawks hottest this year—three wins and n four games—ended Sunght when Detroit came o win 9-6.

ns shoved five goals past in a torrid second period. abando had beat the 34-d Vezina trophy holder n the first then Johnny and Grant Warwick each wo and Paul Ronty got the Frank Brimsek was well on the way to his second straight shutout until the final seven minutes when Ted Kennedy batted home his own rebound. With less than a minute remaining Max Bentley scored on Bill Juzda's pass.

A former Canadien, Jimmy Peters, was the big gun as Bruins shut out the Habs Saturday. He set up Porky Dumart for Boston's first goal then scored the second midway through the middle period.

Fourth in Five Nights

It was the fourth game in five nights for Leafs. Kennedy and Bentley had showed the way for the Stanley Cup holders the night before, each rapping in one goal with Bill Ezinicki getting the third.

Toronto hung on desperately during the final period against Rangers when penalties to Gus Mortson and Garth Boesch left Leafs two men short. Rangers poured in on Broda and once Edgar Laprade hit the cross-bar as the Toronto goalie was lying out of position on the ice.

Chicago's Bill Mosienko leaped ahead in the league's scorin race in Saturday's game with Detroit He counted four goals and an assist but was held scoreless in the second game.

A goal by Jerry Coutre and two by Pete Horeck sent Detroit ahead during the first 12 minutes of the Saturday game. But Mosienko scored two before the period ended and added one in the second, all on passes from Doug Bentley. He set up Roy Conacher for one early in the third and scored unassisted for the fifth.

Chicago's biggest hockey crowd this year—17,113—saw the Red Wings come back to take the return game Sunday night. They were even 4-4 at the end of the first, the Red Wings whipped in three in the second and both teams scored twice in the final period.

Couture sung three for the Red Wings while George Gee scored twice against his old team mates. Bud Poile, Jim Enio, Gord Howe and Sidj Abel got the others. Gaye Stewart with two, Roy Conacher, Metro Prystal, Gus Bodnar and Doug Bentley scored for Chicago.

The Kibitzer

Lend me your key to the crying room. Tears are still rolling down my back from what happened in this deal:

The bidding went like this:

South	North
1 C	3 C
4 C	4 NT
5 H	6 C

Mine was the south hand. It was pleasant news to get an assist with a jump from north. Not only did it assure me we had a game in that suit. There was promise in it that may lead to slam.

My partner's four no-trump was the ace and king teller-asker. In answer thereto, five hearts was Kibitzer convention reply. It showed one ace and one king. A king was out against us.

Small slam was where we belonged. A suit contract is usually easier to make than a no-trump contract. So, our most correct final bid by rule was six clubs. We were there.

Either one of us would have redoubled if an opponent decided to double. Our count had shown enough probable tricks. We found out we had enough aces and kings. It looked like the right spot.

But you can see what happened when west started out with the opening lead of a spade. East ruffed the first trick. Thereafter, they took a diamond trick to defeat the contract.

As you can see, six no-trump was a laydown. No lead can stop it. At no-trump, 12 tricks roll in with six clubs, three spades, two top hearts, diamond ace. But small slam in clubs takes a tumble.

It was heart rendering. It was worse when my partner remarked: "We should have gone to six no-trump." I am wondering where he gets that we stuff.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 29 — (AP) — Radio star Arthur Godfrey, here for a special air show, shook his famous red head at movie offers.

The salty personality of radio told me he has received some film nibbles, but figures the screen is not for him — yet. "I'm not in a position yet to get what I want," he said. "I want a producer to come to me and say 'I've heard you for quite a while and I know what kind of a guy you are.' I've seen too many radio people flop in pictures."

Brush Deal

"Fuller Brush Girl." That's the intriguing project planned by producer - director S. Sylvan Simon as a follow-up to his smashing success with Red Skelton. There'll be a search for the right "girl" for the title role, but don't be surprised if a famous redhead lands the part.

Danny Kaye tells about being at the Paris ballet recently and hearing a voice from the boxes shouting: "Hey, you silly-looking creep, what are you doing here?" Danny gazed upward and saw Gene Kelly, who is vacationing in Europe.

Bing Crosby has given up trying to interest his sons in golf. "I guess it's too slow a game for them," he laments . . . Maria Montez lost her voice for five days during the filming of "The Last Port" in France. It's hard to imagine Maria speechless.

Title Changes

Columbia is undergoing a rash of title changes. "Bonanza" is now "Greed," because it was feared easterners wouldn't know what a bonanza is. "The Lovers" (in which I hear Patricia Knight registers nicely) is now "Shock Proof." A studio wag comments that the latter is not a sequel to "Watch on the Rhine."

Betty Grable is intrigued with the idea of doing a musical with Harry James. Their one film together was "Springtime in the Rockies" in 1942. That was before she became Mrs. James.

Meadville, Pa. — (AP) — Robert Kosanovic was looking at his new house today with an eye to expansion.

And small wonder. Mrs. Kosanovic, who is 21, gave birth to triplet sons Sunday night in hospital. The couple's only other child, also a boy, is 11 years old.

Two of the newcomers weighed six pounds, 1¾ ouncer each, and the third five pounds, 3½ ounces.

"I sure never expected anything like this," said Papa Kosanovic.

Cherokee, N. C. — (AP) — Nearly 80 lovers of Indian lore gathered at the Cherokee reservation museum Sunday for a Red Man's feast.

The North Carolinians and Tennesseeans attending had their choice of 39 delicacies.

The menu included:

Drinks — sassafras tea and hickory nut milk. Breads — made from chestnuts, wild potatoes, hominy and beans. The main course — roast bear and barbecued rattlesnake.

Hollywood — (AP) — Her aching back will keep Betty Grable from the camera awhile, says her studio.

The actress strained a muscle in a scene where she lifts Ceser Comera from the ground. The doctor says she'll have to lay off such weighty subjects for a few days.

Denver, Nov. 29 — (AP) — The bride wore boots. So did the groom.

The cowboy boots helped them through their wedding ceremony.

When Mary Lou Van Line married William E. Gallagher Sunday, everybody was on horses. The couple got the idea from the start of their romance two years ago in a bridle path in Staten Island, N.Y.

The ceremony was interrupted briefly when the bride's palomino horse and the groom's pinto pony started nipping each other.

The horses made up for it by sidling together just as the ceremony ended so the bride and groom could exchange the traditional kiss.

North Bergen, N.J. — (AP) — A wandering locomotive, without benefit of engineer, came to grief in the New York Central Railroad's New Durham yards Friday.

Railroad officials said the engine had steam up and apparently started off by itself. It ended up on its side in a turn-table pit.

Swedesboro, N. J. — (AP) — Pilot Alan C. Light has discovered his airplane doesn't fly as well by itself as it does with him at the controls.

Forced to land in a field near a farmhouse, Light left the plane with throttle open and no chocks under the wheels.

The plane took off by itself, flew for several minutes, and then crashed.

Boston — (AP) — A little baby treatment — diapers and all — is the thing to curb rowdyism and vandalism.

Judge John H. Connelly suggested the treatment might put an end to Thanksgiving football brawls which were numerous in Greater Boston over the United States holiday.

It consists of sentencing the rowdies to live the lives of babies for 24 hours during which they wear diapers, drink from nippled bottles, and play in a baby-pen.

He said no one ever subjected to the "cure" came back to his juvenile court.

Compton, Calif. —(AP)— Merchants here have enlisted burly Compton college football players to help protect the weaker sex from women Christmas shoppers.

So men can shop without endangering life and limb, no women customers will be allowed in Compton stores the night of Dec. 6.

CBC Bd. Studies Pool Suggestion For Television

(By the Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Nov. 29 (CP)—Next meeting of the CBC Board of Governors likely will be held early in January unless something urgent occurs to make an earlier meeting necessary. The Board last met at the end of October.

It is possible that by early in the new year, CBC officials will be able to report on the Board's investigation into the possibility of developing television in Canada on a co-operative basis.

A. D. Dunton, chairman of the Board, and other CBC officials are working actively on the matter but are not ready to say anything for publication.

One thing being studied is a suggestion that the CBC and private stations pool resources to construct and operate trial television stations in Montreal and Toronto. These stations could be used to study ways of overcoming many kinks expected to develop at the outset of television's introduction in Canada.

The stations also could be used to train the staffs and the technical men needed to operate television stations and equipment.

Senate

Another round of speculation about the future of the Senate has started, throwing attention on the possibilities of reform of the Upper Chamber. It is spurred by a recent series of deaths among Progressive Conservative members which reduced that party's membership to 18 compared to 63 Liberals. There are 15 vacancies.

So far there are no indications that any official study is under way. Similar conjecture has cropped up sporadically in the past and died away without seeing any change.

Unofficial suggestions include one that the provincial governments should be allowed to recommend a certain number of new members. This would give a voice to more than the two old parties and would stem the trend towards an overwhelming proportion of Liberals.

AWARDED $1,000 PRIZE

Montreal, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Dr. E. W. Crampton, professor of animal nutrition at MacDonald College, has been awarded the American Feed Manufacturers Association $1,000 prize for outstanding contributions to animal nutrition research, it was announced today.

Dr. Crampton was selected by the American Society of Animal Production and the award was presented at the Society's annual meeting in Chicago today.

He was cited for his productivity and leadership in the field of animal research.

Rejoicing Fans Ran Interference For Man Escaping

Toronto, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Rejoicing Calgary football fans unconsciously ran interference Saturday as a convict, Dapper Hugh McIntosh, escaped from a police guard taking him to Kingston penitentiary.

He slipped his wrist through a handcuff and raced away from the train at Toronto's Union Station, dropping a pair of leather sandals as he scurried down a flight of stairs.

McIntosh had been sentenced to eight years for his part in a series of forgeries of Department of Veterans Affairs cheques.

After getting out of the handcuffs, McIntosh lost himself in a crowd of Calgary football fans, here for the Grey Cup game, and disappeared.

SAYS GREEK ARMY UNABLE TO PREVENT INVADERS

Athens, Nov. 29 (AP)—Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet says the Greek army is unable at present to keep Communist guerrilla forces from invading Greek soil. The head of the United States military mission here said in a broadcast Sunday night that the rebels led by Markos Vafiades are maintaining strong forces in Greece despite heavy losses because they are being reinforced from across the northern borders.

AVIATION TREATY

Mexico City, Nov. 29 (AP) — The British government has asked Mexico to discuss an aviation treaty, the Department of Communications and Public Works said Sunday. A group of British aviation experts is expected here about Dec. 15 for preliminary discussions.

Harold Dunk Named Head Of OMHA

Feature of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association 15th annual meeting held in Toronto was the announcement that John Ovens of Kitchener, had been named first winner of the OMHA Honor Award. Presentation of the distinctive trophy was made to Mr. Ovens by Dr. Roger Matchett, one of the founders of the association, and now a Life Member, at the luncheon following the convention.

Harold Dunk, Nobel, was elected by acclamation to the office of president, succeeding Kenneth G. Waters, of Toronto. 1st vice-president is now O. J. Hardwick, and the following were also elected by acclamation—2nd vice-president, Herb Parker, Stratford; 3rd vice-president, O. M. Weichel, Elmira; secretary, J. L. Christie, Toronto; treasurer, Dr. Leon Hipwell, Toronto. Spirited competition prevailed in the election of seven members to the executive committee with result that Mike Buzek, Brantford and Frank Doherty, Thorold, were tied for seventh and last post. President elect Harold Dunk skirted the problem nicely by announcing that both would be appointed to the executive committee. Those elected were: Fred Norman, Simcoe; V. M. Burr, Oshawa; E. M. Downey, Port Hope; A. E. Hick, Lindsay; J. W. Oakes, Strathroy; Redmond Kin[illegible]uar, Chesterville.

The meeting unanimously voted to raise the number of players dressed for a game to fourteen, plus the spare goalie, who may play no other position. The rule defining procedure of signing players to the referee's report, and further checking signatures to prevent use of unsigned players was clarified and re-worded. Each player must sign the report, and mass signing by the manager or coach will not be permitted.

Amendment Defeated

An amendment submitted by the Brantford Minor Hockey Association to force "A" series teams to be representatives of a local city league was defeated, with only "A" series representatives voting.

The residence rule was strengthened and the length of time necessary for residence before being eligible to play was lengthened to one year. The rule now reads, in part, "must be a resident of the centre in which he plays at least one year prior to November 1st of that year." Legitimate moves, such as with his family, will not prevent a boy from playing, but where any lad has resided in a centre less than the required year, special application must be made.

Secretary J. L. Christie reported that 260 teams had taken part in the previous season's play, with a total of 711 teams in affiliated town or city leagues, making up over 9,000 players. There were 111 Juvenile teams including 15 A, 27 B and 69 C teams; 85 Midget clubs made up of 14 A, 26 B and 34 C, and 64 Bantam teams, including 10 A, 20 B and 34 C.

Treasurer Dr. Leon Hipwell presented a report showing a deficit of $16.55. Receipts for the year were $4,791.47, and expenses amounted to $4,808.02. The deficit was easily wiped out when O.H.A. secretary rose and presented the association with a cheque for $500 from the O.H.A. to cover costs of operating the O.M.H.A. Forum for referees.

Credential Committee Chairman Herb Parker reported 98 teams entered at the time of the meeting, an increase of 7 over the same time last season.

Kroehlers Smack Down Spitfires Twice in Row

(By The Canadian Press)

The fourth-place Stratford Kroehlers smacked down the league-leading Windsor Spitfires twice in their last two meetings in the Junior Ontario Hockey Association.

Stratford's latest win over Windsor came Saturday night with a 3-2 victory. Windsor have only dropped three games in 15 starts this season. Kroehlers downed Spitfires 5-4 last Friday night.

In other junior games during the weekend, Barrie Flyers beat Toronto Marlboros 3-1, Galt Rockets downed Guelph Biltmores 4-2 and Oshawa Generals dropped St. Catharines Teepees 4-2.

In the senior loop, Toronto Marlboros climbed into a second-place tie with Hamilton Tigers by defeating Stratford Indians 2 - 1 and Owen Sound Mercurys overcame Hamilton Tigers 8-5.

Stratford drove from behind in the third period with two goals to maintain their mastery over the high-flying Windsor team.

Spitfires opened the scoring in the first period when Bert Giesbrecht tallied on a pass from Van Bellaghem. Each club counted once in the second period, with Jim Pernfuss scoring for Stratford and Jim Hay counting for Windsor.

In the final frame, Pernfuss notched his second counter of the game to tie the score and Pierre Cadieux came back minutes later with the winning goal.

Barrie took a firmer grip on second-spot in the race with their victory over Marlies. Gary Gordon was the strong man for Barrie putting the Flyers two up before the midway mark of the first period. Gord Pennell got Barrie's other goal while Regan notched Toronto's marker.

Oshawa snapped a four - game losing streak with their victory over St. Catharines, who are tied with Windsor for first place.

Teepees Open Scoring

Teepees opened the scoring, but the initial stanza ended in a 1-1 tie. Two quick thrusts in the first half of the second period put Generals out in front. A goal by Bud Evans made it 3-2 and only Stew Hendry's fine goaltending enabled Oshawa to hold their slim lead. Marty Burton scored on a breakaway in the third period to clinch the game.

Other Oshawa scorers were: — Ted O'Connor, Gerry Scott and Chapman. Gerry Toppazzini and Bud Evans counted for St. Catharines.

Pete Tkachuk led Galt with a three-goal splurge. Bill Boychoff got Galt's other goal. He carried the puck the length of the ice, split the defence and slid the puck into the nets. Frank Bathgate got Guelph's markers.

Mercurys broke up their game with Hamilton with a four - goal display in the second period, after the teams were deadlocked 1-1 through the first session.

Bun White led Owen Sound scorers with three goals. Other Owen Sound marksmen were Doug Gillespie, with two, and Jack Ingoldsby, Pat McReavy and Bummer Doran with singletons. Frank Liscombe and Hal Cooper were two-time snipers for Tigers. Tommy Smelle got one.

Two goals in the third period by Johnny McCormick and Al Buchanan took the game for Toronto. Penalties were handed out with a free hand, 14 in all being served. Toronto's fiery Johnny McClellan served a misconduct in the second period when he protested an interference penalty too vigorously.

Bill Flick got Stratford's only goal.

Only one game is slated in the OHA tonight. Guelph Juniors clash with Stratford.

Film Magnate Going Out Of Racing Game

Inglewood, Calif., Nov. 29. — (AP)—Film Magnate Louis B. Mayer tonight disposes of some more of his once vast horse racing empire.

Labelled one of the largest dispersal sales of breeding stock in the history of the American turf, 52 broodmares and four stallions go on the block before a select and invited group of bidders at Hollywood Park.

Mayer in the last two years, in public auctions and private sales, has sold approximately 101 thoroughbred horses for a total believed to be $3,683,027.

He still has his palatial breeding farm at Perris, Calif., up for sale for a reported $1,000,000.

Tonight's sale can hardly be as spectacular as the first auction of racing stock in 1947, when 60 horses brought a record $1,549,800; or the second dispersal, when 20 two-year-olds brought $1,033,227.

Individual top prices included Stepfather, $200,000, Busher and Honeymoon for $135,000 apiece, and the Stallion Beau Pere, which brought $100,000 and died soon after being shipped back to Kentucky.

Mayer at the outset said he was getting out of racing because it had become big business instead of a hobby.

THREE ARRESTED

Toronto, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Three Toronto men were arrested and charged with robbery with violence following an attack early Sunday on Albert Hathway of Carrying Place, near Trenton, Ont., on a downtown street. The men — Walter Gilarski, 28, Peter Gurney, 28, and Reginald Johnson, 22 — robbed Hathaway of $65. Police in a cruiser were attracted to the scene by the victim's shouts.

Profitable Night For Home Teams In Both Loops

(By The Canadian Press)

It was a profitable night for the home teams in the Eastern and Western Divisions of the American Hockey League last night as St. Louis Flyers, Buffalo Bisons, New Haven Ramblers and Providence Reds all overpowered their visiting opponents.

St. Louis now enjoys a five point margin over second place Pittsburgh in the western section, the result of their 5-3 victory over Springfield Indians.

Scoring was confined to the first two periods with Barry Sullivan, Paul Gladu, Ernie Trigg, McComb and Tony Licari getting the Flyers' counters. Springfield snipers were Bill Summerhill, Hub Macey and Doug McMurdy.

Pittsburgh Hornets went down to a 5-3 defeat at the hands of Buffalo. It was their second win over the weekend. The Bisons maintained their unbeaten record on home ice in the rough contest.

Tommy Cooper, Kenny Mackenzie and Lloyd Finkbeiner found the mark for Buffalo in the first stanza while Bob Dawes and Sid Smith tallied for the losers.

Mackell scored the Hornets final goal in the second session as George Pargeter and Floyd Cutty jacked up the Bison's total to five.

Providence, making a runaway of the Eastern Division race, downed Hershey Bears 8-3. This sixth straight victory boosted the Reds divisional lead over the Bears to 11 points.

Kapusta Paces Reds

The Reds, trailing 2-1 in the first period, scored twice in the second to take a 3-2 lead and then poured in the finale, scoring five times.

Pete Kapusta paced the Reds' attack with two goals, Phil Maloney figured in the scoring of all three Hershey tallies with one goal and two assists.

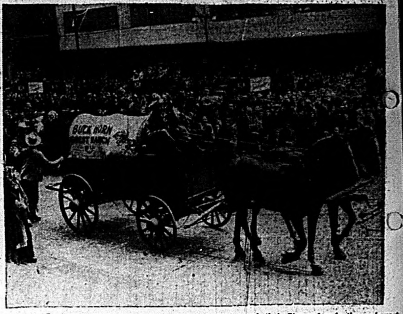
After almost blowing a 4-1 second period lead, New Haven withstood a determined third period assault to edge the Indianapolis Capitals 4-3.

New Haven's forward Jean Paul Dennis performed the hat trick by scoring once in each stanza.

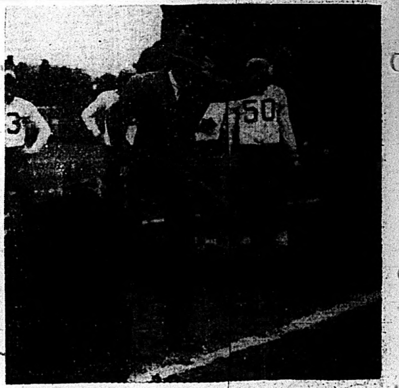
George Johnston blinked the red light for the other New Haven marker. The Cap goals were batted in by Gerland Reid in the second session and Fred Glover and Pat Lundy, who both countered in the final 20 minutes.

A two goal rally in the last six minutes of play gave New Haven a 5-4 decision over Philadelphia Rockets in one of four games Saturday night.

Pittsburgh smothered Buffalo 4-1, Hershey and Indianapolis battled to a 1-1 stalemate and Cleveland Barons and Springfield tied 4-4 in other Saturday fixtures.



WESTERN CHUCK WAGON—When Calgary fans came east to back their Stampeders in the east-west football final at Toronto Saturday, they brought with them everything to give the event a real western touch. Cowboys, Indians and a real western chuck wagon accompanied the fans on their trip east. Here is the cruck wagon as it appeared in the parade from the hotel headquarters of the western supporters to the stadium where the game was played. (CPPhoto)



Viscount Alexander, Canada's Governor Geral kicks off to start game.

"OLD GREY CUP, I LOVE YOU," declares Woodrow Wilson Strode, lanky end wing of the Calgary Stampeders, as he prepares to plant a kiss upon the emblem of Canadian football supremacy during the civic reception after Saturday's game. Strode, who doffed his muddy football uniform for full cowboy regalia, played an important part in his team's 12-7 victory over the Ottawa Roughriders. (Globe and Mail)

Bob Paffrath, Ottawa's stocky American quarterback, who had a bad day in Saturd national final, is getting a face massage from a Calgary player as he scores Ottawa's only touchdown early in the third quarte tting the 'Riders into a temporary lead. Paffrath plunged from two yards out to get the score. Back to camera (52) is Ced Gyles, kie Calgary halfback. Giving Paffrath an applauding pat on the back is Jack Waggoner (85), large Ottawa lineman. Touchdown is nalled by headlinesman Johnny Munro (left), referee Seymour Wilson (background) and umpire Jimmy Simpson (right).

RUNNING BACK—Ottawa runs highlighted the first quarter of the east-west football final at Toronto Saturday afternoon. A long kick by Stampeders was run back nearly 35 yards by Ron Smylie. Here

Petey Thodos, fast-running Calgary youngster, is shown twisting away fr tackle by Pete Karpuk at the goalline to score the last quarter payoff touchdown which won Calgary the title. It was Karpuk's b n allowing a ball which hadn't been blown "dead" by the officials to roll around until Voody Strode, giant Stampeder end, pic t up and ran to the Ottawa 10-yard line and set up the scoring play. On the next play, Thodos raced for the score. Strode (42) e seen in the background. Cutting across too late to stop the payoff plays is Don Loney (77) and Jack Waggoner (85) of Ottawa

John Ovens First O.M.H.A. Winner Of Honor Award

(By The Canadian Press)

John Ovens, one of the founders of the Kitchener - Waterloo Boys Hockey Association, Saturday was named first winner of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association honor award. The trophy will be awarded annually to a person judged "to have made an outstanding contribution to minor hockey" in the province.

Mr. Ovens started his work in minor hockey in 1933 when he built a rink in his own back yard, used his basement as a dressing room and organized a league. For 15 years he has managed and organized minor league teams and leagues in Kitchener and Waterloo. The trophy was presented to Mr. Ovens at the O. M. H. A.'s annual meeting at Toronto by Dr. Roger Matchett, one of the founders of minor league hockey in Ontario.

J. L. Christie, in the secretary's report, said that more than 9,000 boys and 711 teams were affiliated with the association last year.

Players in the National Hockey League are warned against fraternization with players of opposing teams on and off the ice in a letter signed by Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League. The letter says that fraternization may give a wrong impression to fans.

Cobourg Galloping Ghosts won the Eastern Canada intermediate rugby title at Cobourg Saturday by blanking Montreal Rocklands 10-0. Cobourg officials said they would claim the Dominion title unless a challenge is accepted by a Western Canada team. Most spectacular play of the game occurred in the third quarter when Quigley, speedy Cobourg halfback, leaped in the air, snared a Montreal forward pass and danced 50 yards for the second touchdown. Jamieson went over the line for the other touchdown in the first quarter.

Winless Navy spoiled Army's bid for a perfect season with a 21-21 tie but Notre Dame continued undefeated as the last big Saturday in United States college football found the selections for the eight major bowl games on New Year's Day virtually completed. This is how the major bowl clashes on New Year's Day will look:

Rose Bowl — Northwestern vs. California; Sugar Bowl — Oklahoma vs. North Carolina; Cotton Bowl — Oregon vs. Southern Methodist; Orange Bowl — Georgia vs. (opponent unannounced, but probably University of Texas' 'Gator Bowl — Clemson vs. Missouri; Dixie Bowl — Wake Forest vs. Baylor; Delta Bowl — Oklahoma A&M vs. William and Mary; Sun Bowl — West Virginia vs. Texas Mines.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association will be held at Toronto next Saturday, it was announced Sunday night. Each affiliated club is allowed one delegate.

Harold Dunk of Nobel was acclaimed as president of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association at Toronto Saturday. Other officers elected: first vice president, Otto J. Hardwick, Bolton; second vice - president, Herb Parker, Stratford; third vice - president, O. M. Weichel, Elmira; secretary, Jack L. Christie, Toronto; treasurer, Dr. Leon Hipwell, Toronto.

Toronto police nabbed three men and charged them with attempting to scalp tickets for Saturday's Grey Cup final. The three were picked up outside Varsity stadium just before the game started and officers said they were trying to sell $1 tickets for $6. Two counterfeit tickets were found at the game but police said there was no connection between the three and the counterfeiting.

Dr. John Robert Hagyard, 93, veterinary surgeon who attended many of the great thoroughbred and trotting horses of the past, died at his Lexington, Ky., home Sunday. Born at Brampton, Ont., he was a director and for a time an officer of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders Association.

The Royal Hamilton Yacht Club of Hamilton, Ont., nipped the defending champion Niagara Sailing Club at Buffalo Sunday to win a dinghy race series at the Buffalo Yacht Club. Both Hamilton and Niagara finished with 42 points. The Hamilton club earned the decision on the strength of first-place winners piloted by Cliff Lunt and Tim Nelson. Niagara had one first place.

FATAL KICK BY COW

Hamilton, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Joseph Fletcher, 25-year-old Binbrook farmer, died Saturday morning in hospital as the result of injuries received on his farm earlier this week, when he was kicked by a cow.

Son of Reeve Hiram A. Fletcher of Binbrook, the young man had been an outstanding scholar.

He is survived by his bride of 10 weeks, his parents, and two brothers.

THE VENABLES

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"You don't seem a nervous person, Miss Richards," Phillip said in a tone half admiring and half annoyed.

"She!" Flo exulted. "She'd get right down there and take a bath in it."

The dotted Swiss frock had proved much too frail for Carmel holidays, and Flo had spent most of them in what she wore today; a rough old sweater and a brown skirt of Lin's a dark blue tam-o'-shanter she had had for school theatricals long ago, and had brought along because it was so becoming.

So costumed with red tendrils of her hair blown about her cap, her naturally pale skin tanned with her days in the open air, her young slender body braced against the wind and her mouth one delighted shout of exhileration, she was a picture to catch any man's eye. Whether Philip Torrance saw it or not he gave no sign, but he did approach and put the forceful grip of his fingers on her arm.

"Come back, now! This isn't safe!"

"But glorious!" she sighed; obediently accompanying him and Rose, walking back to the almost stunning quiet and calm under the trees. "Oh, Lin, we went all the way, and it's simply frantic!" she said, putting her arms about Lin, laying her fresh wet face against that of the older girl.

"You madwoman!" said Lin. "Sit down and rest! You've not stopped a minute."

"Ah, but it's my last day!"

"You go tomorrow, Miss Venables?"

"I have to. My holiday's up."

"You're not teaching, then?"

"Teaching! I'm a nurse in a dentist's office! Lin, can't we have lunch?"

"Immediately."

"You all seem to depend on Miss Richards," said Professor Torrance to Flo in an undertone, as he expertly assisted her with the boxes and baskets.

"Lin? We simply adore her. There's nobody like her!" Flo answered simply.

As they finished their lunch, the conversation became more serious. Mrs Torrance had been a schoolteacher before her marriage; she and Lin and her husband thoroughly enjoyed a discussion of teachers and methods and school they had known.

The old woman dozed; the 3 year old had gone to sleep in his father's arms. He was an extraordinary good little boy, Flo thought, and somehow gave the impression of never having been much attended or petted by his mother.

His father was the one who seemed especially to adore the sturdy little fellow, but even he and the grandmother did not spoil him. They put his food down before him casually as they might give food to a puppy, not concerned whether he wanted it or not.

"Ought he eat deviled ham, Jo?" Philip Torrance asked.

"If he likes it," the child's mother said.

Her speech was clipped, quick and definite and she had an abrupt tactless manner that somehow had a charm of its own. She showed a certain characteristically English complacence in the possession of her man and left him small peace. But he evidently admired her intellectual gifts and listened to her with amusement and respect.

He had given Flo intelligent help with the coffeepot when luncheon preparations were underway, had built the fire and sat blowing at it and coaxing it with twigs until it burned steadily. He seemed to find the three girls a delightful study and kept calling his wife's attention to them.

"What d'you think of these three graces, Jo? Here they are in a cottage, cooking and tramping—and fighting, eh?"

"Fighting!" Flo echoed scornfully. And Rose asked simply: "What about?"

Lin merely raised her magnificent eyes to the man's and they exchanged a long look. On Lin's side it was her own peculiar look, one of mysterious merriment, wisdom, secrecy. She did not challenge him; she did not answer him; she did not care. Let this dark, square eager man in the eyeglasses think what he would of Lindsay Richards, it would trouble Lindsay Richards' dark smooth head to no whit.

"About men," suggested the professor.

This made Flo suddenly indignant.

"Men!" she scoffed. "Why should people who don't fight about anything else fight about men! Lin, don't you think men are conceited?"

Lin's eyes crinkled into a smile.

"Of course she thinks men are conceited," Philip said.

"I?" Lin said, wonder in her tone.

"Don't you?"

"I don't think I ever thought of it at all—as just characteristic of men," Lin said, pondering. "Aren't we all conceited.

"Women are much more conceited than men," Mrs. Torrance said decidedly. "As for these girls Phil, because girls go off on a holiday together doesn't mean they're man haters!"

"I like men," Flo stated calmly, and they all laughed.

It was hard to go back to streets grimy in late summer winds and littered with blowing rubbish. It was hard to climb the raw, uncarpeted stairs to the dreary rooms and find the same old stale atmosphere there. The beds were sloppily made; under them rolls of gray dust moved gently when a door was opened.

Also Mama had not had money enough, it appeared, and had had to run up quite a little bill at the grocery.

Flo unpacked her bag with a smiling face, amiable confidence and comments being exchanged with her surrounding family as she did so. But inside she was conscious of a feeling that, had she give nway to it would have made her outward expression grim enough.

After dinner she got out all the bills, and a pencil and pad and did some figuring.

"We're running awfully behind here, Mama."

"Don't be worryin' over money now, Flo, for you'll be worryin' all your life!" her grandmother said. "You deserve all the credit in the world for what you're doin' and you oughtn't be worried!"

One afternoon after office hours she went up to see Lily. A postcard had informed Flo that Lily had returned from a visit to Lake Tahoe the day before, but she did not seem to Flo to have been much benefited by the change. She looked white and thin and was so delighted to see her sister that she could only cling to Flo and cry desperately for the first few minutes of their meeting.

"I thought you were in Carmel-by-the-sea with your Richardses sobbed Lily, trying to laugh.

"And I thought you were at Tathoe."

"You've no telephone, you see Flo. And we don't often go downtown afternoons. Mrs. Belcher likes to drive in the park."

"Did you drive today?"

"No, she's still at the lake. Arnold had to go to Los Angeles so we came down yesterday."

"But Lily —but Lily— are you here all alone?"

"Well, yes. Until mother gets home, maybe tomorrow."

"Well, then you'll come down and have dinner with us!"

"Oh, Flo, if I could! But he told me not to."

"He told you not to— to have my family here while he was away, because it would upset his mother. And he said 'Now don't telephone Flo the minute I'm out of the house,' and I said that you had no telephone."

They were in Lily's big, gloomy, magnificent bedroom. Heavily framed mirrors reflected the tasled hangings, the rich brocade paper on the walls, the shining curves of mahogany and the carved wood of the mantlepiece. A large portrait of a man with side whiskers and a magnificent flowing beard hung over the fireplace.

The door into the closet was open.

"Where are Arnold's clothes, Lilly?"

He's moved across to the other room, the room his brother that died, had," Lily said, her dress over her head.

"He has!"

Lily's white arms waved struggling. The dress slipped down; her head emerged.

"Yes, he did while I was sick and he—hasn't moved back."

They stared at each other, both faces reddening. A man and his wife in different rooms!

"Is he mad at you?" Flo presently asked, fearfully.

"No, he just —" Lily stopped, unable to go on. How tell round-eyed, innocent Flo that a man can stop wanting a yellow-headed slip of a little crying, sickly wife? That his pasion for her had cooled almost as quickly as it had begun? Lily know now that Arnold had first been seriously considering the courtship of her mother, who would have admired him, laughed at him, coddled him as only a woman experienced in wifehood could.

She knew now that he would have been far happier in that marriage than this. And how Willie would have loved the carriage and her position as a rich man's wife, how gladly she would have spent idle days in the old woman's sickroom, gossiping tirelessly.

"Lily, what are you thinking about? Do you care?"

"Care about what?" asked Lily recalled.

"About his moving into another room?"

"Well, no. Because—But you know Arnold's always kind to me!" Lily interrupted herself to say in nervous loyalty.

"Then come on down to dinner with us!" Flo said inconsequentially.

"Miss Janet—that's the nurse—is still with Mrs. Belcher at the lake," Lily mused.

Flo hooked her sister's dress, helped her on with her coat, hurrying her, for fear something might even now interrupt them. They went joyfully out into the summer afternoon together, and as the gritty wind caught at them they laughed and Lily said that it seemed like old times.

Lily pretended not to notice the dreariness of Ellis Street when they reached it, and for Lily's sake Flo pretended not to notice it too. Their own area was littered with newspapers, dogers rope, straw, dead leaves from the sickly pepper trees that survived in a line on a neighboring sidewalk.

"It's awful," Flo conceded.

"Well of course, you don't pay any rent for it," Lily offered timidly.

Berlin Reds Set Up Own Government To Control City

Hope to Forestall Election Results in Western Section

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Berlin, Nov. 30 (AP) — The Communists set up a hand-picked puppet government for Berlin today, completing the city's east-west division.

Unwilling to risk the results of a popular election, the Communists called a meeting of carefully selected leaders. This meeting by a show of hands elected a mayor and a magitrate (executive administration) claiming jurisdiction over the whole city.

This action by the Russian-backed Communists came as the United Nations considered a compromise proposal on currency which could lead to lifting of the Soviet blockade of western Berlin.

Currency Move Off

The Communist move in the Soviet sector made it virtually impossible for any agreement on currency to be carried out.

The Communists named Friedrich Ebert, namesake son of the first Weimar Republic President, as "mayor" of all Berlin.

Ebert promptly declared that the elections set for Sunday in the western sectors were null and void.

The regularly elected anti-Communist city government, driven from city hall in the Soviet sector by Communist demonstrators, has been sitting in western Berlin.

Communist-controlled trade unions called upon all workers—in both eastern and western Berlin—to lay down their tools at noon and join the mass meeting.

Anti-Reds Decline

City officials and the chieftains of other parties also were —invited, but anti-Communist leaders promptly declined. They termed it a 'scheme to establish a Red dictatorship."

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor, told reporters in Frankfurt Monday he expected "no trouble that we can't take care of" from the Communists on election day.

The Communists were joined by a few splinter elements from other parties at the mass meeting in Admirals Palast auditorium in the Soviet sector of the city.

The rally was called with the avowed aim of taking "decisive measures for the protection of a united Berlin"—apparently a move to gain control of the whole city before the election in the western sectors, where about two-thirds of all Berliners live.

An outdoor demonstration of workers marching along Unter Den Linden in the Soviet sector was scheduled to follow the rally.

The Communist rally adopted a resolution proposed by the so-called "democratic bloc of Berlin" denouncing the elected government and demanding it be replaced.

HYDRO ANNOUNCES FIVE-PER-CENT QUOTA INCREASE

3,500,000 Kilowatt Hours More Weekly Available From Quebec

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP)— Toronto's hour-long afternoon hydro-electric power cut will be reduced to 1-2 hour starting tomorrow, Mayor H. E. McCallum announced today.

The 1-2 hour cutoff made possible by Monday night's announcement by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission that dail quotas have been boosted another five per cent. Will be in effect for the month of December. The city will be free of Hydro service interruptions for the week preceding Christmas, Dec. 20-24, he said.

Afternoon power cuts will begin at 4.30 next month instead of at 4.00 as heretofore.

The commission's announcement Monday night was good news to Southern Onario communities struggling to keep within their daily quotas.

The announcement, made late Monday by Ontario Hydro Commissioner Robert Saunders, said an increase in power delivered by Quebec's Gatineau Power Company of 3,500,000 kilowatt hours weekly permitted the higher quotas.

The boost, which the company expects to continue throughout the winter followed increased rainfall over the Gatineau watershed.

The same rainfall in the Ottawa Valley raised water levels at Ontario generating plants in the area and brought two successive increases last week totalling five per cent.

The City of Ottawa moved quickly on hearing the good news and announced an end to the cut-offs which have lasted for a month and at one stage totalled eight hours a week. Hydro officials there warned that voluntary saving of power must continue if citizens wanted to see the last of the blackouts.

Toronto officials, who Monday night were considering the reimposition of morning and evening power cuts, meet with Ontario hydro officials today.

E. M. Ashworth, manager of the Toronto Hydro Commission, said that the latest increase still left Toronto "considerably short" of her normal requirements. Mayor Hiram McCallum said he would not advocate restoring hydro cuts "until I know how long the increased supply will last.

Two C.C.F. leaders in speeches Monday night criticized the Ontario power situation.

E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario leader of the party, advocated a consumer rationing plan where "each class of consumers would have to be allotted a quota of power."

Ration Plan Proposed

"Each individual consumer could be told how much power on his meter would be his monthly allotment," Mr. Jolliffe said on a broadcast address. "If he went over that amount, he would be charged a prohibitive price."

M. J. Coldwell, Dominion C.C.F. leader, said in a speech at Parry Sound that George Drew, as Ontario's premier, could have ensured that the shortage would be "much less serious" than it is.

"If he had developed the Des Joachims power project as planned and as required the shortage would have been much less serious," he said in a campaign speech for the Parry Sound provincial by-election.

Two announcements were made Monday in changes in the Ontario hydro system.

Commission Chairman Robert Saunders said in Stratford that two steam-powered generators to be built at Windsor and in the Toronto-Hamilton area would generate more than 19,000,000 kilowatt hours daily, with a maximum output of some 820,000 horsepower, almost double the peak load of Toronto. The plants will cost about $75,000,000.

Start in September

Expect Ann Shipley Will be Acclaimed

Kirkland Lake, Nov. 30 (CP)—Indications today were that Ann Shipley would be returned by acclamation as Reeve of Teck Township.

Of the six persons nominated only Reeve Shipley, who is seeking her seventh term, had qualified by 10 a.m. today. Four of the nominees failed to qualify when they were nominated for both the reeveship and the township council and failed to signify by midnight Monday which office they preferred to contest. The sixth nominee—C. C. Ames, a C.C.F. candidate—announced Saturday he had decided not to run for any municipal office.

Three Seamen Must Serve Sentences

Cornwall, Nov. 30 (CP)—County Judge G. E. Brennan ruled today that three members of the Canadian Seamen's Union (T. L. C.), convicted last July 28 of boarding the J. O. McKellar at Cornwall, June 13, must serve six months' sentences imposed by Magistrate Raoul Labrosse.

The three, who will serve their terms in county jail here, are Gerald Yettman, 20, of Halifax, N.S., Joseph Grabek, 22, of Toronto and John Clarke of Digby N. S.

MEDIATION PLAN OF BERLIN CRISIS APPEARS ASSURED

Russia Accedes And Big-Four to Give Trial

Paris, Nov. 30 —(AP)— A new plan for mediation of the Berlin crisis, devised by a man who wouldn't give up, appears assured of a Big-Four trial.

Juan A. Bramulgia, Argentine foreign minister and retiring president of the United Nations Security Council, is the author.

The plan calls for a neutral commission of experts to handle the technical and procedural phases of the East-West conflict over dual currency and the Russian land blockade.

Britain, the United States, France and Russia would assign their own representatives to stand by in Paris for 30 days to give whatever aid the expert commission might require.

Bramuglia announced Russia agreed to his new plan Monday night and that he expected formal acceptance from Britain, the United States and France today. They have already accepted in principle.

An American source said the formula was being referred to Washington and that the Western Powers might reach a decision some time during the day or early tomorrow.

Take Gloomy View

Officials in the United States delegation said it was difficult in the light of developments in Berlin, to hold much hope of a final agreement with the Soviet Union. They took a gloomy view of the situation.

(In Berlin today, Russia-backed German Communists established a separate city government in opposition to the elected anti-Communist administration, making virtually complete the political division between east and west Berlin.)

Bramuglia is winding up eight weeks of work on Berlin.

He said he hopes the new mediation effort can get under way immediately. He steps down as president of the Security Council at midnight. His successor is Fernand Van Lagenhove of Belgium, the December president of the Council.

No Negotiation Under Duress

The three big western powers have long insisted they will not negotiate with the Russians under the duress of the blockade of western Berlin, which Russia imposed in June after western marks were introduced in the western sector.

Bramuglia got past this by leaving the "negotiations" to neutrals.

Russia has denied the competence of the Security Council, or any other U. N. organ, to decide matters connected with Germany.

Bramuglia's implied answer was that the expert commission will be an unofficial agency, operating outside the Council.

Russia wants the Soviet mark to be the only legal currency in Berlin, a four-power city deep in the Russian-occupied zone of Germany. The Western Powers want free access by land and water routes to the former German capital, whose zones are now fed by the air lift.

Father Responsible For Damages As Air Gun Fired by Son

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP)—Before you buy Junior an air gun you might consider a judgment handed down today by Judge T. H. Barton, who found a father responsible for damages caused by an air rifle in the hands of his 16-year-old son.

Mrs. E. O. Granger of Toronto was awarded $700 damages for injuries received when she was struck below the eye by air-rifle pellets fired by Irving Himefarb, on June 18, 1947. Reuben Himelfarb, the boy's father, was the defendant.

The woman told the court her doctor advised her that a blood vessel had ben ruptured and she was confined to bed for three weeks.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Synopsis: The leading edge of a cold polar air mass now extends from Lake Superior to Wisconsin and will enter southwestern Ontario tonight. A band of light snow is moving across Northern Ontario but those districts bordering the north shores of Lakes Erie and Ontario will experience only minor flurries. Wednesday will be crisp and mainly clear over Southern Ontario.

Moscow Academy of Science Breaks off Correspondence With British Royal Society

London, Nov. 30 (AP)— Moscow's Academy of Science has broken off correspondence with the Royal Society, Sir Robert Robinson, Society president, announced today.

Termination of what Sir Robert described as a long scientific contact came after Sir Henry Dale, president of the Royal Society from 1940 to 1945, resigned his honorary membership in the Soviet organization.

Sir Henry said he resigned in protest against the dismissal and disappearance of N. I. Vavilov, former director of the Lenin Academy of Genetics, and his replacement by T. D. Lysenko.

Sir Robert told the Royal Society's 286th anniversary meeting that reports from Russia had "rudely disturbed our peace of mind."

"I refer to the report that eminent Russian biologists have been constrained to subscribe to interpretations of the data in the field of genetics which they had previously rejected, or perhaps had thought unworthy of serious consideration," he said.

Sir Robert said the British scientists might learn a lesson from the Russian situation.

"We may observe that governments are not infalliable yet must be obeyed. This rejection should make us more than ever alert to preserve intact the prized freedom of science in our own domain.

"Actually no direct attack is likely here, and should the unexpected happen, it will certainly not be along the lines of compelling us to expose some particular scientific theory or doctrine. Conceivably it could take the more subtle form of control of the character and direction of our scientific work."

Family Break-Up Blamed by Father On House Shortage

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP) — A 37-year-old steel company worker from Hamilton, Alfred Provo, early today identified his two children who were abandoned four days ago in a woman's lounge of a downtown Toronto store.

They were two of three children taken from Hamilton last week by his wife after the housing shortage and financial troubles had forced their six - member family first to crowd into the home of relatives, and later to break up.

Provo said his wife left Hamilton with four-year-old John, three-year-old William and 15-months-old Barbara Ann, after leaving a note saying she was "going to try and get a housekeeping job in Toronto."

The Globe and Mail, in a copyrighted story, told of him seeing William and Barbara Ann lying in their cots at a Toronto infants' home where they have been cared for since Friday.

"Thank God they're all right," he said. "I hope my wife and the other boy are well. If only she'd get in touch with me."

Provo was found by police who had been phoned in Toronto by a woman who suggested they get in touch with him. Police believe the woman is Mrs. Provo.

No Domestic Trouble

Provo said Monday night that no domestic trouble had caused their family to be broken up and his wife to disappear. He said that for some time he and his wife, with their four children, had lived with his brother and sister-in-law and their four children in his brother's five - room bungalow in Hamilton.

"How can people get along like that?" he said.

He told how he had left to live in a separate room nearby to ease the overcrowding. His wife's departure last week left only their eight-year-old daughter, Louise, now boarding in Hamilton.

Provo said his wife is expecting their fifth child in three months. The whereabouts of Mrs. Provo and their son, John, is his big worry now.

He doesn't know where they will live when they are once more reunited.

"I guess we're asking too much to expect a place where we can be together, as a family should," he said.

Toll Now Eight In Mills Plant Of Hull, England

Hull, Yorkshire, England, Nov. 30. (Repters)—The death toll in Monday's British cocoa mills plant explosion rose to eight today with the discovery of two bodies in the wreckage.

Two persons still are missing following the blast and fire believed caused by an exploding gasoline tank.

Fourteen persons are in hospital, four of them on the danger list and the others "very ill", hospital officials said.

A 20-year-old girl cashier, trapped in the offices for four hours while flames enveloped the building, was reported to be "critically ill" today.

Use $50 Lottery To Lure Voters

Kelowna, B.C., Nov. 30. — (CP)—A chance to win a $50 lottery was dangled before eligible voters in the South Okanagan provincial by-election Monday to lure them to the polls. Each person voting was given a chance to participato in a $50 draw sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The sponsors said it was all legal.

Hydro Consumption

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP)—Returns from five Ontario municipalities show three remained within their power quotas Monday.

Following figures are in kilowatt hours: Under: Kitchener, 5,000; Waterloo, 2,500; Woodstock 4,590.

Over: North Bay, 4,100; Kirkland Lake, 1,960.

Farmers Have Repaid $37,069,120 of Loans

Ottawa, Nov. 30 — (CP)—Farmers have repaid $37,069,230 of the $60,728,957 which they have borrowed from the Canadian Farm Loan Board since it was established in 1929.

In a report covering activities up to the end of last March, the board said that 14,300 og the 29,093 first mortgage loans have been repaid in full. More than 8,000 of the 9,461 second mortgage loans also have been cancelled.

Texan Claims Calgary Stampede A Rootin' Tootin' Helluva Show

Chicago, Nov. 30 (CP)— Take it from Lloyd Jinkens who hails from Texas and is a right proper hand with a hoss himself, "thet (sic) Calgary Stampede of yourn up in Canada is one rootin' tootin' helluva show."

The burly, sombrero-topped Texan, a participant in the International Exposition here, achieved a spot of fame himself Monday night when he slipped down from his hoss — whoops, horse—to corral a steer which leaped the barrier in the Exhibition Arena, and stampeded into the crowd.

A 15-year-old Chicago boy was injured before Jinkens bulldogged the animal.

"By gosh" drawled the big Texan, who ranches at Fort Worth, deep in the cattle country, "this takes me way back to the time me and my wife Amy visited thet Calgary Stampede of yourn. Boy it was one rootin, tootin, helluva show."

"Yo' fellas are great fellas on a hoss," he offered. "And bronchos" —he hitched his trousers, kicked his high heeled boots and gestured to the American reporters— "Yo' want to see those Canadian pokes go to work on them thar bronchos."

He said he likes Chicago fine but finds it a bit disappointing.

"Ah heard as how Chicago was quite a boom-boom town," he told the deflated Chicago reporters. "Why ah ain't seen a man with a gun in his poke, since ah come to town."

He winked. "Guess ah'll have to ride over the line up to Canada where they got them bronchos They give a fella a helluva time.

CONSUMER BUYING LITTLE GREATER THAN IN 1941

Prices Commission Opens Final Hearings

Ottawa, Nov. 30 — (CP) — The Prices Commission, beginning its final series of public hearings, today was informed by a government statistician that cash buying is relatively a little greater than in 1941.

C. R. MacDonald of the Bureau of Statistics declared also that in the purchase of motor cars cash buying in 1948 is well above pre-war levels.

Mr. MacDonald was called as the commission's initial witness in its investigation of consumer credit. The commissioners, sitting under Prof. C. A. Curtis, embarked on the study because of its value as a clue to consumer's prosperity and because it is generally considered that the extent of credit being used by the public for their personal buying can influence prices.

He said, however, that the trend is back to 1941 and pre - war ratios of credit to cash buying. While consumers are not buying as much on credit proportionably as in 1941 they are buying more on credit than in 1946.

Drew Recovering From Sore Throat

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP)—George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, is laid up at his home here with a cold and sore throat but expects to be back in action within a couple of days. From his bed, Mr. Drew told The Canadian Press by telephone that his condition is not serious, but his doctor has ordered him to bed.

While there, he had heard an erroneous report that he was present at Monday night's opening of the Metropolitan Opera in New York, which was attended by his wife, a daughter of "Met" director Edward Johnson.

"I'd be only too happy to be there if I were well enough," Mr. Drew said. "But I'm not; I'm here."

Toronto to Get New Hospital

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP)—Greater Toronto is to have another general hospital, the most modern in Canada, it was learned today.

Plans call for an 600-bed hospital when completed, but the initial unit may be only 150 or 200 beds.

It is expected the hospital will be located north of Eglinton Avenue and named Yorkminster because it will serve a large area of York county as well as the city.

What a Bass!

Peterborough, Nov. 30 (CP) — Farmer Leonard Noonan, who says he isn't interested in records, revealed Monday he caught a large-mouth bass in Stoney Lake last July, which is estimated to have weighed 14 3/4 pounds. The mounted fish measures 28½ inches.

GIFT OF HOSPITAL

Stockholm (CP) — Stockholm has donated a convalescent home for children in Copenhagen, where children are received who are well enough to leave hospital, but not recovered sufficiently to go home.

The gift to the Danish city is an expression of thanksgiving felt in Sweden when Denmark was liberated from German occupation.

WIN QUEEN'S SCHOLARSHIPS

Kingston, Nov. 30 (CP) —Two scholarships to Queen's University students were announced Monday. The American Legion scholarship, valued at $100, goes to Officer Cadet A. F. McKinnon of Sudbury, a medical student in the R.C.A.M.C. R. J. Frost, arts student from Toronto, won the $100 C.O.T.C. scholarship.

PRIEST DIES AT ALTAR

Monaca, Pa., Nov. 30 — (AP)—Though Rev. John Canova had been ill for months, he tried to carry on his duties and Monday consented to officiate at a Requiem High Mass for one of his parishioners. Shortly after he pronounced the final blessing, the 67-year-old priest collapsed and died on the altar of St. John's Roman Catholic Church.

Suchow Garrison Ordered to Rescue Trapped Comrades

Quits City in Attempt To Save 140,000 Troops

Nanking, Nov. 30. (AP)—The powerful Suchow garrison has started quitting the city to go to the relief of 140,000 comrades trapped by the Communists to the south, usually reliable sources said today.

The decision to abandon the bastion of East Central China 211 miles northwest of Nanking was taken in a desperate attempt to salvage forces for the defence of the capital.

Outflanked by Reds

Suchow had stood firm under nearly a month of Communist assault. But it was outflanked by a sweeping Red drive to the south which cut across Suchow's lines of communications.

The strong government forces stationed there were reported moving south to engage Communist troops which have encircled the Nationalist Twelfth army group.

The government four days ago ordered the garrison to quit Suchow, but the troops stuck to the fortified city 211 miles northwest of Nanking.

Aircraft on Suchow's large air field were ordered to leave during the night, these informants said.

No Confirmation

There was no government confirmation of this report. However, there was no secret about the previous order to the 250,000-man Suchow garrison to get out and fight.

The Suchow defenders were told to go to the assistance of the 140,000 government troops under Gen. Huang Wei encircled about 145 miles northwest of Nanking in the Suhsien area.

(Only bright news from Chiang Kai-Shek's government came from the northern front. An official dispatch said Chiang's armies recaptured Paotow, inner Mongolian rail terminus 320 miles west of Peiping. Government headquarters also said planes inflicted heavy casualties on Communist convoys moving southward through Jehol Province.)

Two Ominous Signs

Meanwhile two ominous signs appeared in Nanking. (1) There was a total absence of war news in the afternoon papers. (2) The government's military spokesman remained away from his office. In the past both of these have indicated reverses of considerable importance to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies.

Orders have gone out to the 250,000 man garrison to Suchow to march to the rescue. So far it has shown no disposition to do so. It may prefer to stay where it is, with strong fixed defences, plenty of food and munitions.

Beyond the encircled twelfth army there is little to halt the Communist drive short of the Yangtze River bank opposite Nanking.

20 Cents per Bushel On Wheat Marketed 1945, 1946 and 1947

Moose Jaw Nov. 30 (CP) — During the present crop year farmers will receive 20 cents a bushel of wheat marketed in 1945, 1946, 1947 and 1948 crop years, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said at a public meeting here Monday night.

Initial price for the 1949 crop year will be raised to $1.75 a bushel, basis No. 1 Northern, Fort William, Mr. Gardiner said. The initial price now is $1.55.

The wheat board probably will begin paying out these additional amounts before seeding, Mr. Gardiner said. In any event, they will be paid before commencement of the new crop year on August 1st.

LEAGUE DISSOLVED

New York, Nov. 30 — (AP) — Dissolution of the American League for a free Palestine, which was formed to support Irgun Zvai Leumi, now-defunct Jewish extremist group in Palestine, was announced Monday night. Playwright Ben Hecht, co-chairman of the League, said its job is completed. Irgun Zvai Leumi now is a political party in Israel.

B.C. GOVERNMENT RETAINS SEAT, C.C.F. GAINS ONE

First By-Election Setback for Coalition Government Since 1945

Trail, B. C., Nov. 30 — (CP)— British Columbia's C. C. F. party today had one riding, lost in the 1945 provincial election, back in the fold but failed in an attempt to capture another from coalition government forces in two B. C. by-elections Monday.

The C. C. F.'s narrow-margin victory in the Rossland - Trail constituency was the first by-election setback for the Liberal - Progressive Conservative coalition since 1945.

With two-way fights in both heavy-voted contests, the coalitionists took the South Okanagan riding in an almost equally-close race with the C. C. F. as at Rossland-Trail.

Neither of the elected candidates has run for political office before.

Robert Browne - Clayton, who retained South Okanagan for the coalition is a 31-year-old fruit rancher who served as a lieutenant with Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in the European theatre during the Second World War.

James Quinn, the successful C. C. F. candidate at Rossland-Trail, is a 42-year-old shop steward and first aid attendant. Scottish-born, he came here from Fleming, Sask in 1929.

Record Vote Polled

Electors tallied up a record vote despite the threat of inclement weather. With an eligible electorate of 25,000 in the two constituencies, about 18,000 turned out to cast ballots, nearly 6,000 votes more than in the 1945 general election.

Premier Byron Johnson, who described the by-elections as "fights . . . clean and straightforward," said the increased number of voters was the "unknown factor."

Mr. Browne-Clayton polled 4,918 votes to defeat Bruce Woodsworth, 34-year-old Winnipeg-born school teacher. Mr. Woodsworth, son of the late J. S. Woodsworth, founder of the C. C.F. party, polled 4,220.

With only one poll to be heard from of 28, Mr. Quinn had 4,743 votes against 4,471 for the coalition candidate, Alexander Trunbull.

Delegation of Gravel Truckers Holding City Contract Appears Before Council to Plead Case

Local truckers who last spring were given the contract for the supply of gravel for use by the city throughout the year feel they have a right to haul the gravel to be used on road surfaces in the Parkwood Heights and Veterans Homes area.

This was revealed last evening at city council when the four truckers concerned appeared as a delegation protesting against council calling for tenders for the supply of gravel for the two new housing developments. They felt their present contract for the supply of gravel to the city also would include any gravel to be used for road surfaces in the new sub-division.

The truckers concerned are—Ivan May, B. Fitzgibbon, John Zebedee and Mike Smigarouski.

Did Not Cover Crushed Rock

Alderman Chas. Hyde as chairman of public works pointed out to the delegation that their contract for the supply of gravel did not cover crushed rock and the city engineer's department had decided to get prices on both materials for comparison.

"Are you now substituting crushed rock for gravel?" asked Alderman Lazenby. "The city engineer recommends it," replied Mayor D. L. Storey.

Aldermen Lummiss and Allin then pointed out the city was not "welching" on present contracts for the supply of gravel but noted that it was up to the city engineer to decide whether gravel or crushed rock would be most suitable for the job.

Council recommended that a committee of Aldermen Hyde, Allin and Lummiss be appointed to consider tenders and to investigate thoroughly which type of material would be best for the job.

Brief Meeting

The council meeting was brief with little business of importance being conducted.

The street lighting bill of $957.83 for the month of October was recommended not paid owing to the reduction of 20 per cent in street lighting as decided by council. Council felt that as street lighting had been reduced the bill should also have been reduced by a corresponding amount. The matter was referred to Alderman Bruce Lattimer to take up with the Public Utilities Commission.

Council disapproved of a recommendation by Alderman Hyde that the garbage getter be turned into a dump truck. According to the alderman the garbage getter was out of commission for a great part of the time due to breakdown and he thought the truck would serve the city better if turned into a dump truck.

Caused by Overloading Claim

Alderman Lazenby countered that the reason the garbage getter suffered frequent breakdowns was because of overloading. He asserted the truck was not intended to collect ashes and other heavy refuse. This attitude was also taken by Alderman Armstrong and Allin who stated that if the machine was used as intended it would undoubtedly give better service.

Owing to the opposition shown the recommendation Alderman Hyde withdrew the motion, indicating the matter would be placed before the incoming council.

Council took no action with respect to a petition of residents requesting that the early closing by-law for grocery stores be rescinded. The petition was turned over to the city clerk for checking of names.

The matter of city owned property immediately east of the Alliance Tabernacle on Moira Street, West, was brought up by Alderman Lazenby who asked that the property be turned over to the church organization. It was pointed out that the property in question was now owned by the special property committee and a formal application would have to be submitted by the party wishing to purchase it.

Soon in Effect

Under inquiries Alderman Allin asked when the plumbing by-law would some into effect. He was told by Alderman Hyde that there was at present no plumbing by-law in effect in the city, but that provincial regulations would soon come into effect.

Alderman Clarke brought up the matter of new light standards on Bridge Street between Pinnacle and Church which he declared were set too far into the sidewalk. "In several places the snowplow will never get past," he said. He asked by whose authority the standards were so positioned. He was told that undoubtedly they were positioned by the hydro commission.

"Hasn't the city engineer any control over our streets?" asked Alderman Allin. "I have been trying to find that out for the past year," replied Mayor Storey.

Alderman Lloyd wanted to know if snow removal equipment was ready for service. He was told that it was ready.

Street Designated

Alderman Vanner asked if Hillcrest Ave. had been designated as a one-way street and also inquired with respect to the trench for water mains on John Street being left open preventing residents getting into their driveways. Alderman Hyde indicated the first named matter would be looked after immediately, while it was again noted that the utility and contractor had control over digging of trenches with respect to the new water main.

Alderman Lummiss wanted to know how much the city had paid the engineering firm of Gore and Storrie for their services, while Alderman Tice asked regarding the excavation in the sidewalk at the Bell shirt factory on Bridge Street. City engineer Charles Mott stated the excavation in the sidewalk had been dug to find a leak in the storm sewer. The search had proven unsuccessful and the sewer would be re-routed. The excavation would be filled in a day or so, it was stated.

Regret of the council was expressed at losing two of its members, Aldermen E. E. Follwell and Mark Vanner who this year will resign from public service.

POLICE COURT

Proceedings in magistrate's court were of brief duration today as all cases listed were pleas of guilty with respective fines and costs being paid out of court.

Six drunks paid the conventional $13, fine and costs out of court, while several motorists contributed to the city coffers for infractions of traffic by-laws. One motorist was fined for speeding on city streets, while still another was assessed for driving his car without brakes.

Three charges of disorderly conduct completed the court docket, the parties involved entering pleas of guilty.

The first three makers named in the above classes also won prizes awarded by the Lennox and Addington county council.

Hunting Equipment Lost With Trunk

The annual deer hunt in the northern woods proved just a bit more costly this season for Clayton Covert of Picton, who yesterday reported at the city police station that trunk containing camping equipment disappeared from his truck. The chagrined hunter stated the trunk either had been taken while his truck was parked in the city, or had fallen off the truck on the Picton highway. Articles in the trunk were valued at approximately $60. Mr. Covert did not state whether he was successful in getting a deer.

Profit-Sharing Policies Best Says Club Speaker

Speaking to a full attendance of the Optimist Club, Malcolm Robb, local barrister, chose for his topic "Labor Relations is Your Business." Mr. Robb stressed that efficiency in production is vitally necessary to the maintenance and improvement of our standards of living. He pointed out that "in Canada, we stand alone on our own abilities and merits, without the subsidies of foreign investments or the use of forced labor pools."

The speaker predicted a disastrous finish to the present overall labor policy and its resultnat disorders, and, seeking a remedy, pointed the contract between strike-ridden, sabotaged industries, and those plants which make use of progressive, profit-sharing methods. In conclusion, Mr. Robb stated that the interests of labor and management are identical, and that a wise and equitable labor policy is the best insurance a business man can provide for the future of his children, his business and his country.

FORESEE EARLY MEETING OF ONTARIO HOUSE

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP) — An early session of the Ontario Legislature was forecast Monday as Premier Kennedy called his first caucus of the Progressive Conservative party.

Members said there was a possibility the session might open before the end of January. Opening date would depend on whether major departments can complete their work before then.

The caucus was informed that national leader George Drew was "seriously ill" with a septic throat.

Girl Incurably Ill For Two Years Dies

Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 30 —(AP) —Nearly two years ago, Linda Wolters was stricken with an incurable disease.

Doctors held no hope for recovery. The disease produced a weakening of the muscles and caused a gradual petrification of the body.

Linda spent months in the hospital. Her constant companion was Bambi, a fox terrier. In the hospital, Linda received hundreds of messages from persons all over the United States.

Linda's last prayer, her mother said, was that she soon might find an end to her suffering.

Linda, seven years old, died today.

Boxing Day Will Be Annual Event in Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP) —Toronto has an extra civic holiday from now on—Boxing Day.

Remanded on Charge Of Attempted Murder

Whitby, Nov. 30 —(CP)— Earl Hopkins, 27-year-old Uxbridge township man charged with attempted murder of his brother Marlin, was remanded in custody a week here today.

Police say that an argument between the two brothers last Thursday resulted in the critical wounding of the 32-year-old farmer. They claim the awo quarrelled over a young woman at a farmhouse drinking party.

Marlin was sitting beside the girl on a couch when a 16-gauge shotgun was fired through the window. The elder Hopkins brother was riddled from chest to knees with shotgun pellets.

CAR DROPS INTO CULVERT, BOUNCES OUT AGAIN

Sarnia, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Arthur D. Wolven, of Pasadena, Cal., escaped with minor injuries when his car dropped into a culvert and bounced out again on Highway No. 7, six miles east of the city. The car skidded after he applied the brakes to avoid another auto.

Dr. Boyer Loses Appeal Against His Conviction

Montreal, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Dr. Raymond Boyer, wealthy Montreal chemist, today lost his appeal against conviction one year ago for violation of the Official Secrets Act in the 1946 espianage case.

The decision against the appeal was unanimous, delivered in a 50-page judgment which was said to be one of the longest judgments in the appeal court's history.

It was read by Mr. Justice Aime Marchand.

Eighth Conviction

It was announced Monday that the decision would be handed down some time today in the case of the 41-year-old explosives expert who became the eighth Canadian to be convicted following the spy-ring disclosures of Igor Gouzenko, cipher clerk in the Russian Embassy at Ottawa.

Dr. Boyer was sentenced to two years in penitentiary following his conviction on charges of conspiring to communicate information illegally to Russia. Specifically, he was alleged to have given information in 1943 to Fred Rose, former Labor-Progressive Member of Parliament, about Canada's secret process for manufacture of the super-explosive RDX. Rose now is serving a six-year penitentiary term.

Dr. Boyer, a former McGill University professor, was freed on $25,000 bail when his appeal was launched last January.

Appeal from conviction was based on a contention that there was no legal proof in the record to show Dr. Boyer committed any offence under the Official Secrets Act or that he had been party to any conspiracy.

Prominent Position

The scientist was rated as one of the top men in Canada in the field of organic chemistry. In 1943 Munitions Minister Howe commended him and four other researchers for having "made an outstanding contribution to the Allied cause."

He was educated at Loyola College in Montreal, his birthplace, and received his doctorate in chemistry at McGill.

A prominent figure in development by RDX at Valcartier, Que., he was named by the Royal Commission which in 1946 investigated the espionage ring.

Three trials before French-speaking juries followed illness of a juror necessitated discharge of the first jury and the start of a new trial. A jury disagreement ended the second trial in March, 1947.

Toronto Regulations As to Lighting Of Christmas Trees

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Mayor H. E. McAllum asked Toronto citizens today not to use Christmas tree lighting except on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. Outdoor Christmas tree lighting is banned by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

The mayor announced today that as a "Christmas gift" Toronto's single 30-minute afternoon cutoff will be suspended Dec. 20-24.

Tobacco Heiress Weds Childhood Sweetheart

Bennettsville, S.C., Nov. 30 — (AP)—Anne Cannon Reynolds, 18-year-old heiress to a tobacco fortune, was married to a childhood sweetheart, Lloyd Patrick Tate, here Monday. Miss Reynolds, whose father was the late E. Smith Reynolds, son of the founder of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, was given $9,000,000 of her father's estate after he died from a bullet wound in 1932.

FOURTH BREAK-IN AT SARNIA

Sarnia, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Burglars struck again here early today.

They entered a groceteria by smashing a window and stole $7 in cash and a quantity of cigarets and chocolate bars.

It was the fourth break-in in two weeks.

74th Birthday Celebrated By Winston Churchill

London, Nov. 30 (AP)—Winston Churchill reached his 74th birthday today and almost broke up a House of Commons session.

The old master of parliament merely walked into the chamber in his usual manner. But it was enough.

Members from all sides broke into a round of spontaneous chees that drowned out Labor member who was questioning the Minister of Town and Country Planning.

Decorum was quickly restored and there were no speeches.

At Churchill's home, however, congratulatory telegrams piled up by the hundreds. His secretary said far too many had been received for any list to be announced.

Churchill planned only a quiet party with his family and a few friends tonight. His birthday cake is iced to illustrate some of his many interests. It's decorations include a picture frame, an artists palette and brushes, a map of Europe and a replica of one of his books.

The former Conservative Prime Minister received a flood of congratulatory messages and gifts, including books, flowers, a huge cake from a London baking firm, and plenty of cigars.

Fixture of his birthday, year in and year out, is a family party with a handful of old cronies at his London home in Byway-on-Fringe, Hyde Park.

It seemed likely that he would work pretty much as usual on a pile of parliamentary business, always on the desk of the leader of the opposition.

He may devote part of the day to dictation of more of his monumental war memoirs, the first volume of which — "The Gathering Storm" — was published this fall.

Churchill remains such a ball of fire that he is a constant worry to doctors. He scoffs at all suggestions to slow down. But he catches cold frequently and his colds lay him up for days.

The doctors have persuaded him to rest in bed most days until noon and to take frequent afternoon naps.

Share-Gifts Plan Is Announced By Princess

London, Nov. 30 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth today announced a share-the-gifts plan for the mothers of all babies born in the United Kingdom on the same day as her son.

The gifts are food parcels sent to the Princess ever since her wedding Nov. 20, 1947. Some of these food parcels already have been distributed to needy families but enough are on hand to make up new parcels for the Nov. 14 mothers.

The Ministry of Food, announcing it has received instructions from the Princess to make the food distribution, said a list of the mothers now is being compiled by the government's vital statistics bureau. It was unable to estimate the number of babies born on the same day as the Prince.

254,000 Persons Enter Canada Since War's End

Ottawa, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Post-war immigration into Canada has passed the quarter-million figure, immigration officials said today.

Since the end of the war, Canada has received 254,000 persons, including European displaced persons brought in for employment by the Labor Department.

Largest single group is made up of Britons, with 130,000 immigrants from the United Kingdom having arrived in the Dominion.

Officials said it was expected around 100,000 would enter Canada next year, which would make 1949 the biggest immigration year since the end of the war. The only limitation was shipping space.

Cheese Makers Discuss Measures To Halt Decline in Cheese Production

Measures which might halt the rapid falling off in the production of cheese were the topic of discussion at the opening session of the annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association held at the Hotel Quinte this morning.

The convention is being held in conjunction with the British Empire Dairy Show where over 150 cheese are on exhibition at the Belleville Armouries.

President of the Cheese Makers' Association, Mr. Mac Remington of Newburgh, in his opening address noted that cheese production in the Central Ontario district this year had fallen off from 20 to 25 per cent as compared with the year previous. This had been due to some extent, he said, through milk being sold to other branches of the industry which resulted in many of the smaller factories being closed.

Price Spread too Great

To offset this and to lower production costs he urged the amalgamation of certain factories with an effort being made to boost the consumption of cheese on the domestic market. He noted that the spread in the price of cheese —from 32 cents received by the farmer to 50 and 60 cents per pound when sold in stores, was too great, and stated that to boost the domestic market this must be remedied.

Frank Robinson of Kemptville, chief dairy instructor for Eastern Ontario, thought the fact there was no guaranteed price for milk at the cheese factory, was one of the reasons why farmers in many instances were turning to other branches of the industry as an outlet for their milk. In other branches farmers had a guarantee price for each 15-day period, they were supplied with clean cans, and the pick-up schedules allowed the farmer more freedom of time.

The fact that farmers when sending to the cheese factory received no returns for six to eight weeks and the uncertainty of price, was one of the main reasons for their switching to other branches of the industry. Also the price to be expected for cheese should be made known well in advance of the season opening.

Newton Ashton, agricultural representative for Lennox and Addington County, dwelt on the lower milk production stating that sales of milk cows to the United States and the lack of farm labor were contributing factors. In cattle sales to the U.S.A. only the best cows were chosen, this resulting less productive animals being left.

To offset this the speaker urged a program of better breeding as a measure to increase production. Only high priced sires of known ancestry should be used.

Favors Insemination Practice

"It might be said that many farmers cannot afford to use only high priced sires, but milk production can be increased as well as the quality of milk improved through use of an artificial insemination unit. The smaller farmer cannot afford not to belong to such a unit," he said.

Mr. Ashton also said that cheese as a food might be better advertised. He quoted tables showing the vitamin content of cheese far exceeds that of meat, while many recipe books showed at least 75 different ways in which to serve cheese. This fact, he believed might be used to advantage in advertising cheese as a food.

The auctioning of the cheese shown in the exhibition was scheduled to take place this morning, but was postponed, the sale of the cheese to take place Wednesday at the close of the morning session of the convention.

P-C Caucus Discusses Better Election Methods

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP)—Every defeated ProgressiveConservative candidate in the last provincial election was asked at a provincial party caucus to diagnose the reasons for his defeat, Premier Kennedy said today.

He said weaknesses and their corrections were discussed to improve organization work during the next election. Monday's caucus was so successful that the Premier suggested another be held in January.

HIDES STOLEN

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP) — A truck loaded with leather hides, earmarked for Ontario shoe factories, was stolen today from the freight yards of the Strathdee Transport Co. The hides are worth $5,000 in the black market, police say.

16,190 Students Enrol at Varsity

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP)— A total of 16,190 students, 901 fewer than last years' record, enrolled at the University of Toronto this year, Dr. Sidney Smith, the University's president, announced today. Ex-service men and women students total 6,715.

Plans are being made to arrange graduation ceremonies for a record 4,000 next summer, he said.

Canada's Inherited Habit of Mind Must be Changed, Says Author, Before She Becomes Coherent Nation

Toronto, Nov. 30. (CP)—Canada's whole inherited habit of mind must be radically changed before she can become a coherent country, Arthur Hugh MacLennan told the Canadian Club here yesterday.

Most popular Canadian myth—a Canadian in the red jacket of the Mountie—is not creative, he said. It meant that the fundamental impulse of Canadian society was to "get" any man who stepped out of line.

First step toward making Canada known, toward making Canada coherent, would occur "when we make an about-turn from dramatizing ourselves mainly in terms of the Northwest frontier that hardly any of us have ever seen."

"But the second step—and by far the most important—consists in realizing that at present there exists in Canada a peculiar technique for making everything seem duller than it is."

Canadians' perpetual caution, Mr. MacLennan said, could succeed only in producing a second-rate society and driving young people to the United States. Canadian youth was fed up with emotional caution.

Canadians were not really dull or stuffed shirts—the shenanigans that preceded and followed Saturday's Grey Cup football game had shown that.

"The reign on dullness can't last forever. Canadians are too interesting and the youth of Canada is becoming too impatient for it to last much longer."

G. Trumpour Wins Cook Trophy In Motorbike Trials

After a gruelling two-hour struggle over a tough course, George Trumpour, Sidney Street, won the "45" class in the Quinte Motorcycle Club Fall trials over the weekend. Trumpour was awarded the Bill Cook trophy emblematic of supremacy in this class.

Ron Guest chased Trumpour to the wire and finished a close second in a field of thirteen riders. Eight of the thirteen failed to complete the rugged course.

Don Cranfield, Oshawa, won the Angus McFee trophy with Bill Davidson and Mad Sale both of Toronto finishing second and third respectively. Ray Hay, Belleville, after overcoming difficulties on the muddy course, finished up in fourth position.

Other riders from the city who competed included Lorne Fargey, Jack Tebworth, Willet Barber, Frank Thorn and Frank Andrews.

The Walker Hardware trophy was unclaimed as eligible teams failed to finish the course.

Harold Wakefield, Administrator Of Hospital Heard

Harold Wakefield, recently appointed administrator of the Belleville General Hospital, was the guest speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon on Monday.

Mr. Wakefield, introduced by Rotarian Dr. Arthur Locke, spoke on hospital conditions in general and outlined many reasons why hospital costs are at their present scale.

In his address Mr. Wakefield pointed out that these institutions in England are nationalized, but he preferred that in Canada "the people run their own show."

"Now," he said, "is a pertinent time for business men and others to carefully study what is to be done for the sick. Hospital accounts must be paid, or the institutions must close."

Club appreciation was expressed by Rotarian Brewer Hunt. President Mack Macklem was in the chair.

COUPLE REMANDED ON NARCOTIC CHARGES

Ottawa, Nov. 30 (CP)—A Smiths Falls couple, John Wesley Jackson, 62, and his wife Elizabeth, were remanded a week without plea when they were arraigned in court today on individual charges of being in illegal possession of morphine. Bail was set for each at $1,000 cash or $1,500 property.

They were arrested Monday night by officials of the R.C.M.P. narcotics squad and Ottawa police in a small Ottawa hotel. Police allege they found in the couple's possession several hundred morphine tablets.

Dozen Nfld. Gunners And Three Others Inherit $57,312

London, Nov. 30. (CP)—A dozen former gunners of a Newfoundland anti-aircraft battery have been remembered by an Englishwoman whose cooking they said they would never forget.

In her will recently probated, she left £14,328 ($57,312) to be shared by the Newfoundlanders, a schoolboy, a Fleet Air Arm airman and a medical student, all of whom she "adopted" during the war.

The woman was Miss Edith Cawood, retired cookery teacher who made friends of the Newfoundland gunners stationed near her suburban Sandstead home at the height of the blitz.

When the anti-aircraft batterymen went to Italy they did not forget. They wrote regularly to their "godmother".

She died last July.

St. Andrew's Day

Today is the day of St. Andrew, patron saint of a land and a people who are the salt of the earth. For all that Scotland has ever been and for all she means today, for what her people are, not only the British peoples but the world acclaims that country of the north.

Scotland, unique among nations in many respects, is the land that has given the world some of its brightest minds in every sphere of life. It is a name and a reality not only to those who live within its bounds, but to the descendants of Scots and to Scots abroad and to all who like those ways which are Scottish and those rugged and noble qualities which make the Scot a man to be respected wherever he is found.

Scotland's saint is Andrew, a name that is recorded in Holy Writ and one of the most cherished in the religious world. He belonged to that great company of apostles who were drawn to the following of the Master. They say that long after his death the saint's bones were brought to Scotland from the East and that the ship which bore them to the northern land was wrecked on Scotland's coast in St. Andrew's Bay. The Bible record of his life in the service of the new faith does not tell all of his labors on behalf of mankind as one of that chosen group whose works have done so much to spread the faith. He was a great traveller and legend tells of the many conversions to the Christian faith which were the result of his service of his Master. He died, says legend, a martyr on a cross of the form known as St. Andrew's cross to this day. He is the missionary in spirit for it was he who brought his brother Peter to Christ.

Scotland in her choice of him as patron saint did wisely for St. Andrew's spirit seems to guide that land. He is the symbol of the missionary zeal of those men who of all humanity and of all ages were privileged to spread the Christian doctrine.

Through twenty centuries and more his message has been heard, and for ages will be heard.

Scotland, the land of thinkers and poets, commanders, great leaders of men, and of millions of people who are so much admired by every race, and of the land of song, has an honored place among the nations. She and England as parts of Britain have been placed by destiny to play a mighty role among the nations, making for peace and harmony. Scotland, like England, Wales and Ireland, has been led by Providence to lead mankind into the ways of brotherhood.

Of the truly great of all ranks and professions and walks of life who could answer for Scotland in the roll call of the world's great benefactors of humanity there would be a vast throng of men and women whose lives have been a blessing to the race. In the choice of St. Andrew as patron saint, Scotland and Scots chose wisely and revealed their soul.

His Majesty's Progress to Recovery

Across the Empire and elsewhere in the world great numbers of people are watching the bulletins of the progress of His Majesty the King in the present illness which has caused the cancellation of all public engagements. Yesterday their hopes were greatly encouraged as the King's general health is reported by his doctors as improved by the rest and treatment which he is receiving, even though he carries on many duties within the palace. The medical bulletin on the King's health issued on Monday is regarded as a good one and most encouraging. The court correspondent said that there is now less cause for immediate anxiety.

That this progress will be maintained is the hope and prayer of millions in every part of the globe. King George has been a ruler who has never spared himself but has served with all his enthusiasm the multitude of calls upon his time and attention as the head of the State. The life of a monarch today is one of the greatest responsibilitity and His Majesty has carried out these heavy duties with his whole heart and strength. This devotion to the State to which the office of kingship binds the ruler has no doubt laid very heavy burdens upon him who occupies the Throne.

That the course of the affection which has caused him to take rest will have the desired goal, the restoration of the King to his accustomed strength, is the sincere wish of those who have admired their Ruler as one whose devotion to the office has been so marked and whose influence upon his people has been so deep and enduring.

I never knew a man that was bad fit for any service that was good. There was always some unqualifying ingredient mixing with the compound and spoiling it. — Burke.

GRATE FIRE

The northwest wind in the evening came
And rattled each door and each window frame.
Between the houses it raced and roared,
As if it would loosen each brick and board.

As a tyrant who rules by the threat of might
And tortures whoever disputes his right,

The north wind thundered: "The foe I hate
Is a blazing fire in an open grate!

"I'm king of the winds, and whene'er I blow
The bliss of comfort no man should know.'
But the birch logs laughed, as we sat about,
Saying: "Have no fear; we will keep him out."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

NOV. 30TH., 1928.

Messrs. William Cole, Charles Treverton, Jack Brasher and Louis Renouf of Corbyville are attending a business meeting of the Ancient and Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine at the Masonic Temple in Toronto.

Miss Mary Hamilton of Mountain View has returned home after an extended trip through the Western Provinces and Northern States. En route home she visited the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Mr. F. E. O'Donahue spent the weekend in Toronto.

Mr. Hugh Macdonald of Picton was in town today.

30 YEARS AGO

NOV. 30TH., 1918.

Today is St. Andrew's Day, an anniversary dear to the hearts of all sons and daughters of Scotland.

The Rev. Dr. Blagrave, former Rector of Christ Church here, now Rector of St. Mark's Church, Parkdale, Toronto, addressed the Masonic Grand Masters' Association in Toronto recently and was made an honorary member of the association.

The members of the band in connection with the 15th. Battalion A.L.I., will launch a campaign next week to raise by subscriptions a sum of money sufficient for the erection of a soldiers' monument. Their plan has been sanctioned by the executive of the city council. The following compose the committee in charge: Chairman, W. D. Carter; Secretary, L. E. Walmsley; Treasurer, Arthur Jones; Executive Committee, Ald. Charles Hanna; Walter Aselstine and Albert Wonnacott. The committee has no plans as yet as to what form the memorial will take, except that it will be a monument. Much will depend upon the subscriptions received.

40 YEARS AGO

NOV. 30TH., 1908.

After many weeks of threatening weather rain fell heavily and steadily today. It was badly needed.

City Solicitor W. C. Mikel has received a communication from the Chief Engineer of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission informing him that as soon as the weather conditions permit a surveying party will be sent here for the purpose of making a survey of the Moira River. This is in response to the request of the deputation from this city and other municipalities along the Moira River.

The members of Camp Rob Roy Sons of Scotland and "Brither Scots" attended St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and were addressed by the minister, the Rev. R. S. Laidlaw.

TODAY'S MORAL STANDARDS NOT ADEQUATE

The Bible tells us that the heart of man is desperately wicked.

What nonsense and heresy this is as measured by many modern moral standards. We are being told today that the heart of man is not bad but good. Give him a chance, and man can be depended upon quite invariably to do the right thing. If he does the wrong thing, it is because he is ignorant or is surrounded by adverse environment or is the victim of circumstances over which he has no control. If he drinks too much he is not committing a moral wrong; he is simply suffering from a disease known as alcoholism. If a man steals we are told that he is not primarily responsible for his conduct but has been made a thief by family or social conditions which produced frustration.

All this, of course, is far afield of the Biblical teaching that evil starts at the centre of a man's heart. Man is indeed good at the centre of his being for he is created in the image and after the likeness of God. But freedom of choice leads every man and woman at times into evil, and choice flows from the inner sources of personality which we usually designate as a man's heart. So it would appear that the Biblical teaching concerning the wickedness of the human heart still holds good.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THAT EXTRA

I have never known anyone who was willing and eager to do something extra, something for which he wasn't paid, who didn't grow, advance and gloriously succeed.

Everyone wants that type of person around, as an associate in business, and as a friend. You know that there is dependability there — something that you can tie to, that extra that some persons have over others, and which sets them apart.

I knew the late E. M. Statler, who established the Statler hotel group — played golf with him, was entertained on his boat and sat for hours with him as he talked advertising, which was a hobby with him. He started in a most modest manner, establishing his first hotel in Buffalo, New York. There were already thousands of hotels in the United States, but Statler had ideas that other hotel men had neglected. He believed that the customer was always right, so bowed to him when a difference arose. Then he gave little extras like a daily newspaper, a free library, and discouraged tipping in his washrooms. Is it any wonder that his hotels have prospered, even after his death?

It is that little extra courtesy and interest that many a clerk gives that ties a customer to him or her. It is natural for people to go out of their way to deal at a store where there is a pleasant atmosphere, and where they are made to feel that they are welcomed.

Good will is—that extra, and it has become almost priceless. It is impossible to estimate its asset value. And what an asset to create and build upon! Yet, how rare a thing it is—and getting rarer every day, unfortunately. Too many strive to get from someone, or from somewhere, that extra, instead of giving it as an offering.

That extra accomplishment of being able to write helpfully, to paint, to converse in one or more languages, to have travelled much, read much, or to have met and known a variety of people—any of these is what makes a personality outstanding and attractive.

Mackenzie's Column:

Little Enthusiasm Over Mme. Chiang Visit to States

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Madame Chiang Kai-Shek's unofficial mission to the United States, presumably to make an urgent plea for further American aid to her hard-hit country, has evoked little enthusiasm in Washington.

The brilliant First Lady of China naturally is being received with every courtesy due her high position. She is being brought here in American planes, and the the flight from San Francisco to Washington will be made in President Truman's former private machine, the Sacred Cow. Moreover, she is to be the house guest of State Secretary and Mrs. Marshall at their home near the capital.

However, Mme. Chiang's sensational trip strikes American diplomatic circles as savoring a bit too much of high-pressure tactics, especially since it follows so closely on Chiang's direct appeal to President Truman for more help—and quick. The whole problem is, of course, a matter of earnest discussion between Truman and Marshall.

Regime in Danger

As a matter of fact, the Nationalist regime of Chiang Kai-Shek is in danger of going down for the third time. Things look grim for the Nationalists in the great battle with the Chinese Communists in the Suchow sector, which is the gateway to the national capital of Nanking — the gateway to all Central China, for that matter.

On Nov. 20 when the Chinese government announced a sweeping victory over the Red rebels in the Suchow area, this column warned readers to await developments before jumping to conclusions. It looked to me as though the attacking Communists had merely paused for a breather and reorganization after some 10 days of fierce attack, and that they would resume their offensive in due course.

The offensive has been resumed and about half a million Red troops are said to be on the move towards Nanking. A quarter of a million government troops in the Suchow area are reported to have been ordered to withdraw southward for defence of the capital and the routes into central China, but thus far the withdrawal hasn't been effected.

In any event, as things now stand the National defenders are faced with attack by twice their number. And the Reds are receiving support from the Russians via Manchuria and Mongolia.

Two-Year Term Proposed By Toronto Council

Toronto, Nov. 30 —(CP)— Toronto voters will decide whether to elect their city councillors and controllers for a two-year term.

City council early today voted to send a by-law — providing for a two-year term — to the voters at the municipal elections Jan. 1.

A similar by-law was defeated last year by a vote of 51,403 to 48,547.

Under the by-law, members of the Board of Education would also be given two-year terms. If approved, the scheme will take effect in 1949.

Cherry-and-Red Dappled Canadian Bull Champion

Chicago, Nov. 30 (CP)—Canadian exhibitors in livestock classes of the International Livestock exposition and grain and hay show today set out to add to championships already captured.

A 1,450-pound cherry-and-red dappled Canadian shorthorn bull —Scotsdale Bombardier — was placed first ahead of a herd of American-bred animals to take the grand championship of his class Monday.

The grand championship won by the herd sire of S. G. Bennett of Georgetown, Ont., brings four major titles to Canada so far in the eight-day show.

Although the barley crown was taken back to the United States by J. P. Westein of Joliet, Mont., virtually all other prize-winners in the class were won by Canadians.

Elmo Patterson of Cosbocton, O., was crowned rye king. The title, although won by L. I. Anderson of Fargo, N.D. last year, went to W. S. Simpson of Dawson Creek, B.C., in 1946.

Mantle of Roses

When Judge Enrique Santamarina, one of Argentina's leading shorthorn breeders, placed the Canadian bull at the head of the line, a mantle of roses, ferns and carnations was thrown around Scotsdale Bombardier's neck.

Santamarina, who indicated the champion with two quick slaps on his heavy rump, described him as "harmonious."

"...it stands well, is of deep structure (and) has a certain style. This animal is a great walker: It's not unco-ordinated It's level across the back line."

Traditionally the corn-growing crowns went to Americans—this year to a father and son. Newton Halterman of Rushville, Ind., in the rich corn belt, was named king and his 12-year-old son, Lair, prince.

The small peas championship went to John S. Frisby of Markham, Ont., who won the small yellow field peas class Saturday.

The Lincoln sheep class was virtually split between two Ontario breeders—Stan Graham of Alviston and H. M. Lee of Highgate. Graham was awarded first place for showings of pens of three, and first, third and fifth places in the singles. Lee placed second in groups of three and second, fourth and sixth in the singles.

In the Cotswold class, L. G. Claspell of Hampton, Ont., outshone a group of United States exhibitors to win a first in pens of three and first, third and fourth in the single showings.

Sat in Taxi While Police Combed Station

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP) — An escaped convict sat quietly in a taxix outside Toronto's Union station Saturday while police officers combed the inside of the station for him. A Toronto cab driver, Horace Coad, said today he had picked up a fare at the station, believed to be Hugh McIntosh who escaped custody while being taken to Kingston penitentiary to serve an eight-year sentence for forgery.

McIntosh slipped out of handcuffs and lost himself in a crowd of Calgary fans who arrived for the Grey Cup football game. Goad said he drove the man about five blocks into the centre of downtown Toronto.

The Packsack of Gregory Clark

The white collar class is the really dangerous class. Practically all the disturbances of a serious character in human history have been created by these white collar unfortunates caught between the upper millstone of the industrial rulers and the nether millstone of the working classes.

The upper millstone does not desire any changes in its way of life. The lower millstone desires only a few cents more an hour for its work, a few hours fewer in its working week. Neither wants any revolutionary change that would affect its daily caviar or its daily bread. But between the two, prices go up and wages go up. And in the middle, being ground, is the white collar worker whose salary generally lags months of not years behind the upward trend. So he is forced to think things up!

Thomas Alva Edison was a white collar worker, a telegrapher. It is not on record what his weekly salary was, as he sat at the telegraph key. But it wasn't enough. So he had to think something up. What he thought up revolutionized both society and industry; made things infinitely better for millions; but brought ruin upon any number of people, both industrialists and workers, whose livelihood was founded upon the old-fashioned things Edison wiped out when he thought things up.

Charles Dickens was a white collar worker. He was a public stenographer. Like millions of others of his class, he could not earn enough to make ends meet. So he thought things up.

His writings were one of the most powerful forces in the conditioning and altering of public opinion during the greatest era of change in human history.

Karl Marx was a white collar man . . . But why go on? The fact is self-evident. In history both ancient and modern, it was not the proletariat nor the capitalists, as the soap boxers call them, who wrecked the joint: it was disgruntled white collar workers, thinking something up.

MILK AND THE CALCIUM SHORTAGE

From long experience I know how difficult it is to interest Yankee Wiseacres in pure physiology or hygiene, and how easy it is to interest you in symptoms, diagnosis and treatment—provided the treatment is inexpensive, convenient and in line with your preconceived notions of what you need.

In recent talks I have described milk as the best food source of vitamin A and an excellent, if not the best, food source of riboflavin (vitamin B2 or G, it was formerly called.) I told how essential and adequate intake of vitamin A is for keeping the skin and complexion in good condition and for keeping the mucous membranes in a healthy condition so that the lining of nose, throat, sinuses, bronchial tubes and lungs will serve as an unbroken defense against invasion by disease germs. And I told how riboflavin prevents chronic bloodshot appearances of the eyes, cracks and maceration at corners of mouth and premature wrinkling of the skin—or, as McCollum expressed it, enhances nutritional well being and preserves the characteristics of youth.

There is still a third reason why every one should consume at least a quart, better three pints, of milk or the equivalent (cheese, butter, cream, skim milk, separator milk, sour milk, buttermilk, acidophilus milk, yoghourt, evaporated milk, condensed milk, dry milk powder, or dishes containing milk powder, or dishes containing milk or milk products) a day as the foundaton of one's diet. That reason is calcium.

Milk is the best food source of calcium.

Prof. H. C. Sherman, in his famous textbook The Chemistry of Food and Nutrition states that the ordinary mixed diet of Americans and Europeans, at least among dwellers in cities and towns, is probably more often deficient in calcium than in any other chemical element. This authority further reminds us that a food supply may appear liberal and varied (such as many of you Yankee Wiseacres think "well balanced ") and yet unless milk and green leaf vegetables are well represented it may be calcium-poor.

Simple "nervous" or neuralgic headache, periodic sick headache (migraine), allergic sensitivity, rhinorrhea or "temperamental rhinitis" or sudden watery drip drip from nose and as sudden cessation of the watery discharge, spurious chronic sinusitis, ethmoiditis or machine gun sneezing, chronic or recurring eczema, recurring hives, giant hives, (angioneurotic edema) seasonal hay fever, spasmodic bronchial asthma, "growing pains" in children, painful cramps in legs or feet at night in mature adults (adult tetany), recurring chilblains, soft, crumbling, fast decaying teeth, chronic vague rheumatiz.

All of these complaints are apparently manifestations of calcium deficiency. The calcium deficiency is generally, though not necessarily always, due to the victim's lifelong calcium-poor diet, and especially to the failure to include two or three pints of milk or milk equivalents in the daily diet.

Let no reader infer that taking milk or taking calcium and vitamin D for a week or a month will cure any of the complaints mentioned. Correcting the dietary deficiency for a year may bring relief, but we're talking about food not medicine.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Fools Nobody

Ben Told putting tint on your hair will dry up your blood. (Mrs. E. M. F.)

Answer—Provided the dye contains no poisonous ingredient it is harmless. Dyeing the hair or bleaching or tinting it is all right if it helps you to hold your job. Otherwise it advertises an unlovely trait, doesn't it? Send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet The Hair and Scalp.

Murmur

Is murmur of the heart dangerous or would it be cause for worry? I am 60. My family doctor says I have murmur of the heart but does not say any more about it. (B. H. McL.)

Answer—If you got it straight from the doctor you should reply So What? That will enable the doctor to explain what he thinks the trouble may be or else tell you frankly that he doesn't know. "Murmur" is merely a sound heard over the heart or blood vessel—it may mean nothing at all.

Bed-Wetting

Nine-year-old wets the bed. I presume this is kidney disorder. (E. L. Jr.)

Answer—Usually not kidney trouble, just habit. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing for pamphlet The Bed-Wetting Habit.

5,000,000th Motor Vehicle Will Come Off Assembly Line

Detroit, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Before the afternoon shift goes home Tuesday, the 5,000,000th motor vehicle of the year will come off the production line.

In one of the 112 assembly plants in the United States and Canada, a new passenger car, truck or bus will be the vehicle—the 5,000,000th — the industry will figurately hail.

For the automobile industry, since last Jan. 1, has been straining almost to the point of frustration to break the all-time record output of 5,621,715 vehicles assembled in 1929.

Inadequate supplies of sheet steel and disheartening shutdowns caused by labor disputes in plants by manufacturers and suppliers earlier in the year will prevent establishment of a record.

But, with the plants operating at only an estimated 70 per cent of capacity, the industry is making 30 new passenger cars and 10 trucks and buses every minute of every working day..

With 30 days production still to go, Ward's automotive reports estimates that the industry will turn out 3,866,000 passenger cars and 1,384,000 trucks in United States plants and 162,000 passenger cars and 101,000 trucks in Canadian plants.

SAID HE RECEIVED SUM BUT NOT AS BRIBE

Tokyo, Nov. 30 — (AP) — Hitoshi Ashida, former prime minister, testified yesterday he had received an undisclosed sum of money during his recent term, but that it was not a bribe.

Ashida told the House of Representatives' steering committee that the money was a "political contribution." The Tokyo procurator has asked parliamentary permission to arrest Ashida for bribery.

ON WAY TO RECOVERY

Athens, Nov. 30 — (AP) — Doctors attending 88-year-old Premier Themistokles Sophoulis of Greece said today he is on the way to full recovery.

He suffered two severe heart attacks last week.

Today's bulletin said Sophoulis is eating solid food and the use of medicine has been reduced to a minimum.

Blast Shatters Frame Building, One Injured

Portland, Ore., Nov. 30 (AP)—An explosion shattered a frame building and shook a large are of the waterfront industrial area Monday night, but only one person was injured.

Walter G. Kratt, 47, a port engineer, suffered burns of the face and hands and severe shock. He was thrown 200 feet by the blast.

Nearby stacked lumber caught fire but firemen had the half a block burning zone under control in an hour.

Kratt was quoted by police as saying he entered the Portland Dock Commission office and smelled gas. When he flipped on a basement light switch to investigate the odor, the building blew up.

Damage was estimated by port authorities at under $75,000.

Swedish Police Probe Chance Killer on Trains

Stockholm, Nov. 30 — (AP) — Police are delving into the chance that a mad killer might be riding weekend Swedish trains.

Four persons have been killed and a fifth injured critically in falls from trains in southern Sweden on successive weekends. The circumstances of all mishaps were similar.

The latest death occurred late Saturday. Magnus Joensoon, 58, was found dead beside the tracks north of Malmoe. The lone survivor, policeman Carl Nilsson, has partial amnesia and remembers nothing of his train trip Oct. 30, after which he was found injured on the tracks near Halmstad.

Newspapers recalled that a killer eight years ago amused himself pushing women from Berlin suburban trains. A spokesman for the state-owned Swedish railways said an inquiry is on but would not comment further.

Shares Daddy's Wealth, Tossing Bills, Diamonds

New York, Nov. 30 — (AP) Ronnie Sue Moskowitz, an angelic - looking four-year-old with big brown eyes, has her own share-the-wealth plan.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Moskowitz, are the victims.

A couple of months ago, Mama caught the little blonde peeling $5 bills from daddy's bank roll and tossing them out a window of their Brooklyn apartment.

Last Saturday, Ronnie threw two diamond rings, valued at 1,500, into the garbage because "Mama wasn't wearing them."

Sunday, two policemen poked around in the ashes and recovered the rings. Daddy said he would take them to a jeweler to learn the amount of damage.

Gandhi's Dream Written Into Constitution

New Delhi, Nov. 30 (Reuters) — The constituent assembly on Monday wrote into the proposed Indian constitution Mohandas K. Gandhi's dream of abolishing "untouchability" of members of the lowest Hindu castes.

The clause was passed amid shouts of "Gandhi Ji Ki Jau"—(Victory to Gandhi").

During Gandhi's lifetime he often violated orthodox Hindu custom by living in the homes of "untouchables."

Refuse to Take Blood Tests To Prove Claim

Melburne, Australia, Nov. 30 (Reuters)—Mr. and Mrs. Noel Jenkins last night announced their refusal to undergo blood tests ordered by the Victorian Supreme Court to test their claim to one of two babies which, the court decided, were switched in a hospital in June, 1945.

The Jenkinses said they had taken their stand on legal advice and would appeal if Judge John Barry maintained his decision awarding to other parents the child the Jenkinses have reared as Noella Jenkins.

Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. Alberta Gwen Morrison each gave birth to a girl in the same room of the same hospital at Kyneton, 70 miles north of here 3½ years ago.

Last Thursday Judge Barry upheld Mrs. Morrison's claim that the hospital had switched babies. Asserting that blood tests had shown that the Morrisons could not possibly be the parents and Jenkinses to hand over Noella to the Morrisons within seven days unless they could produce blood test evidence to alter his opinion.

Hunter to Face Trial at Assizes For Manslaughter

North Bay, Nov. 30 — (CP) — John Adams, 48-year-old Struthers, O., steel workers, will face trial at spring assizes here on a manslaughter charge, arising out of the accidental shooting of a fellow townsman and hunting companion, Delmar Relya.

The American was committed for trial here Monday when evidence was presented to show he mistook Relya for a deer while hunting at Alyen Lake last Nov. 11. Adams told the court he heard something in the bush and when he saw a second flash of brown, he threw the safety catch off his rifle and fired. He ran around a knoll and saw his companion lying on the ground.

Two Pedestrians Hit In Separate Accidents, One Man is Charged

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Police early today arrested a man they said hit two pedestrians in separate accidents and failed to stop his automobile after either accident.

They laid charges of failing to remain at the scene of an accident and dangerous and careless driving against Max Rendell, 44, of nearby Pickering.

William Hawkshaw, 51, received a possible fractured skull and John Eaton was slightly injured in separate east-end accidents.

Greek National Party Leader Ill

Athens, Nov. 29 (AP)— Gen. Napoleon Zervas, Greek National Party leader, was rushed to the hospital today with a "severe" heart attack, official sources said.

Zervas, formerly minister of public order, led the right wing resistance movement during the German occupation.

Zervas called himself "Communist Enemy No. 1." As public order minister he jailed more than 10,000 persons on charges of Communism and conspiring to overthrow the government.

Mongrel Disrupts London's Tubes For 50 Minutes

London, Nov. 30 (CP)— Part of London's great underground system was disrupted Monday night at the rush hour by a black and white mongrel dog who ran through the tunnels for 50 minutes.

Seven crowded trains had to be diverted, platforms became packed with home-bound workers, and emergency bus service had to started when efforts to catch the dog failed as he raced through successive stations.

At King's Cross, when northbound trains had been held up almost an hour, the dog changed lines.

But crossing a track he touched the live rail and was electrocuted.

64TH TRAFFIC VICTIM IN TORONTO

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP) — James Irons, 21, who received skull injuries Saturday when hit by a car, died Sunday in hospital. He was the 64th person killed on Toronto streets this year.

Police said Irons walked into the path of a car driven by John Murray. The driver was not held. Police said there probably would be an inquest.

Want West Union Political, Social And Cultural

Paris, Nov. (AP)— French diplomats said today the countries of the Western European Union want the projected North Atlantic Defence Pact to be a political social and cultural treaty as well.

Board instructions to that effect have been sent to the British, French, Belgian, Dutch and Luxembourg ambassadors in Washington, they said.

The envoys are awaiting a call from the United States State Department to begin the semi-fanal stage of negotiations, expected to end by Dec. 31 with a full scale draft treaty.

Canadian officials also will sit in at the Washington negotiations

The Western European Powers completed drafting the "working principles" of their version of the alliance in confidential talks in London that ended last week.

The French diplomats said the final phase of the seven-power treaty is likely to be held in Washington in January with foreign Ministers of the countries involved participating. By the time the talks end there may be more than seven countries involved they added.

Some of the Allies want the allegiance broadened to take in countries like Eire, Norawy, Denmark, Iceland, Italy and Portugal.

$2,260 Awarded Woman In Damage Suit

Brantford, Nov. 30 (CP)—Mrs. George Burk was awarded $2,260 in damages in a judgment handed down Monday by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer in the non-jury sittings of Supreme Court here. The judgment was for injuries suffered in an accident last Feb. 27, when Mrs. Burke was struck by an automobile driven by Norman Tyler.

Evidence was that Mrs. Burk was waiting for a bus and stepped to the centre of the road as the Tyler auto proceeded west on Morrell Street and made a left turn onto Grand River Avenue.

500 - MILE PIPELINE

Calgary, Nov. 30 — (CP) — A 500-mile oil pipeline stretching from the rich Leduc oil field south of Edmonton to Regina should be in operation by 1950, Henry H. Hewetson, president of the Imperial Oil Company, said Monday.

Mr. Hewetson said the pipeline already is in the drafting stage and estimated it would cost about $35,000,000.

He said carrying the oil by pipeline to Regina would make it easier to extend the market for Alberta oil into the northern United States, Manitoba and Ontario. He said no decision had been made on possible extension of the pipeline east or south from Regina.

U. N. BUILDING MODEL

Workmen are pictured putting the final touches on the 50-foot high model of the facade of the projected U. N. Secretariat Building to be erected in New York. The facade, termed a "mock-up" by architects, is made of wood and glass and is being constructed on the roof of the United Nation's Manhattan Building in New York. (Central Press Canadian)

Carry on Search For Veteran, 25, Last Seen Friday

Brockville, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Police are scouring the Brockville district today for James Norman (Sonny) Darling, 25-year-old handsome navy veteran, missing from his home since midnight Friday. He was last seen by two male companions, Charles Haggerty and Weldon Powers, and three girls employed as nurses in the Ontario Hospital walking towards the St. Lawrence River in the darkness Friday.

Police say Darling, dressed in an American army windbreaker, brown corduroy pants and a red, white and blue sweater, went out on a party with his companions Friday night.

About midnight, driving the girls back to the hospital in his 1942-model car, Darling disagreed with his companions, stopped the vehicle and stepped out. He was not seen again.

Haggerty and Power searched the area and then reported to police the following day.

Police searched the cliffs along the waterfront and started dragging but have so far failed to unearth a clue.

Dense Fog Still Fouls W. Europe For Fourth Day

London, Nov. 30 (AP)— The most persistent fog in a decade fouled up western Europe again today.

The murk cut visibility to a few yards, grounded planes, slowed trains and snarled automobile traffic for the fourth consecutive day.

For the third time in three days it forced postponement of the sailing of the luxury liner Queen Elizabeth, already 13 days behind schedule on its Southampton-New York run.

It stopped the Berlin air lift, kept ambassadors, generals and ministers of state from keeping important appointments, and made millions late for work.

Weather forecasters said there was little prospect of the fog lifhting within the next 24 to 48 hours.

The fog blanket extended from the Baltic to Portugal. Most of France and Germany were blacked out. The last trickle of airlift planes reached Berlin late Monday.

The weather prevented American Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas going from London to St. Andrews, Scotland, to receive an honorary university degree today.

Many Ships Delayed

Nearly 100 ships were held up in a 12-mile stretch of the fog-bound Thames estuary.

Visibility was down to 150 yards at Southampton at 11 this morning, the latest time the Queen Elizabeth could catch the tide. The earliest the liner can now get away is 10:15 a.m. tomorrow.

With sailing schedules in chaos, the port was crowded with travellers whose numbers grew hourly.

About 1,600 passengers have been aboard the Elizabeth since a week ago Saturday, when a strike of the crew in sympathy with American dock strikers prevented the liner from sailing.

The delay of the liner already has cost the Cunard Lines a $1,000,000 round-trip plus about $280,000 for extra wages, food and docking fees.

ANCIENT METAL

Tin, one of the earliest metals discovered, is mentioned in several books of the Bible.

CHEF FOUND SLAIN

Montreal, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Thomas Kacvinsky, chef at the Sunshine Cafe on St. James Street West, was found slain today, his body slumped over a small restaurant table.

Kacvinsky's head was battered. Police began an investigation to determine also whether the man was shot. Part of a revolver handle was found near an apron on the floor. Police said the apron was used by the slayer in an attempt to wipe up blood.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

MARRIAGE NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Brown, 277 Foster Ave, Belleville, announce the marriage of their only daughter, Dorothy Geraldine, to John Robt. Ward, only son of Dr. and Mrs. R. M. E. Ward, 339 Foster Ave., Belleville, on Saturday, Nov. 20, 1948. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Laverty in the chapel at Queen's University, Kingston. The couple were attended by Miss Lois Batchelor of Belleville and Mr. William G. Brown, of Kingston. The young couple will reside in Belleville.

Mrs. W. P. Morling, Manotick and Mrs. P. F. Hanighan, Camden East, Ontario, left for their respective homes on Saturday, having completed a special librarian's course, during the past month.

Mrs. Minnie Kerr, and Mrs. Georgia Smith attended the third birthday dinner of the Peterborough Soroptimist Club, held Nov. 26, at the Empress Hotel in Peterborough. Others guests were present from Barrie, Toronto and St. Catharines.

Mr. H. R. Lowery of Calgary, who accompanied the Calgary Stampeders to Toronto, for the Dominion play-off, also spent the weekend in Belleville, with his sister, Mrs. F. C. Harrison, 34 Parker Street.

OUT OF TOWN PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. George Weir, of Harbor Beach, Michigan, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson of Port Huron, Michigan, spent a few days recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Thrasher, Sidney Township.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Arnold and Miss Velma Chapman, Reg.N., of Toronto also Mr. Frank Clapsaddle, of Chaumont, N.Y., spent the past weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chapman, Roslin.

WEDDINGS

PARKS—PRINDLE

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. at the home of the bride, under a large white wedding bell and pink and white streamers, when Verna Irene, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prindle, Plainfield, and John Morris Parks, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Parks, Belleville, were united in marriage by Rev. W. A. Campbell.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Frank O'Connell, Roblin, cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was becomingly frocked in a street length model of poudre blue taffeta with mitts to match. A wreath of blue velvet flowers held in place her gracefully falling blue shoulder length veil. She wore a corsage of red roses and baby breath.

Miss Hazel Prindle, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, wearing a street length gown of rose pink taffeta and matching mitts, and headdress wreath of pink velvet flowers with pink shoulder length veil. Her corsage was white baby 'mums.

Mr. Everett Parks, brother of the groom acted as best man, and Mr. Weldon Prindle was usher.

During the signing of the register, Miss Marion Prindle sang "Because".

After congratulations, the wedding party and guests of about thirty, motored to Belleville to the Bar-B-Q, where a full course chicken dinner was served.

The bride's mother received in a black crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother assisted wearing black crepe and black accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, beautifully decorated.

The toast to the bride, which was proposed by Rev. W. A. Campbell was ably responded to by the groom.

For travelling to Rochester and other points in the United States, the bride wore a cerise dress, navy blue coat, and hat with black accessories.

Out-of-town guests were from Roblin, Foxboro, Picton and Belleville.

After their return Mr. and Mrs. Parks will reside on the groom's farm, Belleville, R.R. 7.

WILLIAMSON—WEATHERUP

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Weatherup, Carrying Place, which was beautifully decorated with roses, bells, and pink and white streamers, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, November 27, at 1 o'clock, when their daughter, Ruthe Winnie, was united in marriage to Ronald Russell Williamson, Carrying Place, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Williamson. The Rev. James Henderson officiated.

Soft wedding music was played before and during the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in a floor length gown of white satin with embroidered yoke, matching headdress and fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Helen Weatherup, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, wearing a floor length gown of pink taffeta, and carrying a nosegay of white 'mums and pink roses.

Mr. Clare Yorke, Hamilton, Ont., was groomsman.

The bride's mother wearing a two-piece gown of fuchsia crepe with black accessories and corsage of white roses, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, in grey crepe with black accessories and corsage of white roses, received the many guests at the reception which was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother, after which the happy couple left for Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo.

For travelling the bride donned a brown gabardine suit with matching accessories, and corsage of American Beauty roses.

Out-of-town guests were, Mrs. Mary McCubbin, Miss Betty Ketchum, Mr. Elwood Brenton, of Warkworth; Mrs. George Young and daughter, of Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Williamson, Consecon; Mr. and Mrs. Clare Yorke, Hamilton and Mrs. George Seaman and Verna, Brighton.

Teachers of Two Townships Hold Monthly Meeting

On Wednesday evening, the monthly meeting of the Thurlow and Tyendinaga Teachers was held at Point Anne Public School.

Two outstanding personalities in the educational field were the guest speakers: Miss Irene A. Welsh of the Macmillan Co., and Dr. C. D. Gaitskell, director of Art for the Province of Ontario.

Mr. H. E. Darling introduced Miss Welsh, who gave an informative lecture on and display of the latest educational books, published by the Macmillan Co., for Public Schools.

Dr. Gaitskell, introduced by Mr. R. H. Macklem, Inspector of Public Schools, gave in interesting address on how art should be taught in Public Schools, so that children may have an opportunity to express themselves freely and constructively. An instructive discussion period followed in which Dr. Gaitskell advised the teachers how to deal with their individual art problems.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served.

Showers Held At Allan's Mills

Allan's Mills.—A miscellaneous shower was given Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tucker, (nee Evva Barton), in Springbrook. Mr. F. Cosby was the chairman for the evening and after a splendid program Miss Donna Bateman read the address, after which the bride and groom were presented with a kitchen suite from the community, also many beautiful gifts from friends and relatives from a distance. Roy and Evva graciously thanked their many friends. Refreshments were served in the basement by the ladies.

The neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reid met at their home on Thursday evening and showered the happy couple with many beautiful gifts. Mr. Fred Barnum was chairman for the occasion and a short program was given. Mr. Barnum in his address welcomed the bride to this neighborhood. Mr. Will Rutherford read the address. Mr. and Mrs. Reid graciously replied and refreshments were served by the ladies.

Quintena Rebekah Lodge Entertains Toronto Team

A meeting of unusual interest was held by Quintena Rebekah Lodge Saturday evening when the members entertained as their guests the Degree Team of the Veterans' Past Noble Grands' Association of Toronto.

This association is composed of Rebekahs who have held the office of Noble Grand and have belonged to the Rebekah Order for at least fifteen years. The association is twenty-three years old and has members from twenty-nine different lodges.

There were nearly two hundred out-of-town visitors present and the following distinguished guests were introduced:

Mrs. Isobel Carr, Vice President of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario, by Mrs. Dorothy Harwood.;

Mrs. Meda Lewis, Past President and Staff Captain of the Veterans' P.N.G. Degree Team, by Mrs. Irene Aman;

Mrs. Annie Courtney, Past President, by Mrs. Grace McEwan;

Mrs. Ethel Duffin, District Deputy President, by Mrs. Ethel Sandercock;

Mr. Geo. Kerr, Past Grand Patriarch, by Mrs. Jennie Redner;

Mr. Gordon Miller, District Deputy Grand Patriarch, by Mrs. Georgina Charlton;

Mrs. Weddick, Pres. of the Veterans' P.N.G. Association, by Mrs. Nellie Cooper;

Mr. Carr, husband of the Vice President, by Mrs. Ruth Charlton;

Mr. Lewis, husband of the Staff Captain, by Mrs. Eva Turvey;

Mr. Young, P.D.D., G.M. of District No. 36, by Mrs. Florence Pollitt;

Mr. Webb, P.D.D., G.M. of District No. 45, by Mrs. Janet Twiddy.

These guests were very graciously welcomed by the Noble Grand, Mrs. Elizabeth Nokes.

Guard Receives Guests

The Guard of Honor taking part in the receiving of these guests were Mesdames Dorothy Webber, Verna Summers, Helen Brenton, Barbara Johnstone, Margaret Govier and Mary Jordan. Mrs. Dorothy Webber, soloist for Quintena Lodge, very beautifully rendered "Bless This House."

The Rebekah Degree was beautifully and impressively conferred by the visiting team on eight candidates, the president of the association, Mrs. Weddick, occupying the chair of the Noble Grand. The precision of the floor work was such as has never before been seen in this lodge; the charges were exceptionally well delivered, and the tableaux most impressive. Mrs. Annie Courtney, P.P., and Mrs. Pickering, sang several duets which greatly added to the beauty of the ceremony.

Presentations Made

During the closing exercises, presentations were made to Mrs. Carr, V.P., by Mrs. Dorothy Harwood and Mrs. Margaret Cherrie; to Mrs. Duffin, D.D.P., by Mrs. E. Sandercock, and Miss Jean Mathews; to Mrs. Lewis, P.P., by Mrs. Irene Aman and Miss Helen Miller.

Mrs. Eva Turvey and Mrs. Rhea Mitchell also presented a hostess tray to Mrs. Lewis, Staff Captain, for the use of the team.

These ladies all expressed their appreciation for these gifts.

Given Veterans' Jewel

Mrs. Aleata Connors, a member of Quintena Lodge for over thirty years and a Past Noble Grand of the lodge was presented with her Veteran Jewel by Mrs. Turvey.

The Toronto guests were met at the depot by the co-conveners of the reception committee, Mrs. Turvey and Mrs. Aman; received at the Oddfellow's Hall by Mrs. Nokes, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. McEwan and Mrs. G. Charlton and escorted to the Upper Hall where a very lovely supper was served under the convenership of Mrs Margaret Cherrie and Mrs. Dorothy Harwood.

The reception committee for the evening was Mrs. Twiddy, Mrs. Pollitt, Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Harwood.

After lodge refreshments were served under the convenership of Mrs. Effie McDonald and Mrs. Ellen Elliott.

The blanket donated for the C. P. & T. Fund was won by Peter Paterson, Toronto, grandson of Mrs. R. H. Ketcheson, Everett Street.

The evening broke up in the "wee small hours" after being voted one of the most enjoyable ever held by Quintena Lodge.

Women's Activities

PLAINFIELD HOMEMAKERS' CLUB

The first meeting of the Plainfield Homemakers' Club was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Harrison under the direction of the leaders, Mrs. V. Elliott and Mrs. H. Harrison.

The officers were elected and are as follows: President, Isobelle Elliott; Vice President, Doreen Lott; Secretary, Marjorie Reid; Pianist, Joyce Lott; Press Secretary, Helen Beatty.

It was decided to hold a club meeting every Tuesday evening at Mrs. Harrison's. The prize money from the Fall Fairs and pamphlets were then distributed. There was then a discussion on hospitality "A Family Pleasure". The meeting closed with "The Club Ode".

"A goodly thing it is to meet
On our club meeting night
We work and plan and demonstrate
We try to do things right
No unkind words our lips shall pass
No envy sour the mind
But each shall practise courtesy
The rule is "Just Be Kind".

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.-L.A.

West Huntingdon.—The W.M.S and Ladies' Aid held their meeting in the church on Thursday evening, Nov. 18. Supper was served to the congregation and a good number attended.

Rev. Mr. Walker presided and opened the meeting with hymn, "More Love to Thee O Christ", followed by prayer.

Mrs. John Wallace gave a splendid paper on the keyword "Love". Mrs. John McInroy read the Scripture lesson which was taken from 1st John, Chapter 1.

Mrs. J. B. Haggerty and Mrs. Milton Shaw sang as a duet "Love Found a Way" and Mrs. Harold Thompson read a poem entitled There is No Love Like His".

Mr. Walker then introduced the guest speaker for the evening who was Rev. Mr. Vaclavik of Rawdon Circuit. A native of Czecho-Slovakia, Mr. Vaclavik have traveled extensively and preached in every church of Protestant denomination. He gave a very inspiring address and in closing said, He who trusts in money will get what money can do; who trusts in his physical powers will get what physical power can do, but he who trusts in God will get what God can do for him.

Mrs. Milton Shaw expressed the thanks of the congregation to Mr. Vaclavik and the meeting closed with the hymn "Lord I Hear Showers of Blessing". Mr. Walker offered prayer.

Marmora

C.W.L. Presents Blanket to Member

Marmora.—Mrs. Hannah Auger and son, Charlie left on Tuesday to reside at Bayside. Previous to her departure Mrs. Auger was presented with a handsome wool blanket by the members of the Catholic Women's League of which she was one of its oldest members. Mrs. J. Black read an address and the presentation was made by the President, Mrs. Charles Cook.

ALLAN'S MILLS W.I.

Allan's Mills.—About twenty members of the W.I. met at the home of Mrs. John McKeown on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting opened in the usual manner. The roll call "Quick Desserts", was well responded to. Mrs. W. J. Barlow gave the minutes and the business session followed.

It was decided to donate $10 to the United Emergency Fund for Britain, also a parcel collection is in progress, and will be sent to Britain at once.

Mrs. J. F. Baker was in charge of the meeting on Home Economics.

Mrs. Morley Barlow gave a very interesting address on "Spices and their major role in History".

Mrs. S. G. Meiklejohn and Mrs. W. J. Barlow gave a report of the district area convention.

Mrs. R. Wellman played instrumental music. Community singing was enjoyed. Mrs. G. Meiklejohn put on a contest. Refreshments were served and all enjoyed a social half hour.

EAST HUNTINGDON W.I.

Moira.— The Huntingdon East Women's Institute met on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Ross Ketcheson.

Singing of Institute Ode opened the meeting. Plans were discussed for the December meeting. Donations were received and arrangements made to send a box to England.

Mrs. J. F. Herity, convener of Historical Research had charge of the program. Roll call was answered by "A noted person I should like to meet". A reading "Away Back When", was given by Mrs. Frank Emerson. Mrs. Gilbert Thompson gave a report on the Convention at Belleville. The Topic 'Our Last Old Boys' Reunion", was given by Miss Bessie Holbert. A motion was carried that Miss Holbert keep account of the local statistics to be read at the next "Old Boys' Reunion".

A solo 'Memories" was sung by Mrs. N. Welsh.

There was an open dscussion on "What I Consider Most Interesting in Moira", and tentative plans for improvement were discussed.

TO SAVE CHISWICK EYOT

London — (CP) — Dutch experts responsible for reclaiming thousands of flooded acres in Holland are considering plans to prevent Chiswick Eyot, beauty spot of the Thames and boat race landmark, from being washed away.

Friends, Neighbors Honor Recently Married Couple

Madoc Junction.—A large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Stapley, last Tuesday evening, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reid (nee Hilda Stapley) who were recently married.

Rev. H. Burgess was chairman for the following program, which began with a round of community singing, with Mrs. Hugh McMullen at the piano.

Misses Donna Stapley and Grace Clarke sang a duet.

Readings were given by Mrs. Alfred Lake, Mrs. Clifford Lansing and Miss Mary Chambers.

Mrs. Harold West of Stirling, sang a solo.

Messrs. Philip Carr and Nelson Stapley were called on and each gave a brief address.

Mrs. Harry Clarke on behalf of Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. presented the bride with a lovely lace tablecloth and Mrs. Harlow on behalf of Eggleton Mission Band made the presentation of a fruit bowl. Hilda had for some time very efficiently acted as pianist for these organizations.

An address, signed on behalf of the community was then read by Miss Mary Chambers and the bride and groom were presented with a beautiful array of gifts.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Reid graciously expressed their thanks for the good wishes and lovely gifts, and extended an invitation to all their friends to come and visit them in their new home.

Dainty refreshments and a social hour brought a happy evening to a close.

Centenary, Hogle Schools Form New Association

Centenary. — Centenary school was filled to capacity on Wednesday evening for a social evening sponsored by the Aikens' and Centenary communities. Mr. and Mrs. Warren of Frankford, were present. Mr. Warren is the secretary-treasurer of the Sidney Township school area. He introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Plumpton, president of the Cannifton Home and School Association, who gave a very interesting talk on the benefits of such a club.

It was decided to form an association comprising Centenary and Hogle Schools. Mrs. Harry Bates acted as secretary for the evening. A nominating committee was formed to bring in a slate of officers at a meeting to be held early in December.

The social part of the evening was spent in cards and dancing with music provided by the McAvoy brothers of Thurlow. Mr. Cameron Bunnett "called" for square dancing. Refreshments were served by the conveners and their helpers.

EARLY N. S. ORCHARDS

As early as 1633, apples were being cultivated near what is now Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia.

Miss Mollie McGee Will Address Canadian Club

Miss Mollie McGee, who will address the Women's Canadian Club on Wednesday evening, was the first Canadian woman to become a war correspondent.

Since the war Miss McGee has spent years in countries bordering and behind the Iron Curtain. As Vienna correspondent for the News Chronicle of London, and the Globe and Mail of Toronto she has seen the tragic, mass movement of the refugees into camps, and their accompanying hardships. A few weeks ago she accompanied 800 new Canadians from Austria in a refugee train across Germany to land finally at Halifax.

Those desiring to get first hand information about the conditions which have been forced upon thousands of hapless people, will do well to hear this interesting lecturer who speaks with authority on life behind the Iron Curtain.

Soroptimists Hold Coffee Party At Miss Riggs' Home

The spacious home of Miss Leona Riggs, 21 Queen Street, was the setting for a very successful coffee party held Monday evening by the Soroptimist Club.

Many guests were present. All the members of the club assisted. After the guests had been received, they visited the White Elephant table which contained many and varied articles of all shades of beauty and usefulness.

The delicious looking angel cake, a gift from Mrs. Ross Stiver, with its delicate pink icing, was the envy of all. Mrs. Carrie Oliver, R.R. 5, Belleville, was the holder of the lucky ticket, drawn for by Mr. Thos. Wrightmeyer.

After being invited to the dining room, where the coffee table, with its lace cloth, centred with a bowl of bronze chrysanthemums and yellow roses, flanked by tall ivory tapers, was the central attraction, the guests were served dainty refreshments.

A musical treat was in store at the close of the party, when Mr. and Mrs. Leo Riggs and Leona contributed several numbers, both vocal and instrumental. These were recorded by Mr. W. R. McCreary and reproduced for the two-fold enjoyment of all.

Mrs. Georgia Smith expressed the appreciation of the club for the gracious hospitality of the Riggs home, and to Mr. McCreary, who provided the very effective musical background.

Royal Family Attends Opera, Well Received

London, Nov. 30. (CP)—London society donned its best postwar finery Monday night and went to a show with members of the Royal Family—to a command performance at the Empire Theatre in Leicester Square.

Cordoned crowds, noisy but not as big as expected, screamed and cheered as evening-gowned film celebrities—British and American—arrived. One or twice they broke through police lines and rushed cars.

A special cheer went up for Queen Elizabeth, Princess Margaret and the Duke of Edinburgh as they drove up in the maroon-colored royal sedan.

"We want Philip! We want Philip!" chorused the crowd mostly 'teen-agers.

Inside the palatial movie house an audience of 5,000 rose to their feet and cheered the Queen when she appeared in the royal box. Only the playing of the National Anthem stopped the applause which was interpreted as an expression of sympathy with the Royal Family in the King's illness.

The Royal Family occupied the flower-bedecked royal box. They saw the film "Scott of the Antarctic", a moving but somewhat documentary-like technicolor of Capt. Robert Scott's tragic march across 1,800 miles of Antarctic ice to the south pole in 1910.

Patricia Neal, as the youngest American star, told the Queen, from the stage, that the players were deeply distressed by the illness of the King and wished him speedy recovery. Then Sir Laurence Olivier read a message from His Majesty sending best wishes and regretting his inability to attend.

As the Royal Family left they were introduced to the stars and survivors of the Scott expedition.

Metropolitan Season Opened In Gala Style

New York, Nov. 30. (AP)—The crowd turned out at the 66-year-old Metropolitan Opera House Monday night to hear opera and, perhaps, to observe a gala tradition. They heard—and they saw.

A couple of hundred others attended the opening of the New York opera season, too. They came to be seen—and it scarcely seemed worth all the effort.

The new season marked an important milestone in music, too, for television carried the annual pageant to a living-room and tavern audience estimated at 2,000,000—most of whom never glimpsed the color-filled stage from a house seat.

It was a highly-jewelled and excited audience which flocked to see Verdi's "Othello", a sombre tale of murder and suicide.

Some veteran opera-goers said the choice of the heavier opera was deliberate—to discourage between-the-acts bar shenanigans which had stolen headlines in past years. Earlier Director Edward Johnson had appealed to the press to ignore publicity-seeking exhibitions.

Whatever the reason, it was an opening almost totally without incident, other than the arrival of celebrities in the glare of television floodlights and the flash of photographers' bulbs.

Margaret Truman Present

First-night regulars—society people, stage and opera personalities—started to arrive shortly before 8 p.m. But the climax was reached for the bystanders when Margaret Truman made her appearance 10 or 15 minutes after the opera had started.

She was smiling and pretty in a full, draped dress of white silk, whose modest decollette was broken by an oversize scarf—almost a stole—of white fox.

The crowd cheered and applauded as the President's daughter entered.

Mrs. Betty Henderson, elderly stormy petrel who last year enlivened bar proceedings by being photographed with her leg on a table, was greeted wildly. She had a fantastic headdress which included Mme. Pompadour curls, but conducted herself with considerable decorum during her three-act occupancy of a table in the bar.

The one society casualty was revealed by Mrs. Spencer Auguste, who was accompanied by film and stage actor John Loder. She announced that she'd lost a ring which she said was insured for $22,000.

The gala opening represented a triumph in the face of adversity. Several months ago it looked as though financial difficulties would keep the old opera house closed tight.

Director Johnson, who comes from Guelph, Ont., was therefore in a particularly happy mood. With him in his box were George Drew, leader of Canada's Progressive Party and Mrs. Drew. Mrs. Drew is Johnson's daughter.

Consensus was that, from the standpoint of good music, good style—show and good deportment, it was the best opening in years.

WILL BE ALLOWED TO STAY IN CANADA

Ottawa, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Alois Schon, 44-year-old Czech who once served in the Canadian army and later fled communist rule in his homeland, will be allowed to stay in Canada, Resources Minister MacKinnon indicated.

Mr. MacKinnon said he had signed an order recommending to the cabinet that Schon, now detained in Montreal, should be allowed to remain. The order must be approved by the cabinet and Schon must be cleared on health and security grounds but these steps are routine.

Keeping Your Figure Slim

Massage is an important part of the figure-remodelling program in a famous New York Salon.

By HELEN FOLLETT

"If a woman has a little spare time, doesn't mind the expense, has determination to make herself better looking, beauty is at her doorstep. I am referring, of course, to face and figure. Faces seem to be getting along pretty well, but there are plenty of feminine shapes that could be molded into more graceful lines." So proclaims the boss of a figure-remodelling salon.

No matter what fashion dictators may have to say, hip width isn't desirable. All right if it is a lot of draped dry goods that you can take off and hang in the clothes closet. But you don't want the kind of panniers that you have to live with and carry around. These adipose bumps can be deleted if a woman will mind her diet, take proper exercise, or place herself in the care of an expert in the art of creating the svelte silhouette.

Back to Normal.

Getting back to normal weight and measurements is rejuvenating. A woman not only gets rid of excess baggage in the form of human suet, but she feels younger, is more active. Then, there is the even more important matter of health. Overweight should not be endured.

In some reducing salons one reclines in a specially constructed beauty rest compartment which is really a super cabinet bath with life giving rays. A shower follows, then a masseuse gets in her work of pounding fat cells into a state of dissolution.

Salt Glow.

If circulation is sluggish, the candidate for the willowy shape is given a salt glow. This is an invigorating treatment that puts ginger in the heels. Moistened salt is rubbed into the flesh, all the little capillaries respond like lightning.

A scalp treatment and a facial follow, and of course the hair dresser gets in her work. By the time all this is accomplished the patron of the pulchritude arts feels that she has had the whole works, is completely made over. Her pocketbook may look flatter, but so does she, less busty, less hippy, less tummy.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Soft Pedal on the Make-up Girls.

Specialists who blaze the pulchritude trail — cosmetic chemists and clever men and women who boss beauty shops and set styles for the hair-do — are constantly calling attention to the proper manner of applying the synthetic complexion. They sell rouge to the tune of millions of dollars a year, but they deplore its abuse. They offer color cards, suggesting proper tints for certain skin tones. Facial operators make it a point to show the cash customer how to blend powder and rouge so that it deceives the critical eye, passes for an inheritance bestowed by kindly Nature.

How the calcimine and the paint are applied is something that every girl and woman should know. The method used will make one look fair or foul as anyone, observing feminine faces must realize. Technique, that's the requirement! Also judgment when making selections at the toiletries counter. Also, an understanding of the fact that addition is better than subtraction. When you pile on too much it isn't easy to deplete the surplus without getting a messy effect.

More and more do they stress the need of natural patterns. May their wise words fall upon ears that willing to listen.

We're all pilgrims along the beauty road, and we should keep on learning as we travel along. Fashions in faces and figures change along with fashions in dress. It is all good, clean fun, and stimulates the circulatory systems of the sisters.

Keep an eye on the items in your beauty kit. Have you had them ever so long, the same shade of rouge, lipstick, nail polish? Maybe it is time to cast an eye on the new offerings. Always something different, exciting.

When you powder your face, where do you place the pad first when it is carrying a good sized load of the fluff stuff? Directly on your impertinent nose, it is likely. All wrong. Start on your neck, touch the earlobes, tap the pad over your cheeks and forehead, put the dull finish on your nose last of all.

Don't grind in the powder with a pad; use a light touch. You will get a better effect. The woman who uses a heavy foundation lavishly, then whams on too much powder is likely to get herself a complexion that resembles pie crust. She may fancy she is hiding her wrinkles, but she isn't. The heavy applications will crack and reveal them, making her look even older than her years.

Apply the rouge atop the powder, then blend with powder. You should have a separate pad for that purpose.

Form a clear-cut outline with your lipstick — you can get them with slanted ends — then fill in and massage lightly.

Two brothers, scions of a well-known Belleville sports family, Vern and Leo Goyer will wear the uniforms of the CNR Diesels in the District Hockey League clash tonight when the railroaders play the speedy Belleville Rockets. Both boys are veterans of the hockey wars and for the past two years starred with the ANAF Senior "B" team. They played with the Petes squad last Saturday against the powerful Lindsay Meteors, and with Tim Williams garnered five scoring points. Vern Goyer figured in three of the Petes goals.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

Halifax, Nov. 30 — (CP)—Maritime senior hockey is experiencing one of its roughest seasons in history and players, fans and sport scribes have declared an "open season" on referees.

Continual beefs about the calibre of refereeing, particularly in the Maritime Senior League, has made life even more unbearable for whistle-tooters.

News that Frank (King) Clancy, chief National Hockey League referee, would conduct a referees' school in Charlottetown Dec. 7-9 to help standardize officiating methods drew the following comment from Ace (Halifax Chronicle) Foley:

" . . . For the good of the game and because they have funds on hand, the M. A. H. A. (Maritime Amateur Hockey Association) should conduct a referees' school of its own. Furthermore, it should be staged without loss of time."

Commenting on one game when a player was given a two-minute minor misconduct penalty, Alex (Halifax Herald) Nickerson said:

"The refereeing was indifferent. There were far too many offsides and arguments between players and referees held up the game.

" . . . Referee Bob Greene gave . . . a two-minute penalty . . . for 'using abusive language.' However, to the surprise of everybody in the rink, the Irish (Halifax St. Mary's) continued using six players. Later it was learned that the referee decided it was a 'minor misconduct penalty,' and therefore considered two minutes was sufficient.

"This appears to be something. Rule 29 says that misconduct penalties to all players, except the goalie, involve removal from the game for a period of 10 minutes."

POPULAR WITH HUNTERS

During normal years, more shotgun shells are fired at rabbits than any other species of North American game.

TURNING THE PAGES OF

"Canada Unlimited"

When Jacques Cartier arrived in Canada in 1534, he found the Indians living in strange-looking tepees made of branches and skins.

In 1608, Samuel de Champlain's fort was made of wood, surrounded by a stockade. The buildings that followed were made of great hewn beams, chinked with mortar.

In 1639, in Sillery, Quebec, the erection of a two-storey, stone building was an ambitious project—but by 1750, most buildings were of stone, with windows of oiled paper.

Style in early Canada brought wood again into the building picture. Soon frame houses appeared, and gaily stood out from their drab stone neighbours.

Brick began to replace stone around 1800 in new buildings, and today many houses are of warm, substantial brick construction.

Today we have "solar" houses, of shiny, light aluminum. The opportunity for new ideas in construction are boundless — because there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.

Kroehlers Beat Guelph Biltmores By 5 to 2 Score

(By The Canadian Press)

Stratford Kroehlers did it again Monday night. They followed up a successful two-game campaign during the weekend with a 5 - 2 victory over Guelph Biltmores in their Junior Ontario Hockey Association game Monday night. Stratford beat Windsor Spitfires last Friday and Saturday.

Kroehlers, who have dropped seven of their 17 starts this season, took over sole possession of fourth place in the scoring race with their win.

Shifty Ron Plumb started Biltmores off early in the first period when he beat netminder Boat Hurley on a three-way play with Frank Bathgate and Ferguson. Bob Houston got the equalizer minutes later.

Guelph went ahead in the second period on a counter by Butch Martin but Stratford drove back with two goals — Jim Pernfuss and Bibber O'Hearn taking the honors. Third period goals by Joe Beda and Pierre Cadieux clinched the game.

George Armstrong, one of Canada's most promising juniors, and recently star forward with Kroehlers, was promoted to the Toronto Marlboros Seniors' roster Monday night. Armstrong's contract was bought by Marlboros juniors.

Only two games are slated in the O. H. A. tonight — and both in the junior division. The fifth-place Oshawa Generals clash with Galt Rockets. A first - place team will be decided tonight when Windsor Spitfires and St. Catharines Teepees meet. Both are tied for first place with 23 points.

Madoc

Hockey Club Elects Officers For Coming Year

Madoc — Arrangements are being made for Madoc's annual Christmas tree early in December. The event will be sponsored by the merchants of Madoc, Community Club and the Kiwanis of Madoc.

At the annual meeting in Madoc community hall, those interested in hockey for Madoc, elected their officers for the year: President, Percy Nayler; Secretary Treasurer, Harry Tufts; Manager, Lloyd Blue; Coach, Jack Baker; Assistant Coach, Jerry Keller; Trainer, Chas. Herne. A delegation will attend the league meeting in Marmora this week. It is to be hoped that the citizens will take an interest in this winter sport for the coming season.

B Company Re-organizes

B Company and Prince Edward Regiment is once again re-organized, Major Joe Nayler, M.B.E., who served with the regiment in Italy and was later I.Q. with 1st Infantry Brigade headquarters will assume the duties of officer commanding.

Madoc Village will have an election for councillors with five candidates in the field; Messrs. Phil Rivers, J. W. Hulin, Jud McGowan, Percy Derry and Murray Smith.

Three members for public trustees were elected by acclamation, Percy Holland, Ken. Nicol and Lloyd Blue.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor

It must have been heart-warming to the veteran members of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association to see that enthusiastic gathering that was the 15th annual meeting of the organization at the King Edward Hotel Saturday morning. It is a far cry from the first meeting held some years ago when two men appointed each other president and secretary to sow the seed what now is the largest minor hockey association in the world.

• • •

Upwards of 150 delegates and visitors thronged the convention room at 10 a.m. when President Ken Waters got the meeting under way. In our somewhat checkered sports career we have attended many meetings of all kinds and descriptions. We have witnessed some furious verbal battles and seen argumentative delegates extend the meetings far into the night.

• • •

But for internal harmony; the willingness to co-operate to the fullest with the other fellow; the fine give-and-take spirit that was evident; the genial camaraderie and general all-for-one and one-for -all feeling, the OMHA at this particular meeting at least, rates the columnar orchids.

True there were discussions. But they were of the soft spoken yet sincere type. There were no wild gesticulations, threats to leave the room; refusal to continue and other dramatics usually associated with a provincial sports body. The general feeling, it was this observers impression, was to pave the way for boys and more boys to play hockey. It was good to see a body of sincere men from all parts of the province, spending time and effort and in most cases money to see that little Joe and Jerry get the opportunity to play their favorite winter sport.

• • •

Apart from the excellent job they are doing for minors in the field of hockey, these men of the executive forgetting their fine efforts inaugurated this year an award for the person or organization which in the opinion of members, does most for minor hockey over the period of a year. The OMHA Honor Award's first recipient is John Ovens, Kitchener, a genial Dutch-Canadian, whose sterling efforts for the boys in his community won for him the handsome trophy.

• • •

The trophy is unique in itself. It is a handsome gold and silver affair with a miniature hockey rink complete with lines and goals, and figurines of hockey players at each end and at the rear. It is mounted on a beautiful stand with the whole standing on a beautiful coffee table. The trophy is for annual competition, but the coffee table suitably engraved is the permanent possession of the recipient.

• • •

Mr. Ovens' efforts that won for him the coveted award are best described in the recommendation to the OMHA which was made available through the courtesy of Jack Christie, OMHA secretary. Here 'tis:

• • •

"Previous to 1933 Mr. Ovens noted that many boys were being involved in mischievous pranks which led to court cases. In 1933 he built a rink in his back yard and organized a league. In two or three years interest became so keen that his small rink would not facilitate the increased membership. He appeared before City Council requesting a regulation rink located in the West Ward. He was granted a rink to the extent of timbers as side markers and free water. He and the boys did the flooding and cleaning work, and used the basement of his home as a dressing room and warming place. The next year he again appeared before council for a shack and was granted one without heat or light. He secured an old stove and supplied fuel from his home. Light was provided by an old lantern.

"During this period there was no other organized boys' hockey in the city and no outdoor rinks. Mr. Ovens again appeared before Council and due to his continuous appearances council became aware of the need of enlarging the work begun by Mr. Ovens. They provided side walls for the rink and constructed a rink in the North Ward. The next year another was built in the East Ward and Mr. Ovens' contribution to boys' hockey was beginning to bear fruit.

• • •

He and interested men formed the Kitchener-Waterloo Boys' Hockey Association, which carried on until 1942 when a Ward system was established. Mr. Ovens acted as Vice-President for two years and from then to date has been West Ward representative as well as coaching or managing juvenile teams, working fifteen years at open air rinks, flooding ice, cleaning rinks, in temperatures at times well below ten and twelve degrees.

• • •

"During this time his car was always available to transport boys. He stressed clean sportsmanship and fair play. His Juvenile teams have won city championships year after year, and last year his team won the Syl Apps trophy, for runner-up in the O.M.H.A.

• • •

"Mr. Ovens is the type of fellow that when given a job to to, does it. His ward has always been the best organized ward in the city, and his interest is to give every boy a chance to play hockey. He has attended meetings regularly.

• • •

"He has records of pairs of skates, sticks, etc., purchased by himself for boys who could not buy them. These acts are typical of Mr. Ovens.

There are probably other men in the far-flung communities of Ontario who have been doing yeoman service for the boys as did and is Mr. Ovens. The OMHA executive is to be highly commended on its gesture in making the Honor Award possible so that these men, in the hinterland communities as well as the larger cities receive the recognition they so richly deserve.

One left the OMHA annual with a sweet taste in his figurative mouth. From the start it was clearly evident that these men were on serious business. Their sincerity was outstanding. And their sportsmanship was noticeably apparent when on an argued point, after decision was made, there were no traces of hard-feeling, disappointment, or grudge holding. Those on the losing end of the vote took the defeat with all the graces of the fine sportsmen they are. The OMHA sets a worthy example along these lines for a lot of other sports organizations we know.

This observer with Manager Bob Strachan of the Belleville Gunners Midget "B" Club, represented the 9th Anti Tank Regt., sponsors of the club, and we were royally treated by both the members of the executive we knew and those whom we met for the first time. They took time out to answer many questions, and they took as much interest in the baby members of their Association as they did those of years standing. Important matters were cleared up to the satisfaction of all, and with such a parent organization as the OMHA, minor hockey in this district should make advanced strides in the coming years.

• • •

With both squads reported to be at full strength, the District Hockey League tussle between the CNR Diesels and the Rockets juniors scheduled for tonight looms up as the classic of the season. Rockets have won both their starts while Diesels have won their only game thus far. The game gets under way at 7.30 instead of 8 o'clock as heretofore due to the lifting of the power cut-off restrictions. Napanee and Cobourg clash in the second game and with these teams considerably strengthened since their last appearance, the tilt should be productive of some fast interesting hockey. Don't forget—the first games Diesels vs. Rockets starts at 7.30.

Grant Warwick Retains Top Spot in Scoring

Montreal, Nov. 30 (CP)—After a week of heavy firing, Grant Warwick, Boston Bruins' battling winger, retained his top spot in the National Hockey League scoring race for the fourth straight week.

The Bruins' mighty mite picked up three goals and an assist in Boston's three games, and official N.H.L. statistics released today show him with 11 goals and nine assists for 20 points. Doug Bentley of Chicago added a goal and three assists during the week to vault inti second place with 17 points on six markers and 11 assists.

Toronto's Ted Kennedy and Jimmy Conacher share third place with 16 points, while next in line are Pete Babando and Eddie Sandford of Boston and Chocago's Roy Conacher, each with 15.

Jim Conacher and teammate Bill Mosienko put the best individual scoring displays of the season when each tallied four times in a single game. Jim Conacher and Mosienko were the big point-getters of the week, collecting six points apiece.

Warwick's 11 goals make him top man in that department, while Doug Bentley head the assists column with 11.

Montreal's big Bill Durnan forged further ahead in the goaltenders race. He has allowed 29 goals in 16 games for a goals-against average of 1.81. Frankie Brimsek of Boston shoved Detroit's Harry Lumley out of second spot, and now has a 2.20 percentage. Durnan leads in shutouts with four.

Wild Bill Ezinicki widened his lead for badman honors, picking up 17 minutes in penalty time during the week to boost his total to 59. Kenny Reardon of Montreal is second with 49 minutes.

"From the right, NUMBER!"

So many men always wear Stanfield's Unshrinkable Underwear . . . and so many wear the same models year after year . . . that sales people in the stores tell us they are constantly filling orders by the numbers. Many customers ordering "6400" or "6401" or "3612", take it for granted the clerk not only knows the Stanfield numbers but knows they would wear no other brand.

Stanfield's is the Underwear famous for more than 60 years for being soft, warm and durable . . . made unshrinkable by Stanfield's own exclusive process. In a complete range of combination and separate shirts-and-drawers styles, in a variety of weights.

Johnny Green, hockey-playing son of the famous Murney of Point Anne sports fame and Don Hogan are two of Bill Cook's Rockets hopefuls who will see action tonight against "Red" Carson's CNR Diesels in what is said to be the "game of the season." Johnny and Don have been playing heads-up hockey for the voteless ones and will be out there tonight in an effort to derail the fancied railroad squad.

Rookie Centre Of Red Wings Out for Week

(By The Canadian Press)

Max McNab, rookie centre of Detroit Red Wings, has been sidelined for a least a week as the result of a fractured left hand, it was announced at Detroit Monday night.

McNab suffered the injury Sunday night in Chicago as the Wings regained second place in the National Hockey League by whipping the Hawks 9-6.

Ted Lindsay, wing centre who has been out action with a broken foot, will rejoin the squad Wednesday.

Buddy O'Connor, New York Ranger centre, will rejoin his mates tonight for their N.H.L. game with Chicago, Ranger officials disclosed in New York Monday night. O'Connor, winner of the National Hockey League's most valuable player award last year, suffered two broken ribs in a traffic accident Oct. 8.

Cory Hesse, 69, who came from Cornwall, in 1911, to become one of the greatest lacrosse goalkeepers of all time, will be buried in Vancouver tomorrow. He died Saturday. Mr. Hesse, who has played on Mann Cup and Minto Cup championship teams for Vancouver retired as secretary of the British Columbia Lacrosse Association in 1935.

His widow and two sons survive in Vancouver. A brother Roy lives in Cornwall.

Stan Horne of Montreal Ilsmere one of Canada's top-ranking professional golfers, left Montreal last weekend to participate in the $10,000 Miami Open. The event, opening the United States Professional Golfers' Association winter program will be held Dec. 9-12.

Hugh Murray will head a group of young business men in operation of Galt's senior baseball club, it was announced Monday night. The Galt Baseball Association transferred the franchise when it was proved the group could satisfactorily finance the undertaking.

Bigty Lou, a black gelding owned by O. W. Rock, of Sorel, Que., Monday captured the $300 purse in taking first place in the classified trot feature at Toronto's Dufferin Park. Bruce Henley, a brown gelding from the stable of Wes Litt, Stratford, finished in second place.

Although he did not score a point all week, Murdo Mackay of Buffalo Bisons still holds top scoring honors in the American Hockey League with 37 points, it was announced at New York Monday night. For the third consecutive week the Fort William, Ont., centre led Carl Liscombe of Providence Reds. Liscombe had 34 points.

Next in line were Sid Smith of Pittsburgh Hornets and George Johnston of New Haven Ramblers with 30 markers each.

Liscombe and Paul Gladu of St. Louis Flyers continued in the lead in goal scoring; both had 17 With 23 assists Mackay still ranked as the league's top playmaker.

A trio of Kansas City players hold three of the four places in the United States Hockey League scoring race it was announced at Minneapolis today. Bert Olmstead of Kansas City with 36, holds the top spot by one point over last week's leader Ted Compeau of Dallas. Ray Powell, is in third position with 34, and Dick Butler is fourth with 29.

Michigan is the mythical United States football champion in the final Associated Press poll of the 1948 season, it was announced in New York Monday. The votes of 387 sports writers and radio commentators gave the unbeaten, untied Wolverines a 163-point margin over runner-up Notre Dame, which will attempt to complete its second straight perfect season at Southern California's expense Saturday. In the matter of first place ballots, Michigan had a substantial 192-97 margin. In points it was 3,448 to 3,325.

Goalie Donald MacDonald won't be with the Omaha Knights for at least their next few United States Hockey League games, the team physician reported Monday at Omaha. MacDonald received a severe leg injury playing against Kansas City here Saturday night. The doctor said an internal hemorrhage must stop before he will have anything to say about when the goalie will get back into action.

Signing of Terms Likely Will Take Place Next Week

Ottawa, Nov. 30. (CP)—Signing of the terms under which Newfoundland will join Canada as a 10th province likely will take place some time next week.

Representatives of the two countries held two meetings behind closed doors Monday to continue study of a draft of the union terms. No announcement was made following the meetings.

Prime Minister St. Laurent told newspaper men that "we are studying the details of the terms and it is quite lengthy."

From other sources it was learned that the delegations are making a thorough examination of a 17-page foolscap document which contains the detailed terms. The document will form part of the bill which will be submitted to parliament for approval.

Originally, it was expected that the final terms would be signed Dec. 2, but study of the draft has taken longer than expected. One source said that both sides are satisfied with the terms outlined in broad language.

However, the Newfoundlanders are said to be insisting that the terms be so legally drafted as to be incapable of misinterpretation by the present government or any other government. Discussions on the proper legal phraseology for each clause is said to be responsible for the prolonged meetings.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York Nov. 30 —(AP) — The hottest rookies prospect on the world champion Cleveland Indians squad next spring may be third baseman Fred Marsh, who hit .305 for Oklahoma City last summer. Fred is a protege of Cy Clapnicka, who hung the same "can't-miss" tag on him that he once hung on Bob Feller ... of course the Indians have a fair third baseman in Ken Keltner, but Marsh's record may be the reason why Ken recently remarked: "I've got a sneaking suspicion that a guy named Keltner might go some place in a big deal before too long a time."... Branch Rickey, who had some unpleasant kickbacks from last year's trades doesn't plan to do any business at the winter baseball meetings unless it is selling off some surplus farm products ... he'll have to sell some or plough them under...

With Gas

One of the promotion stunts staged at Braves Field last summer was the gift by a stove manufacturer of one of his models to the Boston player who got the most hits ... when Mike McCormick slapped out four blows, a guy in the press box remarked (naturally): Mike really is cooking on the front burner."

One-Minute Sports Page

Detroit's effort to land the 1952 or 1956 Olympic games seems to have run afoul of the mayor's refusal to approve a $2,000,000 contribution to build a stadium ... football's tough luck guy for the season probably was Auburn's Soph halfback, Jim Ryckeley who broke the same bone in the same foot for the fourth straight time.

HEADS EXHIBITORS

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP)— W. D. Jackson of London was elected president of the Canadian exhibitors at its annual meeting here Saturday. Other executive members elected: Elwood Hughes, Toronto, vice president; J.D. Clarke, Ottawa, secretary; D. B. Williams, Vancouver; and T. H. McLeod, Regina.

McFater Belts Out Fourth-Round T.K.O. Over Tyo

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP)—Toronto's Alan McFater belted out a fourth-round technical knockout over Vince Tyo of Cornwall Monday night in the five - round main bout of a boxing card at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Tyo showed a flair for taking punishment and at 1.45 of the 4th round Referee Bobby Lawrence called the fight when McFater landed a staggering left hook. In the early seconds Tyo drew blood from McFater's nose with a flurry of punches to the head.

In the semi-final Fred Harding of Oshawa decisioned Tommy Corrick of Toronto in five rounds. Results of the preliminaries included:

115 pounds — Gil Geekie, Toronto, scored a technical knockout over Jackie Williams, Oshawa.

135 pounds — Stan Bice, Toronto, won a five-round decision over Harold Tyo, Cornwall.

Stake Winner Brings Highest Price at Sale

Inglewood, Calif., Nov. 30 — (AP)—Thumbs Up, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap in 1945, last night brought the top price of $60,000 at the sale of Louis B. Mayer stallions and brood mares.

William Goetz, Hollywood producer, bought the nine-year-old stallion after slow bidding had started at $25,000. It had been expected Thumbs Up would bring over $100,000.

Hollywood celebrities and horsemen from all over the United States attended the film magnate Mayer's horse auction at Hollywood Park. It was the third sale in the liquidation of his racing and breeding interests.

The four stallions and 52 brood mares sold for a total of $652,650 for an average of $11,654.46. The stallions averaged $32,500 a head and the brood mares $10,051.

36-Nation Wheat Agreement May Come Next Week

Ottawa, Nov. 30 (CP)— Prospects of a new international wheat pact today appeared to have gained momentum but its consummation likely will end a close affiliation between Canadian farmers and British consumers.

In Washington a United States government officials says the next step towards a new 36-nation wheat agreement may be taken at a meeting there this week.

In Ottawa a government wheat and trade expert says once the agreement is signed, it likely will absorb Canada's wheat pact with the United Kingdom.

Once the new wheat agreement was signed and brought into effect it was expected to nullify Canada's 1949 contract with the U.K. for 140,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Britain would place her wheat order with the international group of which Canada, the United States and Australia would be the suppliers.

Since Canada would be the major contributor to the world wheat pool, cancellation of the Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement would have little adverse affect on Canadian wheat sales.

The government wheat expert points out that in the March agreement, Canada was expected to contribute 230,000,000 bushels of the total 500,000,000 bushels to be supplied by Canada, the United States and Australia.

The year Canada would have a wheat crop of about 370,000,000 bushels. Her commitments with the U.K. call for export of 140,000,000 bushels in 1949, leaving 90,000,000 bushels available for shipment to other nations.

Should the Anglo-Canadian wheat pact be cancelled, it would leave Canada the exact amount —230,000,000 bushels — she may be called on to supply under the international agreement.

BRANDING IRON BACK IN SASKATCHEWAN

The branding iron is coming back into its own in Saskatchewan but it's different iron than the red-hot metal the cowhands heated over an open fire to mark cattle on the vast western rangelands. It uses acid rather than heat to stamp its brand on the animals. It's an iron that carries only one marking—a three-inch high letter "B" which is "burned" on the cheek of the cow, as shown here. The branding iron and it's letter "B" is one of the weapons being used by the province in it's fight to cut bang's disease in cattle to a minimum. The new branding iron is used by a veterinarian. Reds Lose Votes In Lower Saxony

Hamburg, Nov. 29 (AP)— Communists lost votes in Lower Saxony's communal elections yesterday, final returns showed today.

The trend was the same as in the other British-zone states of North Rhine-Westphalia and Schleswig Holstein.

The Communists polled only three per cent of the votes in Lower Saxony compared to 5.1 per cent in 1946. The main political parties held their relative positions.

The Social Democrats, who are left of centre, gathered 3,071,982 ballots or 39 per cent, to place first.

The centre Christian Democrats had 24 per cent and the German party, a far right group which exists only in Lower Saxony, had 18 per cent.

MAY HAVE LICENCE REINSTATED BY BOND

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP)—Hon. H. R. Scott, Minister of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, announced today that fur dealers charged and found guilty of infractions of conditions of their licence may have the licence reinstated by depositing a bond with the department as a guarantee of good faith.

Any repetition of infraction will impose additional penalty on the offender with decreasing prospect of having his licence reinstated.

Police Bullets Halt Man In Burglary Attempt

Windsor, Nov. 29 (CP)— A fusilade of police bullets halted one of two men police said were fleeing from an attempted burglary Sunday.

James Martin, 28, no fixed abode, is in hospital with a bullet wound in his ankle. He is under police guard.

Joseph Louis St. Amour, 26, is in custody on a charge of breaking and entering by night with intent to commit a theft. Martin faces a similar charge.

Martin was felled by a police bullet fired in a west-end vacant lot.

Bullets were fired by both Constable Scott and Constable John McConnell at two men who fled when they were surprised in a double garage.

The pair was chased through alleys to the vacant lot.

Constable Scott reported he fired three warning shots over the escaping men's heads. Then he fired at one of the men, who stumbled, but got up and continued running.

The Constable said he next fired at the other suspected burglar and dropped him with a bullet in the ankle. He ran up to the fugitive and handcuffed him. The man gave his name as Martin and was taken to hospital.

In the meantime, Constable McConnelll chased the other suspect, but lost him in an alley. He fired several shots at the runaway but it is not believed the man was hit.

Police later picked up St. Amour and booked him on a burglary charge.

GIRL SENTENCED TO 12 DAYS SHE HAS SPENT IN JAIL

Toronto, Nov. 29 — (CP) — A 21-year-old St. Thomas girl who admitted raising a two-dollar cheque to $200, Susan Wilson today was sentenced to the 12 days she has already spent in jail.

The girl, described by Crown Counsel Henry Bull as "the dupe of hardened criminals," was convicted of forgery and uttering Nov. 17 and remanded for sentence.

Propose Asian 'Mashall Plan' To Help Billion

By LESLIE BRODIE
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Lapstone, New South Wales, Australia, Nov. 29 (CP) — An economic conference which may affect the lives of more than 1,000,000,000 opened here today.

Delegates from 19 countries, forming the United Nations Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East (E.C.A.F.E.) began 14 days of talks at a luxury hotel here in the foothills of the Blue Mountains, 36 miles west of Sydney.

They hope to arrive at solutions to Far East economic problems and to raise living standards of the peoples now living in squalor and hunger.

This is the fourth session of the commission since it was established in March, 1947, and is the most important international conference yet held in Australia. E.C.A.F.E. is an advisory body which appoints working groups to gather facts and pass on information to the U.N. Economic and Social Council.

The delegates plan to create an Asian "Marshall plan" to provide $13,000,000,000 to spend on the economic recovery of Asia. Of this amount, $6,000,000,000 will be raised in the countries most concerned, China, India, Indo-China, Ceylon, Indonesia, Malaya, the Philippines, Siam and Burma. The remainder will come from countries outside the Far East. The money will be spent during a five-year period.

ARRESTED ON TIP-OFF

Cornwall, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Arrested Sunday as a result of a tip-off by a suspicious garage operator to whom they tried to sell a jack for funds for gasoline, two young Toronto men are en route to the Queen City under escort today to face charges of car theft. They are Leonard Sisco, 22, and Norman Fennell, 20.

A girl companion, 19-year-old Julia Davidson, is being held here on a nominal charge of vagrancy, the trio was captured without resistance when provincial police set up a roadblock east of the city. Police said the car was stolen earlier in Toronto.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The best bridge is where you find it. And not necessarily in the biggest metropolitan centres. The keenest kind of competition may be met in almost any community these days.

My lecture tours take me to cities large and small. Found in my audiences are players from spots that are considered remote. Probably not more than one table in their intimate group.

Probably their only interesting diversion is bridge. They are avid readers of the subject. They study the plays eagerly and iron out the kinks in their bidding. Some of them really are good.

Such a pair sat south and north in this deal:

NORTH
♠A 6 3
♥A 6 4
♦8 2
♣A 7 6 4 3

WEST
♠8 7 2
♥9 2
♦J 10 9 5 4
♣J 10 5

EAST
♠J 5
♥Q J 10 8
♦A K 6 3
♣K Q 9

SOUTH
♠K Q 10 9 4
♥K 7 5 3
♦Q 7
♣8 2

The bidding went like this:

1 H	1 S	Pass	2 C
2 D	2 S	Pass	3 S
Pass	4 2	All Pass

Opening lead from west was the heart nine. It looked as if the declarer must lose a heart, two diamonds, a club. Faced with the necessity of saving one, south made the only plan.

Trick one went around to the south king of hearts. Two rounds of trumps were pulled with king and queen of spades. A third round of trumps was held up for a later entry to dummy.

A club from south was ducked in dummy. East won this with the queen and took two top diamonds. He then led a heart that dummy won with the ace. Club ace was cashed and a club ruffed in south.

A trump to dummy ace picked up the last opponent spade and dummy's two last clubs were good by then. On them were sluffed the two remaining south hearts. Ten tricks in.

A good player makes his luckiest breaks.

$500 REWARD OFFERED

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP)—Police said Monday they were authorized to offer $500 reward for information leading to the discovery of Edwin Hilliard, 85-year old former Conservative Member of Parliament, missing since Nov. 23.

Police said if Mr. Hilliard is dead the reward will be paid to the person finding his body. He wandered away from his daughter while shopping. Police today continued to search Rosedale ravine which runs across east-central Toronto near Hilliard's home.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 30. (AP)—Dan Dailey is one hoofer who likes to dance socially, too. But he has definite ideas about ballroom pests.

"The perfect dancing partner should dance directly in front of you and be chest to chest," Dailey analyzed on the "You're My Everything" set.

The six-feet-four actor complained that most gals aren't tall enough for the lankier lads. "They should come at least to your chin, but not lower", he said. "If they are any shorter, every time you take a long step you knee them in the stomach."

The important thing about ballroom dancing, said he, is the beat. "You want to hit it or you're a drag—a lagging partner" is what he commented, and you'll just have to take his word for it.

It's the offbeat dancers that louse up the floor, Dan added. "You keep bumping into them because they aren't keeping time with the music and you can't tell where they're going. Another danger is the middle-aged stomp type. They push about the floor pumping and bouncing for all they're worth."

Concerning female partners, Dan had three final points:

1. The gal who hums in your ear is a menace.
2. So is the babe who insists on gabbing through a dance
3. "If you're dancing with a tall guy, for heaven's sake have a shampoo."

Character (Female Type)

She's a Hollywood character . . . if she speaks an octave lower than her voice really is. . . if she retouches her makeup every hour on the hour, no matter where she might be. . . .

If she calls those whose names she can't remember "Dahling" . . . If she buys her groceries in slacks and fur coat. . . If she can be nonchalant after dropping a false eyelash. . . If she thinks a girl's best friend is her sweater. .

If her idea of a snappy come-back is "drop dead". . ..if she liked Olivier in "Hamlet" but thought the plot was "awfullly dumb" . . .

If you can hear her crack her chewing gum at 50 paces . . If she's always telling about a hot deal that might make her a star . . . but she never does.

Refuses to Grant Perrault Request For Change of Venue

Montreal, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure yesterday refused to grant a defence request for a change in venue of the murder trial of Douglas Perreault but allowed a postponement until Dec. 13.

The trial was to have started yesterday, following the conviction Friday of Noel Cloutier, another of a trio charged with the murder of two Montreal policemen.

Donald Perreault, unrelated to Douglas and third of the group, is yet to be tried. Date for his trial was set as Dec. 17.

The officers were slain during a bank holdup last Sept. 23. Cloutier was convicted after a five-day trial and sentenced to be hanged March 11.

Man Arrested Said to Be Driver of Truck

London, Ont., Nov. 30 —(CP)— Provincial police Monday night arrested a London man they say was the driver of the truck involved in the hit-and-run collision near Exeter Saturday night that resulted in the death of Alden Burton MacVicar 19, of London.

Police said the man was held in county jail in London and will be taken to Goderich today.

Police said the London man was found and the truck was impounded. Police would not divulge the name of the man pending his return to Goderich, but they said there was no doubt that he was driver of the truck in the accident.

MacVicar was killed instantly Saturday night when hurled from a car after a collision with a truck that failed to stop. The accident occurred on No. 4 highway, three miles south of Exeter.

Max Swanston Elected Mayor Of Peterborough

(By The Canadian Press)

The municipal elections picture for 1948 will become clear in most Ontario cities when the deadline for qualifications passes late today.

Several more cities held nominations Monday in preparation for Dec. 6 elections. But the field is expected to narrow after candidates qualify.

Peterborough gave Maxwell J. Swanston, an alderman, an acclamation as successor to Mayor William Ovens, who is retiring. Mayor Ced Price was returned by acclamation in North Bay.

But in Ottawa three men were nominated for the mayoralty race which will determine who will succeed Mayor Stanley Lewis, retiring after 12 colorful years in office. Controllers E. A. Bourque, G. M. Geldert and G. W. Goodwin, the nominees, all are expected to stand.

Mayoralty nominees in Chatham are Mayor Ralph D. Steele, Ald. W. G. Kerr and A. T. Groombridge.

The race in Niagara Falls is between Mayor William L. Houck and Ald. Franklin J. Miller.

Election history was made in Niagara Falls Monday night when Mrs. Eva Monrad was elected by acclamation to the separate school board. She is the first woman ever elected to the board in that city.

Picton

2nd Nomination Meeting Needed In Athol Twp.

Picton, Nov. 30 — A second nomination meeting has been found necessary in the township of Athol. This is due to the fact that there was not sufficient evidence that two of those who qualified for council had given their consent for such nomination. They are Ronald Hyatt and Clarence Brummell. Their nominators at the meeting did not give proper evidence that they were willing to have their names placed in nomination, and neither was present at the meeting. An amendment to the Election Act resulted in the error being made and not noticed until later. Advice from municipal authorities yesterday advised a second nomination meeting to select two candidates. Others who were nominated are not affected as all properly qualified, and were present at the meeting.

Two Children Missing Since Monday, Found

Albert, N. S., Nov. 30 — (CP)— Two small children, missing since Monday night in the snow-laden woodland near this southeast New Brunswick town, were found alive today by members of a 350-man search party.

First reports said the two children, Carol Ann Wilbur, four, and her three-year-old sister Paula Fay, suffered no serious effects from their night outdoors.

A doctor's examination later showed the two young children were in good condition despite a night in driving rain and snow.

The two children, dressed in woollen coats and hats, were found sitting in the woods attempting to get one of their shoes back on. Their mother collapsed when she learned they had been found.

The search was centred in a heavily-wooded area, Monday lashed by rain and snow, extending between the main highway near Albert and the northwest shore of Chignecto Bay, near Nova Scotia.

The children disappeared from the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Wilbur, at nearby Midway, late Monday afternoon, presumably to visit neighboring playmates.

Their brother, two-year-old Teddy, was found in an adjoining woods early Monday night by searchers and soon afterwards the organized search aided by the Moncton R. C. M. P. detachment dog, Wolf, got under way.

Teddy Wilbur is too young to be of any help in the search. He was found during a biting northwest wind, accompanied by intermittent snow and rain.

Live-Trapping Urged to Propagate Pheasant Reserves

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 30. (CP) — Live-trapping of pheasants in the Detroit Metropolitan area by conservation officers and their subsequent release in depleted coveys is urged by Lloyd F. Eagan, Detroit Sportsmen's Congress head.

Eagan claims such a program would pay its own way inasmuch as pheasant propagation by the state is held by conservationists as a waste of money so far as permanent population increases in the field are concerned.

"The pheasant shortage is our major game problem," Eagan said. "It can never be solved by release of pen-reared birds at $3 each. But hundreds, perhaps thousands of pheasants live in and around Detroit, and they would contribute substantially to solution of the problem if transplanted. They serve no useful purpose here.

Last Winter's Snow Still in Montreal Quarry

Montreal, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Without Montrealers knowing it and with the new season's snow yet to fall, there is already an abundance of snow in Montreal today—several tons of it in fact.

City snow-removal men, busy trying to get rid of it, are having only a moderate degree of success. The snow is a carry over from last winter, piled by snow removal men in a crevice of Martineau Quarry, which the city uses as a dump.

The heat of summer and its blazing sunshine were not sufficient to melt all the snow in the pile in the quarry.

BAXTER'S COMMENT

London, Nov. 30 — (CP)—Beverley Baxter, Toronto-born Conservative Member of the House of Commons for Wood Green, summed up the Irish situation in a terse letter to the Times.

"In former times, when Eire was linked to the Commonwealth by the External Relations Act, she said: 'Include me out,' " Baxter wrote. "Now she has severed the tie, she says: 'Exclude me in.' "

Baxter quipped. "Just one more failure of English romanticism to grasp the rigid implications of Irish logic."

Face of Scotland Is Changing, Dark Days Gone

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 30. (CP) —The face of Scotland is changing, and changing for the better, Arthur Woodburn, secretary of State for Scotland, said yesterday in an address on the St. Andrew's Day.

The dark days when Scotland labored under depression and every twelfth person was a potential immigrant are over, he told a luncheon at which the traditional haggis was served to the skirl of bagpipes.

"For the last eight years at least we have been engaged in a great program of national rehabilitation," he said, rising before a table on which the sword of Robert the Bruce had the place of honor.

"We tend at home in Scotland to celebrate St. Andrew's Day by examination of our current achievements, bending our energies always to a Scotland which will not export its best but will indeed begin to import adventurous spirits, alive to opportunity and eager for enterprise."

Some aspects of the New Scotland which Woodburn described were:

Industry. Since the war new factories have provided 43,000 new jobs. The figure will be 100,000 when the program is complete.

Coal mining. Lanarkshire are petering out but rich new seams in East Scotland are being opened up and new towns being built to accommodate miners from old areas.

Farming. Hill farmers with only small areas suitable for cultivation art receiving state help in developing nearly 2,000,000 acres.

Forestry. Two-and-a-half million acres of woodland will be brought into production during the next 50 years. Work already has begun on reforestation of 1,000,000 acres.

Two Pedestrians Injured When Truck Overturns

Port Colborne, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Two pedestrians were injured yesterday in a freak accident, being hit by the back of a bakery truck which had turned over on its end, resting atop a fire hydrant.

The accident occurred in Humberstone when a Wonder Bakery truck, driven by James Kuzlie, Welland, collided with a mail delivery truck driven by E. J. Russell, Humberstone, putting the bakery truck out of control and causing it to turn over on its end, landing on a nearby fire hydrant. The two pedestrians Mr. and Mrs. Mabel Kovach, Port Colborne were struck by the back of the truck.

Mr. and Mrs. Kovach were taken to hospital where they were treated by Dr. Grant Black. Mrs. Kovach turned her ankle while her husband suffered severe lacerations to his head and was believed to have injured his left leg.

Cripps May Visit Paris in Attempt To Break Deadlock

Paris, Nov. 30 — (Reuters) — Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, may come to Paris this weekend to try to break the deadlock with which Marshall - plan countries have been confronted by Britain's four-year recovery plan, it was learned today.

The British plan, as disclosed here, has cast a chill among the Marshall-plan countries and, because of its austerity, is said to have completely dislocated the timetable for producing an agreed four-year "master plan" for all Europe.

Marshall - plan countries had promised to hand this "master plan" to the roving Marshall aid ambassador, Averill Harriman, Dec. 15. But as their representatives assembled here Monday to draw it up it was learned there was no chance of its being presented on time.

Britain's revolutionary plan for foreign trade in the next four years has radically upset the ideas of other Marshall - plan countries by providing for an export surplus to Western Europe of $49,000,000 instead of the pre - war import surplus of $800,000,000. The continental members of the Marshall group had based their plans on the pre-war pattern.

In producing the British plan, however, Sir Stafford and his ace planner, Sir Edwin Plowden, head of the British economic planning committee, believe Britain can and must be made independent of American aid by 1952, but that she cannot hope by that time to re-establish free imports.

Four years hence, when Marshall aid ends, they believe Britain will still have to buy chiefly essentials. Accordingly the British four-year plan provides for an export surplus to Western Europe.

Jolliffe Suggests Rationing Plan To Curb Shortage

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP)—E.B. Jolliffe, Ontario C. C. F. leader, suggested in a broadcast address Monday night that the Ontario Hydro Commission consider replacing present power interruptions with a consumer rationing plan to meet the power shortage.

"Each class of consumers would have to be allotted a quota of power on a fair and reasonable basis," he said in an address over a CBC Ontario network. The needs of farmers, of merchants and of household consumers are all different and each group would have to be dealt with fairly.

"But when quotas had been set, each individual consumer could be told how much power on his meter would be his monthly allotment. If he went over the amount, he would be charged a prohibitive price."

Mr. Jolliffe also suggested that the Ontario Hydro Commission seek advice on construction of steam - generating plants from British experts, that it review and accelerate the construction of new hydro-electric plants, particularly on the Ottawa River, and that power export contracts be renegotiated to reduce flow of Ontario power to the United States.

He added that when the Ontario Legislature meets he intends to move that a select committee of the House be appointed to investigate the hydro situation — "to explore every possible remedy."

ACCUSED OF THEFT

Fort Erie, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Harold Stoltz, 18, of Point Abino, Ont., and Thomas Baxter, 19, of Ridgeway, were arrested Sunday and charged with the theft of two 45-gallon drums of gasoline from Haldimand county.

With the aid of the Ridgeway provincial police detachment, the gasoline was recovered Sunday and the prisoners both taken to Cayuga for a hearing.

88-Year-Old Greek Premier Better, Eats Heavy Breakfast

Athens, Nov. 30 — (AP)—Aged Premier Themistokles Sophoulis, given up by his doctors as a hopeless case two days ago, sat up at the edge of his bed Monday and ate a hearty breakfast.

The morning bulletin issued by the 88-year-old Greek statesman's doctors said his "general condition is very good." He greatly enjoyed his morning meal, the bulletin said.

TAKES NO ACTION

Blackley, Lancashire, England —(CP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, said he would take no action to remove Dean Hewlett Johnson of Canterbury,—"The Red Dean"—from office. Blackley Consevratives had asked for his removal "because he had Communist sympathies."

Freighters Start Last Grain Rush Of the Season

(By The Canadian Press)

Great Lakes freighters today start the last grain rush of the season on an effort to clear from lakehead ports with their golden cargoes before higher insurance rates go into effect.

The rates change at midnight but, by that time, upwards of 40 grain-carriers likely will have nosed out from the great elevators at Fort William and Port Arthur and headed southeast across Lake Superior towards the lower lakes.

The annual race to clear the lakehead before summer insurance rates end makes the first step in the closing of navigation for this busy shipping season of 1948. Insurance charges increase progressively, starting tomorrow, and are cancelled about Dec. 12. After that shipping ends for the year unless special rates are authorized for vessels that fail to meet the deadline.

It is still too early to estimate the tonnage of grain and ore the busy freighters have hustled eastward down Canada's inland waterway since the ice went out last April. But some idea of the carrying capacity of the lake fleet can be gained from predictions that ships clearing from the lakehead Monday and today would carry altogether more than 10,000,000 bushels of grain destined for eastern Canadian and United States ports.

If the good sailing weather holds, the masters of the ships expect swift and uneventful last trips for 1948 winter berths in lower lakes ports.

In such harbors as Port Colborne, now preparing to shelter a winter fleet of 16 vessels and three barges, many will lay to with storage grain for milling companies. One of the crew members will remain aboard the ships all winter to make minor repairs and to keep watch on the craft.

Virtually all the vessels wintering in the lake ports will be Canadian-owned, the foreign ships having gone home. Owen Sound, a port of call for many of the vessels under strange flags, reported foreign cargo-carriers more numerous this season than in 1947.

Primate Urges Anglicans Bear Witness of Faith

Windsor, Nov. 30 —(CP)—Several thousand persons jammed a theatre Sunday night to hear the Most Rev. George Frederick Kingston, Archbishop of Nova Scotia and Primate of Canada urge Anglicans of the Deanery of Essex to bear witness to the fact that there is a God with a definite purpose.

He deplored the existence of a feeling that moral laws are mid-Victorian and insisted that this was a fallacy.

"If any nation disregards those moral laws there are terrible results. It is true of nations and equally true of individuals. We must bear witness for that law."

He denied that the church is a "mendicant on the road of life, struggling for existence," but termed it above any man-made organization. "It is a living, divine thing."

A feature of the service was the singing by the massed choirs of Anglican churches from all parts of the city.

IRISH DOCTORS VISIT ONTARIO

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP) — Two Irish doctors have been sent to Ontario to study the province's system of treating and preventing tuberculosis which the Eire government said is the best in the world. The two — Dr. Patrick Fitzpatrick of Cork and Dr. Michael Kirby of Sligo county said the death rate from tuberculosis in Eire was four times higher than in Ontario.

FACED WITH THE PROBLEM OF A BABY-SITTER?

Every mother needs some time out of the home for recreation, but if there is a child that needs looked after she is faced with the problem of getting a baby-sitter. Considerate husbands occa ly look after the baby while mother goes out to do a bit of shopping or attend some meeting thing to remember when you begin with a baby-sitter is to have her arrive early enough acquainted with your child before you leave. If the child at left awakened to find herse arms of a stranger, she would become alarmed and upset. Explain to your child that the bab has sole authority in your absence. If your youngster is as young as the one at right, write do the baby-sitter the doctor's telephone number and the number where she can reach you in an emergency. Above all, remember to hire someone whom you know personally or has been mended to you to ensure dependability. If these simple rules are followed, the mother will to get some recreation and be a better companion to her child. (Central Press Canadian)

FREIGHTER RAISED AFTER 14 MONTHS HALF SUBMERGED

Cornwall, Nov. 30 — (CP) — The freighter Milverton was raised to the surface of the St. Lawrence River over the weekend after lying half-submerged in the Rapide Plat, three miles west of Morrisburg, since Sept. 24, 1947, following a collision with the tanker Translake.

Salvagers now are transferring part of her coal cargo aft to lighten the bow which is fast on a reef. It was expected the vessel would be floated free and will be taken to the north shore for inspection before being towed to a government lock at Iroquois, 13 miles further west.

NO POLITICAL CAREER

Ottawa, Nov. 30 — (CP)—Dr. Arthur Beauchesne made it quite clear Monday that he has no intention of trying a political career when he retires in January as clerk of the Commons at the age of 72.

Commenting on reports that it had been suggested by friends that he run as a Progressive Conservative candidate in the next general election, he said: "I never heard about it and I don't intend to run."

THE VENABLES

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

"She reminded us of that so she could tell Arnold she said it," Flo thought as they went upstairs to a hubbub of excitement and welcome. Lily was in tears again as she greeted her mother, but immediately she was her happiest self, although before the evening was over she had warned them all more than once that it would be better not to say anything about her visit if anyone ever met Arnold.

Afterward Georgie and Flo walked with her to the car; she would not stay very late and reminded them again that the escapade must be kept secret.

"You won't meet Arnold probably, but if you should you'll not say anything obtu it," Lily pleaded.

"Oh, on my honor, Lily!" But Flo was not so sure she would not soon meet Arnold. She had to meet someone, to discuss this financial crisis, and Arnold seemed the only possible person before whom she could lay a careful account of just what they had and just how they spent it.

In June Flo went again with Lin and Rose to Carmel, and they located the new cottage and decided that if it was not quite such a darling as last year's it really was roomier and had better beds. Lin freed from the responsibilities of school, and the two younger girls mad with joy to be done with office hours, found their spirits rising as they got themselves a late lunch and resumed the old happy routine first a rest and then a walk.

"Somehow I've been feeling as if it couldn't be as wonderful as last year, but maybe it will be!" Flo said.

There was a disappointment at the Torrence cottage. It was occupied now by three college boys, who were busily trying to make a pie. They welcomed the callers with delight and immediately confided their predicament to Flo.

The Griggses' mother —this one talking was Howard and that was Jack — was coming down tomorrow with Kane's sister—that was Irv Kane with his hands in the flour. And the mother and sister had bet a dollar that the boys couldn't make a good pie.

The fun in the kitchen rose to hysterical heights. Rose laughed until she had to put her head down on the cluttered table as Jack Griggs very innocently explained to her some of their household arrangements.

While Flo expertly handled the flour and lard and ice water, Rose managed to bring the kitchen to some sort of order, and presently two big clumsy boys were wiping dishes meekly under her direction.

"They're simply darlings!" Flo said, as the three girls went on their delayed scramble. "And they want to go on a picnic with us on Tuesday, and it'd be fun, don't you think so, Lin?"

The second Carmel holiday was quite different from the first because the engaging occupants of the Torrance cottage stayed over a second week, and with no apparent purpose except that of making life delightful for Miss Venables and Miss Rose Richards.

At first the younger girls feared that this would spoil Lin's pleasure and make her feel cut out of everything, but Lin accepted it serenely — more, she seemed to welcome it.

She complained this summer of being tired; nothing was wrong that rest and laziness would not cure, she told them more than once, but she was not eating or sleeping well, and Flo and Rose worried about her in spite of themselves. She would accompany the hilarious group part of the way on a walk, and then be left with the picnic baskets to dream and read beside the sea while they scrambled on for another mile or two before coming back for their gypsy meal.

To them the new relationship was particularly satisfying because Jack Griggs, the boy Rose admitted in confidence to Flo she liked the best, attached himself especially to Rose, and Rose in her quiet way bloomed like her namesake flower in the thrill of having an adorer.

The other two, the violently articulate and madcap pair, openly were Flo's slaves and fought for her honors, keeping up an eternal discussion as to which was really worthier of her, and when Lin heard their gales of laughter and the fashion in which they ordered Flo about and made fun of her affectations and the spirit with which she managed and scolded and mocked at them in turn, she felt that time had brought about the healing she had craved for Flo and that Alan Wellington's memory was fading wholesomely into the past.

Rose at this point came back from the bathroom, steaming, spreading the scent of flowery soap all about, brushing wet strands of brown hair from her wet white neck, and innocently ready to plan for Flo's last evening, which was to be marked by a special event.

"Flo, we've been discussing it," said Howard, when they had all escorted her to the Monterey train the next day, "and we think we ought to kiss you good-bye."

"What's this?" asked Lin.

"Yes, what have I done?" Flo said.

"Well, we feel that if only one of us does, it may lead you to false hopes," Jack explained.

"Oh, I see. But wouldn't it be smarter if nobody did?"

"That — is unthinkable," Irvin said in his deep, bell-like voice. They all laughed, and in the jumble Flo was generally kissed, and loud lamentations and [illegible]ing accompanied her departure, she was smiling at her thoughts for a long time.

But again it was hard to get home to squalor and discomfort, to splintery floors that had never been properly oiled or carpeted, to dark rooms, to grimy tinware and thin torn sheets. Flo hoped fervently that none of her new friends would ever come to find her there. It would be hard to recapture the mood of Carmel in this setting.

She did have one caller — a weary little Englishman of forty-five who used to come to see her regularly twice a week for a short time. He was one of the doctor's patients and had found romance in a dentist's chair.

He would sit in the dreary parlor almost silently, Flo too tired and bored to make much effort to entertain him. But she could not dislike Eric, who brought the younger girls marshmallows, whose speech was so delightful and who was, after all, connected with the British consulate, which sounded imposing, although she had but a vague idea of its meaning.

Eventually she told him firmly that she never could marry him, and forlorn though this prospect had been, it afforded her some satisfaction to think that she really might have been engaged, that there was no fundamental reason why men would not fall in love with her.

Then, in the autumn, Dr. Rotheim announced that at the end of the year he would retire, to travel with his stout, comfortable wife in Europe, and Flo was faced with thhe prospect of finding a new job when he departed. She knew she would not apply to Arnold for suggestions of references; Aunt Lizzie would be no help. Life became something of a problem, especially when in September Willie came down with flu, Spencer immediately followed suit, and darker days than ever came to the Ellis Street flat.

On one particular Monday when Flo felt desperately that everything was all wrong from the flyspecked sheaf of bills on Mama's desk to the unwelcoming boil on her own chin, she was sitting in the office reading an old agricultural magazine and listening to the steady, soft moans of the sufferer in the chair when the telephone rang. It was Mr. Robert Wickett who wished to speak to Miss Florence Venables.

Could Miss Venables step around to Mr. Wickett's office in the Monawnook Building at any time that day?

"Why — why, certainly," Flo answered unwillingly. "I'll be there at four." To herself she added, "Is it that darned gas bill again? I knew that little fellow didn't know what he was talking about!"

* * *

Her young face was strained, anxious, determined as she entered the lawyer's office. Poverty was twin to arguments, humiliations, explanations, but they had to be faced.

The names of two Wicketts were painted on the door; the imposing title "Attorneys at Law" was added; it left her in no doubt as to the nature of the interview before her. This was going to be legal — and awful. All the power, the money, the authority, the knowledge would be on their side.

The big room was lined with yellow - backed law books; afternoon light, mellow and beautiful, filtered in through the high windows. Everything in the Wickett's office was handsome and solid and dark. Flo sat down.

"Miss Venables," said the squarely built, pudgy - nosed man of fifty, who sat on the other side of the desk, "I've asked you to step in here to receive an envelope. It has been in our care — it was in my brother's care, rather, until his death more than a year ago."

He glanced as he spoke to an enlarged photograph on the wall; the photograph of a handsome elderly man. Flo looked respectfully at it; made a little sound of sympathy.

"I think Major Burns was a friend of your family?" the man asked next.

"Oh yes!" the girl said, smiling. "He was very kind to us. He left me some money."

"You knew that he did leave you money?" There was relief in his voice.

"Five hundred dollars," Flo answered.

"Five hundred dollars, eh?" Robert Wicket echoed, his face falling. "H'm! Who told you of this legacy, may I ask?"

"My brother-in-law, Mr. Belcher. He was Major Burns' lawyer; he was executor — if that's what you call it!" Flo's dimple came into play. The man's manner had reassured her completely. There wasn't going to be anything frightening about this.

"Major Burns had a nice estate," the lawyer began thoughtfully. "Not large as estates go, but some nice paying properties. But some four or five thousand a year, I suppose. How was that left?"

"To Arnold, to my brother-in-law, I think," Flo said, with a puzzled hint of a frown.

"He and the old Major were great friends?"

"Well, I never heard so. I never thought so. They might have been."

"Your brother-in-law never said it was left in trust for you?"

"The girl's eyes widened. She looked suddenly younger and eager.

"No!" she said. "Never. Was it?"

"That was the Major's intention, I think," the man said, in an expressionless voice. Flo was unable to speak, but her heart was beating high with wild excitement and hope.

"It didn't say so in the will! Arnold read us the will," she presently managed to whisper.

"Yes, the will was filed," the man conceded. "I didn't know the old Major at all well," he said. "But I was present at a conversation he had with my brother, Jim—". He looked again at the picture on the wall and fell silent.

"We were lunching, my brother Jim and I, at the St. Francis one day," the lawyer presently resumed, "and Major Burns came over to our table.

"He asked us about a will — about protecting a minor by a will that would not be executed for some years. I remember that Jim told him that that was an ordinary enough arrangement, that guardians could be appointed for such a case. The old man said no, that wouldn't do, that the estate would be dissipated and the beneficiary would be placed in the position of asking restitution from her own family. That beneficiary was to reach the age of twenty-one before receiving her inheritance."

Flo's eyes were blazing, suddenly flushed face.

"Her inheritance!" she echoed.

"Jim suggested that he ask his own lawyer to draw up such a document, and the Major mentioned that his lawyer was Arnold Belcher. He then said that the legatee was one of Paul Venables' daughters, and I said that I had known your father slightly at the bank and that I had been shocked to hear of his death."

"But whatever the Major said he'd do," Flo said, with her heart sinking and her color fading, "what he did do was to leave it to Arnold. He may have meant us —meant me to get some of it, but he didn't say so."

"I have every reason to believe that he made two wills," the lawyer said unemotionally. But he was watching her closely.

"You don't thing so!" Her face was pale with excitement.

"Like a good many men, he put off making a will until he was ill," Robert Wickett said. "Then he unquestionably sent for Belcher, and a document was put before him to sign and was signed and witnessed. That is probably the will to which you refer. Major Burns was presumably dying when he signed it.

"But he rallied from that first attack Miss Venables, and sent for my brother. Jim could see at once that he was very ill. The old man was restless and dissatisfied, he wanted to see that will, to go over it with Jim.

"Mr. Belcher, it seems, was out of town, and his office clerk said he had no authority to produce it. The old man fretted so that my brother asked him if the document was very complicated — if there might not be a draft of it among his papers.
